This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

3 3433 06727820 4

Digitized by Google

LENOX LIBRARY

Duyckinck Collection
Presented in 1878.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Theatrum Poetarum,

OR A COMPLEAT

COLLECTION

of the

POETS,

Especially

The most Eminent, of all Ages.

The Ancients distinguish't from the Moderns in their several Alphabets.

With some Observations and Reflections upon many of them, particularly those of our own Nation.

Together

With a Prefatory Discourse of the POETS and POETRY in Generall.

By EDWARD PHILLIPS.

——— ὀλ' ὄλβιος ὥντινα μοῦσαι
φίλωνται. γλυκερὴ οἱ ἀπὸ στόματος ῥέει αὐδή. Hesiod. Theog.

London, Printed for CHARLES SMITH, at the Angel near the Inner Temple-Gate in Fleet-Street.

Anno Dom. M. DC. LX[illegible].

Digitized by Google

Licensed September the 14th 1674.

RO. L'ESTRANGE.

Digitized by Google

To the most Learned, Vertuous, and by Me most honour'd Pair of Friends THOMAS STANLY, of Cumberlo Green, in Hertfordshire; and EDWARD SHERBURN, Clerk of His Majesties Ordinance in the Tower of London, Esq^rs.

AS oft as I seriously consider with My self most worthy Associates in Learning and Vertue, and My most honour'd Friends, what a vast difference there is or at least seems to be, between one part of Mankind and the other; how near the Intelligence of Angels the one, how beneath the Ingenuity and Industry of many Brute Animals the other; how aspiring to the

Digitized by Google

Perfection of knowledge the one, how immers'd in swinish sloth and ignorance the other; I am apt to wonder how it could possibly be imagin'd that the same rationality of Soul should inform alike, as we are oblig'd to beleive by the authority of Sacred Scriptures, and the Doctrine of the Souls Immortality, the whole masse & frame of Human Nature, and not rather that there should be a gradation of Notion from the lowest brute up to the Angelic Region: But that calling to mind the common maxim of Philosophy, that the perfection of Soul is the same in the Infant, as in the ripe of age, only acting more or less vigorously, according to the capacity of the Organs, I thence collect that there is also a different capacity of the Organs, whence ariseth a different Spirit and Constitution, or some intervening cause, by which it either acts or lies dormant even in Persons of the same age: the first is that Melior Natura, which the Poet speaks of, with which whoever is amply indued, take that Man from his Infancy, throw him into the Deserts of Arabia, there let him converse some years with Tygers and Leopards, and at last bring him where civil society & conversation abides, and ye shall

Digitized by Google

shall see how on a sudden, the scales and dross of his barbarity purging off by degrees, he will start up a Prince or Legislator, or some such illustrious Person; the other is that noble thing call'd Education, this is that Harp of Orpheus, that Lute of Amphion, so elegantly figur'd by the Poets to have wrought such Miracles among irrational and insensible Creatures, which raiseth beauty even out of deformity, order and regularity out of Chaos and confusion; and which if throughly and rightly prosecuted, would be able to civilize the most savage natures, & root out barbarism and ignorance from off the face of the Earth: those who have either of these qualifications singly, may justly be tearm'd Men; those who have both united in a happy conjunction more than Men; those who have neither of them in any competent measure, certainly, in the conduct of their lives, less then Men, and of this last sort is compos'd that greatest part by far of our habitable World, (for what the Nature and distinction is of the Inhabitants of other orbs is to us utterly unkown though not any where circumscrib'd, but diffused alike through the 4 quarters) commonly call'd

Digitized by Google

the vulgar or Multitude, I mean not altogether those of the lowest birth or Fortune, but those of what degree or quality soever, who live Sardanapalian lives, τὸν ἀνδραποδωδῆ τρόπον as the Philosopher hath it, not caring to understand ought beyond to eat, drink and play; and no wonder if the memories of such Persons as these sink with their Bodys into the earth, and lie buried in profound obscurity and oblivion; when even among those that tread the paths of Glory and Honour, those who have signaliz'd themselves either by great actions in the field, or by Noble Arts of Peace, or by the Monuments of their written Works more lasting sometimes then Braß or Marble, very many, but especially of the writing party, have fallen short of their deserved immortality of Name, and lie under a total eclipse, or at least cast but a faint and glimmering light, like those innumerable seeds of Stars in the Galaxie, not distinctly to be discern'd by any telescope; and indeed there is an exact resemblance between the fate of writers, & the common fate of Mankind; for as in human affairs some Men never so vertuously, never so bravely acting are passt by unvalew'd, unrewarded,

Digitized by Google

rewarded, or at least not deserving ill fall by unhappy lot into unreasonable hands and miseries, far worse then death; others for no desert are hoisted up to honours, which of right belong not to them, or being guilty of things worthy utmost shame or puishments, yet scape the stroak of Justice, and oft times with hoary heads go down to the grave in peace; some deserving well, meet with rewards suitable to their merits; others with contempt due to their no deserts, or if criminal with punishments proportionable to their crimes: so in the State of Learning, among the Writers of all Ages some deserve Fame, & have it; others neither have nor deserve it; some have it, not deserving, others though deserving, yet totally miss it, or have it not equall to their deserts; & these are the Men who require our most peculiar consideration, and for whose sake chiefly it is that this design hath been undertaken; for though the personal calamities of poor wretched mortals are the highest object of human pity, yet methinks there is some thing of compassion due to extinguisht vertue, and the loss of many ingenuous elaborate and useful Works, and even the very names of some, who having perhaps been comparable to Homer for Heroic Poesy, or to Euripides for Tragedy, yet nevertheless sleep inglorious in the crowd of the forgotten vulgar: and for as many of those Names of Writers, whether more or less Eminent, as have been preserv'd from utter oblivion, together with an account for the most part of what they writ, all Learned Men especially such as are curious of antiquity are oblig'd to those generous Registers who have been studious to keep alive the memories of Famous Men, of whom it is at least some satisfaction to understand that there were once such Men or Writings in being. However since their works having by what ever casualty perisht, their Names, though thus recorded, yet as being dispeirc't in several Authors, and some of those not of the most conspicuous note, are scarce known to the generality, even of the Learned themselves, and since of later Ages the memories of many whose works have been once made public, and in general esteem, have nevertheless through tract of time, and the succession of new Generations, fallen to decay and dwindled almost to nothing; I judged it a Work in some sort not unconducing to a public benefit, and to many not ungrateful, to muster up together in a body, though under

Digitized by Google

under their ſeveral Claſſes, as many of thoſe that have imploy'd their fancies or inventions in all the ſeveral Arts and Sciences, as I could either collect out of the ſeveral Authors that have mention'd them in part, or by any other ways could come to the knowledge of; but finding this too various and manifold a task to be manag'd at once, I pitcht upon one Faculty firſt, which, not more by chance than inclination, falls out to be that of the Poets; a Science certainly of all others the moſt noble and exalted, and not unworthily tearmed Divine, ſince the heighth of Poetical rapture hath ever been accounted little leſs then Divine Inſpiration: Pardon me therefore moſt Honour'd Friends, if having undertaken a Province more weighty and difficult then the account of any other Art and Science, and which beyond all others exerciſeth the utmoſt nicety and ſagacity of judgement, I ambitiouſly make addreſs to the Patronage of Perſons of ſo fair a reputation, as well in Poetry as other parts of Learning, and who are your ſelves partys not obſcurely or without juſt merit concerned, whom againſt what ever may happen either of deſerv'd or undeſerv'd Cenſure,

I crave leave in the first case to have recourse to as Advocates, in the next to appeal to as Judges, it being studiously my desire to anticipate us much as possibly in me lies, all that can be said of prejudice or exception; which, if I fore-see aright, will amount only in the main to one grand objection, namely the omission of some that ought to have been mention'd and the mentioning of others that might without injury have been omitted, as to the first part of this objection I have nothing to do, but humbly to beg the pardon of the Persons so neglected if alive, or otherwise of the concerned Reader in their behalf, not that I think my self oblig'd to receive prescriptions from any but whom I think competent to judge who are and who are not worthy, but as being not altogether unconscious to my self, and conceiving it no disparagement to acknowledge that for hast and want of that profound leasure and other advantages, which are requisite for the bringing of all endeavours to maturity, (though I question whether ever any humane work was ever yet so perfect as might not admit either of addition or diminution) many things may possibly have been omitted, some things

Digitized by Google

things also mistaken; though I dare confidently avouch that of very conspicuous note there have been forgotten very few if any; and for those, who pretending and perhaps not without reason to Poetical fancy or judgement equal to many that have written with applause, yet nevertheless have contented themselves to be wise, ingenuous, or judicious only to themselves, not caring to transmit any memorials to posterity, certainly those Men, though able to contend with Apollo himself, cannot in reason challenge to themselves a place among the Poetical Writers, except upon the testimony of some very authentic Author; what shall we say of those who studying no doubt public benefit above privat fame (for so in charity we ought to beleive) have forborn to set their names to what they have written; which if by any kind of intelligence, they could be recovered, it would be a most unmannerly thing to divulge his name to the World, who thinks fit himself to have it conceal'd; sorry I am I cannot pay a due respect to Mr. Anonymus, but he is the Author of so many Books, that to make but a Catalgue of them would require a Volume sufficient of itself; others there are who vouchsafe, vouchsafe but the two first letters of their Names, and these, it is to be supposed, desire to be known onely to some Friends, that understand the Interpretation of those letters, or some cunning Men in the Art of Divination; now as to the last part of the objection, I have so much the more confidence to stand upon my own justification, by how much I rely upon this Maxim, that it is less injustice to admit of 20 that deserve no notice or mention, then to omit one that really deserves; and here methinks there seems to arise a large feild of examination and distinction, between those that are in truth of no valew or desert, and those that are generally reputed so; it is to be observed that some have been once of great esteem, and have afterwards grown out of date, others have never arriv'd to any esteem, and possibly in both cases the merits of the cause may have been various on either side; yet I am apt to beleive that as it is a more frequent thing to over then undervalew, so a universal contempt is a sworn'd, not infallible, sign of a universal indesert; the reason is plain, for though no doubt the number of the judicious and knowing is as great if not greater then ever, yet most confessedly not not so great as that of the ignorant or only superficially knowing, there are many that think, few only that judge; therefore things of the most transcendent excellence are for the most part only valew'd by Persons of transcendent judgment, whereas the indifferent and plausible are received with general and vulgar applause. So that those Works which being advantageously publisht, nevertheless obtain no Fame, may be justly suspected of little or no worth, since, had they been excellent, they might falling into the hands of the few that judge, have been buoy'd up by their authority, had they been plausible, they would have been cry'd up by the many that think. And shall such very Ignote and contemptible pretenders be allow'd a place among the most renowned of Poetic Writers, among so many Laureated heads, with the triumphant wreath of Parnassus? I beg your favourable attentions, yours in the first place, most equal Judges, yours in the next, most Curteous Readers, let me plead a little for the well meaners only, as something Sympathising with those for whom I plead; Vertue will plead for it self, and needs no Advocate; first let it consider'd that no Man begins to writ ill, every one either writes well, or would write well: it is not in the power of mortal Man to discover that Wit, Judgment, Fancy or Industry, with which he never was endow'd, and without mist of which, if not all, a good Poem cannot be written. It is this hard fate therefore to be void of all, becomes a dabler in Poetry; we are not all born Heroic Poets, nor Writers of sublime Tragedy; however there is no Poetical Volume, be it never so small, but it requires some pains to bring it forth, or else a notable fluent knack of Riming, or Versifying: and how small a matter is it for never so trivial a Work, before it comes to be condemn'd to the drudgery of the Chandler, or Tobacco Man, after the double expence of Brain to bring it forth, and of purse to publish it to the World, to have this small Memorial. Such a one wrote such a thing; besides that it will easily be imagin'd in Works of this nature, that he write as well to the Inquisitive as the Judicious, to the Curious as the Critic, there are many lazy inquirers after Books, not good Books but Books, what hath been written on such or such a subject; for these Men, who would grudge the slight mention of a Book, and its Author; yet not so far as to condescend to the taking notice of every single-sheeted Pie-corner Poet, who comes squirting out with an Elegy in mourning for every Great Person that dies. As for the Antiquated & fallen into obscurity from their former credit & reputation, they are for the most part those that have written beyond the verge of the present Age, for let us look back as far as about 30 or 40 years, and we shall find a profound silence of the Poets beyond that time, except of some few Dramatics, of whose real worth the Interest of the now flourishing Stage, cannot but be sensible; Is Antiquity then a crime? no certainly, it ought to be rather had in veneration. But nothing it seems relishes so well as what is written in the smooth style of our present Language taken to be of late so much refined. True it is that the style of Poetry till Henry the 8th's time, and partly also within his Reign, may very well appear uncouth strange and unpleasant to those that are affected only with what is familiar and accustom'd to them, nor but there were even before those times some that had their Poetical excellencies if well examin'd, and chiefly among the rest Chaucer, who through all the mistiness of former-ag'd Poets still keeps a name, being by some from admir'd for his real worth, to others not impleasing for his facetious way, which joyn'd with his old English intertains them with a kind of Drollery; however from Qu. Elizabeth's Reign the Language hath been not so unpolisht as to render the Poetry of that time ungratefull, to such as at this day will take the paines to examin it well: besides if no Poetry should Pleas but what is calculated to every refinement of a Language, of how ill consequence this would be for the future, let him consider and make it his own case, who being now in fair repute & promising to himself a lasting Fame, shall two or three Ages hence, when the Language comes to be double refin'd, understand (if Souls have any intelligence after their departure hence what is done on Earth) that his Works are become obsolete and thrown aside. If then their Antiquated style be no sufficient reason why the Poets of former Ages should be rejected, much less the pretence of their antiquated mode or fashion of Poetry, which whether it be altered for the better or not, I cannot but look upon it as a very pleasant humour, that we should be so complyant with the French custom in its fallen yet fashions, not only in Garments, but also in Musick, (wherein the Lydian mood is now most in request) and Poetry: for Cloths I leave them to the discretion of the Modists, whether of our own or the French Nation; Breeches and Doublets will not fall under a Metaphysical consideration, but in Arts and Sciences, as well as in Moral Notions, I shall not scruple to maintain that what was verum & bonum once, continues to be so always; now whether the Trunk-hose Fancy of Queen Elizabeth's days or the Pantaloon Genius of ours be best, I shall not be hasty to determin, not presuming to call in question the judgment of the present Age, only thus much I must needs see, that Custom & Opinion oft times take so deep a root, that Judgment hath not free power to act. To the Antient Greek and Latins, the Modern Poets of all Nations and for several Ages, have acknowledged themselves beholding, for those both Precepts and examples which have been thought conducing to the perfection of Poetry; for the manner of its Garb and dress, which is Vers, we in particular to the Italians, the first of the Moderns that have been eminently Famous in this Faculty, the Measure of the Greec and Latin Verse being no way suitable to the Modern Languages, & truly so far as I have observed the Italian Stanza in Heroic Poem, and the Sonnet, Canzon, and Madrigal in the Lyric, as they have been formerly more frequently made use of by the English than by any, so except their own proper Language they become none better then ours, and therefore having been used with so good success, I see no reason why they should be utterly rejected; there is certainly a decency in one sort of Verse more then another which custom cannot really alter, only by familiarity make it seem better; how much more stately and Majestic in Epic Poems, especially of Heroic Argument, Spencers's Stanza (which I take to be but an Improvement upon Tasso's Ottava Rima, or the Ottava Rima it self, used by many of our once esteemed Poets) is above the way either of Couplet or

Digitized by Google

such

of

Digitized by Google

or Alternation of four Verses only, I am perswaded, were it revived, would soon be acknowledg'd, and in like manner the Italian Sonnet and Canzon, above Pindaric Ode, which, whatever the name pretends, comes not so near in resemblance to the Odes of Pindarus, as the Canzon, which though it answers not so exactly as to consist of Stroph, Antistroph and Epod, yet the Verses which in the first Stroph of the Canzon were tied to no set number, order or measure, never belief in the following Strophes return in the same number, order & measure, as were observ'd in the first; whereas that which we call the Pindaric hath a nearer affinity with the Monostrophic, or Apolelymenon, used in the Chorus's of Æschylus his Tragedies: one thing more is to be observ'd between the Italian Verse and ours, namely that the Dissyllable, which in that Language is the only way of Riming, is also in ours, very applicable to Rime, and hath been very much used formerly; I was going to say with as much grace, sometimes, if not more, then the Monosyllable; but that I am loath to appear too singularly addicted to that which is now so utterly exploded, especially since there are other things of much greater consequence then the Verse; though it cannot be deny'd, but that a Poetical fancy is much seen in the choise of Verse proper to the chosen subject; yet however, let the fashion of the Vers be what it will, according to the different humour of the Writer, if the Style be elegant and suitable, the Verse whatever it is, may be the better dispens'd with, and the truth is the use of Measure alone without any Rime at all, would give far more ample Scope and liberty, both to Style and fancy then can possibly be observed in Rime; as evidently appears from an English Heroic Poem, which came forth not many years ago, and from the Style of Virgil, Horace, Ovid, and others of the Latins, which is so pure and proper, that it could not possiby have been better in Prose: another thing yet more considerable is conduct and design in whatever kind of Poetry, whether the Epic, the Dramatic, the Lyric, the Elegiac, the Epænetic, the Bucolic, or the Epigram; under one of which all the whole circuit of Poetic design, is one way or other included; so that whoever should

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

should desire to introduce some new kind of Poant of different fashion, from any known to the Antients, would do no more then he that should study to bring a new Order into Architecture, altogether different both from the Doric, Ionic, Corinthian, Tuscan and Compolite. Epigram, it as it were the fag end of Poetry, and indeed consists rather of conceit and acumen of Wit, then of Poetical invention; yet it is more commendable to be a Martial in Epigram then Juvenal's Codrus in Heroic Poetry. The Epænetic, comprehends the Hymn, the Epithalamium, the Genethliacon, or what else tends to the praise or congratulation of Divine, or on Earth Eminent Persons: the Bucolic or Eclogue, pretends only the familiar discourse of Sheapheards about their Loves or such like concernments, yet under that umbrage treats oft times of higher matters thought convenient to be spoken of rather mysteriously and obscurely, then in plain tearms: the Elegiac seems intended at first for complaint of crosses in Love; or other calamitous accidents; but became applicable afterwards to all manner of subjects and various casions: the Lyric consists of Songs or Airs of Love, or other the most soft and delightfull subjects, in verse most apt for Musical Composition, such as the Italian Sonnet; but most especially Canzon and Madrigal before mentioned, and the English Ode heretofore much after the same manner: the Dramatic comprehends Satyr, and her two Daughters Tragedy and Comedy: the Epic is of the largest extent, and includes all that is narrative either of things or Persons, the higst degree whereof is the Heroic, as Tragedy of the Dramatic, both which consist in the greatness of the Argument; and this is that which makes up the perfection of a Poet; in other Arguments a Man may appear a good Poet, in the right management of this alone a great Poet; for if Invention be the grand part of a Poet or Maker, and Verse the least, then certainly the more sublime the Argument, the nobler the Invention, and by consequence the greater the Poet; and therefore it is not a meer Historical relation, spic't over with a little slight fiction, now and then a personated vertue or vice rising out of the ground, and uttering a

speech

speech, which makes a Heroic Poem but it must be rather a brief obscure or remote Tradition, but of some remarkable piece of Story, in which the Poet hath an ample feild to inlarge by feigning of probable circumstances, in which and in proper Allegorie, Invention, the well management whereof is indeed no other then decorum, principally consisteth, and wherein there is a kind of truth, even in the midst of Fiction; for what ever is pertinently said by way of Allegorie is Morally though not Historically true, and Circumstances the more they have of verisimility, the more they keep up the reputation of the Poet, whose business it is to deliver feign'd things as like to truth as may be, that is to say not too much exceeding apprehension, or the beleif of what is possible or likely, or positively contradictory to the truth of History. So that it would be absurd in a Poet to set his Hero upon Romantic adiuns (let his courage be what it will,) exceeding Human strength and power, as to fight singly against whole Armies, and come off victour, at least if a mortal Man, and not a Deity or armed with Power

Divine,

Digitized by Google

occasions: the Lyric, consists of Songs or Airs of Love, or other the most soft and delightfull subject, in verse most apt for Musical Composition, such as the Italian Sonnet; but most especially Canzon and Madrigal before mentioned, and the English Ode heretofore much after the same manner: the Dramatic comprehends Satyr, and her two Daughters Tragedy and Comedy: the Epic is of the largest extent, and includes all that is narrative either of things or Persons, the high degree whereof is the Heroic, as Tragedy of the Dramatic, both which consist in the greatness of the Argument; and this is that which makes up the perfection of a Poet; in other Arguments a Man may appear a good Poet, in the right management of this alone a great Poet; for if Invention be the grand part of a Poet or Maker, and Verse the least, then certainly the more sublime the Argument, the nobler the Invention, and by consequence the greater the Poet; and therefore is it not a meer Historical relation, spic't over with a little slight fiction, now and then a personated vertue or vice rising out of the ground, and uttering a speech, which makes a Heroic Poem but it must be rather a brief obscure or remote Tradition, but of some remarkable piece of Story, in which the Poet hath an ample feild to inlarge by feigning of probable circumstances, in which and in proper Allegorie, Invention, the well management whereof is indeed no other then decorum, principally consisteth, and wherein there is a kind of truth, even in the midst of Fiction; for what ever is pertinently said by way of Allegorie is Morally though not Historically true, and Circumstances the more they have of verisimility, the more they keep up the reputation of the Poet, whose buisness it is to deliver feign'd things as like to truth as may be, that is to say not too much exceeding apprehension, or the beleif of what is possible or likely, or positively contradictory to the truth of History. So that it would be absurd in a Poet to set his Hero upon Ramantic adtions (let his courage be what it will,) exceeding Human strength and power, as to fight singly against whole Armies, and come off unhurt, at least if a mortal Man, and not a Deity, or armed with Power Divine,

speech

Digitized by Google

Divine; in like manner to transgress so far the compute of time as to bring together those that liv'd several Ages asunder, as if Alexander the Great should be brought to fight a single Duel with Julius Cæsar, would either argue a shameful ignorance in Chronologie, or an irregular and boundless licence in Poetical fiction, which I reckon is allow'd the Poet chiefly upon this consideration; because being supposed as he ought, to understand the ways of Heroic vertue & Magnanimity from better principles then those of common and implicite opinion; he hath the advantage of representing, and setting forth greater Idea's, and more noble Examples then probably can be drawn from known History, and indeed there is no ingennous or excellent quality either native or acquired, wherewith he should not be fully acquainted, no part of Learning in which he ought not to be exactly instructed; since as a curious piece of History-painting, which is the highest perfection in the Art of Picture, is the result of several other Arts as Perspective, Proportion, the knowledge of History, Morality, the passions of the mind, &c. so Heroic Poesie ought to be the result:

Digitized by Google

fully of all that can be contrived of profit, delight or ornament either from experience in humane affairs or from the knowledge of all Arts and Sciences, it being but requisite that the same Work which sets forth the highest Acts of Kings and Heroes should be made fit to allure the inclinations of such like Persons to a studious delight in reading of those things, which they are desired to imitate.

They likewise very much erre from probability of circumstance who go about to describe antient things after a modern Model, which is an untruth, even in Poetry it self, and so against all Decorum, that it shows no otherwise then as if a Man should read the Antient History of the Persians or Egyptians to informe himself of the customs and manners of the modern Italians and Spaniards; besides that our Author should avoid, as much as might be, the making such descriptions as should any way betray his ignorance in antient customs or any other knowledge, in which he ought industriously to shew himself accomplish't.

There is also a Decorum to be observ'd in the style of the H. Poem that is

is that it be not inflate or giugling with an empty noise of Words, nor creepingly low and insipid, but of a Majesty suitable to the Grandeur of the subject, not nice or ashamed of vulgarly unknown, or unusual words, if either tearms of Art, well chosen, or proper to the occasion; for fear of frighting the Ladies from reading, as if it were not more reasonable that Ladies who will read Heroic Poem should be qualified accordingly, then that the Poet should check his fancy for such either Men or Ladys whose capacities will not ascend above Argalus and Parthenia. Next to the Heroic Poem, is not as some think equal, is Tragedy, in conduct very different, in heighth of Argument alike as treating only of the Actions and concernments of the most Illustrious Persons, whereas Comedy sets before us the humours, converse and designs of the more ordinary sort of People: the chief parts thereof are the ἦθος & πάθος, by which latter is meant that moving and Pathetical manner of expression, which in some respect is to exceed the highest that can be delivered in Heroic Poesie, as being occasioned upon representing to

the

Digitized by Google

the very life, the unbridled passions of Love, Rage and Ambition, the violent ends or down falls of great Princes, the subversion of Kingdoms and Estates, or what ever else can imagined of funest or Tragical, all which will require a style not ramping, but passionately sedate & moving, as for the Ethos, having farther large Discourses, as intending a Preface only, not Poetical System, I shall only leave it to consideration whether the use of the Chorus, and the observation of the ancient Law of Tragedy, particularly as to limitation of time, would not rather by reviving the pristine glory of the Tragic all, advance, then diminish the present, adding moreover this caution that the same Indecorums are to be avoided in Tragedy as have already been intimated in Heroic Poem, besides one incident to Tragedy alone, as namely that Linsie-woolsie intermixture of Comic mirth with Tragic serionsness, which being so frequently in use, no wonder if the name of Play be apply'd without distinction as well to Tragedy as Comedy; and for the Verse if it must needs be Rime, I am

clearly

Digitized by Google

clearly of opinion that way of Versifying, which bears the name of Pindaric, and which hath no necessity of being divided into Strophs or Stanzas, would be much more suitable for Tragedy then the continued Rhapsodie of Riming Couplets, which whoever shall mark it well, will find it appear too stiff, and of too much constraint for the liberty of conversation, and the interlocution of several Persons: and now before conclude, I cannot but call to mind something that may be yet alledged against some very noted Writers either Philosophers, Historians, Mathematicians, or the like, here mentioned, who for what they are said to have written in Poetry, being perhaps but small or inconsiderable, will scarce be thought worthy a place among the Poets; It is true indeed, they do not shine here as in their proper Sphear of Fame, nevertheless since it is not ungrateful to many to know all that hath been written by famous Men, as well in the Arts they least, as those they most profess, and since the Register of one Science only may well take the greater Scope within that circuit; I judged it not impertinent to mention as well those

Famous

Famous Men in other Faculties, who have also writ Poetically, as the most Famous of Poetical Writers, considering especially how largely the Name of Poet is generally taken; for if it were once brought to a strict Scrutinie, who are the right, gennie and true born Poets, I fear me our number would fall short, and there are many that have a Fame deservedly for what they have writ, even in Poetry it self, who if they came to the test, I question how well they would endure to hold open their Eagle eys against the Sun: Wit, Ingenuity, and Learning in Verse, even Elegancy it self, though that comes neerest, are one thing, true Native Poetry is another; in which there is a certain Air and Spirit, which perhaps the most Learned and judicious in other Arts do not perfectly apprehend, much less is it attainable by any Study or Industry, nay though all the Laws of Heroic Poem, all the Laws of Tragedy were exactly observed, yet still this toute entrejeant, this Poetic Energie, if I may so call it, would be required to give life to all the rest, which shines through the roughest most

Digitized by Google

unpolish't and antiquated Language, and may happly be wanting, in the most polite and reformed: let us observe Spencer, with all his Rustic, obsolete words, and all his rough-hewn clowterly Verses; yet take him throughout, and we shall find in him a gracefull and Poetic Majesty: In like manner Shakespear, in spight of all his unfiled expressions, his rambling and indigested Fancys, the laughter of the Critical, yet must be confest a Poet above many that go beyond him in Literature some degrees. All this while it would be very unreasonable that those who have but attempted well, much more those who have been learned, judicious or Ingennous in Verse should be forgotten and left out of the circuit of Poets, in the larger acceptation.

Thus, most Worthy Arbiters, I have layd before you the reason and occasion of this design, have Apologized for what I judg'd most obnoxious to Censure or Objection; have lastly, deliver'd my own sentiment in some things relating to Poetry, wherein, if I have differ'd ought from the received opinion, I can safely aver, that I have not done it out of affecta-

tion

tion of singularity, but from a different apprehension, which a strict inquiry into the truth of things (for there is also a Right and a Wrong, a Best and a Worst, as well in Poetical as other Assertions) hath suggested to my reason, perswading my self, that no right judgement can be given, or distinction made in the Writings of This or That Author, in whatevor Art or Science; but, without taking ought upon trust, by an unbiass'd, and, from the knowledge of ancient Authors, judicious examination of each; being also sufficiently assur'd of the concurrence with me in this matter, of all impartial Readers, of yours especially, my most honoured Friends, whom I wish that fate which I am concern'd in for all deserving Writers, a lasting Fame, equal to the merit to what you have so advantagiously publisht to the World.

THE

ERRATA.

PAg. 5. lin. 24. for Mercet, read Macer. p. 15 l. 11. for Poets, r. Poet. p. 24. l. 8. for l. 6. Epigr. 25. r. l. 7. Epigr 26. Ibid. l. 21. r. Aſclepiades. p. 31. l. 9. r. Stagira. p. 44. l. 25. for Phillip, r. Philip. p. 59. l. 19. after Paſle, a comma. p. 60. l. 10. r. Epigr. 71. p. 78. l. 2. after Fable, r. Anacalyptomene. p. 96. l. 24. for Poriton, r. Poicten. p. 97. l. 27. after Inſtiſtutor, r. of the ſolemniſation. p. 106. l. 28. r. Antients. p. 110. l. 17. for Lucullus, r. Lucilius. p. 122. l. 19. for Stephanus, r. Heinſius. p. 141. l. 4. r. Apollonius. p. 156. l. 1. for one, r. and. p. 152. after Minias, a comma, and none after Painter. p. 153. l. 2. after year, r. 1590. p. 169. l. 7. for 20 ſecond, r. 22d. Ibid. l. 17. r. Halieutic. p. 172. r. Ferreus. p. 175. l. 25. r. Epigr. 86. Ibid. l. 28. r. Subſimilare.

In the ſecond Part: p. 21. in the marg. Note, for ſibi, r. tibi. p. 79. l. 17. r. combat. p. 110. l. 28. dele has. p. 115. r. K. Henry the Eighth's Reign. p. 116. l. 10. r. Sir John Sucklin. p. 118. l. 25. r. Lætus. p. 153. l. 12. r. Bellunenſian.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Eminent Poets

Among the

ANCIENTS.

ABARIS, a Scythian, the Disciple (as saith Jamblichus) of Pythagoras, and sent Embassador (as saith Harpocration) from the Scythians to the Athenians; he wrote in verse the Journey of Apollo to the Hyperboreans, the Scythian Oracles, the Nuptials of Hebrus, with other things; whither he liv'd in the time of Phalaris, and wrote that Epistle which bears his name, is disputed by Vossius.

Abbianus, an old Greec Epigramma,

 tist-

Digitized by Google

tist, some of whose Epigrams are to be found in Planudes his Florilegium.

Abbo, an ancient Monk of St. German a Pratis, who flouriſh't in the time of Carolus Craſſus, he wrote a Poem of the ſeige of Paris by the Normans, which is yet extant. Barthius calls him Albo, and gives him the Sir-name of Cernuus.

Abronius Silo, a Poet who flouriſh't in the time of Auguſtus, and is mention'd by Marcus Seneca to have been a hearer of Porcius Latro, contemporary with, and mention'd by the ſaid Seneca was another Silo, the Son of the foreſaid Abronius.

Accius, a Latin Tragædian contemporary with Pacuvius, but ſomewhat younger, he was in great favour and eſteem with Decius Brutus, who adorn'd Temples and Monuments with his verſes. Of which diverſe are cited by Chariſius out of his Atreus, Bacchis, Ion, Philoctetes, Epinauſimache.

Aceratus, an ancient Grammarian and Epigrammatiſt, who hath a name in the Greek Anthologie.

Achæus, the Son of Pythodorus and Py-

Digitized by Google

Pythoris, he flourish't from the Seventy fourth to the Eighty second Olympiad, & wrote very many comoedies, whereof two are remembred by Athenæus, viz. his Cyenus and his Mæræ.

Addæus of Mitilene, and Addæus of Macedon, both cited in the Greec Anthologie.

Admetus, a foolish Poet in the time of the Emperours Trajan, and Adrian, the Epigram he orderd to be inscrib'd upon his Tomb is derided by Demonax in Lucian.

Adrianus, a Roman Emperour, under whose name there is a witty Epigram in the Greec Anthologie; besides several Anacreontics and Iambics in Latin mention'd by Spartianus.

Aeantides, one of the Seven Greec Poets (the other Six being Homerus Junior, the Son of Myro a Poetess of Byzantium, Sositheus, Lycophron, Alexander, Philiscus and Dionysiades,) who according to the account of the Scholia's of Hephæstion were called the Pleiades; though Isacius Tsetzes reckons but two of the above mention'd in this famous Septemvirate, viz. Lycophron and Homerus merus junior, and makes the reſt to be Theocritus, Nicander, Callimachus, Apollonius, and Aratus, and the Scholiaſt of Theocritus in ſtead of Nicander and Callimachus puts in Philiſcus, and Aenaeides.

Ægidius, a Greec Benedictine Monke who flouriſh't about the year Seven hundred, he wrote a book de Pulſibus in verſe, and another de urinis, there is alſo an Epigram of one Aegidius in the Greec Anthologie.

Ælius Julius Crottus, an ancient writer of Eglogues, and alſo of Iambics Hendecaſyllables, and other ſorts of Lyric verſe.

Ælius Saturninus a Roman, who for certain libelling verſes againſt Tiberius was condemn'd to death, and thrown down headlong from the Capitol, he is reckon'd among the Poets by Lilius Giraldus. There flouriſht alſo about the ſame time Caius Germanicus Cæſar (the Son of Druſus) whom Ovid in his Faſti celebrates for a Poet, the Epigram upon the Thracian Boy, who had his head cut off by ice is thought to have been his. Caius Lutorius Priſcus a Roman Knight,

Digitized by Google

Knight, famous for his Elegie upon Germanicus poyson'd by Piso; but put to death by the Senate for writing against Drusus. Phædrus a Thracian who turn'd into Jambic verse certain Fables of Æsop, which are mention'd by Avienus in his Præface to Theodosius Macrobius; Marcus Æmilius Scaurus a Tragic Poet, who for some expressions in his Atreus, which were interpreted by Tiberius as meant of him, was driven to lay violent hands on himself. Gaius Cominius a Roman Knight, who notwithstanding his Libelling verses against Tiberius mention'd by Tacitus is scarce allow'd a Poet by Vossius; Lucius Veneſtella, whom Vossius imagines to have been a Historian mistaken for a Poet; and lastly, Alphius Avitus whom see in Flavus.

Æmilianus a Greec Epigrammatist, whose name is in the foresaid Anthologie.

Aemilius Mercer, a Latin Poet of Verona, whom see in Publius Ovidius, he is also mention'd by Servius upon the Fourth book of Virgils Georgics, and the first of his Aeneids also by Charisi- us and others, though it is doubted whether that Poem which we have extant under his name de virtutibus Plautarum be really his.

Æxions, a writer of Tragedies, whose Amea is by some ascribed to Pollux.

Æschines, an Athenian, whom Plutarch (writing his life among the Ten famous Orators) relates to have been first a Tragic Poet, he is also mention'd by Philostratus in the lives of the Sophisters.

Æschrion, a Poet of Mitylene in high esteem with Aristotle, as Nicander in his book de disciplina Aristotelis testifies.

Æschylus an Athenian Tragic Poet, born in the Village of Eleusis, contemporary with Pindarus in the Sixty ninth Olympiad, according to the old Scholiast, but as Mr. Stanly in his most accurate Edition of this Authour makes out by diligent computation, and his Collection out of Mr. Seldens Marmora Arundeliana, in the Sixty third. The Son of Euphorion, and Brother of Cynægyrus and Aminias who signaliz'd themselves in the battle of Marathon and and the Sea-fight of Salamis in which our Poet alſo was preſent, of Sixty ſix Drama's, which he wrote (being Victor in 13) and Five Satyrs, we have extant onely Seven Tragedies, his Prometheus Vinctus, his Septem contra Thebas, Agamemnon, Perſæ, Eumenides, Icetides, and Choephoræ. But though he was Victor 13 times, yet it is ſaid he took it ſo to heart to be vanquiſht by Sophocles then a young man, that he left his Countrey and betook himſelf to Hiero King of Sicily, where he made his Tragedy Ætna ſo called from the City of that name which Hiero was then building Homonimous to the Mountain, others ſay it was becauſe he was vanquiſht by Simonides in his Elegiac verſe upon the ſlain at Marathon, after he had been reſident at Gela Three years, he dyed of a fracture of his skull cauſ'd by an Eagles letting fall a ſhell-fiſh out of his claw upon his bald head, which ſeems to have been portended by the Oracle, which being conſulted upon the manner of his death, anſwered ὀυράνιόν σε βέλος κατακτενεῖ, this hapned in the Sixty ninth year of his age according to the above mention'd computation; he is mention'd by Horace as the first bringer up of the Tragic pall, and of the splendid apparate of Scenes and persons, & by some of the Tr. Buskin; There was also of this name a Poet of Alexandria whose Amphitryo and his Carmina Messeniaca are mention'd by Athenæus.

Æschylus the Tragedian had two Sons, Euphorion and Bion, who were both Victors by their Poems in the Olympic games.

Agathias a Smyrnæan, who flourisht in the time of the Emperour Justinian, and wrote besides his History of Belisarius and Narses, a Poem Intituled Dionysiaca, and also several Epigrams which are extant in the Greec Anthologie; contemporary with whom was Tribonianus Sidetes, who wrote in verse a Comment upon Ptolomi's Canon, with some other things mention'd by Suidas.

Agathon, a Tragic Poet, who flourisht in the first year of the Nineteth Olympiad, and was Victor by his Lenæi, he is mention'd by Athenæus and Philostratus. There liv'd also much about the same same time a Comic Poet of the same name, who is cited by Aristotle.

Agathyllus, an Arcadian Elegiographer mention'd with praise by Dionysius Halicarnassæus.

Agidius Delphus a Greec Poet, who flourisht in the primitive time of Christianity, and deserves to be remembred for his version of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans into Greec verse.

Agis Amphiptolemus, several verses of his are cited by Pausanias.

Agis a Poet of Argos, whom Curtius brands for a bad Poet, and yokes with him one Choerilus both for time and badness of verses. This Choerilus was in high favour with Alexander the Great, and as ill as his verses were, for they are very much condemned by Horace, l. 2. Epist. they were received as the Celebrators of his Acts; there were also two others of the same name, the one a Samian, who Elegantly set forth the victory of the Athenians over Xerxes, for which he was both highly rewarded and honoured; the other (if it were not the same as Vossius seems to disprove by the interval of times) a companion to Lysander, and solemnizer of his Victories.

Alcaeus a Sicilian, both Poet and Eminent Orator, who wrote a book de planctis Naturæ, partly in verse, partly in Soluta Oration.

Albinus see Decius Albinus.

Albius Tibullus, an Elegant Latin Elegiac Poet, whose works are commonly printed with Catullus, he was a Roman Knight.

Alcæus, a Lyric Poet, who according to Eusebius flourisht in the Forty fourth Olympiad, and as Diogenes Laertius testifies, was a great Enemie to the Tyrant Pittacus, who was also a Poet, as his fifth hundred Elegiac verses mention'd by Suidas testifie, and of the number of those accounted the Seven Sages of Greece. He is mention'd by Horace in the Ninth Ode of his Fourth book; There was also of the same name a Comic Poet, whom Eubulus and Posidippus are mention'd by, Pollux, and several other Comedies of his by Athenæus, he contended at Athens with Aristophanes, whose rob in competency he was; together with Archippus an Athenian, whose Comedie call'd Admetus is mention'd by the Scholiast of Aristophanes, he is one of those call'd Δευτεραγωνισται or Secundarii by Suidas, and the anonymous Authour of the History of the Olympiads; Nicophon, whose Adonis is mention'd by the said Scholiast, as his Sirenes and other Comedies of his by Suidas, by whom he is call'd Nicophron. Nicophanes the Son of Philonides, and a contemporary of Aristophanes; his Amymone, Pelops, Galatea, and several other Comedies are mention'd by Suidas, Pollux, Athenæus and Aristotle; Callistratus an Athenian Comic Poet an Emulatour of Aristophanes; much about the same time also liv'd Apollophanes, whom Suidas and Ælian mention for Comic poesie, but Fulgentius mentions him (if it be the same) for Epic poesie.

Came-

Alexander, an ancient writer conjectur'd a Poet by Reffius, from a passage of Clemens Alexandrinus.

Alcimenes, a Tragic Poet of Megara mention'd by Suidas; There was also of the same name an Athenian comic Poet, whose Thesaurus and Peccantes are

Lysander, and solemnizer of his Victories.

Alcæus a Sicilian, both Poet and Eminent Orator, who wrote a book de planctis Naturæ, partly in verse, partly in Soluta Oration.

Albinus see Decius Albinus.

Albius Tibullus, an Elegant Latin Elegiac Poet, whose works are commonly printed with Catullus, he was a Roman Knight.

Alcæus, a Lyric Poet, who according to Eusebius flourisht in the Fourth Olympiad, and as Diogenes Laertius testifies, was a great Enemie to the Tyrant Pittacus, who was also a Poet; his Six hundred Elegiac verses [illegible] on'd by Suidas testifies [illegible] of the number of those accounted [illegible] of Greece. He [illegible] in the Ninth [illegible] There were [illegible] mic Poets [illegible] are [illegible]

Digitized by Google

Comedie call'd Admetus is mention'd by the Scholiast of Aristophanes, he is one of those call'd παρεπιγραφοι or Secundarii by Suidas, and the anonymous Authour of the History of the Olympiads; Nicophon, whose Adonis is mention'd by the said Scholiast, as his Sirens and other Comedies of his by Suidas, by whom he is call'd Nicophron Archarnen, the Son of Philonides, and Contemporary of Aristophanes; his Comedie, Pelops, Galatea, and several other Comedies are mention'd by Suidas, Pollux, Athenæus and Aristotle; Callias an Athenian Comick Poet an[illegible] such a-[illegible] Apollo-are mention'd by the said Authours.

Alcimus Ecdicius Avitus, an Archbishop of Vienna, who flourisht in the times of the Emperours Zeno and Anastasius, and wrote in Hexameter verse, de Origine mundi, and several other Theological discourses; besides some things in prose, there flourisht also in the time of Zeno another Bishop of Vienna, namely Claudianus Mamertus, who wrote a poem, de statu animæ, and another, contra vates poetas; also Claudius Marius Victor, a Rhetorician of Marseilles, who wrote upon Genesis in Hexameter verse to his Son Æthereus, with some other things which are said to be yet extant.

Aleman a Lyric Poet of Lacedemon, who began to flourish in the Twenty seventh Olympiad, there was also of the same name, a Messenian, who was also a Lyric, and appear'd in the Fourth year of the Thirtieth Olympiad, both mention'd by Suidas, and one of them by Pausanias for his poem of Castor and Pollux.

Aldhelmus, (from the Saxon word Althelm i. e. old Helmet) an ancient

Sax

Saxon Poet, who flourisht in the time of Justinianus Junior, he was the Son of Kentenus, brother to Ina King of the West Saxons, having visited the chief Universities of France and Italy, at his return he was made Abbot of Malmesbury, and afterwards Bishop of Shirburn; Besides his great proficiency in all parts of Divine and humane learning, he was particularly excellent in Oratorie and Poetrie; wrote several Odes and other Poems; among which was his Acrostic of Thirty eight verses mentioned by J. Pitseus in his Scriptores Anglici.

Alexander a Grammarian and Tragic poet of Ætolia, whose verses are cited by Parthenius and Strabo. Of the same name also was he whom Cicero mentions, with such mean approbation of his poetrie, whither the same with Alexander the Ephesian, Sirnamed Lychnus, who wrote Geographie in verse, is doubted by Giraldus, also the Roman Emperour of that name sirnamed Severus, wrote the lives of some of the foregoing Emperours in Greek Verse, as is testifyed by Lampridius.

Digitized by Google

Alexis, a Thurian Comic Poet, who flouriſht in the time of Alexander the Great, very many comedies of his are mention'd by Athenæus and Pliny, he was Unckle to Menander, about the ſame time was Philippides the Brother of Moſchinus; and, as Plutarch affirms, favour'd by King Lyſimachus, he is ſaid by Suidas to have written Forty five Comedies, and by Agellius to have dyed for joy, being unexpectedly proclaimed Victor at the Olympian Games; alſo Neophon or Neophron a Tragic poet of Sicyon, who wrote One hundred and twenty Tragedies, and is thought to have been the Authour of that Medea, which is commonly attributed to Euripides, he was put to death with Calliſthenes the Philoſopher, whoſe intimate friend he was as Suidas affirms; and laſtly, Lycon a Comic Poet mention'd by Plutarch in his life of Alexander.

Alfred, a King of this Iſland of ever glorious memory, the Fifth from Egbert, in whom began the Engliſh Saxon Monarchy, he was equally Renowned, both both for Arms, and Arts, in the first whereof he signalis'd himself by his frequent Victories over the invading Danes, in the last, both by his favour to learned men, and his own Studious addiction to all sorts of Learning, by which he gain'd himself the Character of a great, both Theologist, Philosopher, Jurisconsult, Historian, Mathematician, Musician, and among the rest of Poets also.

Alphenus Varius; see Anser.

Alphius Avitus, the Authour of certain books inscrib'd Excellentium in dimeter Jambic verse, being much ancienter than Alcimus, for whom he is by some mistaken.

Amipsias, a Contemporary of Aristophanes, his Comedie intituled Konnos, is mention'd by the Anonymous Authour of the description of the Olympiads, and by the Scholiast of the said Aristophanes.

Ammonius and Eusebius Scholastici, two Authours mention'd by Socrates and Nicephorus, they liv'd in the time of Theodosius Junior, and wrote both of them in verse a History of the War against Gainas the Goth.

Ana-

Anianus, a writer of an uncertain age, but for certain ancienter than the time of the Emperour Charles the first, he is mentiond in some old Manuscripts, as the Authour of that Enchiridion of the old and new Testament in verse, which Sicherdus ascribes to Sedulius.

Amphilochius, a Bishop of Iconium, who flourisht in the time of the Emperour Julianus, and wrote among other things a Poem in Iambic verse to Seleucus, concerning the Canonical books of the Scripture. To him St. Basil Dedicated his book, de Spiritu Sancto; about the same time liv'd Eudæmon of Peluſium, who besides what he wrote in Grammar and Rhetoric is said by Suidas to have written several Poems, he was a companion of Libanius the Rhetorician, in Julian's time also liv'd Caliſtus, who as Socrates and Nicephorus affirm wrote in Heroic verse the Acts of the said Emperour, also Mileſius of Smyrna favour'd of Anatolius, and related by Eunapius to have excell'd in all kind of Poetrie, and with him Ionicus, a Poet and Physician of Sardis.

Digitized by Google

Sardis. And lastly, Gregorius of Nazianzen, whose Divine Poems both in Hexameter and other sort of verse are yet extant, he is remembred by Hieronimus, whose Master he was.

Amphis an Athenian Comic Poet, the Son of Amphitrates, he was as saith Laertius contemporary with Plato who was sometimes the Subject of his comical wit.

Anacharsis, a Scythian mention'd among the Philosophers, he was Brother to a Scythian King, and liv'd in the time of Crœsus King of Lydia, his Mother being a Grecian Woman, he wrote the Scythian Laws in verse; besides a Poem of the frailty of humane life consisting of Eight hundred verses.

Anacreon, a Lyric Poet of Teos, several of whose Poems are yet extant, he flourisht in the 61 and 62 Olympiad, as Eusebius and Suidas affirm, and as Pausanius in his Attics and Strabo testifie, was in high favour with Polycrates the Tyrant of Samos, whom he often celebrates in his verses.

Anantius, an Jambic writer of an uncertain age mention'd by Athenæus in his his Dipnosophists, and Isaeus upon Lycophron.

Anaxandrides, a Comic Poet of Rhodes, or as some say Colophon, who flourisht in the Second year of the One hundred and first Olympiad, as Suidas and the Authour of the Olympiads testifie, he is cited by Aristotle in his Rhetorics and Ethics; of the Sixty five Comedies he wrote (in Ten whereof he is said to have been Victor) his Odysseus is chiefly commended by Athenaeus: in the same Olympiad appear'd also Eubulus Cettius a writer as saith Suidas of between the Media and Nova Comedia, he wrote Twenty four Comedies, whereof his Nutrices, Clepsydra, and Cercopes are cited by Athenaeus, and his Caletaphori by Ammonius, then also flourisht Mnesimachus a writer of Media Comedia, his Hippotrophus, Bupiris and Philippus are cited by Athenaeus, this Authour is very much commended by Diogenes Laertius in his life of Socrates.

Anaxilas, see Plato.

Anaxipolis of Thasus, see in Antipater.

Anaxippus see in Menander.

Anitius

Digitized by Google

Anitius Manlius Boethius Severinus, a most learned and Elegant writer in the time of Zeno and Anastatius, he together with his Wife Helpis, to omit all other parts of Learning, was particularly Eminent in poetrie, as his Five books, de Consolatione Philosophiæ testifie, he was put to death, together with Symmachus by Theodoric King of the Goths in Italie.

Annæus Cornutus, a Tragic poet, whose works are totally lost, who liv'd in the time of Claudius and Nero, and was the Master of Persius the Satyrist.

Antianus, an ingenuous and learned Poet mention'd by Agellius, or Aulus Gellius, as he is generally call'd, he flourisht in the times of the Emperours Trajan and Adrian, his Fescennine verses are mention'd by Ausonius in his Thirteenth Idyl at the end of the Cento Nuptialis.

Anser, Bavius, and Mevius, three ill Poets contemporaries of Virgil, by whom the two last are mention'd, about the same time also flourisht Publius Syrus a Comic writer, Cornificius, one of Virgils detractors, Caius Asinius Pollio, Alfenus, Alfenus Varius a more famous Juris Consult than Poet, Cornelius Gallus, Cassius Severus one of Cesars Assassinats, and as some think the Authour of that Tragedie of Thyestes, which is ascribed to Quintus Varus, also Gracchus, Codrus, whom Virgil mentions with praise in his Seventh Eglogue, there being another of the same name in Domitians time, whose Theseis is derided by Juvenal, Caius Rabirius, who wrote in verse the War between M. Antonius and Octavius in an inflate style, for which he is taken notice of by Ovid, Laeius. Julius Calidius mention'd with singular praise by Pomponius Atticus, to which purpose a passage of the said Atticus is cited by Cornelius Nepos in his life.

Antagoras of Rhodes, see in Menander.

Anthippus, a Comic Poet of an uncertain age.

Antigrammaratus, a Poet mention'd by Lilius Giraldus to have liv'd since Charles the Great, though in what particular age is uncertain; as likewise several others which are likewise mention'd tion'd by him, as Decianus of Emerita a poet and philosopher, Dracontius, who wrote a poem call'd Hexaemeron, or the Six dayes work, Facetus, and Joannes Nantuillensis an Englishman, who wrote a poem call'd Archithenium; though in a rude and disorderly style, Floretus, Gamphredus and Pamphilus a writer of Elegies.

Digitized by Google

Antilochus, a favourite to Lysander the Lacedæmonian, whom he celebrated in his verses, and was rewarded with a Cap full of Silver, he flourisht in the Ninety fourth Olympiad, in the first year of which the said Lysander took Athens; contemporary with whom was Morsimus the Son of Philocles, and the Sister of Æschylus, he wrote a Tragedie, which is mention'd with derision by Aristophanes, also Critias one of the Thirty Tyrants of Athens impos'd by Lysander, chiefly noted for his Elegie to Alcibiades and his fragment of Jambic verses extant in Sextus the Philosopher. Athenæus mentions a Poet of the same name the Son of Callæschrus, but thought to be not the same.

An-

Digitized by Google

Antimachus, a Colophonian Poet mention'd by Pauſanias and Plutarch, the ſubject of his Poem was the expedition of the Argives againſt the Thebans.

Antipater of Sidon, a Poet and Hiſtorian, who appear'd in the 179 Olympiad, Ptolomæus Lathyrus then Reigning, he is taken notice of by Cicero in his books de Oratore; in the Reign of the ſaid Lathyrus, liv'd alſo Anaxipolis of Thaſus, and Dionyſius ſirnamed Scytobrachion, whom Suidas will have to be of Mitylene, (though others ſay of Miletus,) and that he wrote the expedition of Bacchus and Minerva, and ſix books of Argonauts; beſides Antipater of Sidon, there was alſo another of the ſame name of Theſſalonica, who liv'd in the Reign of Auguſtus, of which time he and Bathyllus were the chief Pantomimi, as is teſtified by Dion, Zoſimus, Suidas and others, in the Greec Anthologie are ſeveral Epigrams both of his and the other Antipater.

Antiphanes Cariſtius a writer of Media Comedia, who flouriſht in the firſt year of the Hundred and fourth Olym-

Digitized by Google

Olympiad, very many of his Comedies are mention'd by Julius Pollux and Athenæus and by this last, his saying to Alexander the Great, about one of his plays, which was recited to the said Alexander.

Antipho the Rhamnusian, see Dionysius.

Antistius Sosianus, see Ewdus.

Apharæus, see Isocrates.

Apollinaris, a Bishop of Laodicea in Syria in the Reigns of Julian, Valentinian and Valens, and the beginning of Theodosius the Great, besides his divine poems among which some reckon Christus patiens, which is generally ascrib'd to Gregory of Nazianzene, he is highly eminent among the ancient Ecclesiastick writers treated of by Hieronimus for his 30 books against Porphirius, for which Philostorgius prefers him before Eusebius and Methodius, with other things, both in Theologie, History and Poetrie; Particularly we have extant his Metaphrase upon David's Psalms in Greek verse, besides which he is said by Suidas to have turn'd the whole book of the Hebrews into Greek verse, for a more more particular commendation and Character of him see Joannes Sarisburiensis de Nugis Curialium, Vincentius Lirinensis in his Commonitorie, Theophilus of Alexandria l. 1. paschali and Vossius l. 2. de Historicis Græcis. There was another Apollinaris celebrated by Martial. l. 8. Epigr. 25. yet scarce allow'd by Vossius to pass among the number of the poets, but him vulgarly call'd Sidonius Apollinaris, see in Caius.

Apollodorus Gelous, a Comic poet, contemporary with Menander, several of whose Comedies are remembred by Athenæus Suidas and Pollux, and from whom as Donatus testifies Terence took his phormio and Hecyra. There was also a Tragic poet of Tarsus so nam'd Six Tragedies of whose writing are mention'd by Julius Pollux; another of that name was a Grammarian the Son of Clepiades and Disciple of Aristarchus the Grammarian and panetius the Rhodian philosopher, and this was the Authour of the book of the Genealogie of the Gods yet extant, intituled Bibliotheca, which is vulgarly imputed to Apollodorus Atheniensis; There was also as Vossius us obſerves out of Suidas, a comic poet of the ſame name, who wrote 47 Comedies, and was Five times ſole Victor at the Olympic games. Athenæus mentions alſo Apollodorus Cariſtius, who whit her he were not the ſame with Gelous is in ſome diſpute.

Digitized by Google

Apollonius of Rhodes, ſee Eratoſthenes.

Apollophanes, ſee Alcæus.

Aquilius (or as ſome ſay Attilius or Cecilius) Severus a Spaniard, who liv'd in the Reigns of Julian and Valentinian, he is made mention of by Hieronimus among the Eccleſiaſtic writers for his ὁδοιπορικὸν or Hiſtory of his life both in proſe and verſe.

Aquinius, Ceſius and Suffenus, Three ill poets mention'd by Catullus in his verſes to Licinius Calvus, and his Epigram to Varus, and alſo by Cicero in his Tuſculan queſtions.

Araros, a comic poet of the Greecs the Son of Ariſtophanes as Suidas teſtifies, who mentions his Hymenæus one of the Six Comedies he is ſaid to have written, Four Comedies of his are cited by Athenæus.

Arator, a Latin poet who flouriſht in the time of the Emperour Justinian and wrote the History of the Acts o the Apostles in two books in verse which he is said to have dedicated to Abbot Florianus, and to Vigilius Bishop of Rome.

Digitized by Google

Aratus, a Greec poet of Soli, in Cilicia, as saith Eusebius in his Chronicle, he flourisht in the time of Ptolomeus Philadelphus and Antigonus Gonatus, with whom he liv'd in very great favour and esteem, his poem of the Description of the Cœlestial constellations, and of the prognosticks of the weather which is yet extant, was highly esteem'd by those of his time, as Aristarchus of Samos, the two Aristilli Geometricians, the two Euaneti, Crates, Numenius the Grammarian, Pyrrhus of Magnesia, Zeno and Thales.

Archedicus a comic poet, who wrote against Demochares; two comedies of his writing, Thesaurus and Diamartinon are cited by Athenæus.

Archestratus a Syracusian, or as some say a Geloan the Disciple of Terpsion, he is said to have written a poem of Belly-chear, or things belonging to the Gullet.

Ar-

Digitized by Google

Archias an ancient Greec Epigrammatist, of whom there are extant 28 Epigrams in the Greec Anthologie, his probably was the Authour of that poem mention'd by Cicero, for the description therein, of a strange accident that happened to Roscius the Comedian.

Archilochus a Parian, who flourisht in the Second year of the Twenty ninth Olympiad in the Reign of Candaules and Gyges Kings of Lydia; he was of so virulent and invective a style, that by the bitterness of his verses he drove Lycambe to self Murther by the halter; contemporary with him were Simonides surnamed Melicus (for there were several others of the same name, as Simonides Ceus (the Son of Leoprexes) a lyric poet who flourisht in the time of Xerxes, Themistocles and Hiero of Syracuse, Simonides Magnesius an Epic poet who wrote the Acts of Antiochus the Great, Simonides Eretriensis who wrote in Trimeter Jambic the convention of the Greecs at Aulis, and lastly Simonides the Son of Crineus surnamed Amorginus, who besides several Elegies he wrote, is thought by some as Suidas testifies to have been the first writer of Iambic verse) and also Aristoxenus of Selinum who is celebrated by Epicharmus.

Archippus a Comic poet who appear'd in the First year of the Ninety first Olympiad, and was once Victor, his Comedie call'd Ichthys is mention'd with praise by Julius Pollux and Athenæus, and several Comedies which have been ascribed to Aristophanes are thought to be his as Suidas testifies.

Architas an ancient Greec Epigrammatist who haply may be thought the same with the famous Pythagorean Philosopher of Tarentum.

Arctinus of Miletus, an ancient and elegant Greec Poet mention'd by Eusebius in his Chronicle as the Authour of two Poems, Aethiopis and Ilii Halosis; he was the Disciple of Homer, as is delivered by Tsetzes, and also by Suidas from the Testimony of Artemon of Clazomenus, and is thought to have flourisht from the first to the Ninth Olympiad.

Arion, a Lyric Poet and Musician of Methymna, the same no doubt whom the

Digitized by Google

he Poets ſav'd from drowning by the charity of a Dolphin, he began to flouriſh in the Thirty eighth Olympiad as Suidas affirms, and is thought by ſome o have been the Diſciple of Alcman, nd to have been the firſt beginner of Dithyrambs, Satyrs, and of the Chorus n Tragedie.

Ariſtæus, an ancient Greec Poet of an uncertain age.

Ariſtarchus, ſee Cratinus.

Ariſteas, a contemporary of Anacharſis the Scythian, he wrote the Hiſtory of the Arimaſpi in Hexameter Greec verſe; a very ſtrange thing is reported of him (as likewiſe of Hermotimus of Clazomenus) namely, that at certain times his Soul was wont to paſs out of his body and return again.

Ariſtius Fuſcus a contemporary of Horace, who directs to him the Two and-twentieth Ode of his firſt book, but whither a Poet himſelf is queſtion'd by Voſſius.

Ariſtomenes, a comic Poet of Athens who (as Suidas teſtifies, and the Author of the Olympiads) began to flouriſh in the Eighty eighth Olympiad, and was one of those call'd δευτερεῖοι or Secundarii.

Digitized by Google

Ariston, a Tragic Poet of Chios of an uncertain age, who as Plutarch and Laertius testifie, was banisht Athens for writing a Tragedie against Menesthens; also Three Epigrams in the Greec Anthologie go under the name of Ariston.

Aristonymus see Callimachus.

Aristophanes an Athenian, the most Renowned of comic Poets, and contemporary with Sophocles the Tragic Poet, and also with Socrates whom he makes an object of his wit in his Comedie call'd Nubes, as he doth Cleon and Nicias two Magistrates of Athens in his Equites, and Georgia; he flourisht from the Eighty fifth to the Ninety first Olympiad, and wrote a considerable number of Comedies, whereof many are yet extant, and many lost. At the same time flourisht Teleclides a comic Poet also of Athens, several Comedies of whom are mention'd by Athenæus, who saith also that the History of the Telchines was ascribed to him; then likewise there began to write Morychus a Tragic Poet, though a foolish one as he he is accounted by Aristophanes according to his proverb of him Moricho Stultior. There was also another Aristophanes noted among the Grammarians.

Aristophon, an ancient Greec Poet of an uncertain age, whose Philoctetes is mention'd by Plutarch:

Aristoteles, the Philosopher of Sagira, who besides the many other works he wrote, among which is his Art of Poetry, is delivered by Ambrosius and Brognolus to have written a Pæan to Hermias, and some other things in verse.

Aristoxenus of Selinum, see Archilochus.

Arrianus, or as some write him Rhianus, a contemporary of the Emperour Tiberius, who was much delighted with his Greec verses. Lilius Giraldus his mistake concerning him, see rectified by Vossius in his book de poetis Latinis.

Aruntius Stella a Latin Poet, no less noted for his verses upon his Mistress Violantilla's Dove, than those upon the victory of Domitian (in whose time he liv'd) over the Sarmatians.

Digitized by Google

Asaph, a great Musician among the Jews, and as some think chief Master of King David's Quire, and setter of divers of his Psalms to Musick, or, as others suppose, the Authour of them himself.

Arystilus, a contemporary of Euripides or thereabout, and reckon'd by some among the number of Greec Dramatics.

Asclepiades a Tragic Poet, the Disciple of Isocrates, he is mention'd by Plutarch in his lives of the Ten Rhetoricians.

Asius, a Samian, the Son of Amphiptolemus, a Poem of his call'd Genealogiæ, is mention'd by Pausanias in his Messenics, his fable of Metabus and Menalippe by the Scholiast of Homer, suppos'd to be Didymus; besides some few verses of his cited by Athenæus from Duris the Historian.

Astydamas the Son of Morsimus, he began to write in the Second year of the Ninety fifth Olympiad, as Diodorus and the Authour of the Olympiads testifie, and wrote as saith Suidas 140 Tragedies (in 15 onely whereof he was Victor)

Digitized by Google

Victor) having abandon'd Rhetoric, wherein he was a hearer of Isocrates, he had a Son of the same name, who began to flourish in the 102 Olympiad, his Tragedies mention'd by Suidas are Nine, namely, Hercules, Satyricus, Epigoni, Ajax Furens, Bellerophon, Tyro, Alcmena, Phœnix, Palamedes.

Attilius, see Statius Cæcilius.

Augeas a writer of Media Comedia of an uncertain age, of whose writing two Comedies, viz. Rusticus and Poeta are mention'd by Suidas.

Aulus Cornelius Severus, see Publius Ovidius.

Aulus Furius, an ancient Latin Poet of Antium, whom Cicero mentions in his Brutus, he was a contemporary and familiar friend of Quintus Catulus.

Aulus Persius Flaccus an Eminent Satyrist who flourisht under Nero, there are Six Satyrs of his extant, which are commonly set forth in a volume together with Juvenal.

Aulus Cornelius Alpinus, see Publius Ovidius.

Auleas, the Third Tragic writer from Theonis, who is delivered by some to have been the First inventor of Tragedie.

Digitized by Google

Aulus Sabinus, see Publius Ovidius.

Aulus Serenus, an ancient Lyric Poet among the Latins of an uncertain age, he is remembred by Terentianus, Diomedes, Nonius, Servius, Hieronymus, Fortunatianus and Capella, which two last Authours cite this verse of his.

Perit avipedis animula Leporis.

Aurelius Apollinaris, a Celebratour of the Acts of the Emperour Carus in Iambic verse, as is testified by Vopiscus in his life of that Prince.

Aurelius Prudentius Clemens, a Christian Poet, who flourisht in the time of Theodosius the Great and his Children, he wrote in Latin verse Psychomachia, de Martyrum Coronis, and some other works which are yet extant; but that Enchiridion of the old and new Testament, which is usually Printed at the end of his works, is said to have been written by Amœnus, or as some say by Sedulius.

Ausonius, see Decius.

Digitized by Google

Antocrates, an Athenian Comic Poet of an uncertain age, whose Timpanista is mention'd by Suidas.

Axionicus, another Comic writer of the Greecs of an uncertain age, his Phileuripides, Chalcidicus, and Tyrrheus are mention'd by Athenæus.

B.

B*Abrias*, by some called Gabrias, a Poet of an uncertain age, who converted Æsops Fables into Greec Iambic verse, as Avienus testifies in his Præface to Theodosius Ambrosius, those Fables which go under the name of Gabrias, being judg'd to have been rather the works of Ignatius Diaconus.

Bacchylides of Ceus, see Cratinus.

Bassus an old Epigrammatist, several Epigrams of whose writing are extant in the Florilegium of Planudes, he is sometimes mention'd with the sirname of Lollius added, if at least it be the same Bassus.

Batalus, a writer of Lascivious verses, upon the extraordinary deformity of whose body the Poet Antiphanes wittily play'd.

Batton,

Digitized by Google

Batton, a Comic writer of an uncertain age, whose Androphonos and Euergete are remembred by Athenæus and Suidas.

Batulus, an Ephesian, whither Poet, Flutiniſt or Actour is uncertain.

Beda, ſirnamed Venerabilis, an ancient Engliſh Prieſt who flouriſht from the time of Juſtinianus the younger to Conſtantinus Copronymus (which was towards the end of the Saxon Heptarchy) and who being chiefly a Hiſtorian, yet claim'd the title of a Poet by his Hymns, his Poem of Juſtin's Martyrdom and ſome other things, ſome Mentioned, others Extant in the Collection of Epigrams and Poems, ſet forth by Pithœus, and Printed at Paris.

Bias of Priene, ſee Epimenides.

Bentamin Halachadites, his Omeis is Cited by Joannes the Son of Serapion.

Bion, a Greec Poet of Smyrna, whoſe Epitaphium Adonidis and other Idyls are Printed with Heſiod and the reſt of the Poetæ Minores.

Beſantinus, an antient Epigramatiſt.

Digitized by Google

tiſt, whoſe Name is found to ſome Epigrams in the Greek Anthologie.

Blæſus, a Latin Poet of an uncertain age, born, as ſaith Stephanus, in Capriæ an Iſland of Italy.

Boethius, a Poet of Tarſus, who Celebrated, in Greek Verſe, the Victory of Marcus Antonius, as Strabo affirms. Under the Name alſo of Boethius (probably the ſame) are certain Epigrams in the Greek Anthologie. But there was another of the ſame Name of little Fame and of an uncertain age.

Boiſcus, a Poet of Cyzicum, of an uncertain age, whom Voſſius l. 2. de re poet: affirms to have been the firſt Authour of the Tetrameter Octonarie Jambick.

Burchardus Pylades a Brixian, whoſe Five Books of the Genealogies of the Gods, are ſet forth with Heſiod in Oporinus his Baſil Edition.

Buſlidius, a Poet of an uncertain age, of whom what Verſes are Extant are in the Book of Epigrams, of the Schola Chriſtiana, Printed at Baſil.

Butas, an elegiack Poet, of an uncertain.

Digitized by Google

certain age, who having written fabulously, de Romanorum rebus in Gr. verse, is remembred by Plutarch, Arnobius, Pithœus & Heraldus: But by Plutarch reprehended as fabulous.

C.

Cæcilius Argivus, a Greek Poet doubtless very antient, remember'd by a Poem he is said to have written de Piscibus.

Cæcilius Cyprianus, an antient Bishop of Carthage, who lived under Philippus Arabs, Decius, Gallus, Volusianus, Valerianus, & Galienus: (the last of whom is himself also reciev'd a Poet by certain Verses of his yet Extant) and at length suffer'd Martyrdom. The Poems that go under his Name are Geneſis, Sodoma, an Invective against an Apostate Senator; and a Hymn for Easter-day, the two first whereof Sixtus Senensis believes were written by Tertullian, the last some ascribe to Victorinus.

Cælius Sedulius, a Scottish Priest, who lived under Theodosius Junior; besides ſides what he wrote in Proſe, viz. A Comment upon St. Paul's Epiſtles, he alſo wrote in Verſe his Opus Paſchale, or, Paſchal work: of which Pope Gelaſius in his Decrees gives a particular commendation. This Work being afterwards by himſelf put into Proſe is yet Extant in the Book call'd Bibliotheca Patrum Tomo 8°; he wrote beſides two Hymns, one upon Chriſts Nativity, the other upon Epiphany.

Cæſius Baſſus, a Lyrick Poet, who flouriſht in the time of Nero (who was alſo by the teſtimony of Seneca and Martial, a very approved Poet himſelf) and is twice hinted at by Juvena in his Satyrs: he is by Fabius, who knew him, ranked in the next degree of Lyrics to Horace. There was alſo another Cæſius (in the time of Catullus) whom ſee in Aquinius.

Cajus Aſinius Pollio, ſee Anſer and Publius Ovidius.

Cajus Cilnius Mecenas, ibid.

Cajus Cominius, ſee Aelius Saturninus.

Cajus Cotta, ſee Publius Ovidius.

Cajus Ekvus, an antient Latin Poet, who who wrote of the ſame Subject with Valerius Flaccus in Heroick Verſe.

Cajus Germanicus, ſee Aelius Saturninus.

Cajus Helvius Cinna, the Authour of an old Latin Poem, entitled Smirna, which, as Servius teſtifies, was a Work of no leſs then ten years.

Cajus Julius Cæſar, the Great Roman Captain, who firſt made himſelf Maſter of the Roman Empire, and was alſo an Elegant writer, beſides whoſe Commentaries which are extant, there are reckon'd up ſeveral other Works of his writing which are loſt, and among the reſt a Tragedy, entitled Oedipus.

Cajus Lælius, ſee Terentius.

Cajus Lucilius, a Roman Poet of the Equeſtrian Order, Born in the 158 Olympiad.

Cajus Lutorius Priſcus, ſee Aelius Saturninus.

Cajus Pedo Albinovanus, ſee Publius Ovidius.

Cajus Rabirius, ſee Anſer.

Cajus Sollius Apollinaris, a Sidonian Poet, whoſe Father was an Officer of great great Authority under the Emperour Honorius, and he himſelf under Theoſius the younger and Valentinian the third, thrice Maſter of the Militia, and four times Præfect of the Prætorium: he was alſo in very high Eſteem and Authority with Maximus Auguſtus, Avitus whoſe Daughter he Married, and Majorianus by whom he was advanc'd to the Dignity of a Count: under Severus he defended Arvernia againſt the Incurſions of the Barbarians. Under Anthemius alſo he was ſtill advanc'd, and at length made Biſhop of Arverni; after which abandoning Poetry he betook himſelf wholly to the Study of Theologie: he is much more happy in his Verſe, as is to be ſeen in 24 little Poems of his yet extant, than in his Proſe, wherein his Style is very harſh and crabbed, and very much diſcommended by Ludovicus Vives.

Digitized by Google

Cajus Valerius Catullus, an Epigrammatiſt of Verona, of whoſe witty and elegant Poems we have many yet extant.

Cajus Valerius Flaccus Setinus Balbus,

Digitized by Google

bus, a Latin Poet of Padua, who Dedicated his Argonauticks, or Poem of the Expedition of Jason, for the Golden Fleece to the Emperour Domitian; which Poem being extant, he is said to have written in Imitation of Apollonius Rhodius.

Calfurnius, see Titus.

Callias, an Athenian Tragick Poet, of an uncertain age, the Son of Lysimachus, a Rope-maker; his Grammatica is remembred by Athenæus, his Cyclopes by Pollux, his Aegyptius, Atalanta, Pedetæ, Ranæ & Συλλαϐόντες by Suidas.

Callimachus, an excellent Greek Poet of Cyrene, in great favour and esteem with Ptolomæus Philadelphus, in whose time he liv'd, and of his Son Euergetes in honour of whose Queen he wrote his Fiction, call'd Coma Berenices: he also wrote Hymns, Elegies and Epigrams, whereof many of his Hymns and Epigrams, as also several fragments of his other works are yet extant. There was also of the same Name a Colophonian Poet, mention'd by Tatianus in his Oration to the Gentiles; and Eusebius in his Evangelical preparations.

Digitized by Google

tions. Contemporary with Callimachus of Cyrene were Heraclitus of Halicarnassus (whose Epigram upon the death of the said Callimachus is cited by Laertius in the Life of Heraclitus. And Timon of Phliasus of the Pyrrhonian Sect, who was in great favour with Antigonus Gonatus in whose time he liv'd; he wrote Books of Natural Philosophy in Verse Hexameter, besides 40 Tragedies, 30 Comoedies with Satyrs, and several other works, among which his Books call'd Sylli are particularly treated of by Sotion. There was another Callimachus, a Heroick Poet, Sister's Son to him of Cyrene, as Suidas testifies.

Callinus, an Elegiack Poet, somewhat anticienter than Archilochus, as Athenæus, Clemens Alexandrinus, and Strabo testifie.

Callistratus, see Alcæus.

Callistus, see Amphilochius.

Calvus, an antient Poet, out of whom Verses are cited by Servius, Charisius, and Gellius.

Camerinus, and Thuscus, see Publius Ovidius.

Caninius Rufus, a writer of the Dacian

Digitized by Google

cian War in Greek Verſe, as Plinius Junior teſtifies in one of his Epiſtles.

Canius, ſee Curiatius Maternus.

Cantharus, a Comick writer of Athens, of an uncertain age whoſe Comedies Medæa, Tereus, Symmachiæ, Myrmeces, and Aedones, are all mention'd by Suidas, his Tereus, alſo by Athenæus.

Capella, ſee Publius Ovidius.

Capito, an Alexandrian Poet, of an uncertain age, who beſides what he wrote in Proſe wrote alſo a Poem, call'd ἐρωτικὰ, or of Love affairs, of wich Athenæus makes mention.

Capnias, an obſcure Poet of an uncertain age, whoſe writings are ſaid by Suidas, to have been of ſo little eſteem that they vaniſht into ſmoak, which alludes to his name, their loſs not being in the leaſt regarded.

Carcinus, an Athenian Tragick and Lyrick Poet, who began to flouriſh about the 100*th* Olympiad, viz. in the time of Phillip of Macedon, and contemporary with Plato, who beſides his Philoſophical writings, is ſaid to have written ſeveral Tragedies, which he after-afterwards burnt, as Laertius testifies. The Tragedies of this Carcinus remembred by Athenæus, are his Achilles and his Semele. There was also another Carcinus of Agrigentum, whose Comedy intituled Plutus is mention'd by Athenæus; he liv'd as appears from Polycritus Mendesius, a little before the other, Contemporary with whom were Eudoxus of Gnidus who wrote Astrology in Hexameter Verse, besides another Eudoxus, a Comick Poet of Sicilie, as also Anaxilaus, or Anaxilas, who in a Comedy of his call'd Botrylion, nips Plato. Two other Comedies of his Ἀναπλέοντα and Μονότροπος are cited by Athenæus.

Digitized by Google

Carneades, an Elegiack Poet, of an uncertain age, made mention of by Laertius as a different person from Carneades the Philosopher. Suidas mentions three Philosophers, but no Poet of that name.

Carus, see Publius Ovidius.

Cassius Severus, see Anser.

Cato, by some call'd Batto, a Comick Poet of an uncertain age, but the more eminent was Valerius Cato, whom see in Valerius. Cephi-

Digitized by Google

Cephisodorus, see Euripides.

Chæremon, see Philistion.

Chærophon, ibid.

Charmus, a Syracusian, of an uncertain age whose Poem intitled Δειπνολογια or Γαστρονομια argued him a person more given to his belly than Epicure himself.

Chedmon, an old Brittish Poet, who as it were by divine Inspiration, to use Cambden's own words, in the year 680 with his sweet Verses full of Compunction drew men from Vice to Vertue.

Chersias, see Epimenedes.

Chilo, ibid.

Chionides, an Athenian writer of Vetus Comœdia, who according to Suidas, began to flourish in the 70*th* Olympiad; of his Comedies there are remember'd his Heroes commended by Pollux and Suidas, his Mendicæ commended by Athenæus, and his Assyrij, or Persæ.

Chœrillus, an Athenian Tragœdian, who is said to have written 150. Tragedies, and to have overcome in 13.

Chœ-

Digitized by Google

Chœrilus, see Agis.

Christodorus, an Epick Writer, who escribed in Greek Verse in six Books, he taking of Isauria, by the Emerour Anastasius, under whom he flouisht: besides some other things menon'd by Suidas. About the same time so liv'd Timotheus of Gaza, a Gramarian, who wrote a Tragedy intituled rgyripus, and also a History of Anials in Verse: Quintus Smyrnæus, Sirmed Calaber, as being found at Hyrus, a Town of Calabria, by Cardinal Bessarion; he continued the Descrion of the Trojan War in Heroic erse, from where Homer left; which ork of his being of the number of ose that have happily escap't the gulf Oblivion, was first publisht at *Ve*e by Aldus Manutius.

Colluthus, an Ægyptian of Lycopolis, ose Description of the Rape of Hea, in Greek Verse; which is also exnt, and commonly Printed at the d of Homer's Iliads; together with e little Poem of the Destruction of y, by Tryphiodorus an Ægyptian likeise. The Calidonica and Persica, which

Colutbus

Digitized by Google

Colluthus and the Odyssea, and Ilia Antonyci Quæstoris, which Tryphiodorus, by the testimony of Suidas had written, being all lost. Within the same interval comes in Musæus, whose little Poem of the Loves of Hero and Leander, is yet extant, which by the good leave of J. Cæsar Scaliger, whoever considers the Style may imagin to have been written by a much later Greek Authour (as this Musæus the Grammarian was) than that Grand Musæus spoken of by Virgil under the same Anastasius also flourisht Marianus, the Son of Marsus, as is testified by Suidas, who also writes that he Metaphras'd upon Theocritus, Aratus, Nicander's Theriaca, and several of Callimachus his Works.

Chrysippus, a Writer of Georgics, but whether in Verse as Giraldus only surmiseth, or in Prose, is question'd by Vossius; there was also of the same name reckon'd among the Poets one of Tyana, whose Description is mentioned by Athenæus, who liv'd but an age or there about after him.

Cynæthon, a Lacedemonian, who b gan to flouriſh in the fifth Olympiad, and wrote a Poem call'd Telegonia.

&

Cinethus, a Chian; who flouriſht in the Sixty ninth Olympiad (as ſaith the Scholiaſt of Pindarus) and wrote a Farce of Homers Verſes.

Cineſias, a Theban Dithyrambic writer, ſee Philyrinus.

Citerius Sidonius, a Syracuſan, of whom there is extant a Latin Epigram in the Pariſian Collection, Entituled Epigramata & Poematia vetera.

Claudianus Mamertus, ſee Alcimus.

Claudius Claudianus, an Alexandrian (as it is conjectur'd) who flouriſht in the time of Theodoſius the great and his children, Chriſtian Emperours, though he himſelf continued an obſtinate Gentil; however, for his eminency in Latin Poetry (whereof his Proſerpina's Rape, and ſeveral other Poems yet extant, are a teſtimony) he had his ſtatue erected by Arcadius and Honorius, about the ſame time (as ſome think) liv'd Pontius Paulinus Biſhop of Nola, a Diſciple of Auſonius, to whom he wrote ſeveral Verſes; as alſo the life of St. Martin, and upon the birth-day of Celſus, fus, and St. Felix of Nola, with some other things which are yet extant; likewise an Epitome of Suetonius in Verse which is lost. 2. Flavius who is delivered by Hieronymus one of his acquaintance, to have written the Art of Medicin in verse Hexameter, 3 Licentius of Hippo, whom St. Austin, who was of his acquaintance, celebrates for an eminent Poet, and takes notice of his Poem of Pyramus and Thisbe. He also wrote hymns and several other things, and is remembred by Paulinus and Posidonius. 4 Rutilius Claudius Numatianus a Gaul whose Itinerarium, in verse, wherein he discovers himself an enemy to Christian Religion, is extant in Pithaus his Collection.

Caludius Clemens, a Scotch-man, who flourisht in the year of our Lord 810. He was the Disciple of Beda, and one of the Founders of the University of Paris: many things he wrote in Theologie, and is deliver'd by some, to have been also an excellent Poet. Camb. Rem.

Claudius Marius Victor. See Alcimus.

Cleambes, a Successor, as saith Eusebius

ſebius, to Zeno in his School, and a writer of Phyſicks in Hexameter and Iambic verſe; which work is in H. Stephanus his Collection. It is alſo affirm'd by Laertius, who wrote his life, that he wrote a Book de Poeta. About that ſame time alſo liv'd Sophron a Comic writer, of whoſe writing, and not of Sophron's the Syracuſian, Voſſius thinks the Comedy Nymphoumis to be, which is cited by Pollux; contemporary with whom were Damoxenus an Athenian Comic writer, out of one of whoſe Comedies about 70. Verſes are extant in Athenæus, from whom are cited by Suidas, his σύντροφοι & ἐρωτικὴ τυρώ, and alſo Lycophron, one of the forementioned Seven Pleiades ſo call'd, a Grammarian and Tragic Poet of Chalcis (for there were ſeveral others of that name) he wrote an obſcure Poem, Intituled Alexandra or Caſſandra, which is yet extant; beſides other things mention'd by Suidas, which are loſt.

Clearchus, a Comic Poet, of an uncertain time, out of whoſe Corinthii a Sentence is cited by Athenæus. There is also a small fragment of him in the common Edition of the Poetæ Minores.

Cleobulus of Lindus, one of the Seven Wise-men of Greece, many of whose Sentences and wise sayings were written in Verse.

Cleon, an ancient Greec Poet, from whose Poem Entitl'd Argonautica Apollonius Rhodius is thought to have taken the pattern, and much of the matter of his Poem as the Scholiast of Apolloninus testifies:

Cleomenes, a Dithyrambic Poet of Rhegium, whose Poem Entitled Melesger, is cited by Athenæus; whether this be the the same with that Cleomenes cited by Clemens Alexandrinus is doubted by Vossius.

Cleophon, an Athenian Tragic Poet of an uncertain time; several of whose Tragedies are mention'd by Suidas.

Clidemus, another Poet, unknown both as to the place and time he liv'd in. Whose Atthis is cited by Athenæus.

Clodius Sabinus, an elegant Poet; as well as writer of Latin and Greec declamations clamations; he is said also to have written a Poem of the Trojan War.

Digitized by Google

Clonas, an Epic and Elegiac Poet of Tegea; some say Thebes, who is said to have been the first inventor of certain Moods in Musick.

Cneus Aquilius, see Statius Cæcilius.

Cneus Cornelius Gallus, a famous Elegiac Poet of Forolivium, so high in favour with Augustus that he was made first Præfect of Ægypt; he translated Euphorion a Greec Author into Latin, and wrote four Books of Elegies upon his beloved Cytheris, Volumnius his free'd woman, whose forsaking him, and running away with Antonius into Gallia, is the subject of Virgils Tenth Eglogue, in which she is is call'd Lycoris.

Cneus Lentulus Getulicus, a Latin Epigramatist, of whom there are some fragments in Petrus Crinitus. He lov'd Cesennia, whom he very much celebrated in his Verses.

Cneus Matius, the Authour of a Poem, Entitled Ilias in Fifteen Books. He is cited by Charisius.

Codrus see Anser.

Columba see Christodorus.

Digitized by Google

Cometas, surnamed Scholasticus, a Greec Epigrammatist, whose name is to an Octostichon in the Fourth Book of the Greec Epigrams. Another Cometas, surnamed Chartularius, hath his name to a Hexastichon in the same book if it were not the same person differently surnamed.

Cotinus, the first Composer in Verse (as some say) of that Trojan story, out of which Homer took his Iliads, and the Disciple of Palamedes, whence though the certain time when he liv'd be unknown, he is concluded to have been ancienter than Homer; yet Vossius seems to doubt whether there were ever any such person.

Corippus, a Grammatian, who living in the time of Justinus junior, wrote in praise of that Emperor in Heroic Verse; for which he is branded with a very ill character, by Nicolaus Alemannus, in his Preface to Procopius. Contemporary with whom liv'd Stephanus an African Presbyter, who wrote the life of St. German, as it is thought, in Verse; and that at the desire of St. Anacharius, Bishop of Altissiodorum.

Cor-

Digitized by Google

Cornelius Licinius Gallus, the same most probably with Cneus Cornelius Gallus.

Cornelius Longinus, an ancient Epigrammatist, of whom there is preserv'd an Octostichon in the Sixth book of the Greec Anthologia or collection of Epigrams.

Cornelius Nepos, a Contemporary of Cicero, most noted for his Lives, but for his putting Dares Phrygius his History of the Trojan war into Latin Verse, not to be here omitted.

Cornelius Severus, see Publius Ovidius.

Cornificius, an old Latin Poet, whose Book de natura Deorum, and of Hymns, are mention'd by Macrobius.

Corvinus Clemens, an antient Poet, whom Cuspinian in his Book de Consulibus, affirms to have set forth in Verse the Acts of Alexander the Great.

Cosmas, see Joannes Damascenus.

Crantor Solensis, see Philetas Cous.

Crates, a Tragic Poet, whom some think to be the same with Crates the Theban Cynic Phylosopher, besides whom Laertius reckons Nine more of the same name; the chief whereof were Crates the Comædian; whom see in Cratinus, Crates Thriasius and Crates Mallotes, the two last whereof I question whether they were not to be accounted rather Critics than Poets.

Cratinus, an Athenian writer of Vetus Comedia, who began to flourish in the Second year of the Fghty First Olympiad; he wrote 21 Comedies, in Nine whereof he was Victor, as is testified by Suidas; his Threicie Horæ, and others of his Comedies are mention'd by Pollux, Athenæus and others. Contemporary with this Cratinus was Plato the Comedian, who is affirmed by Suidas to have written Twenty Eight Comedies, of which his Adonis, Estropa, Mammacythus, &c. are remembred by Pollux, Athenæus, Harpocration and Hesychius. Secondly, Aristarchus of Tegea, a Tragic Poet, who of Seventy Tragedies was Victor only twice: He liv'd, as saith Suidas, above a hundred years. Thirdly, Bacchylides, a Lyric Poet of Ceus Simonides his Brothers son; he was in great esteem with the Emperour Julian, as saith Ammianus Marcellinus; he wrote Hymns which are remembred by Menander the Rhetorician, rician, and in the Pythian Games his Poems were prefer'd by Hiero before the Odes of Pindarus. Dionysius Phereus reckon'd by Plutarch, among the number of Poets. And Lastly, Crates the Comedian, mention'd with commendation by Aristotle in his Poetics; and Aristophanes in his Equites, his τὰ τόνος συναγείρεσθαι and others of his Comedies, are mention'd by Pollux and Athenæus.

Creophylus, an ancient Greec poet, reckon'd by some, Contemporary with Homer.

Cresconius, an African Poet, whom some name Crescentius; he wrote in Verse the Wars of the Emperour Justinian in Africa.

Crinagoras, an old Epigrammatist, of whom there are found about 19 Epigrams in the Greec Anthology.

Critias Callæschrus, an Elegiac Poet mention'd by Athenæus, and out of whom (if it be the same) Stobæus quotes several Senarie Jambics.

Curtius Materpus, a Tragic Poet, who liv'd in the time of the Emperour Titus Vespasian (who is deliver'd to have been himself no contemptible Poet, by Eutropius, Isidorus, Suidas, and Suetonius, by whom mention is made of Tragedies and other Poems of his in Greek; there are remembred of this Curiatius two Tragedies only, Medea and Thiestes. Contemporary with him were first Sabinus Bassus, who was so well esteem'd by Vespasian, that he bestow'd on him Fifty Sesterces, he hath also from Fabius and Tacitus the character of an excellent Poet. Secondly, Curtius Montanus, an Oratour, and by the testimony of Tacitus, if not a Poet, yet at least a writer of Verses. Thirdly, Domitian the Brother of Titus, and after him Emperour; a very considerable Poet, by the Testimony of Fabius, Martial, and Valerius Flaccus, and by Vossius affirm'd the Authour of the Translation of Aratus. Fourthly and Fifthly, Tacitus and Secundus Minor Brothers, the first a Satyric, the other a Tragic Poet, both mention'd by Martial in one of his Epigrams, by the Old Scholiast of Juvenal, and by Sidonius Apollinaris. Fifthly and Sixthly, Canius and Passienus the first, a Gaditan mention'd by Martial in two of his Epigram-

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

grams for his facetiousness, as also his wife Theophila being for learning compar'd with Sappho for chastity prefer'd; the other an Elegiac and Lyric Poet of Umbria, mention'd by Pliny in his Sixth Epistle to Romanus; he is said to have been the Grandchild or great Grandchild to Propertius. Seventhly, Fulgentius Planciades, of whose writing Scaliger suspects the Tragedy Octavia to be, which is commonly ascrib'd to Seneca. Eightly, Paccius who wrote Alcithoe. Ninethly, Faustus, whose Thebe and Tereus are remembred by Juvenal in the beginning of his Seventh Satyr. Tenthly, Rubrenius Lappa, whose Atreus is mention'd by the same Authour in the same Satyr, if the Exposition of Britannicus and Pulmannus will pass for. Barton Holyday, in his Illustration of Juvenal, judges Atreus to be not the Title of a Tragedie, but rather the name of a Usurer, to whom this Lappa pawn'd his Dishes and Cloak for want. 11*ly*. 12*ly*. 13*ly*. Marcus Unius, Ligurinus and Lusorius Domitianus, all mention'd by Martial, and the last by Pliny also. 14*ly*. Theodorus a Jew, whose House and Poems ems appear by one of Martial's Epigrams to have been burnt. 15. Licinianus, Martial's Country-man, and so celebrated in one of his Epigrams. 16. Voconius Victor, celebrated also by the same Martial, l. 7. Epigr. 29. and remembred by Pliny, in an Epistle to Priscus. 17. Votienus, not only imagin'd but concluded a Poet from Martial, l. 8. Epigr. 72. 18, and 19. Sabellus and Musicus (not the Authour of Hero and Leander, he writing in Greec, though later and this in Latin) both obscene Poets, and the first remembred by Martial, l. 12. Epigr. 43. besides Aruntius Stella, Codrus, and Apollinaris above mention'd.

Cyllenus Petianus, an old Epigramatist, of whom two Epigrams are preserv'd in the first Book of the Greec Anthology.

Cylicius, a Tragic Poet, whom Pliny delivers to have been painted by Protogenes, in a posture of meditating.

Cynathus v. Cinathus.

Cyrus, a Panopolitan Epigramatist in great esteem with the Empress Eudocia, wife of Theodosius junior, in whose time

time he flouriſht, and by whom he was advanc'd to be Biſhop of Cotyæum in Phrygia; ſeveral of his Epigrams are extant in the Fourth Book of the Greek Anthologia. Contemporary with him was Synæſius, Biſhop of Ptolemais; who beſides other Poems, wrote Ten Hymns which are yet extant. And alſo Nonnus likewiſe of Panopolis, the Authour of a well known Greek Poem, Entitled Dionyſiaca in 48 Books, and whoſe Paraphraſe upon St. John's Goſpel in Heroic Greek verſe, is of ſufficient eſteem amoug the learned.

Cyrus Theodorus Prodromus, a Divine Epigrammatiſt, who living in or ſomewhat near the time of the antient Fathers, wrote in Greek Verſe, partly in Iambic, partly in Heroic Tetraſtics, the ſummary heads of the Pentateuch, or Five Books of Moſes, and alſo of Joſhua, Judges and Kings; and in the New Teſtament; of the Goſpels and Acts of the Apoſtles; alſo Iambic and Heroic Tetraſticks upon the Three Great Hierarchs, St. Gregory, Baſil and Chryſoſtome, with ſome other things. His Works were Printed at Baſil by Bebelius. An. 1536.

Da-

D

Damasus a Spaniard, who liv'd in the time of Valentinianus, Gratianus, Valentinianus junior, and Theodosius Magnus, and was Bishop of Rome; he hath left several Poems and Hymns which are sung in the Church of Rome, and is laureated a Poet by Suidas.

Damochares, a Grammarian, and Writer of Epigrams, whereof some are to be found in the Greec Anthologie.

Damocrates, a Poet of an uncertain time, who wrote in Verse several medicinal passages extracted out of Galens works.

Damoxenus, an Athenian Comedian, whose Syntrophi and Heauton Peuthon, are quoted by Athenæus, he is also mention'd by Suidas, see Cleanthes.

Daphitas, a Poet and Grammarian, who for certain bitter Invectives against Monarchy, was crucified upon Thoracs, a mountain of Magnesia.

David, The 2d. King of Israel and Judah, commonly celebrated with the threefold Title of King, Priest, and Prophet; phet; to which may be added also that of Poet, if under the name of Vates Prophet and Poet were not included together. His Divine gift in Poetry appears in the composition of those most Coelestial Hymns or Psalms, which take place among those Sacred Books which make up the Old Testament, of which is generally reputed the intire Authour, but was certainly the Authour of most if not all of them.

Decius Junius Juvenalis, see Junius.

Decius Laberius, a Mimic Writer, who began to flourish in the Third year of the 181st. Olympiad, and was Contemporary with Cicero (who though a much better Oratour than Poet, yet we have extant among his Works something also of his Poetry) his Aquæ, Aries, Augur and very many more of his Mimes are reckoned up by Charisius; his Rector, Saltuator & Scripturæ are remembred by Agellius, much about the same time also flourisht

Lucius Cornelius Sylla, a famous though cruel and tyrannical Roman Commander; who as saith Athenæus wrote in his own tongue many facetious Satyrs and Mimes, with which according according to Nicolaus Damascenus he was much delighted: Plutarch in his life reiateth that he made Verses while he was besieging Athens. 2. Quintus Hortensius, who besides his Fame in Oratory, had so much of a Poet as to make a parcell of wanton Verses, which are remembred by Ovid in his Elegies, and by Agellius. 3. Marcus Valerius Cato, who wrote two Poems Lydia and Diana. 4. Marcus Furius Bibaculus, divers of whose Verses are cited by Macrobius and Agellius, among which there are some that appear to have been imitated even word for word by Virgil, he is said by Suetonius and Tacitus, to have written invective Verses against Julius Cæsar. 5. Titus Pomponius Atticus, whose Excellence in Poetry is fully set forth by Cornelius Nepos, in the Description of his Life. 6. Marcus Terentius Varro, who is styled Philosopher and Poet, by Hieronymus in his Chronicle; and out of whose Poems we have several fragments yet extant, especially of the Satiræ Menippeæ, together with divers Epigrams both in the Appendix of Virgil, collected by Scaliger, and in the Collection

Digitized by Google

ection of Epigrams set forth by Petrus Pythæus, but his Books de Re Rustica & ingua Latina are most lookt upon; be- ides him, there was another Varro, sir- named Atacinus, not much less ancient, who also wrote Poems, viz. Argonau- ics, and a Poem of the Sequanic War. . Quintus Cicero (Brother of Tullius) whose Verses of the Twelve Signs are et extant in Pithœus his Collection. . Albinus not Aulus Posthumius, though oth indeed wrote the same subject, viz. he History of the Roman Affairs, but ulus in Greek Prose, the other in La- in Verse. 9. Caius Helvius Cinna, who rote an obscure Poem, Entitled Smyr- a, which the Grammarian Crassitius ndertook to interpret; besides which sidorus hath a Tetrastic of his, upon the vriting of Aratus his Poem in a leaf of allows. 10. Caius Licinius Calvus, f whom there is nothing remembred ut his Epigram upon Cn. Pompeius. 11. Macer (not Æmilius Macer the Bota- ic Poet) of whose Poem Entitled Ilia- a, see Scaliger upon Eusebius.

Decius Magnus Ausonius, a Physitian nd Poet of Burgedala, who flourisht in the

the time of the Emperour Valentinian the Elder, and his two Sons Gratianus and Valentinian the younger, by whom he was prefer'd to great honours, having been Præceptor to the two young Princes, besides those Poetical works of his which are extant; he wrote Fasti, and some other things which are lost.

Demetrius, a Satyric Poet of Tarsus, of an uncertain time, besides whom there were three others of the same name, the one a Comedian, sirnamed Phalereus (whether the Grammarian so sirnamed I find not) out of whose Fable Entitled Sicilia, Athenæus cites 4 Verses, the other an Epic, the last an Iambic writer.

Demochares, a Solian, whose Fable Entitled Demetrius is remembred by Plutarch in his Life of Demetrius Poliorcetes.

Democritus and Demodocus, two antient Epigrammatists, whose Names are preserv'd by several Epigrams yet extant in the Greek Anthologie.

Demolchus a Syracusian Comic Poet who flourisht in the 73*d*. Olympiad, and taught Fourteen Fables in the Doric tongue ongue; he was the Son of Epicharmus a Physician.

Demonax, an old Greek Poet quoted by Stobæus, in his Sermon de Superbia.

Democrates, an Athenian, whose Fable Entitled ὑφ' ἑαυτῶν πλουτοῦντες is remembred by Athenæus and Suidas.

Dieuxenes, a Tragedian and Dithyrambic Poet, remembred by Harpocration, Suidas and Stobæus.

Dinolochus, see Euripides.

Diocles, ibidem.

Diodorus, an old Greek Poet of Sinope, out of whom several Iambic verses, are quoted by Stobæus, in his Sermon de contrahendis Nuptiis and else-where; some think him to be the same with Diodorus a Comic Poet of Syene, whose Tibicina, Panegyrista and Epicleros, are cited by Athenæus, and who is also mentioned by Suidas.

Dionysiades, see Aeschylides.

Dionysiodorus, a Trœzenian, out of whom a Verse is cited by Plutarch, in the beginning of his Life of Aratus; he is also taken notice of by the Scholiast of Apollonius.

Diony-

Digitized by Google

Dionysius, sirnamed Epaites, an Elegiac writeer, out of whom Parthenius is said to have borrowed the 15*th*. History of his Erotica. Of this name there are several others, not to be forgot. The first and most considerable for a Poet, was Dionysius of Alexandria, vulgarly sirnamed Afer, whose Periegesis or description of the World in Greek Verse, is now in great esteem among the learned; there was also a Poem call'd Οφθαλμικὰ, written either by this or another Dionysius; he is thonght by Vossius to have lived about the time of Tiberius or not long after. Dionysius Phocæus, whom see in Gratinus; Dionysius Scytobrachion, whom see in Antipater, Dionysius, a Greec Hymnographer, but, of what age or sirname is not found (if he be not one of those above mentioned) of whom there are some few Hymns now extant, with the Musical notes to them, lately set forth, with the Edition of Aratus, Printed at the Sheldonian Theater at Oxford. Dionysius the Sicilian Tyrant, who is said to have written several Comedies and Tragedies, whereof his Adonis and Thesmophoros are cited cited by Athenæus. In his time lived Antipho a Rhamnusian, both Tragic and Comic Poet, mention'd with praise by Aristotle in his Poetics, and one of the Ten Oratours, whose lives are written by Plutarch and Philostratus; some say he was put to death by the Thirty Tyrants, others by Dionysius for deriding his Comedies. Also Sthenelus a Tragic Poet, remembred by Aristotle in his Poetics and Harpocration.

Dioscorides, an antient Greec Epigramatist, whose name is to very many Epigrams in the Greek Anthologie. As likewise

Diotimus. And also Diotiuchus.

Dioxippus, an Athenian Comedian, of whose writing there are remembred these Comedies, viz. his Philargyrus, Diadicazomenus, Historiographus and Antipornoboscі.

Diphilus, see Menander.

Domitius Marsus, see Publius Ovidius.

Dorcatius, a Latin Poet of an uncertain time, out of whom Isidorus, l. 8. Orig. l. 69. cites two Verses.

Doricus, otherwise Dorius, his Octo-

stich

stich upon Milo of Crotona, is cited by Athenæus, l. 10.

Dorillus, a Tragic Poet, remembred by Suidas.

Dorotheus, a Sidonian Poet, who wrote Apoteleſmata, which M. Manlius is said to have imitated; he is cited by Athenæus.

Dorus, a Greek Comic writer quoted by Stobæus.

Doſiades, a Rhodian, mentioned by Lucianus and the Scholiast of Simmias; he wrote a Poem called Ara, which was a certain number of Verſes in form of an Altar: but that Ara printed at the end of Theocritus is proved by Salmaſius who ſet forth Simmias his Ovum to have been neither written by Theocritus nor Doſiades.

Draco, the famouſly cruel Law-giver of the Athenians, he is ſaid to have written precepts of life in 3000 Verſes.

Dracontius, ſee Antigrammaratus.

Drepanius Florus, (doubtleſs not the ſame as Pacatus Drepanius, the Rhetorician) an eminent French Poet who liv'd in the time of Conſtantine Pogonatus and Clodoveus Secundus, King of France, his his Psalms; Hymns and other divine Poems are extant in the Book called Bibliotheca Patrum.

Dromo, a Comic Poet, whose Psaltria is quoted by Athenæus.

Dropides, see Epimenides.

Duris, an Epigrammatist of Elea, whose Epigram upon the deluge of Ephesus, is extant in the Florilegium of Planudes.

E

Ecdorus, an old Greek Poet out of whom several Iambic Verses are quoted by Stobæus in his Sermon de Ignobilitate.

Ecphantides, a Comic Poet, to whom one of the Cherili (but which of them is uncertain) was amanuensis in the writing of his Comedies, as is testified by Hesychius.

Egemon, see Hegemon.

Egnatius, a Deacon of Constantinople, who wrote in Verse the lives of two Patriarchs, Tarasius and Nicephorus; Iambics against Thomas Ancantes a grand Conspirator against the State, with some other things. Em-

Digitized by Google

Empedocles of Agrigentum, a writer of natural Philosophy in Heroic Verse, following therein Parmenides, whose Disciple he is said by some to have been, though by others the Disciple of Telauges the Son of Pythagoras, in the Collection of Philosophical poesie, set out by H. Stephanus, are certain fragments both of him and of Parmenides the Disciple of Xenophanes, besides which there is extant a small Astronomical Tract Entitled Empedocles his Sphæra; he began to flourish in the 48*th*. Olympiad, as the Anonymus Authour and Laertius testifie. At the same time with Empedocles flourisht Epicharmus a Sicilian also, and Physiological Poet, there being fragments of his among the rest in the above mentioned Collection; besides very many Fables of his which were in much request; many whereof are cited by Pollux and Athenæus, Likewise at the same time (besides Simonides the Son of the Lyric, to whom Vossius scruples to allow a place among the Poets) Archelaus an Athenean, some say a Milesian whom Giraldus will have to be a physiological Poet, though Vossius makes a Question.

En-

Digitized by Google

Endeleichus, otherwise called Severus Sanctus, a Rhetorician of an uncertain time, whose Eclogue about the death of Oxen, is extant in the Collection forth by Pithœus.

Ennodius, by Bernardus Saccus surnamed Juvenalis, and by some called Enodius, of whose writing certain Hymns, Panegyrics, Epigrams, &c. are set forth by Andreas Schottus.

Ephippus, see Theopompus.

Ephraem, one that wrote the History of the Constinople Emperours in Iambic Verse; he liv'd about the time of Michael Ducas.

Epicharmus, see Empedocles.

Epibycus, a Chian Poet of an uncertain time, taken notice of by Athenæus and Suidas.

Epicrates, see Theopompus.

Epigenes, a Comic Poet, of whom four Comedies are cited by Athenæus.

Epigonus, an Epigrammatist of Thessalonica, whose name is to several Epigrams in the Greec Anthologie.

Epilycus, an Athenian Comic Poet, whose Coraliscus and Phoraliscus are cited by Athenæus.

Digitized by Google

Epimenides, a Cretan, who is delivered by Suidas, to have written in Verſe Argonautics; alſo certain old heathen Rites called Expiationes, the Genealogie of the Gods, and of the Curetes, and Corybantes, & of the different nature of things, in 9500 Verſes; he was alſo a famous Philoſopher, & by Athenæus accounted the Authour of the Telchinian Hiſtory. He began to flouriſh about the 44*th*. Olympiad, and is by ſome reckoned among the Seven Wiſemen in the place of Periander. About the ſame time with Epemenides flouriſht 1*ſt*. Bias of Priene, one of thoſe Seven, accounted the Wiſe men of Greece, who is ſaid by Laertius to have written the affairs of Jonia in Verſe. 2 Solon, the great Lawgiver of Athens, whoſe life ſee in Plutarch and Laertius; he was very conſiderable in Poetry, and ſo was his Brother Dropides, though inferiour to him. 3 Chilo, another of the Seven, all that is remembred of him is an Elegy conſiſting of 200 Verſes. 4 Thales of Miletus, another of the Seven, who is ſaid to have written in verſe concerning Meteors and other things in natural Phi-

Digitized by Google

Philosophy. 5. Pittacus, Tyrant of Mitylene, whom see in Alcæus. 6. Periander, Tyrant of Corinth, another of the Seven, but of whose poetry I find little or nothing remembred. 7. Cherias of Orchomenus, who was a great enemy to the Tyrant Periander; certain Verses of his are cited by Pausanias in his Bœotics. 8. Thespis a Tragic Poet, as saith Laertius, though Suidas saith an Actor only, and that he first brought in the use of Vizards, whereas some there be who affirm him to have been the first of Tragœdians, others, that Epigenes of Sicyon was before him: 9. Mimnermus a Colophonian, some say Smyrnæan, whom Pausanias in his Bœotics affirms to have described in Elegiac verse a fight between the Smyrnæans and Lydians, under Gyges; he is also reckon'd among the Elegiacs by Censorinus; there are extant certain verses of his about the Climacteric year, in Opposition to Solon's opinion.

Epicus, a Comic Poet of an uncertain time, whose ὑποβαλομένη is cited by Athenæus.

Eratosthenes (the Son of Aglaus, some ſay Ambroſius) a Cyrenean, not only Philoſopher, Aſtronomer and Geometrician (whoſe Aſtriſmes, Epiſtle to Ptolomy about the duplication of the Cube, and ſome other fragments have been lately publiſht with Aratus from the Sheldonian Theater at Oxford) but (according to Suidas and Strabo) excellent Poet, contemporary with him (he living in the time of Philadelphus and his Succeſſour) and ſuccedent to him in the cuſtody of Ptolomies Library was Apollonius of Rhodes, who was the Diſciple of Callimachus, and whoſe Argonauticks we have extant ſet forth with a learned Scholiaſt, whom Stephanus calls Tarrhæus, another contemporary was Euphorion of Chalcis the Diſciple of Lacydas, he was Library-keeper to Antiochus Magnus, and wrote, as ſaith Suidas, ſeveral things in Heroic Verſe; his Works, as ſaith Suetonius, were in very much eſteem with Tiberius, as alſo thoſe of Rhianus, another of the ſame age, who is the ſame with the above-mention'd Arrianus.

Ericus or Hericus, a Poet of Altiſſiodorum or Auxerre, who liv'd in the tim-ime of the Emperour Charles the 3*d*. irnamed Craſſus; he wrote a Poem of he life of St. German which is yet extant.

Digitized by Google

Eriphus, a Comic writer among the Greecs, Three of whoſe Fables are quoted by Athenæus in his Dipnoſophiſt. .14.

Erycius, the Author of ſeveral Epigrams in the Greec Anthologie, and cited by the Commentatour of Apollonius.

Ethelwolphus Bernicius, ſirnamed Lunus an Engliſh Poet, who flouriſht in he Year of our Lord 750. being in the Reign of the Emperour Conſtantinus Copronymus, Pipin King of France, and Ethelwolph of Northumberland; he wrote a Poem of the Original of St. Peters Church in the Weſtern part of Northumberland, which Poem he dedicated to Biſhop Egbert.

Euages, a Greec Poet of an uncertain time, taken notice of by Dionyſius in his Hiſtory of Muſic; he was a perſon of little learning, being as ſome ſay bred up a ſhepherd, but very happy for his fancy and ingenuity.

Digitized by Google

Evangelus, a Comic Poet of an uncertain time, whose Fable ἀνακαλυπτομένη is cited by Suidas and Athenæus.

Evanthes, an Epic Poet of an uncertain time, out of whom Athenæus cites certain passages concerning Glaucus Anthedonius and of Ariadne.

Evax, a King of Arabia, who is said to have wrote a Book of precious stones in Verse.

Eubulus Cittius, see Anaxandrides.

Eudæmon, see Amphilochius.

Eudemus, a writer of several things in the art of Medicin in Greec verse, and therefore cited by Galen in his Second Book of Antidotes.

Eudoxus of Gnidus, see Careinus.

Eueclus, the esteemed writer of certain Verses called Cypria Carmina, by some attributed to Homer, before whom he is said to have been; he is quoted by Tatianus against the Gentiles by the name of Eumiclus, by Eusebius by the name of Euculus, and by Pausanias, by the name of Eucleon.

Euenus, an Elegiac Poet, who began to flourish in the first year of the Ninety first Olympiad, and was the Master of Philiſtus the Hiſtorian. There are extant of his certain Elegies cited by Stobæus; Six Epigrams, Two upon Venus of Gnidus, and one upon Myro's Cow, and Three others, beſides a Verſe cited by Ariſtotle.

of

Eugenes, an Epigrammatiſt, whoſe name is preſerv'd in the Greec Anthologie.

Euhemerus ſee Menander.

Eumelus, a very ancient Greec Poet, contemporary as ſome think with Heſiod.

Eumolpus, the ancienteſt of Greec Poets next to the ancient Orpheus, whoſe Diſciple he is delivered by Suidas to have been, & the Son of Muſæus, and to have written 3000 verſes, of which his Poem of the myſteries of Ceres chiefly conſiſted.

Euodus of Rhodes an Epic Poet in the time of Nero; but of his works which were in Latin Verſe there was nothing extant in the time of Suidas. There is alſo the name of Euodus to ſome Epigrams in the Greec Anthologie; Contemporary with him was Labeo, who is delivered by the old Commentator

Digitized by Google

upon Perſius, who mention'd him in th firſt Satyr, to have tranſlated into Lati verſe, though with little acuteneſs o judgement Homers Iliads and Odyſſeus alſo Antiſtius Soſianus who was baniſh for the Libels which he made in verſe a gainſt Nero.

Euphanes, an ancient Poet, out o whoſe Muſæ divers Senary Iambic ver ſes are cited by Athenæus.

Euphantus of Olynthus, ſee Philetas.

Euphorion, a Poet of Chalcis remem-bred by ſeveral poetical Works, as his Elegies, his Heſiodus, his Mopſopia or ἀπαντα, his Five Books of Oracles, his Epicedium upon Protogoras the Aſtronomer, &c. Certain verſes out of Euphorion, but whether this of Chalcis, or anothe the Son of Aeſchylus, is uncertain, for both are mention'd by Suidas, are quoted by Stobæus.

Euphron, a Comic Poet of an uncertain time, whoſe Muſæ, Synephebi, Th ori and Aeſchra are remembred by næus, Suidas, and Stobæus.

Euphronius, a Po time who is deli written of Pr

Digitized by Google

Eupolis a Comic Poet, who flouriſht with Ariſtophanes in the Eighty fifth Olympiad in the Fourth year whereof is ναυμνίοι were acted, as is teſtified by the Scholiaſt of Ariſtophanes.

Euripides, the Prince and Coriphæus of Greec Tragœdians, who was born in the Seventy fifth Olympiad (as Laertius, Suidas and Emanuel Moſcopulus teſtifie) the Son of Mneſarchus and Clito, the Nobility of whoſe birth Phiocherus vindicates againſt the common opinion of her being an Herb-Woman; he is ſaid to have been worried to death by the dogs of King Archelaus (to whoſe Court he betook himſelf upon the diſcontent of his Second Wife Cherila's adultery with Ctephiſophon) either by chance or ſet on by Lyſimachus Maſter of the Kings dogs, by the inſtigation of two envious poets Aribeus a Macedonian, and Crateuas a Theſſalonian, in the Seventy fifth year of his age, leaving behind him 3 Sons Mneſarchus, Mneſilochus and Euripides; And having flouriſht from the 77th. to the 92d. Olymp. equal with that other excellent Tragœdian Sophocles, who as Suidas and others affirm, was born in the Seven-third, and is said to have written 3 Tragedies (and to have been Vict. Twenty four times) of which 7 only a extant: as of Euripides his Ninety tw Tragedies, Eighteen are extant. Ther was also another Sophocles, the Grand-child of the former, who is said to hav written Fourty Tragedies, and to hav been Seven times Victor; much abou the same time with Euripides flourish 1st. Panyasis a Heroic poet, the Uncle or Cosin German of Herodotus; he was on of those Six, as saith the Interpreter o Oppian, who were call'd by way of Eminence the Poets; the other Five being Homerus, Expolis, Hesiodus, Antimachus and Nicander. 2d. Menalippides, a Lyric and Dithyrambic Writer, Sisters Son of another Menalippides, whom see in his proper place. 3d. Stesimbrotus, of whom, as also of Panyasis, Antimachus Clarius was a hearer. 4th. Hermippus, a one-ey'd Comedian who is delivered by Suidas to have written Fourty Fables several of which are remembred by Athenæus and Pollux; he was an enemy to Pericles (against whom he wrote Anapæstics) napæſtics) and to his Wife Aſpaſia, who was not only a Miſtreſs of Eloquence and general learning, but eminent alſo in Poetry. 5 Phrynichus, a writer of Vetus Comœdia, mentioned by Pauſanias and Hepheſtion; ſeveral Comedies of his are mention'd by Athenæus, Pollux, Harpocration, Suidas, and the Scholiaſt of Ariſtophanes. 6, 7 Lycus or Lycis and Amipſias (the laſt already mention'd) two Inſipid Poets derided by Ariſtophanes. 8, Theodectes, a kind of Tragœdian, ſince he is ſaid to have written the Arguments and firſt Delineations to many of, if not all Euripides his Tragedies. But there was another of the ſame name, whom ſee in Theopompus. 9. Nicomachus a Tragœdian alſo much celebrated for his Oedipus, and ſometimes Victor over Sophocles and Euripides themſelves, as Suidas teſtifies. 10. Theognis, a Comœdian, who from his frigidity or faintneſs of ſtyle, was ſirnamed χιὼν, i. e. Snow he contended with Nicomachus, and was vanquiſht by him, together with Euripides. 11. Philocles Comedian, Aeſchylus his ſiſters Son, he was derided for his deformity by Ariſtophanes.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

phanes in his Thesmophoriazusæ, his Tereus is mention'd by the Scholiast of Aristophanes, and by Stobæus; he had two Sons Morsimus and Philippides, of whom elsewhere. 12. Cephisodorus, an Athenian writer of Vetus Tragœdia, his Antilais, Amazones, Trophonius and Sus are remembred by Suidas; there are besides two others of the same name, who were also Historians. 13. Socrates, the Philosopher, who by his Hymn to Apollo, and his turning Æsops Fables into Verse (a little before his death) for which he is commended by Cebes in Plato, approv'd himself a Poet. 14. Diocles an Athenian writer of Vetus Comœdia, whose Melissæ and Thalatta are both mention'd (the first with particular commendation) by Athenæus and Pollux. 15. Sannyrio, or (as Giraldus calls him) Samyrion a writer of Vetus Comœdia, mentioned by Athenæus for his γέλως, by Suidas for his Δχνάη, ᾧ & λυχάσαι. He was for his slenderness of voice, nicknam'd Canabus by Strattis, 16 Philondes an Athenian Writer of old Comœdie remembred by Athenæus; he, having been formerly a Fuller, scapes not a jeer from

Aristo-

Digitized by Google

Phanes (no more than his son Nicochares) nevertheless his Cothurni is mentioned with commendation by Athenæus and Pollux. 17. Thearus, another Object of Aristophanes his laughter. 18. Strattis, a Comedian, of whose writing Casaubon upon Athenæus reckons 23 Comedies, whereas Suidas mistakes him for a Tragœdian, which gave occasion to Giraldus to mention another Strattis, he was of a biting wit, like Aristophanes. 19. Dinolochus, a Comic Poet of Agrigentum, who wrote Fourteen Fables in the Doric Dialect. 20. Philyllius, another writer of old Comedy, remembred by Athenæus and Pollux (as also another of the same name of an uncertain time, who wrote a Poem of Cities in Iambic Verse, and of whom Suidas also and Stephanus take notice) besides Empedocles, Parmenides, Epicharmus, Expolis, Euenus, Cratinus and several others.

Euschemus, an ancient Comic writer, out of whose Empolis divers Senary Iambic Verses, are cited by Athenæus in his 13th. Book.

Euthycles, a Poet of an uncertain time, time, who wrote two Poems Κόσμος & ἀτακλάντα the first of which is mentioned by Suidas.

Euthydemus, an Athenian of an uncertain time, who set forth some things of his own, under Hesiod's name.

Eutyches, a Comic writer, one of the most copious among the Greeks, of whose many Comedies, the names are to be found in Athenæus, and Raphael Volaterranus.

Ezechiel, a Jew, whose Tragedie of Moses, Entitled Ἐξαγωγὴ is extant with a Latin Translation set forth by Fridericus Morellus.

F

Fabius Dorsennus, or Dossennus an ancient Latin Comic Poet, though of what time is not known; he is remembred by Horace. l. 1. Epist. by Pliny. l. 14. c. 13. and by Festus in the word Temetum.

Fabius Planciades Fulgentius, see Curiatius.

Facetus, a Latin Poet, who flourisht since the time of Charles the Great, but in what particular age is unknown to Girol-

Digitized by Google

Giraldus, who makes mention of him.

Fannius, see Publius Ovidius.

Fastus, see Curiatius.

Ferius Hilpericus, see Paulus Diaconus.

Flavius, see Claudius Claudianus.

Floretus, one of the uncertain ag'd Poets, mentioned by Giraldus; some have thought him to be the same with St. Bernard, Abbot of Claræval.

Florus, a Latin Poet, who flouriſht in the time of the Emperour Adrian; whether the ſame with that Florus mentioned by Polianus among the Greec Epigrammatiſts is uncertain, but there are beſides Three others differenc'd by their Prænomina, viz. Caius Florus already mention'd, Julius and Paulus.

Fontianus, an ancient Latin Poet, whoſe deſcription of the Roman Provinces in verſe, ſeems by an Epiſtle of Beatus Rhenanus to have been in the hands of Philippus Pucheimerus.

Fortunatus, an ancient Biſhop of Poitou, who liv'd in the time of Juſtinus junior, to whom he dedicated a Book of his Poems, and another to the Empreſs Sophia.

Ful-

Digitized by Google

Fulpertus, a Gallic Bishop, who flouriſht about the Year of our Lord 1010. among other things he wrote divers Hymns in honour of the B. Virgin.

G

Gallienus, ſee Cæcilius Cyprianus.
Gallus Milo, ſee Theodulphus.

Gamphredus, one of the uncertain ag'd Poets, mention'd by Giraldus.

Gannius, a Latin Poet, who liv'd before the time of Charles the Great, but in what age is uncertain. Several of his verſes are cited by Feſtus in the word Adoris.

Geminus, an ancient Epigrammatiſt, ſeveral of whoſe Epigrams are extant in the Greec Anthology.

Georgius Piſides, Dean of Conſtantinople, and Keeper of the Emperours papers and Records, as Suidas and Nicephorus teſtifie; he wrote a Poem of vanity, and alſo of the ſix days work of Creation, a good part is yet extant, and of that which is loſt, ſome fragments are cited by Suidas, Cedrenus and Niceta, beſides ſome other things of his writing, ting, mentioned by Suidas.

Digitized by Google

Gerbertus, a French-man, brought up in the Abby of Floriac, and for his great proficiency in the Mathematicks (for which he was by some accounted a Magitian) and other learning prefer'd to be Bishop of Rhemes, afterwards Arch-Bishop of Ravenna, and lastly Pope of Rome, by the Title of Sylvester the Second. He is noted for an Elegant Writer of Latin Verse, from his Poem in Laudem Boethii, of which there is a fragment in the Parisian Collection, Entitled Epigrammata and Poematia vetera; also several verses of his are selected by Brietius.

Germanicus, see Aelius Saturninus.

Gildas, an ancient British Authour sirnamed Cambrius, to distinguish him from two others; for Joannes Baleus, in his Scriptores Anglici, names three, viz. Cambrius a Native of Cambria, or Wales; Albanius, and Badonicus; but Cambrius (the ancientest of the Three, for he flourisht in the Sixtieth year, from our Saviours Nativity, under the Reign of Arviragus King of Britain, according to Ponticus Virunnius) chiefly for Poetry, try, his Cambreidos being remembred by the forementioned Baleus, besides Epigrams and other Poems of various argument; however Badonicus so call'd from Badonia or Bath, the place of his Nativity, Besides his Epistle of the Conquest of Brittain, is said to have written some things in Verse; and there are who think him to have been the Authour of the Comedy Aulularia or Querolus, vulgarly ascribed to Plautus, which Vossius thinks to have been written by neither of them, but by an unknown Authour.

Digitized by Google

Gitiadas, a Lacedæmonian, who having made the Statue of Pallas Chalciœca, compos'd a Hymn, which was to be sung yearly by the Lacedæmonians at the Anniversary of that Goddess; also several Odes in the Doric Dialect.

Godebertus, a Presbyter, who flourishing in the Year 500 wrote in Heroic Verse Historical passages from the beginning to the birth of Christ.

Gordianus, one of the Cæsars, or rather the Father of him who was afterwards Emperour; he wrote, as saith Capitolinus, a Poem Entitled Antonini-

as,

Digitized by Google

as or the lives of the two Antonines Pius and Marcus Emperours.

Gracchus, see Anser.

Gratius, see Publius Ovidius.

Gregorius Nazianzenus, one of most eminent of the Greec Fathers, who besides his very many Volumes in Prose, wrote also several things in Verse, as his Poem in Hexameter, containing a Dialogue between Virginity and Marriage. The praise of the Macchabees, and of Maximus the Philosopher, with other things.

H

Hecataeus, an Epigrammatist of Thasus, who makes one among the rest in the Greec Anthologie.

Hedylogus a Samian, or as some say Athenian Poet, of whose writing several Epigrams are cited by Athenaeus, he was the Son of Hedyle a Samian Poetess.

Hedylus, a noted Epigrammatist, cited by Athenaeus in several places, and it is probably the same Hedylus whose name is to several Epigrams in the Greec Anthologie. He-

Digitized by Google

Hegesinon, an Alexandrian Epic Poet, whose Description of the Battel of Leuctra is cited by Stephanus, and out of whose Dardanics (if it were the same Hegemon that wrote them) Aelian cites several passages: there was also another of the same name a Thasian sirnamed Φακη, i. e. a Lentil; he wrote a Poem Entitle Gigantomachia, a Comedie call'd Philinna, as also several Inscriptions and Impresa's in Verse: he is mention'd by Aristotle.

Hegesianax, or as some call him, Agesianax, a writer of Mythologie in verse, as Hyginus testifies, certain of whose verses are cited by Plutarch in his discourse of the apparition in the Moon.

Hegesilaus, a Comic Poet, whose Fables are mentioned by Tatianus, in his Book against the Greecs.

Hegesinus, a famous Greec Poet, out of whom divers Verses are cited by Pausanias in his Bœotics.

Hegesippus, a Comic Poet of Tarentum, whose Adelphi, Opsartica and Phileteri, are cited by Athenæus; Suidas sirnames him Crobylus, and ascribes to him the Seventh Philippic Oration, commonly monly aſcrib'd to Demoſthenes, as others do the Oration for Haloneſus. There are alſo ſeveral Epigrams of his in the Greec Anthologie.

Digitized by Google

Hegias, a Poet of an uncertain time made mention of by Pauſanias.

Heliodorus, a Medicinal Writer in Verſe, out of whom ſeveral verſes are cited by Galen, whether the ſame Heliodorus, out of whoſe Poem de Spectaculis Italicis, Stobæus cites ſeveral Verſes in his Sermon de morbis, may be quæried.

Hemitheon, a Obſcene Poet of Sybaris, who liv'd in the time of Auguſtus; he is mention'd by Philo Lucian. Ovid. l. 11. de triſtibus and Martial.

Heniochus, a writer of Media Comœdia, whoſe Fables are reckoned up by Suidas; he is alſo mentioned by Athenæus and Theophilus.

Heraclides, ſirnamed Poeticus, to diſtinguiſh him from Heraclides Ponticus the Grammarian (who alſo is ſaid to have written ſeveral Tragedies which go under the name of Theſpis) a writer of Sentences and Precepts in Verſe, beſides whom there was alſo an Epigrammatiſt matist of the same name remembred by Laertius.

Heraclitus, a Lyric Poet, whose Poem of the Twelve Gods is mention'd by Laertius. Of those of the same name, that famous Philosopher of Ephesus, is also reckon'd among the Poets, besides him of Halicarnassus; whom see in Callimachus.

Hermesianax, an Elegiac Poet of Colephon, whose Poem of the Description of his own Country, is remembred by Pausanias, besides whom there was also another of the same name who wrote a Poem of the Persian Affairs.

Hermippus, see Euripides.

Hermocreon, the Authour of several Epigrams which are extant in the Greec Anthologie.

Hermodorus, or Hermeodorus another Epigrammatist of the same society.

Hermodotus, see Menander.

Herodes, an Iambic writer quoted by Stobæus.

Herodicus, a Babylonian, of whose Verses against the Grammarians, divers are repeated by Athenæus at the end of the Fifth Book of his Deipnosophists.

Hesiodus

Digitized by Google

Hesiodus so nam'd, περὶ τὸν ᾠδὴν from the chastity of his Poetry, an ancient Greec Poet sirnamed Ascræus from Ascra, a Town in Bœotia, the place not of his birth (as hath been generally supposs'd) but of his Education according to Herodotus, Strabo, Stephanus and Valerius Probus; for he was born at Cuma in Aeolia, the Son of Dius and Pycimede, he is affirmed by Philostratus, Velleius Paterculus, and M. Varro contrary to the Opinion of Porphyrius and Solinus (the First of whom sets him 100. the other 130 years after) Contemporary with Homer, which opinion is confirmed by an Epigram of Dion, and the Discourse in the 5*th*. Book of Plutarch's Sympostaca, which makes out that Homer and He contended at the Exequies of Oelycus the Thessalian, and Amphidamas of Chalcis: some say Stesichorus the Poet was his Son by Ctemene the Daughter of Physigæus, others that Ctemene was not his Wife, but deflowr'd by him, for which he was slain at Oenone by her Brothers Ampiphanes and Ganetor; however it were, it is agreed by all, though differently related by Pausanias, Thu-

Thucydides and Plutarch; his several Works are reckoned up in all Fourteen, as well extant as not extant, in a Catalogue, which is inserted in Daniel Heinsius his Edition of this Poet. his Extant works are a Poem Entitled Ἔργα καὶ ἡμέραι (which containeth certain rules and precepts of husbandry) another call'd θεογονία or the Generation of the Gods, a third Ἀσπὶς Ἡρακλέους or the shield of Hercules, Besides some fragments of another Poem which is not intirely extant, Entituled ἠοῖαι μέγαλαι, but neither Ἀσπὶς nor ἠοῖαι are judg'd by Scaliger to have been written by Hesiod, but some other ancient poet, whose name is unknown

Hetruscus Messenius, an old Epigrammatist, whose name lives only in the Greek Anthologie.

Hiero Ferreus, an Athenian, whose Poems were extant in Plutarchs time, as he testifies in his Nicias.

Hilarius, a Bishop of Poriton, who flourisht in the time of Constantius the son of Constantine, he is celebrated by Isidorus for the Hymns he wrote among which three that bear his name are yet extant extant; about the same time Marius Victorius taught Rhetoric at Rome, and was St. Jerome's Master in that Art; he wrote a Poem in Heroic verse concerning the Seven Maccabæan Brethren martyr'd with their Mother by Antiochus Epiphanes. See more of him in Hieronymus de viris Illustribus.

Hilasius, a Poetical writer of an uncertain age, but not very ancient; of whose Verses upon Virgil and some other subjects, some Remains are extant in Brietius, and the Parisian Collection, Entitled Epigrammata & Poematia Vetera: he is one of the Twelve, sirnamed the Grammatic or Scholastic Poets.

Hildephonsus, otherwise call'd Ildephonsus or Alphonsus, a Bishop of Toledo who flourisht in the time of Heraclius and his children, as also of Pope Honorius (to whom are attributed Twelve Distichs concerning Christs ascention and the Apostles looking on; Extant in the Book call'd Bibliotheca Patrum) he wrote several Hymns, Epitaphs and Epigrams, and is thought to have been the first Institutour of the B. Virgins Conception; he died Anno 667.

Digitized by Google

Hincmarus, sirnamed Senior, (to distinguish him from his Grand-child Hincmarus Bishop of Laudunum) an Arch-Bishop of Rhemes created in the Year of our Lord 845. whose Vein in Latin Poetry what it was, appears by a fragment thereof collected by Jacobus Sirmondus.

Hipparchus, a Greec writer of Vetus Comedia, mention'd by Suidas, and whose Ilias Aegyptia, Thais and Anasozomene (if it be the same Hipparchus as probably it is) are quoted by Athenaus; also four Senary Iambics are repeated by Stobaeus in his Sermon pro Artibus out of his Zographus.

Hippicus the same with Ibycus.

Hipponax, see Xenophanes.

Hipposthenes, an Iambic Poet, quoted by Stobaeus.

Hippothoon, another whose Senary Iambics upon envie, are alleag'd by the same Authour, in his Sermon upon the same Subject.

Hippothoos, an old Greec Poet of little fame, but for the same Stobaeus, who sometimes quotes his verses.

Hipys, see Xenophanes.

Hon

Digitized by Google

Homerus, the Appositious, rather then true name (which was Melesigenes) of the most renowned of Greec Heroic Poets, and as is most generally alleag'd, the ancienteſt of thoſe of whoſe works we have any intirely extant, as we have his 2. Heroic Poems, Ilias and Odyſſeus, the firſt deſcribing the Trojan War for the firſt nine years; the other, the wandring life of Ulisſes after the taking of Troy; not to mention his Hymns, his Batrachomyomachia and other ſmall poems beſides which he wrote many other things which are not extant. See Melesigenes.

Homerus junior, ſee Acantides.

Homerus Sellius, a writer of Arguments in verſe, upon the Comedies of Menander.

Hoſtilius, a Latin Poet who wrote the Roman Annales in Verſe, out of whom one Verſe is cited by Priſcian in his ſixth Book, there was alſo of the ſame name a Mimographer, remembred by Tertullian, in the 15*th*. Chapter of his Apologetics.

Haſtius, a writer of the Iſtrian War in Latin verſe; which work ſome impute to Hoſtilius probably upon a miſtake of one for the other.

Digitized by Google

Hugobaldus, ſee Theodulphus.

Hyperochus, a Poet of Cuma, whoſe Hiſtory of his own Country in Verſe is remembred by Athenæus and Pauſanias.

I

Ibycus, a Poet of Rhegium of an uncertain age. See alſo in Xenophanes.

Idæus, ſirnamed Rhodius from his Country, the ſon of Iſſus an Epic Poet, who doubled all Homers works by inſerting his own Verſes line for line, yet keeping the ſenſe; he alſo wrote the Affairs of Rhodes in 3000 verſes, as Suidas teſtifies.

Joannes Babucalus, an Epigrammatic Poet, whoſe Epigram upon the burning of Beritus and ſeveral others, are extant in the Greec Florilegium.

Joannes Damaſcenus, a writer in the time of Leo Iſaurus and Conſtantine Copronymus, who beſides ſeveral things which he wrote in Proſe which are yet extant, wrote alſo a Dramatic Poem

S

Digitized by Google

Susanna remembred by Eustathius upon Dionysius Afer, but not now extant; about the same time liv'd Cosmas of Jerusalem sirnamed Hagiopolites, Bishop of Maiuma; he wrote Thirteen Hymns which translated into Latin are extant in the Bibliotheca Patrum heretofore mentioned.

Joannes Geometra, a Constantinopolitan Poet, whose Paradise or Garden of moral Tetrastich Epigrams, and his five Hymns upon th Blessed Virgin, were set forth by Federic Morellus at Paris, Ann. 595.

Joannes Nantuillensis, an English-man who wrote a Poem called Archithemium, remembred by Giraldus.

Joannes Psellus, wrote in Greec verse upon the three antient Greec Fathers t. Chrysostome, St. Gregory, St. Basil, nd also upon the seven last Synods.

Jon, a Tragic Poet of Chios, who rote many Tragedies (some say 12. me 30. some more) he is mentioned Athenæus, and his Epigram of Phecides, cited by Laertius in the life of at Philosopher; he is by Aristophanes his ὑεώτερον sirnamed Ἀόϊος or Early.

Digitized by Google

rius already mentioned, Maximianus, Vitalis, Basilius, Asmenus, Vomanus, Euphorbus, Palladius, Asclepiadeus, Eusthenius, Pompeianus; though there are who think Julianus and some other of these Names to be but fictitious, and set to some of the Verses to fill up the number and make the Certamen the more pompous.

Julius Curiatius Maternus, a Latin Tragœdian, whose Medea, Thiestes and Cato are mentioned by Cornelius Tacitus in his Dialogue de Oratoribus. See Curiatius

Julius Diocles, an Epigrammatic Poet, of whom yet there is nothing preserved but an Epigram or two in the Greec Anthologie.

Julius Cæsar, see Caius.

Julius Florus, see Florus,

Julius Montanus, see Publius Ovidius.

Julius Paulus, an antient Latin Poet mentioned with particular commendation by Agellius; he flourisht in the time of the Emperours Adrian and Antoninus Pius.

Julius Pomponius Secundus, a Tragic Poet, mentioned by Quintilian, besides whom whom there was another Pomponius Secundus a Comic writer heretofore mentioned.

Junius Juvenalis, a most elegant Latin Satyrist (as appears by his Sixteen extant Satyrs) of Aquinum, a Town of the Volsci; he flourisht in the time of the Emperour Domitian.

Juvencus, see Rhemnius Fannius.

Juventius, an ancient Comic Poet, but of an uncertain age, mentioned by Varro and Agellius.

L.

Labeo, a Latin Poet, of whom Fulgentius in his Mythologie makes mention.

Lactantius Firmianus, see Rhemnius.

Lælius (otherwise Lavius being probably judged the same person) a Poet of an uncertain time, though sufficiently ancient; he wrote a Poem called Erotopægnia or amorous Sports; and if he were the same with Lævius, as is not to be doubted) another Entitled Centauri.

Lamprocles, a Dithyrambic writer, cited by Athenæus.

Digitized by Google

Lamynthius, a Milesian Elegiac Poet, whose Poem upon his Lyde, in various kind of Verse, is mentioned by Athenæus.

Largus, a Latin Poet Contemporary with Ovid, who makes mention of him, with reference to something he wrote of Antenor.

Lasus Hermioneus, see Onomacritus.

Latronianus, a Spaniard, very much commended by St. Jerome for his excellent Genius in Poetry; he was put to death as the same Authour testifieth, at Triers, by Maximus the Emperour, upon pretence of Heresie, together with Brisilianus, who was his Colleague, Felicissimus and others.

Laureas Tullius, the Freed-man of Marcus Tullius; there are said be extant of his composing several Greec Epigrams; that upon the Fountains of Cicero's Accademy is cited by Pliny in his natural History.

Lentulus, a Mimic writer mention'd with commendation by Tertullian, and associated with Hostilius.

Leonides, see Peritus.

Leontius, a Tragic Poet of Argos, of an uncertain time but among the Anci-

Lesches.

Leſches, or Leſchides a Lesbian, whoſe Poem Entitled Ilias parva is mention'd by Euſebius; out of this Poem Pindarus is obſerved by his own Interpreters to have borrow'd: contemprorary with him was Alcmæon, whom ſome think to be the ſame with Aleman the Lyric. Suidas mentions among the Poets one Leſchides who fought under King Eumenes.

Leuceas, an ancient Poet of Argos whom Pauſanias teſtifies to have written of the manners and cuſtomes of Nations in Verſe.

Leucon, a Comic Writer, whoſe Fable Phrateres is mentioned by Athenæus.

Liberius and Beliſarius, Two, but very indifferent Poets according to the account of Brietius, however mentioned for their Achroſtichis upon Sedulius, and thought by Labbeus to have written in the Year of our Lord 462.

Licentius, an African Poet born at Hippo, ſee Claudius Clandianus.

Licinianus, ſee Curiatius Maternus.

Licinius Imbrex, ſee Publius Licinius Tegula.

Licymnius a Chian, remembred by Athenæus,

Athenæus, and by Parthenius in his Erotics, ſtyled Melopoios.

Lygurinus, ſee Curiatius Maternus.

Linus, a Poet and Philoſopher ſo ancient, that according to the Poetical Mythology; he is ſaid to have been the Son of Apollo and Pſammata the daughter of Crotopus, King of the Argives, & to have taught Hercules Muſick, Poetry, and other Arts, and to have been the inventour of Lyric Poeſie. Of this Linus, or which is moſt probable, a younger Linus a Theban, for ſuch a one Suidas mentions, Ten Verſes are cited by Stobæus, in his Sermon de prudentia, and a Diſtich, in his Sermon De Spe.

Livius Andronicus, a Roman Comedian, who flouriſht immediately after the firſt Punic War, being about the beginning of the 135*th*. Olympiad, he is ſaid to have been the firſt Authour of Latin Fable or Comedie, the next after whom was Cnæus Nævius, who alſo wrote a Hiſtory of the firſt Punic War, wherein he himſelf had been preſent.

Lucius Accius, ſee Accius, and alſo Statius Cæcilius.

Lucius Affranius, a Latin Comic Poet,

Digitized by Google

Poet, of whose writing there are quoted Fourteen Comedies, his Æquales, Brundusini, Cinerarius, Consobrini, Deditio, Emancipatus, Materteræ, Pantaleo, Pompa, Repudiatus, Sorores, Talio, Temerarius, Vopiscus.

Lucius Annæus Seneca, a Corduban, both Philosopher and Poet, and Uncle of Lucan; there are several Tragedies which go under his name, whereof Medea, and some others are generally believed not to be his, if the rest or part of the rest be.

Lucius Cœlius Lactantius Firmianus, see Rhemnius.

Lucius Cornelius Sylla, see Sylla.

Lucius Domitius Nero, see Nero.

Lucius Julius Calidius, a Roman Poet, made mention of by Cornelius Nepos in his life of Pomponius Atticus, as the next for elegancy after Lucretius and Catullus.

Lucius Junius Moderatus Columella, a Gaditan, who flourisht under the Roman Emperour Claudius, and wrote his Tenth Book de Re Rustica (which whole work is commonly put forth with Cato, Varro and other Latin Authours of that subject) ſubject) inſcribed Horrus in no unelegant Verſe, conſidering the nature of the Work.

Lucius Luſcius, ſee Statius Cæcilius.

Lucius Feneſtella, an ancient writer reckoned in the number of Poets by ſome, though with little ground in the opinion of Voſſius.

Lucius Paulus Paſſienus, ſee Curiatius Maternus.

Lucius Plotius, a favourite of C. Marius, whoſe Acts he celebrated in Verſe.

Lucius Pompeius, perhaps the ſame with Pomponius Secundus.

Lucius Varius, ſee Publius Ovidius.

Lucullus, a Satyriſt of Arunca, who is ſaid to have writ 30 Books of Satyrs, and to have been the firſt of the Latins in that kind of Poetry.

Lycon, an ancient Poet, but of an uncertain time, who according to Pauſanias, wrote the Lycian Myſteries in Verſe.

Lycon, a Jaſonian, whoſe Poem upon Pythagoras is cited by Athenæus. See alſo in Alexis.

Lycophron, ſee Cleanthes.

Lycus

Digitized by Google

Lycus or Lycis, see Euripides.

Lydius Cattus, a Poet of Ravenna, but of what age is uncertain, some Poems of his are said to have been Printed at Rome.

Lysimachus, a Comedian of Beotia, remembred by Lucian.

Lysippus, a Tragic Poet remembred by Athenæus and Suidas for his Bacchæ and Thyrsocomos.

Lysis, a Tarentin, both Philosopher and Poet; he was of the Sect of Pythagoras, and had the education of that famous Theban Captain Epaminondas; his also Laertius affirms those golden Verses to be, which go under the name of Pythagoras.

M

Macedonius Hypatus, an Epigrammatist, of whom there are divers Epigrams to be found in the Greec Anthologie.

Macho, a Sicyonian, or as some say a Corinthian, remembred by Athenæus.

Marcius, or Mæcius, see Quintus.

Magnus, an Athenian writer of antiqua.

Digitized by Google

qua Comœdia; he is remembred by Aristophanes, in his Equites, and by Julius Pollux, Suidas, and Athenæus, who quotes two of his Comedies which are haply those two of the Nine which he wrote in which Raphael Volaterranus mentions him to have been Victor in the Olympic Games.

Magnetius Rabanus Maurus, see Theodulphus

Majoranus Salentinus his Epitaphs upon Bessarion and Argyropolus are to be read in the Icones of Paulus Jovius.

Manethos, a Mendesian or of Diospolis, testified by Suidas to have written certain things of natural Philosophy and Astronomy in Verse.

Marcus Manilius, see Publius Ovidius.

Marachus, otherwise called Malachus an ancient Poet (but of an uncertain time) of Syracuse mentioned by Aristotle.

Marcellus, sirnamed Sidites from Side a City of Pamphylia; a Poet who flouriſht in the time of the Emperour M. Antoninus, as Suidas testifies, and wrote the whole Art of Medicin in Heroic

Digitized by Google

Heroic Verse in 42. Books, of which work we have extant a small remnant of his Ἰατρικὰ περὶ ἰχθύων or Book of the Medicinal use of Fishes. There is also mentiond flourishing in the time of Theodosius Senior, Marcellus, who is said to have writ in Verse de Medicina, and therefore haply by those that consider not the distance of time, may be mistaken for the other.

Marcus Accius Plautus, see Statius Cæcilius.

Marcus Accuticus, see Statius Cæcilius.

Marcus Æmilius Scaurus, the Authour of a Tragedy Entitled Atreus, for which he was put to death by the Emperour Tiberius.

Marcus Annæus Lucanus a Corduban Poet, and the Nephew of Seneca, his Poem Entitled Pharsalia, wherein he is said to have been assisted by his Wife Polla Argentaria, is extant and in sufficient esteem.

Marcus Argentarius, an ancient Epigrammatist, whose name is subscribed to divers Epigrams in the Greec Anthology.

Marcus

Marcus Attilius, a Tragic writer stil'd by Cicero, Poeta durissimus; by Licinius Scriptor ferreus, he Translated into Latin Sophocles his Electra.

Marcus Aurelius Olympius Nemesianus, a Carthaginian, whose Cynegetics or Poem of Hunting, together with 4. Eglogues of his, are mentioned by Flavius Vopiscus, beside a fragment of his which was by Sanazarius shewed to Giraldus; he lived in the time of the Emperour Carus, & had Eglogues written to him from Calphurnius Siculus.

Marcus Bavius, a Poet mentioned by Virgil in his Eglogues.

Marcus a Benedictin Monk in the time of Justinus Thrax, who wrote in Verse Hexameter the life of St. Benedict, whose Disciple he was.

Marcus Felix Ennodius, a Native of Arles, some say Milan; he flourisht under Theodoricus King of Italy (by whom he was made Bishop of Ticinum) and Anastasius the Emperour, to whom he was sent Embassadour, and died in the year of our Lord 521. He was accounted for those times a very Ingenious ous Poet, and of his Poetry some small fragments are to be seen in Brietius his Acute Dicta.

Digitized by Google

Marcus Furius Bibaculus, one of the Catalogue of Suetonius his famous Grammarians, but placed by Crinitus and Giraldus among the Poets.

Marcus Marullus, a Mimic writer in the time of the Emperour M. Antonius, he is mentioned by Capitolinus.

Marcus, a Bishop of Hydrunt, who wrote an Acrostic Hymn upon the Sabbath, the Latin Version whereof is extant in the Bibliotheca Patrum.

Marcus Junior, alias Pompeius, an antient Epigrammatist, of whom there is extant an Hexastich, in the first Book of the Greek Anthologie.

Marcus Pacuvius, see Statius Cæcilius.

Marcus Popilius, see Publius Terentius.

Marcus Terentius Varro, a no less learned than elegant ancient Latin writer, famously known by his Books, de Re Rustica, which are published together with Cato and the other ancient Writers of that Subject, besides which and his his Book de Lingua Latina, and also his Satyræ Minippeæ, he wrote also several other works in Prose which are lost, and something in Verse, whereof some small fragments are seen in the Parisian Collection Entitled Epigrammata & Poëmatia Vetera, & Brietius his Acute Dicta. He is highly extoll'd by Cicero in his Tusculan Questions, also by Terentianus Maurus, Lactantius Firmianus, and Dionysius Halicarnassæus. See also Decius Laberius.

Marcus Tullius Cicero, the most eloquent of Latin Orators, and moreover the Authour of several Poetical works, as his three Books of his Consulship in Heroic Verse; his Poem or Epistle to Cæsar, besides his Translation of Aratus his Phænomena, and Dioscmeia into Latin Verse.

Marcus Valerius Martialis, see Statius.

Marcus Valerius Phocas, an Illustrious Grammarian, as Aulus Gellius stiles him, of Berytus in Phœnicia, who from a Centurions Office in the Roman service betook himself to Letters, as Suetonius testifies, from whom and from Eusebius his Chronicle he appears to have flourisht in the time of Nero. Of his life

of

Digitized by Google

of Virgil, which he wrote in Latin Verſe, ſome fragments are extant in the above mentioned Pariſian Collection, and in Brietius.

Marcus Unicus, ſee Curiatius Maternus.

Marianus, ſee Chriſtodorus.

Marinus, a Neapolitan Philoſopher, and Rhetorician, the Diſciple and ſucceſſour of Proclus, whoſe life he wrote in Verſe.

Marius, ſee Publius Ovidius.

Marius Victorinus, ſee Hilarius.

Marſus, an old Latin Poet, cited by Pliny in his 33*d*. and 34*th*. Book of his natural Hiſtory.

Martianus Mineus Fœlix Capella, an African, who is judged by Schœnerus and others to have liv d about the time of the Emperour Mauritius; he wrote (beſides his Book of the Nuptials of Mercury and the Arts, which is extant) Satyrica, a work mixt of Proſe and Verſe together; he is mentioned by Severinus Boethius, and divers learned men of the Moderns.

Matro, one of the uncertain ag'd Poets; a little Poem of whoſe not altogether

Digitized by Google

ther unelegant, is to be seen in Athenæus.

Maximianus, a Roman Emperour, some of whose Poetry is cited in the fragments of the Gregorian Codex.

Melanopus, an ancient Poet of Cumæ remembred by Pausanias in his Eliaca.

Melanthius and Melitus, see Oenomaus,

Meleager, a Gadaren, whose Charites is cited by Athenæus, whether the same with that Meleager, of whom there are several Epigrams in Planudes his Florilegium, is uncertain.

Melesigenes, that most renowned of Greec Heroic Poets, commonly known by the name of Homerus from his blindness; not that he was born blind, but fell blind by an accident while he resided at Smyrna, in the Dialect of which Country at that time blind people were stiled ὁμηροὶ, or else ἀπὸ τὸ ὁμηρεύειν i. e. to follow, because when the strangers were warned out of that City, he followed among the rest. He was called Melesigenes, as born upon the banks of the River Meles of Critheis (the daughter of Menalopus) who is generally agreed greed on to have been his mother; but who his father was, is more controverted; since Critheis is said to have been charg'd by her Guardian Cleonax of not coming fairly by her great belly: but this imputation of his spurious birth is remov'd by those that affirm Critheis married to Mæon, from whom (whether he were her fathers brother, to whose charge she was committed, as saith Aristotle, or a King of Lydia, to whom she was presented by Pyrates, as saith Plutarch,) he was called Mæonides; he flourisht as Suidas testifies before the first Olympiad 57 years, but as Porphyrius 130. Cicero in his Tusculan questions will have him contemporary with Lycurgus; besides his two grand Poems Ilias and Odysseus, and other works already mentioned. Very many of his Verses upon several accidents and occasions are to be found in Herodotus his life of this famous Poet, Menalippides, a Dithyrambic Poet of Melos, the Son of Crito, he flourisht as saith Suidas about the 65*th*. Olympiad, and wrote several things in Heroic verse besides Elegies and Epigrams, he is by some some confounded with another Menalippides, a Milesian, of whom already in Euripides.

Digitized by Google

Menander an Athenian, the Son of Diopithes, and Disciple of Theophrastus, he was the Prince and first Author of Nova Comœdia, and is said to have written 108 Fables, and in 8 of them to have been Victor; very many of his Comedies are remembred by Athenæus, Pollux, Pliny, Stobæus, Sidonius Apollinaris, and others; he began to flourish about the 114*th* Olymyiad, Ptolomæus Lagides then reigning. Of those 27 Comedies of his, said by Michael Neander, to have been extant in some Library at Constantinople, I find no certain proof; contemporary with him, and a Writer also as some say, of Nova Comœdia, was Phileman the Son of Damon; he is said, in contest with Menander, to have had several times the better; his ἔμπορος is thought to have been imitated by Plautus in his Mercator. Some other Comedies of his are also mention'd by Athenæus and Pollux: He wrote also ὁ ἀφετοὺς, but probably not in Verse. Stobæus also quotes quotes divers Senary Iambics out of Philemon, but 'tis uncertain whether this Philemon or his Son of the same name, of whose writing Suidas saith there were 54 Fables. Of the same time also was 2. Euhemerus, who wrote (but whether in Verse is doubted) a History of the Ethnic Gods which Ennius translated; he is reckoned among the Elegiacs by Censorinus. 3. Simmias the Rhodian, who besides his Ovum already mentioned, wrote a little Poem Entitled πέλεκυς or the hatchet. 3. Posidippus Cassandrius, the Son of Cyniscus, who succeeded Menander in Nova Comœdia; his Fables as saith Suidas, were Thirty, among which was his Pomoboscus. Some fragments of him are to be found in the common Edition of the Poetæ Minores; there was besides him another of the same name an Epigrammatist. 4. Diphilus of Sinope, out of whose Synapothnescontes Plautus is thought to have borrowed. Of 100. Comedies he is said to have written 33. are named by Athenæus; he is also quoted by Pollux, Stobæus and Clemens Alexandrinus, by whom as also by Eusebi-

Digitized by Google

us, he is called καμμιάτοτατος καὶ γελωτικώτατος. 5. Rhinton of Tarentum a Potters Son, who wrote Thirty eight Tragi-Comedies; whereof his ἱλαροτραγῳδία was one. 6. Sophilus a Comic Poet, some say of Sicyon, some of Thebes, out of his Γάμοι an Iambic verse is cited by Laertius in Stilpo. 7. Stephanus the Son of Alexis, who is said to have been the Uncle of Menander; he was a writer of Media Comœdia. 8. Zenodotus the Disciple of Philetas, whom he succeeded in the tuition of Lagides his Sons. 9. Theocritus of Syracuse the Son of Protagoras and Philine, whose 33 Idyls or Bucolic Elogues, with several Greec Epigrams and the Altar (if that be his) are handsomely set forth by Stephanus, with the ancient Scholiasts. 10. Antagoras of Rhodes, who was in great favour with King Antigonus, as appears from Pausanias, Plutarch, Athenæus, he wrote a Poem Entitled Thebais, but there is nothing of his extant, saving one Epigram and a few Verses cited by Diogenes Laertius. 11. Hermodotus, another favourite of Antigonus, as appears from Plutarch in his

Digitized by Google

his Apophthegms, and his Book of Isis & Osiris. 12. Anaxippus, a writer of Media Comœdia, whose Citharœdus and other Comedies are cited by Athenæus. Of the above named Philemon the Elder, Theophrastus was a familiar acquaintance, who, as Laertius saith, wrote a discourse of Comedy, but whether he compos'd any thing in verse is doubted.

Menecrates, a Comic Poet of Syracuse, whose Manestor and Hermoncus are cited by Athenæus, Suidas and Volaterranus.

Menelaus, a Heroic Poet of Aegos whose Thebais is mentioned by Suidas and Volaterranus.

Menippus, a Comic writer, whose Cercopes and other things are cited by Athenæus and Volaterranus.

Merboldus, otherwise called Marbodeus, a writer of Gems and precious stones in Hexameter Verse, who comes near the Verge of the Moderns; for he flourisht about the year 1050.

Merobaudes, a learned Spaniard surnamed Scholasticus, of whose not unelegant Verses de Christo some fragments are to be seen in Brietius and other Col-

Digitized by Google

Musæus, some very ancient Writer, whosoever he was, whose name hath been ever illustrious among the Greecs and Latins both, for his antiquity and eminence in Poetry, if at least there were not more of the same name, as there are reckon'd Four; namely, First, Musæus, the Son of Thamyras, a Theban; he is said to have been a Melic Poet, and to have wrote Hymns and Odes. Secondly, Musæus, the Son of Eumolpus an Athenian, who wrote in Greek verse the Generation of the gods. Thirdly, Musæus of Eleusis, the Son of Antiphonus, and Disciple of Orpheus, who is said to have wrote Precepts of the life in 400. Verses to his son Eumolpus. Fourthly and Lastly, Musæus an Ephesian Poet, who was living in the time of Eumenes & Attalus, King of Pergamus; now which of these was that grand Musæus spoken of by Virgil, is hard to determin; but probable it is, that it was the ancientest of them (if there be more than one) and the same with Moses the Jewish Law-giver, of whom the Greecs, having but an obscure tradition, might possibly frame an Original according their Poetical fancy, and possibly divided into two or three; and this seems the more probable from the agreement of the name, for Moses at this day is pronounced by the Greecs Mosios; however it were, the little Greec Poem Entitled Hero and Leander, which goes under the name of Musæus, &c. is by some particularly ascribed to Musæus the Son of Eumolpus, is doubtless the work of some much more modern Author (as Vossius and other learned men judge) whether Musæus the Grammarian or some other that takes that name. See Curiatius Maternus.

Digitized by Google

Myrtilus, see Philetas.

N

Nævius, an old Latin Comic Poet, who also wrote Epigrams, and a Tragedy Entitled Hesione, which together with his Comedies Ariolus and Leone are mention'd by Aulus Gellius, some things also of his writings, are cited by Fulgentius in his Mythologie.

Neoptolemus, see Theopompus.

Nausicrates, a Comic Poet, whose

Digitized by Google

Nauclerus and Perſis are mentioned by Athenæus and Suidas.

Nauniachius, a Chriſtian Poet, of what time is uncertain; he is remembred by Giraldus and Eraſmus, and ſeveral Verſes of his are cited with high commendation by Arſenius Biſhop of Monembuſia, and in divers places of Stobæus, Nauſicrates, a Comic Poet of an uncertain time, the Authour of Perſis and Ναυκλήρων, mentioned by Suidas and ſeveral times by Athenæus.

Neophono: Neophron, ſee Alexis.

Neoptolemus, a Epigrammatiſt, quoted by Stobæus in his Book De Laude Mortis.

Nero, the Fifth Roman Emperour from Julius Cæſar, whoſe vein in Poetry is not altogether paſt by in ſilence by learned men, and whoſe glory it was no leſs to be accounted an excellent Tragic writer, then it was his delight to be an Actour of the moſt Tragical and ſinneſt deeds.

Neſtor Larændenſis, the Authour of a Poem Entitled Γλῶσσα λεπτογραμματος, he liv'd in the time of the Emperour Alexander Severus.

Ni-

Digitized by Google

Nicander, a Colophonian (some say Ætolian) of whom two Poems, his Theriaca and Alexipharmica are yet extant; he flourisht (as saith an Anonymous Writer of his life) in the time of Attalus the last King of Pergamus, and wrote several other things which are lost, among which was his Ἑτεροιούμενα a Poem of the same nature as Ovid's Metamorphoses. Contemporary with him was Sositheus, a Syracusian, some say, Athenian, others, Alexandrine Tragic Poet, and one of the Pleiades heretofore mentioned.

Nicarchus, a Greec Epigrammatist, of whom there are several Epigrams to be found in Planudes his Florileginm.

Nicenætus, an ancient, but uncertain ag'd Epic Poet of Samos (some say Abdera) remembred by Athenæus, Parthenius, and of the Moderns, Lilius Giraldus; he also wrote divers Epigrams, whereof 2. Testratichs are to be found in the Greec Anthology.

Nicephorus Callistus Xanthopulus, a Constantinopolitan writer of Greec Epigrams consisting of loose Senarie Iambics, that is loose in quantity though not in measure.

Digitized by Google

Niceratus, an Epigrammatist, whose name is preserv'd in the Greec Anthology.

Nicias, another Epigrammatist, of whom only five Epigrams are extant in the Greec Anthology.

Nicodemus, an Epigrammatic Poet of Heraclea, of whom there is extant an Antistroph of 14 Verses in the sixth Book of the Greec Anthology.

Nicolaus Damascenus, a very learned man who, living in the time of Augustus Cesar, was highly honoured and lov'd by that Emperour (who was himself also addicted to Poetry, and a Composer of Greec Verses, as is testified by Suetonius, Pliny and Macrobius) he wrote several Comedies and Tragedies (as saith Suidas) of which his Tragedy of Susanna is remembred by Eustathius upon Dionysius.

Nichomachus, see Euripides.

Nicostratus, see Theopompus.

Nonnus, see Cyrus Panopolitanus.

Nothippus, a Tragic Poet of an uncertain time, sirnamed ὁ Λοκρὸς mentioned by Athenæus.

Nu-

Digitized by Google

Numa, see Quintus Horatius.

Numerianus, one of the Roman Emperours, who by the Testimony of Flavius Vopiscus excelled all the Poets of his time; he is said to have contested with Nemesianus, and to have out gone Aurelius Apollinaris.

O

Octavius, see Publius Ovidius.

Octavius Augustus, see Nicolaus Damascenus.

Octavius Ruffus, a learned Latin Poet, of whose Verses there are many cited by Pliny, and also by Cuspinian in his Consules.

Oeneomaus, otherwise called Diogenes, an Athenian Tragic Poet, who wrote Eight Tragedies which are mention'd by Suidas and Athenæus. Contemporary with him were Melitus, an Oratour and Tragic Poet, though none of the best, one of the accusers of Socrates. 2. Melanthius, an Elegiac Poet, mentioned by Athenæus, and out of whom Plutarch cites a Distich in his Cymon. There was also of the same name a Tragic Poet, et, if it were not the same as some think. 3. Timotheus a Milesian, who wrote Eighteen Dithyrambics, Twenty one Hymns, Thirty six Preludes, Eight Descriptions, besides several Dramatic stories, and a Tragedy called the birth of Semele; how excellent he was in Music, and how great an improver of that science, may be seen in Suidas and Clemens Alexandrinus. 4. Philoxenus, of Cithera, by whom Dithyrambics are said by the Scholiast of Pindarus to have been first invented, though Herodotus thinks rather by Arion the Lesbian. 5. Telestes of Selinus a Comic and Dithyrambic Poet, whose Dithyrambs are said to have been sent by Harpalus to Alexander the Great; also Suidas mentions out of Athenæus two Comedies of his, Argo and Æsculapius. 6. Polyeidus a person celebrated by Diodorus Siculus, as well for Music and Painting as for Poetry.

Digitized by Google

Olen, a writer of Hymns, mentioned by Pausanias in his Attica and Corinthiaca.

Olympius a Lydian, both Musitian and Elegiac Poet, mentioned by Suidas to to have flourisht before the time of the Trojan War.

Onestas, sirnamed Corinthius, hath his name in Planudes to several Epigrams there collected.

Onomacritus an Athenian, who liv'd about the time of the Tyrant Pisistratus, and is judged by many to have been the Authour of those Argonautics and other Poems which go under the name of Orpheus (who lived before the Trojan War, and of whom nothing is extant, nor any thing remembred but his ἐποπτίαι & θεολογίαι mentioned by Philostratus) he also wrote certain answers of Oracles in Verse which were ascribed to the Old Musæus. About the same time lived Lasus Hermioneus, the Son of Chabrinus, whose Ode inscribed Centaurus is mention'd by Athenæus; he hath been reckoned by some in the number of the Seven sirnamed Wise, in the place of Periander, and his great addiction to Music is particularly taken notice of by Theo of Smyrna; he is also said to have been the first that contended in Dithyrambic Poetry.

Orphe-

Ophelion, a Comic Poet, metioned by Athenæus and Suidas.

Opilius Macrinus, one of the Roman Emperours, whom Julius Capitolinus reporteth to have made Epigrams and several other Verses.

Oppianus a Cilician, who living in the time of the Emperours Severus and Caracalla, dedicated to the latter his Ἁλιευτικὰ or Poem of Fishing, and his Κυνηγετικὰ or Poem of Hunting, both yet extant.

Orœbantius, an ancienter Greec Poet, as the Trœzenians affirm, then Homer himself, whose Ilias Phrygia, for that is said to have been the Title of his Poem, was reserv'd to Aelian's time, as that Authour himself testifies.

Orentius, an ancient Bishop of Aragon, who lived in the time of Anastatius, and is reported by Sigebertus Gemblacensis to have turned the Commonitory into Hexameter Verse.

Orpheus, a Poet of Crotona, who flourishing in the time of Pisistratus the Tyrant, wrote Argonautica a Poem de Gemmis and Hymns, all which are extant; but Orpheus the great Thracian Poet and Mu-

Digitized by Google

Musitian celebrated by Virgil, must needs have been of a far higher antiquity (and some suppose him to have liv'd about the time of the Hebrew Judges) in so much that the Greecs probably ignorant of his true Original, thought good to find out for him a Poetical extraction, as the Poets had ever at hand some God or Goddess for any ancient Hero, as well in Arts as Arms, that wanted a mortal Father or Mother; and so Orpheus must be suppos'd to have been the Son of Apollo and Calliope, besides that in other respects he was the Subject of Poetical Fable; though rather as a Musitian than Poet, for he is said, by the charming power of his Harp, to have tam'd the wildest beasts of the Forrest, and made the Woods and Rocks to follow him, and to have recover'd his Wife Euridice from the shades beneath, had not her own folly caus'd her to be snatcht back again; for grief whereof abandoning the company of all women, he was, as the story goes, torn in pieces by the Thracian women that Sacrific'd to Bacchus, amidst their raving Orgies. Certain Verses out of Orpheus are are quoted by Stobæus and other ancient Authours; but whether of this Son of Apollo may be questioned; for as there are mentioned several Musæus's, so Suidas reckons up divers Orpheus's.

Ofidius, or Hosidius Geta, an ancient Roman Poet, but of uncertain time, who as is testified by Tertullian, out of a Cento of Virgils Verses, compos'd a Tragedy of Medea.

P

Paccius, see Curiatius Maternus.
Pacuvius, see Statius Cæcilius.

Palæphatus an Athenian Poet, who by the Testimony of Suidas and Volaterranus, wrote a Poem de Situ Orbis another of the Contention between Minerva and Neptune, consisting of a Thousand Verses; a Colloquie between Venus and Cupid, consisting of 5000 Verses, Latona's hair, and some other things.

Palamedes, an Epic Poet of Argos whose works Homer, for envy, is said to have suppress.

Paliadas, an Epigrammatist, mentione-

Digitized by Google

ned by Isaacius Tzetzes with commendation; several Epigrams of his are extant in the Greek Anthology.

Palladius, surnamed Grammaticus, an Epigrammatist, of whom there are several Epigrams in Brietius, the Parisian, and other Collections; he is one of the Twelve Scholastici already mentioned. See Julianus.

Pamphilus, an Elegiac Poet mentioned by Giraldus.

Pamphus, an Athenian Poet, who wrote Hymns which were publickly sung by the Athenians, as is testified by Pausanias, l. 7.

Pamprepius, see Isaacus.

Pancrates, an Arcadian Poet, who wrote of Sea Affairs, out of whom some things are cited by Athenæus.

Panolbius, an ancient Poet, who besides some other things, wrote an Epitaph upon Hypatia the Daughter of Erythræus.

Panyasis, see Euripides.

Parmenides, Ibid.

Parmeno, a Byzantin Poet, cited by Athenæus.

Parthe-

Partheuius Nicæus, an Erotic or writer of amorous Affairs in Verse; he was taken in the Mithridatic War, as is testified by Macrobius, and is thought to have been Virgils Master in the Greek tongue.

Patrocles, an Iambic Poet, out of whom certain Verses are cited by Stobæus; he may happily be the same with Patrocles Thurius, a Tragic Poet, mentioned by Clemens Alexandrinus.

Paulinus, alias Pontius Paulinus, a Native of Burdegala, and Bishop of Nola, whom see in Claudius Claudianus.

Paulus Cyrus Florus, Silentiary of Constantinople in the time of the Emperour Justinian, whose Acts he wrote in Verse, as is testified by Cuspinian; also Paulus Silentiarius (whom some make to be a distinct person from Paulus Florus) his Description of the Temple of Constantinople in Verse, and other Poems, are mentioned with high commendation by Agathias, he hath also very many Epigrams in the Greek Anthology.

Paulus Diaconus, an Aquileian, taken by Charles the Great, in the Lombard War, together with Desiderius; besides what what he wrote of Hiſtory which is extant, and other things in Proſe; he alſo wrote ſeveral Hymns, ſome whereof are ſung at this day in the Roman Church. Contemporary with him were Ferius Hilpericus, who wrote in Verſe the meeting of Charls with Leo, rather than Alcuin, to whom ſome have aſcribed that work, and alſo Petrus Apollonius Collatius, who wrote the deſtruction of Jeruſalem in Heroic Verſe.

Paulus Paſſienus, ſee Curiatius Maternus.

Pedo Albinovanus, ſee Publius Ovidius.

Pelagius Patricius, ſee Iſtacus.

Pentadius, an uncertain ag'd Poet, though not very ancient, of whom ſeveral acute and pretty conceited Epigrams are to be found in Pithœus, and the Pariſian Collection, as his Epigram of Fortune, Narciſſus, the Tomb of Hector, Lupus the Statuary, the approach of the Spring, and ſeveral other things, and ſome fragments in Brietius his Acute Dicta.

Periander, ſee Epimenides.

Pa-

Digitized by Google

Peritus, alias Leoni des, an Epigrammatist, scarce remembred, but by what he hath in the Greec Anthology.

Perisanius Faustinus, an uncertain ag'd Poet, whose Poem de Appetitu, Encomium Stultitiæ and other things are said to be extant at Rome.

Perses, the Brother of Hesiod, who wrote to him his ἔργα καὶ ἡμέρας; he is reported to have written something in Epic Poetry. He was also an Epigrammatist, if it were the same Perses who hath three Tetrastichs in the Greec Anthology.

Petreius, otherwise called Petridius, and the same, as 'tis thought, whom Pliny calls Petrius, mentioning his Poem Entitled Ophiaca or Remedies against the biting of Serpents.

Petronius Arbiter, an Elegant writer in the time of Nero; he is call'd by Tacitus alluding to his name Arbiter Eloquentiæ, his Satyrica mixt of Prose and Verse together, with several fragments, is yet extant, though very much maimed and defective in many places. Contemporary with him was Silius Italicus a Spaniard, thrice advanc'd to the Consulship fulſhip of Rome, and in great favour with the Emperour Domitian; his Poem of the Punic War, is yet extant.

Digitized by Google

Petrus Collatius Apollononius, a Preſbyter of Novara, whom Margaritus Binius judges to have flouriſht about the year of our Lord, 690. in the Reign of the Emperour Charles the Great; and with Binius, Brietius, inclines to agree againſt Barthius and Voſſius, who would have him Contemporary with Angelus Politianus; his Latin Poem, in four Books, of the taking Jeruſalem by Titus, was ſet forth by Gagnæus a Pariſian Theologiſt, and afterwards more correct by Hadrianus Vanderbruchius.

Petrus Ediſſenus, ſee Iſaacus.

Phacellus, an Epigrammatic Poet, remembred but by one Tetraſtich in the Greec Anthology.

Phædimus, an ancient Elegiac Poet, of Byſanthe in Macedon, as Stephanus obſerves.

Phaennus, the Author of two Tetraſtichs in the Greec Anthology.

Phanocles, the Authour of a Poem Entitled, The Rape of Ganimed, and another of the death of Orpheus, out of

Digitized by Google

of which certain Verses are cited by Stobæus.

Phanias, an Epigrammatic Poet, remembred but by one Octostich in the Greec Anthology.

Pherecrates, a Comic writer, Contemporary with Aristophanes and Plato the Comedian. Nineteen Comedies of his are cited by Athenæus, Eustianus and Pollux; he is also mentioned by Suidas and Stobæus.

Pherenicus, an Epic Poet of Heraclea, whose writings are cited by Athenæus.

Phidamus, an Epicurean Poet and writer of Lascivious Verses.

Philacus, an Epigrammatist cited by Athenæus.

Phileas, an ancient Epigrammmatist cited by Stobæus in his Perigorica.

Philemon, see Menander.

Philetærus, the Son of Aristophanes (the Comedian as 'tis thought) himself also a Comic writer, of the Twenty Comedies which he is said to have written, his Κώνγις and Seven more are quoted by Athenæus, and others of them by Suidas.

Phi-

Digitized by Google

Philetas, an Elegiac Poet and Epigrammatist of Coos, who flourisht in the time of Philip of Macedon and Alexander the Great; and had the Education of Ptolomeus Philadelphus. He was celebrated by Ovid and Propertius. Much about the same time flourisht Soficles a Tragic Poet of Syracuse; he is said to have written Seventy three Tragedies, and to have vanquisht seven times and hath been reckoned by some one of the Pleiades aforementioned; also Myrtilus and Hermippus two writers of Veteres Comedias, the first an Athenian, whose Tennopanes and Amores, are cited by Suidas; the last of them see in Euripides; likewise Euphantus of Olynthus, whom besides the History of his own time, Laertius affirms to have written very many Tragedies, and to have been the Master of King Antigonus, and the Disciple of Eubulus. Lastly, Crantor of Soli, a hearer of Xenocrates; he is reported by Laertius who writes his life, to have writtten certain Poems which he left sealed up in the Temple of Minerva.

Philicus, see Æantides.

Phi-

Philippides, see Alexis.

Philippus, see Theopompus.

Philiſcus, a Comic writer, whoſe Adonis, Birth of Jove, and other Comedies are mentioned by Suidas. This was not that Philiſcus the Thaſian, who wrote of Bees. There was alſo a Tragic Poet of the ſame name, mentioned by Suidas to have written Fourty two Tragedies; who by ſome is otherwiſe called Philiſtus.

Philiſtion, a Comic writer of Pruſa or ſome ſay of Sardis, among whoſe Comedies his Μισογαμος & Φιλογαμος are chiefly remembred, his name was famous in Rome, he being taken notice of by Martial, Sidonius Apollinaris and Ammianus Marcellinus. He flouriſht towards the Ninty Second Olympiad. viz. before the death of Euripides and Sophocles, and with him were Contemporary Cherophon an Athenian Tragic Poet, familiarly acquainted with Socrates and Demoſthenes, as Ulpian affirmeth; the only Tragedy of his remembred is his Expedition of the Heraclidæ; alſo Chæremon a Comedian, the Diſciple of Socrates, as Giraldus affirmed

eth; his Penthem is remembred by Ariſtotle; his Hippocentaurus, Vreus and Alphesibœa by Athenæus, beſides many more mentioned by Suidas; about the ſame time liv'd Theophilus a Comic Poet and Phyſitian, of Epidaurus; he is ſaid to have written Euripides his Epitaph which ſome aſcribe to Thucydides; his Pancratiaſta is cited by Athenæus, beſides other Comedies of his, mentioned by Suidas.

Philiſtus, a Tragic Poet of Cereyra, who lived in the time of Ptolomæus Philadelphus, ſee alſo Philiſcus.

Philo, a Comic Poet, out of whom ſome things are cited by the Scholiaſt of Aratus.

Philocalus, a Trojan, of whom there is ſaid to have been extant a Book of Epigrams, printed in Italy.

Philocles, ſee Euripides.

Philodemus, a Gadarœan Poet, mentioned by Cicero, in his Oration againſt Piſo. He flouriſht in the time of Ptolomeus Auletes, being contemporary with Alexander and Parthenius aforementioned, and Theophanes the Lesbian, who beſides the Hiſtory of Pompey's Acts, being his Companion in the Wars, he wrote, compos'd also the History of the Mithridatic War in Verse; and the same Theophanes, as is suppos'd, was the Authour of two Epigrams which are yet extant in the Greec Anthology.

Digitized by Google

Philolaus, the Authour, as Joannes Pi-cus is of opinion, of those Verses that go under the Title of Pythagoras his golden Verses.

Philonides, see Euripides.

Philostratus, an Athenian, who, beside the lives of Pelopidas and Epaminondas is said by Laertius, to have written a Poem Entitled Theseis. He hath also, if it be the same Philostratus, a Tetrastich in the Greec Anthology.

Philoxenus, see Oensmaus.

Philyllius, see Euripides.

Philyrinus Cinesias, a Dithyrambi Poet, mentioned by Suidas.

Phlegides, an ancient Poet remem-bred by Aristotle, in his Book de Somn & Vigilia, and also by Themistius.

Phocylides, see Xenophanes.

Pheinorides, a Comic Poet of ob-scure note, as being little mentioned by Authentic writers.

Ph

Digitized by Google

Phœnicides, an ancient Comedian, whose μισούμενος & φυλάρχος are remembred by Athenæus and Suidas.

Phormus, a Syracusian Comic Poet, whose Atalanta is quoted by Athenæus.

Phrynichus, an Athenian Tragedian, whose Pleuronia and Eight other Tragedies are remembred by Suidas. He was the Disciple of Thespis, and the Son of Polyphradmon, and had himself a Son so named, a Tragic Poet also. There was also another Phrynichus a Comic Poet, whom see in Euripides.

Pigres of Halicarnassus, the Brother of Artimisia, whom, by the name of Tigretus, see in Theopompus, Pindarus, a Theban Lyric Poet, of the Village of Cynocephali, the Son of Scopelinus, or (as others with more probability affirm) of Daiphantus; there be also, who affirm him the Son of Pagonides and Myrtis, which being a mistake, is thought to have risen from his being a Disciple of the said Myrtis, or at least of Scopelinus, who being the Husband of this Myrtis, taught him to play on the Flute; which skill having attained, he betook himself to Lasus Hermioneus to learn on the Harp; he was in great esteem among the Greecs, as the Favourite of Apollo and Pan, which last was reported to have delighted to hear him sing in the mountains, and to have danc'd at the singing of one of his Peans. He was contemporary with Æschylus, who began to flourish about the Seventy sixth Olympiad; his Odes are yet extant, amply set forth with Scholiasts, besides which he is said to have written Tragedies, Hymns, Pæans, Dithyrambs, Threnes, Epic Poems, Epigrams and other Poems, in all Seventeen distinct Works. He dyed about the 66th. or as some say, the 80th. year of his age, in the 86th. Olympiad.

Digitized by Google

Pisander Camyræus, a very ancient Poet, some say ancienter than Hesiod and contemporary with Eumolpus, but the most agree that he flourisht in the 33d Olympiad, in the Reign of Xerxes his Poem, Entitled Heracleis, or the labours of Hercules, is remembred by Pausanias; he is also mentioned by Hygenus, the Scholiast of Aristophanes, Censorinus and Fulgentius; there was also another another Pisander, a Larendensian, in the time of Alexander Severus; he wrote a Poem Entitled ἡραικὴ θεογαμία or the Nuptials of Jupiter and Juno.

Digitized by Google

Plato, a Comic Poet (not the Philosopher) of whom, see more in Cratinus whose contemporary he was, as also of Anaxilas whose Fourteen Comedies are mentioned by Athenæus.

Pittacus, see Alcæus.

Plautius, see Statius Cæcilius.

Plotius Crispinus, and Plotius Tucca, two Contemporaries of Horace and Virgil, both mentioned for Poets by Horace, but the first with contempt, the other with honour.

Polycritus, a writer of the Sicilian Affairs in Verse; for which he is mentioned by the Authour de admirandis additionibus generally reputed to be Aristotle.

Polycidus, see Oenomaus.

Polyeuctus, a Comic Writer, whose Heniochus is mentioned with commendation by Athenæus and Suidas.

Polyides, an uncertain ag'd Poet out of whom Stobæus quotes several Verses, which by some are attributed to Euri- pides, he may be probably conjectur'd to be the same with Polyidus.

Digitized by Google

Polymnestus, a Colophonian, the Son of Miletus; he is remembred by Aristophanes, Cratinus, Alcman, Pindarus, Pausanias, Plutarchus, Athenæus and Suidas.

Polyochus, remembred by Athenæus, who out of his Corynthiasta cites several Senary Iambics.

Polyphradmon, see Phrynichus.

Polystratus, one of the Society of Epigrammatists, in the Greec Anthologie.

Polyxelus, an antient Poet, though of an uncertain time; he wrote a Poem called Nipira, the birth of the Muses, the birth of Dionysius and Venus, with other Poems.

Pompeianus, see Julianus.

Pomponius Secundus, an ancient Latin Comic writer, whose Auctoratus, Capella, Lena, Machomalites, Synephebi are quoted by Charisius: of his life Caius Plinius wrote two Books, he was also favoured by Germanicus.

Pontianus, an old Epigrammatist, who hath a name in the Greec Anthology.

Pontius

Digitized by Google

Pontius Paulinus, see Claudius Claudianus,

Ponticus, see Quintus Horatius.

Porcius Licinius, of the noble Family of the Licinij, an ancient Latin Poet, out of whom Agellius cites some few Verses. He is generally supposed to have been contemporary with Cato.

Posidippus, see Menander.

Pratinas, a Tragic Poet of Phliasus, who contended, as saith Suidas, with Æschylus and Chærilus; he is also said by the same Authour to have been the first writer of Satyrs, moreover he is cited by Athenæus.

Priscianus, a Grammarian of Cæsarea, who flourisht under the Emperour Julianus, and wrote a Book of the Art of Grammar to Julianus, and a Book of Natural questions to Chosroes King of Persia, besides which, he wrote in Latin Verse a Version of Dionysius Afer's Periegesis or Poem, de situ Orbis.

Priscus, see Publius Ovidius.

Proclus, see Cyrus.

Proculus, see Publius Ovidius.

Prodicus, an eminent poet of Phocis,

Digitized by Google

out of whose fabulous Poem Entitled Mynias the Painter; Polygnotus is said by Pausanias to have drawn several designs.

Promithidas, a Mimic Iambic Poet of Heraclea, cited by Athenæus.

Prosper, a Poet of Aquitain, therefore sirnamed Aquitanicus, who flourisht in the latter end of the Reign of of Valentinian the Third, and afterwards under Maximus, Avitus, Majoranus and Severus; besides several things in prose, the chief whereof is his Chronicle to the year 155. which or the next is said to have been the last year of his life; he wrote also Epigrams, and also (if it were not as some say writ by Claudianus Mamertus) a Poem de providentia Dei. He was, as saith Licosthenes, Bishop of Rheginum, others of Orleans, though Labbæus with whom Brietius agrees, learnedly proves him to have been neither.

Ptolomæus, sirnamed Chennus, an Alexandrian, who flourisht, under the Emperours Trajan & Adrian, he wrote, besides what in History, a Historical Drama, Entitled Sphinx, and another poem Poem Entitled Ἀνθρώπου as consisting of an equal number of Books, with Homers Ilias. There was also another Ptolomæus an Epic poet of Cythera, who wrote of the vertues of the herb Psalacantha, as saith Suidas; besides several Epigrams of his (if it were the same Ptolomy) in the Greec Anthology.

Publius Licinius Tegula, an ancient Latin Poet who as Livie the Historian testifieth, compos'd a Song) in like manner as Livius Andronicus had done before him) to be sung through the City of Rome by Twenty seven Virgins: whether this Licinius were the same with Licinius Imbrex, the ancient Comic Writer, cited by Agellius is disputed.

Publius, or Publilius Optatianus Porphyrius, a Poetical writer, in the time of Constantine the Great, for his Panegyric to whom, and the favour of that Emperour upon it, in recalling him from banishment, he is rather to be taken notice of, than for the goodness of his poetry, which is very crabbed and obscure; nevertheless this work of his being preserved in the Augustane Library of

Digitized by Google

Volſcerus, was ſet forth by Pithœus in the year

Publius Ovidius Naſo, the moſt fluent of Latin Poets, whoſe Metamorphoſes, Epiſtles, Faſti, Triſtia, Amores, &c. are in moſt public credit and familiar uſe. He flouriſht together with Virgil (whoſe moſt excellent Poems, viz. his Eglogues, Georgics, and Aeneis, have their deſerved eſteem among all learned men) and Horace (whoſe Odes, Satyrs, Sermons, Epiſtles, and Art poetic have the like) in the time of Auguſtus, by whom Ovid was baniſht for his familiarity with Julia, the ſaid Emperours daughter. Contemporary with theſe three renowned Poets, were Firſt, Caius Aſinius Pollio, a Tragedian, Hiſtorian, and eminent Captain in War; he is mentioned with honour, both by Horace and Virgil. Caius Cilnius Mecœnas, a favourite of Auguſtus, and not only a favourer and patron of Poets, eſpecially of Virgil and Horace, but alſo a Compoſer of Verſes himſelf, whereof ſome are collected by Giraldus, others are to be ſeen in the Collection of old Epigrams.

3. Lucius Varius, who hath a very honourable nourable mention from Horace in ſeveral places; he is ſaid to have written ſeveral Tragedies, among which that of Thyeſtes is diſputed whether his or no. 4. Sextus Propertius, an Elegiac Poet of Umbria, whoſe Elegies we have extant, beſides whom there ſeems to have been another Propertius, cited by Fulgentius Planciades; he was a great Emulator of Philetas and Callimachus. 5. Aulus Cornelius Alpinus, a Turgid Poet, if it were the ſame whom Horace mentions. l. 1. of his Sermones, Sat. 10. To him ſome have aſcribed a Poem Entitled Memnonia, or the Hiſtory of Memnon. 6. Sextilius Ena, a Poet of Corduba; the beginning of whoſe Poem, concerning Cicero's Proſcription, is mentioned by Marcus Seneca. 7. Gratius, a Faliſcan, whoſe Cynegetics or Poem of Hunting, is not forgotten by Ovid. This Poem was firſt brought out of France, and publiſht by Sanazarius. 8. Catus Pedo of Albinova, the Authour of a Poem Entitled Theſeis, which is taken notice of by Ovid, in his Pontic Elegies; of the Tenth whereof in l. 4. the ſaid Authour is wholly the Subject;

anp

Digitized by Google

one whom Horace takes notice of twice, though little to his praise, yet his poems had the fortune to be laid up in the Temple of Apollo, and the Muses, together with his Picture. 14. Titus Valgius, whom Tibullus ranks next to Homer, and Horace compares with Virgil and Varius. 15. Octavius, a principal, both Poet and Historian in the esteem of Horace; The manner of his death is signified by a Verse in the Virgilian Appendix. 16. Ponticus, an intimate Friend both of Propertius and Ovid, by the last of whom he is mentioned, and by the first compared with Homer. 17. Cajus Melissus, a freedman of Mecenas, and preferred to be Keeper of Augustus his Library in the Octavian Portico; he is reckon'd by Ovid among the Comedians. 18. Caius Asinius Gallus, the Son of Asinius Pollio; he is reckoned among the Poets by Giraldus, from the commendation of Pliny; and Tranquillus cites an Epigram of his against Pomponius Marcellus. Besides these, there were several others; as, Tucanius, a Tragic Poet; Lupulus Siculus, a Comedian, and Actor of his own Comedies;

Digitized by Google

and also of an Elegy upon the death of Mecænas. 9. Aulus Sabinus, another of the same order remembred several times by the said Ovid, and said to be the Authour of some of those Epistles which are ascribed to Ovid; as of Paris to Helena, and four or five others; he left some things unfinisht, as appears from l. 4. Eleg. 16. of the Pontics. 10. Titus Septimius, a Lyric and Tragic Poet, mentioned by Horace in his Epistles. 11. Aulus Cornelius Severus, the Authour of a Poem Entitled Æsna, which hath been heretofore attributed to Vingil; also certain Verses are cited by Marcus Senecæ concerning the death of Cicero, as is suppos'd out of a Poem of the Sicilian War, which by Fabius the Historian, he is delivered to have written: to him belongs one Elegie in the fourth Book of Ovids Pontics. 12. Domitius Marsus, the Authour of a Poem Entitled Amazonis, mentioned by Martial in one of his Epigrams; he makes one in Ovids Catalogue, and is also taken notice of by Petronius Arbiter. There is extant of his, an Epigram against Tibullus. 13. Fannius, one medies; Carus Numa Marius (whether the famous Rhetorician of that name and time is uncertain) the two Priscus's, Proculus an imitator of Callimachus, Fontanus, Capella, Cajus Cotta, Julius Montanus, Camerinus and Thuscus, Æmilius Macer of Verona, with others already mentioned, all celebrated by Ovid, with an account for the most part of the subject of their Poems, only Marcus Manilius or Manlius, whose Astronomical Poem we have yet extant: of all the Poets that we hear of, of that time, (for to think as Guevartius, that he was the same with Manlius Theodorus, in the time of Theodocius the elder; his dedicating his Poem to Augustus, renders it absurd) is omitted by him.

Digitized by Google

Publius Porcius, the Authour of a Poem, Entitled, de pugna porcorum, of which every Verse begins with the letter P.

Publius Statius Papinius, see Statius.

Publius Syrus, a Mimic writer, who after the death of Decius Laberius, kept up the reputation of the Scene at Rome.

Pub-

Digitized by Google

Publius Volumnius, a Latin Poet, out of whom several Verses are cited by Plutarch, in his life of Marcus Brutus.

Publius Terentius Afer, see Statius Cecilius.

Publius Virgilius Maro, the Prince of Latin Heroic Poets; his Æneis, however not uncensured by some, being equalled by none of the ancient Latins that are extant; and so particularly esteemed by Augustus Cæsar, that after Virgils death, who had left in charge with some friends to have that Poem burnt, he committed it to the custody and strict care of Lucius Varius, and Plotius Tucca, with command, that nothing should be altered. He was the Son of Maro, a mean person; some say a Porter; and Maia (whose dream of her bringing forth a Laurel branch, boaded very significantly) born in the 177th. Olympiad, in the Ides of October, at Andes, a Villiage not far from Mantua, whence he is stiled the Mantuan Swan, also see Publius Ovidius.

Pythagoras, a Samian, one of the most fam'd of ancient Greec philosophers, and the reputed Author of those reasons

χρυσᾶ ἔπη or golden Verſes, which are commonly publiſht under his name, in the common Edition of the poetæ minores, though by ſome aſcribed to Philolaus.

Pythangelus, a Tragic Poet, and Grammarian, not leſs notorious for his lewdneſs, than for his poetry.

Pythoſtratus, an Athenian, who is ſaid to have written a Poem Entitled Theſeis; he is remembred by Laertius in the life of Xenophon, together with a Brother named alſo Xenophon.

Q

Quintus Cicero, ſee Decius Laberius.

Quintus Cornificius, an old Latin Epigrammatiſt, contemporary with Saluſt; having a command in the Wars, he was ſlain by his Souldiers, for calling them Helmetted Hares.

Quintus Ennius, the ancienteſt of Latin Poets that we hear of next after Livius Andronicus, and Cnæus Nævius; he wrote beſides his Annals in Verſe, Satyrs, Comedies and Tragedies; of all all which we have nothing now remaining, excepting some few fragments.

Digitized by Google

Quintus Fabius Labeo, see Statius Cecilius.

Quintus Horatius Flaccus, a most illustrious Lyric Poet of Venusium in Apulia; not for the Nobility of his birth, for he is reported the son but of a mean person, some say a Salter; but for that delicacy of wit, purity of style, and weight of judgement, both in his Lyrics & other Writings, w^ch^ gain'd him the esteem of the noblest of Favorites, Mecænas, and by his means, of the greatest Prince uponearth, Augustus, by whom he was advanced to such a Fortune, as being returned back again, at his death, which was in the Fifty sixth year of his age, made Posterity take notice, that Horace made Augustus his Heir. He is certainly not equalled in that kind of Poetry he undertook, to any of the ancient Greecs and Latins that are extant, Pindarus himself only, and that scarcely too, excepted.

a Farm in the Sabine Territory.

Quintus Hortensius, a Noble Roman Orator, if not Poet also, as some represent ſent him, though we have nothing of his extant.

Quintus Lutatius Catulus, an ancient Latin Epigrammatiſt of a witty and voluptuous ſtrain, ſutable to his Converſation, very much in favour with Cornelius Cotta and Lucius Craſſus.

Quintus Maecius, ſometimes ſimply Maecius, ſubſcrib'd to Eight Epigrams in the Greec Anthology.

Quintus Nonius, an old Latin writer of thoſe Comedies call'd Atellanæ.

Quintus Rhemnius Palæmon a Contemporary of Claudian. He is reported to have been very fluent in making Verſes extempore; for which he is vilified by Martial. Some confound him with Rhemnius Fannius, but erroniouſly.

Quintus Septimius Florens Tertullianus, ſee Tertullianus.

Quintus Serenus Sammonicus, a ſufficiently eſteem'd Latin Poet, in the time of the Emperour Severus; of the many things he is ſaid to have written in Verſe, we have only ſomething of his left de Medicina. He was ſlain by Antonius Caracalla, as ſaith Spar-.

Digitized by Google

Spartianus, in the life of that Emperour, and as Capitolinus affirms, left his Son a most noble Library, consisting of 62000 Volumes, of which he made so good use, that he became Preceptor to the Emperour Gordianus junior.

Quintus Smyrnæus, see Christodorus.

Quintus Trabeas, the Eighth in place among the ancient Latin Comic writers, according to the opinion of Volcatius, Sedigitus.

Quintus Valerius Saranus, a very ancient Versifier, honoured by Cicero, with the Title Doctissimus Togatorum.

R

Rabanus Maurus, see Theodulphus.

Regianus, a writer of an uncertain age, whose Poem of the waters of Baie is commended by Brietius, both for the ingenuity of the Matter, and as written in no bad Verse.

Rhemnius Fannius, an elegant, both Grammarian and Poet, who flourisht in the time of Constantine the Great; he was the Disciple of Arnobius; and so was was Lactantius Firmianus, who had the education of Crispus Cæsar, and wrote a Poem Entitled Odœporicon, being a description of his journy from Africa to Nicomedia, besides certain divine Poems which have been attributed to him, though Venantianus Fortunatus is by some thought rather to be the Author of them: to Lactantius, Fannius dedicated a Book which he wrote of Medicinal Ingredients in Hexameter Verse; moreover a Treatise of Weights and Measures is most probably judged to be his, though some have attributed it to Priscian. About the same time also flourisht Tiberianus, one or two of whose Verses is cited by Giraldus; Publius Optatianus Porphyrius, who wrote a Panegyric in Verse to Constantine the Great, for which he was recalled from banishment; he is remembred by Hieronymus, Fulgentius, Beda, and Rabanus Maurus. Likewise Juvencus, a Nobleman, and Priest of Spain, whose Evangelical History in Hexameter Verse is yet extant; besides which, he wrote a discourse of the Sacraments in Verse, which is mentioned by Hieronymus in his Viri Illustres. Rhi-

Digitized by Google

Rhianus, a Cretan, Native of Bene, an ancient City of that Island; though some say he was of Ithaca, others of Mycene; he was contemporary with Eratosthenes, and though at first but a poor servant or keeper of a Palæstra, obtained by his own industry the reputation of an eminent Grammarian; and at last wrote a Poem Entitled Heraclia, in four Books, as Suidas testifies; but Pausanias saith, he described in Verse the war of the Lacedemonians with the Messenians. Probably distinct from this Rhianus, of whom there is also extant a fragment de Imprudentia in the common Edition of the minor Poets, is he whose Epigrams are cited by Athenæus and Stobæus.

Rhinton of Tarentum, see Menander.

Romulus, the first King and Builder of Rome, who is said to have written to his Son Tybertinus certain Fables Entitled Æsopic, from their imitation of Æsop.

Rubrenus Lappa, see Curiatius Maternus.

Rufinus, an Epigrammatic Poet of whom there are about 28 Epigrams preserv'd he shews himself an Excellent both Philosopher, Theologist and Poet; namely his natural History of Plants (the loss of which so useful a Subject is much to be lamented, his Gnomonica or Proverbs much like in Divinity what the Writings of Phocylides and Theognis are in Morality, his Ecclesiastes, or the Preacher, and his Song of Songs, a sort of Lyric Poem including, under an amorous argument, relating as some think to the Loves between him and the Queen of Sheba, a divine Allegory.

Sanctus Severus, see Endeleichus.

Sanga, a Roman Poet, mentioned by Paulus Jovius, in his Book de Piscibus.

Sannyto, see Euripides.

Scæva Memor, see Curiatius Maternus.

Scyras, a Comic Poet of Tarentum, whose Meleager is quoted by Athenæus.

Scythinus, an Iambic Poet of Teos, mentioned by Laertius in Heraclitus, and Licinius Calvus.

Secæus, an Epigrammatic Poet, of whom there is extant a Tetrastich in the

Digitized by Google

the Greec Anthology.

Secundus, another of the same Society.

Sentius Augur, a Roman Epigrammatist said to be an imitator of Catullus, likewise Stobæus and Stephanus.

Septimus Severus Afer, Twenty second Roman Emperour from Julius Cæsar; he is said to have been the Authour of a certain Poem de laudibus Jani, in which he endeavours to imitate Callimachus.

Serapio an Athenian, both Poet and Physician, very well esteemed by Plutarch, who mentions him in his Book of the Delphic Oracle.

Seuleucus, a Halieucic or Piscatory writer in Verse, of Tarsus; mentioned by Athenæus.

Sextilius Ena, see Publius Ovidius.

Sextus Aurelius Propertius, an Elegiac Poet of Menavia in Umbria, of whose Poetry, what is extant, is commonly published with the Poems of Catullus and Tibullus; he was in great favour with Cornelius Gallus and Mecœnas.

Sextus Turpilius, a Comic writer, contemporary with Terence, of whom was a familiar friend; he is allotted by Stadigius the Seventh place among the Latin Comœdians.

Digitized by Google

Silanio, an ancient Poet, mentioned by Plutarch in his Book, Entitled, How young men ought to be hearers of the Poets.

Silius Italicus, see Petronius Arbiter.

Simmias of Rhodes, see Menander.

Simonides, see Archilochus.

Simulus, a writer of the Roman Affairs in Verse; out of whom certain Verses are cited by Plutarch in his life of Romulus.

Simylus, an Iambic writer, out of whom Stobæus cites Twelve Senaries, in his Sermon pro Artibus.

Socrates, see Euripides.

Solon, see Epimenides.

Sopater, a Parian, sirnamed Φλυακογράφος, or Φλυαγράφος, several Comedies, of whose writing are remembred by Suidas; besides him, both Athenæus and Suidas speak of another Comedian of the same name, a Rhodian, whose Bacchis the first of which cites.

Sophilus, of Sicyon, see Menander.

Sopho-

Digitized by Google

Sophocles, a noble Athenian Tragic Poet; of whom see more in Euripides.

Sophron, see Cleanthes.

Soficles of Syracuse, see Philetas.

Sofiphanes, an Iambic writer, out of whom divers Senaries are cited by Stobæus.

Sofitheus, see Menander.

Sotades Maronides, a writer of such lascivious Iambics, as from him were called Versus Sotadei. There was also of the same name an Athenian Comic, some say Tragic Poet, whose Encleiomene and Paralytomenos are mentioned by Athenæus, though some will have them to be one and the same person.

Sotericus Oasites, a Heroic Poet who besides his Encomium of Diocletian, in whose time he lived; wrote also a Poem Entitled Bassarica, with the life of Apollonius Tyaneus, and some other things, as Suidas witnesseth.

Spintharus, a Tragic Poet of Heraclea, made mention of by Laertius, his Tragedies were Semele Fulminata, and Hercules Ardens.

Stasinus, or Stasinus, the Authour of a Poem concerning the Affairs of Cy- prus, out of which, two Hexameters are cited by Stobæus, in his Sermon de Verecundia.

Digitized by Google

Statius Cæcilius, an ancient Latin Comedian of Insubria or Gallia Cisalpina, which at this day is called the Dutchy of Milain; of many Comedies which he wrote (among which was his Asotus) divers fragments are collected by Robertus Stephanus; about the same time flourisht Marcus Pacuvius, a Tragedian of Brundusium, Ennius his Sisters son; of the many Tragedies which he wrote, his Orestes is particularly remembred by Festus, Nonnius and Cicero in his Dialogue of friendship; and to Pacuvius not inferiour Lucius Accius, of whom Agellius out of Scipponius Asellio gives a most advantagious Character; of his Tragedies, his Nuptiæ is remembred by Athenæus, and his Mercator by Varro, in imitation perhaps of Diphilus, by whom two with the same Title were written; also Attilius, whose Electra translated from Sophocles, is mentioned by Suetonius. He is also styl'd by Licinius Poeta Fercus and by Cicero P. durissimus, from the Crabbedness of his his style. Also Marcus Accius Plautus, that witty Comedian of Sarsina in Umbria, whom in a great measure we yet injoy, viz. in Twenty Comedies. Also Cneus Aquilius, to whom the Comedie Bestia hath by some been attributed, which Varro rather adjudgeth to Plautus, as is testified by Agellius; another Comedian Marcus Accuicus, to whom Varro attributed many Comedies wich had been judg'd to have been written by Plautus, also the Comedian Plautius, who as Agellius observes, is by some mistaken for Plautus, by reason of the nearness of the name; also Caius Lucilius, great Uncle to Pompey; he served under Scipio Africanus, in the Numantine War, and is said to have been the first that brought Satyre in use among the Latines, and to have written a Comedy, Entitled Nummularia and certain Epodes. Then Publius Terentius Afer, six of whose Elegant Comedies remain preserved from Oblivion; he was a great imitator of Menander, whom he professes to have followed in many of his Comedies almost word for word, and was assisted in some of them

Digitized by Google

(as he himself confesseth) by Caius Lelius, surnamed the wise, and P. Cornelius Scipio Africanus, between whom and Terence, there was a very intimate friendship and familiarity. Nor do Valgius and Memmius stick to affirm that some Comedies which go under the name of Terence were entirely Scipio's. Quintus Fabius Labeo, and Marcus Papilius, both men of Consular authority, & both Poets, and such whom Terence acknowledged for his Assistants, as Suetonius in his life observeth. Also Lucius Lusius; whom Volcatius Sedigitus reckons in the Ninth rank of Comedians of whose Comedies that Entitled Thesaurus, is only remembred. Lastly, Turpilius who in his Thrasyleon, imitates a Comedy of Menanders, so Entitled.

Statius Papinius, or as many write him Publius Papinius Statius, a Neapolitan, who flouriht under Domitian though by some confounded with Statius Surculus the great Rhetorician of Tholouse, in the time of Nero; there are of his writing extant, his Thebais, Achilleis and Sylvæ: the two first being commented upon by Placidus Lactantius

wit

with him were contemporary Caius Valerius Flaccus: of whose writing we have Eight Books of Argonautics, but left imperfect, which loss Quintilian bewails. Also Marcus Valerius Martialis, a Native of Bilbilis, now called Bilbao in that part of Celtiberia or Cantabria, now called Biscaia. He was by Domitian, with whom he was in great honour, advanced to the Tribunate and Equestrian dignity, and to whom he directed many of his Epigrams, Fourteen Books of which are happily preserved to us; he mentions the foresaid Flaccus, in one of his Epigrams, with great testimonies of friendship and kindness. Also Decius Junius Juvenalis, whose Satyrs are likewise extant, two of which are thought to have been written when he was made Prefect in a Cohort in Ægypt at 80. years of age. About the same time Terentianus Maurus is thought to have lived, at least if it were the same Terentianus whom Martial speaks of l. 1. Epigr. 87. as is probable he was, and in like manner the same to whom Longinus dedicates his Book de Sublimate. There is extant an elegant Poem of his de Arte Metrica.

Digitized by Google

Statylius Flaccus, an Epigrammatic Poet, of whom there are extant one or two Epigrams in the Greec Anthology.

Stephanus, firnamed Sabbaita, or the follower of St. Sabba (a Saint in the Greec Calender) who is thought to be the Author of a Greec Tragedie, which is extant, of Chriſts death. The Comie Poet of the ſame name, ſee in Menander.

Steſichorus, a Lyric Poet, who flouriſht about the 42d. Olympiad, as appears from Suidas, Euſebius and the Anonymous Authour. His Palinody upon the praiſe of Helena, is mentioned by Philoſtratus, in his life of Appollonius Tyaneus. There is alſo mentioned by ſome a ſon of Heſiod, nam'd Steſichorus.

Steſimbrotus, ſee Euripides.

Sthenelus, ſee Dionyſius.

Strabus of Fulda, ſee Theodulphus.

Strato, a writer of Media Comedia, whoſe Phoenix is made mention of by Suidas. There was beſides him another Strato, an Epigrammatiſt, of whom there there are several Epigrams in the Greek Anthology.

Stratis, see Euripides.

Sueius, a Comic Poet, remembred by Suidas. There is chiefly noted a Comedy of his, Entitled Piscatoria: Some think him the same with Sutrius, out of whom several things are quoted by Fulgentius, in his Mythology.

Suevus, an Epic Poet, out of whose Idyl, Entitled Mortium, Macrobius in his Saturnalia cites 8 Verses.

Suffenus, see Aquinius.

Sulpitius Lupercus Servasius junior, a Poetical writer of an uncertain time, but certainly not very ancient: his Elegy de cupiditate, & Ode, de qualitate Temporis, want not the commendation of a happy vein and purity of Latin style.

Sutrius, see Sueius.

Syagrus, a Greek Poet, reputed of very great antiquity, even next after the ancient Orpheus and Musæus, by the testimony of Aelian in his various History, by whom also he is said to have have writ a Poem of the Trojan war.

Sylla, see Decius Laberius.

Digitized by Google

Sympofius, an Authour not unelegant in the esteem of Voſſius, though slighted by Giraldus. There are set forth of his writing, with the Notes of Joſephus Caſtalio, 100 Ænigmatical questions or Riddles in Greek Hexameter Verſe.

Synefius, see Cyrus of Panopolis.

T

Teleclides, see Ariſtophanes.

Teleſtes, see Oenomaus.

Terentianus Maurus, see Statius Cecilius.

Terentius Libo, a Poet of Fregellæ, remembred by Donatus from Metius.

Terentius Varro Atacinus, a Contemporary with Cicero and Hortenſius; he wrote Argonautics in imitation of Apollonius Rhodius, also Epigrams and an Elegy upon his beloved Leucadia. There flouriſht also about the same time Cajus Lælius, who is reckoned among the Latin Poets.

Terpander, a most eminent and ancient Greek Poet and Muſician, whom Euſebius delivers to have flouriſht about the 33d. Olympiad, though Glaucus thinks thinks him to have been much ancienter than Archilochus.

Digitized by Google

Tertullianus, the Divine Orator for the Christians; besides what he wrote in Prose, he wrote also five Books in Verse against the Heretic Marcion, together with a little Poem of Sodom, and another of Jonas and Nineve.

Thales Milesius, see Epimenides.

Thamyras, a Thracian Poet, who wrote three Thousand Verses of a Theological subject.

Theocritus, a Sicilian Poet of Syracuse, whom see in Menander; besides whom there was another Theocritus of Chios, as the Syracusian himself testifies in a Tetrastich Epigram upon himself.

Theodectes, see beneath in Theopompus, and also in Euripides.

Theodolus, a Latin Poet, who flourisht in the time of Zeno and Anastatius. He wrote a History of all the Miracles in the Old Testament in Verse, which is yet extant. Contemporary with him were Godelbertus, whose History from the Creation, to the Birth of our Lord, in Verse, is also extant. And Rusticus Helpidius, a Nobleman, and Physician

to

Digitized by Google

to Theoderic the Gothish King of Italy. His History of the Old and New Testament in Verse, with his Poem de Beneficiis Christi, are set forth by Georgius Fabritius; but that de Consolatione doloris, is lost.

Theodonis, a Poet who living in the time of Ptolemeus Dionysius, is remembred by Suidas; among other things he is said to have written Verses upon Cleopatra.

Theocritus, a Syracusian Poet, mentioned by Athenæus and Stephanus.

Theodorus, a Colophonian, whom Pollux mentions to have made Verses to be sung for each season of the year. Of the same name there was a Tragic Poet, mentioned by Laertius; as also another who lived under Domitian, whom see in Curiatius Maternus.

Theodosius, a Poet of Tripolis (not the same with him whose Books of the Sphere are set forth by Pena) he wrote, as saith Suidas, Verses of the Spring, with some other things in Verse Hexameter.

Theodulus, an Abbot of Florisacum, and afterwards Bishop of Orleance, in the time time of Ludovicus Pius; he composed a Hymn which was used to be sung on Palm Sunday, which with some things is to be seen in the Bibliotheca Patrum heretofore mentioned. Contemporary with him was Magnetius Rabanus Maurus, Abbot of Fulda, and afterwards Bishop of Mentz, whom Vicentius of Bellovacum accounts a Poet, second to none of his time; that which is most memorable of his Writings, is, his Isogrammatic Poem, in praise of the Cross, which he addrest to Pope Gregory the Fourth: the Disciple of this Rabanus was one Strabus, a Monk of Fulda, who besides his Glosses upon the whole Scripture, is said to have written something in Poetry: about the same time lived Hugubaldus, who dedicated to the Emperour Charls the bald, a Poem which he wrote in the praise of bald men, whereof every word began with C. To whom also Gallus Milo, Abbot of Saint Amand dedicated a Poem which he wrote de Sobrietate.

Theogenes, a Megarensian, who flourishing in the 59th. Olympiad, wrote Elegies and other Poems.

Theog-

Theognetus, a Greec Comic Writer, cited by Athenæus.

Theognis, a Megarenſian Poet, whoſe Sentences in Greec Verſe, are extant, and commonly printed with Hæſiod, Theocritus and the reſt of the Poetæ minores. He was born, as ſaith Euſebius, about the 58 h. or 59th. Olympiad, and lived untill the Perſian War, being contemporary with Simonides Ceus, and Timocreitus, of both whom he makes mention; the Tragic Poet of the ſame name, ſee in Euripides.

Theolytus, a Lesbian of Mitylene, whoſe Poem Entitled Bacchica, is cited by Athenæus, he is alſo taken notice of by the Scholiaſt of Apollonius.

Theophanes, a Lesbian, who flouriſht in the time of Ptolomeus Auletes; beſides his Hiſtory of the Acts of Pompey (whom out of friendſhip and kindneſs, he accompanied in the Wars) he is ſaid to have written the Mithridatic war in Verſe, as Janus Douza is of Opinion; there are moreover, two Epigrams of his in the Greec Anthology. Of the ſame name was likewiſe a Biſhop of Nice, whoſe divine Hymns are mentioned by

The-

Digitized by Google

Theodorus Prodromus. The Latin Version of one whereof viz. that upon the Annunciation of the Sacred Virgin, being an Acroſtich, is to be found in the Bibliotheca patrum heretofore mentioned.

Theophilus, ſee Philiſtion.

Theopompus (not the ſame with that Noble Orator and Hiſtorian the Diſciple of Iſocrates) a writer of Vetus Comœdia, contemporary with Plato, at whom he had a fling in ſome of his Comedies (if it were the ſame) his Hydra, and ſeveral others of his Comedies are cited by Athenæus, and ſome by Pollux. Of the ſame name was an Epic Poet of Colophon celebrated by Athenæus. Contemporary with him were Naucrates, Iſocrates, and Theodectes, who all three contended with him at the ſolemnity of Mauſolus his Funeral, inſtituted by Artemiſia, at which as Suidas ſaith, Theopompus; as the nameleſs deſcriber of the Olympiads, Theodectes overcame: this laſt was of Phaſelus in Lycia, the Diſciple of Plato and Iſocrates, and as ſome ſay of Ariſtotle; he is ſaid to have written the Art of Rhetoric ric in Verse, and Fifty Tragedies, whereof one was Entitled Mausolus. Besides these were Nicostratus, not he of Olynthus who was a Historian, a Comic Poet sirnamed, by Laertius, Clytemnestra, Fifteen of whose Fables are remembred by Athenæus, and for the excellent conduct of his Action, Pollux calls him κωμῳδοδιδάσκαλος and Stephanus κωμῳδητὴς, several Senary Iambics also are quoted by Stobæus. Tigretus, otherwise called Pigres (the Brother of Artemisia) who turned Homers Ilias into an Elegiac Poem by subjoyning a Pentameter after every Hexameter; some likewise attribute to him Margites, Batrachomyomachia, and some other things. Also Ephippus, a writer of Media Comædia, out of whose Codoniastæ, Philyra, and Obeliaphori, certain passages are cited by Athenæus. Also Epicrates of Ambracia, a writer of Media Comædia, among whose Comedies (in some of which he is said to have been somewhat Scoptic against Plato and Speusippus) his Amazones and Emporos are mentioned by Suidas: and much of the same time Philippus, a writer in like manner of Media Comædia, whose κα-

Digitized by Google

δ'ανιασα

Nicander is remembred by Suidas from Athenæus as he saith, perhaps confounding it with Nicander, which is indeed mentioned by Athenæus, also Xenoclides whom Ulpian affirms to have been an Athenian; he is commended by Demosthenes for a very good Poet.

Thespis, see Epimenides.

Thuscus, see Publius Ovidius.

Tiberianus, see Rhetianus Faunius.

Ticida, an old Latin Epigrammatist, Contemporary with Catullus.

Tigretus, see Theopompus.

Timachidas, a Rhodian, who as saith Suidas, wrote in Verse the manner of setting forth of Feasts and Banquets out of which work Athenæus cites certain Verses of the 5th Pompilius.

Timosthenes, a Tragic Poet of whose writing there are remembred his Danaides, and 11 more Tragedies.

Timocles, an Athenian Comic Poet, whose Dentesatyri, Centaurus, Gamita Epistolæ, Epicherecacus, and Philodicaste are remembred by Suidas, together with Dionysiazusæ, Polypragmon and Eleven more of another Comic Poet of the same name.

Digitized by Google

Timocreon of Rhodes, a writer of Vetus Comœdia, who flouriſht about the 75*th*. Olympiad: he wrote among others, as Suidas teſtifieth, a Comedy againſt Simonides Melicus and Themiſtocles, with both of whom he was at very great enmity; what his Epitaph was, is to be ſeen in Athenæus.

Timon of Phliaſius, ſee Callimachus.

Timotheus of Gaza, ſee Chriſtodorus.

Timotheus of Miletus, ſee Oenomaus.

Titianus, a Rhetorician, who erected a School at Lyons; he is remembred by Auſonius for his Apologies in Trimeter Iambics.

Titinnius, a Latin Comic Poet, whoſe Barathrum, and 7 other Comedies are cited by Charifius.

Titius Septimius, ſee Publius Ovidius.

Titus Annianus, ſee Annianus.

Titus Calfurnius Piſo, a Sicilian Poet, whoſe Bucolic Eglogues are commonly printed with Gratius, the Faliſcan, his Poem of Hunting.

Titus Lucretius Carus, one of the moſt ancient ancient, for he flouriſht about 168th. Olympiad, in the time of the Cymbrian War, and for Majeſty and Elegancy of Style, to be rankt among the beſt of Latin Poets; whoever ſhall obſerve his neat Digreſſions, for there he chiefly ſhews himſelf, his main Subject being a kind of Syſtem of Epicurean Philoſophy, in Herbic Verſe, Entitled de Rerum Natura. There is alſo another Titus Lucretius, a Roman Knight, and writer of Mimes, in the time of Julius Ceſar.

Titus Pomponius Atticus, ſee Decius Laberius.

Titus Quintius Atta, an old Latin writer of thoſe ſort of Comedies, called, from the kind of Garment uſed by the Actors, Togatæ.

Titus Valgius, an old Latin Poet, of whom ſeveral Verſes are cited by Criſpinus and Servius.

Titus Veſpaſianus, a Roman Emperour, who beſides his great actions in War, for which he is renowned in Hiſtory, was conſiderable in Poetry, having written Tragedies in Greec, with ſeveral other Poems both in Greec and Latine Latine by the Testimony of Eutropius, Isidorus and Suidas.

Toxotius, a Roman Senator, whose Poems were extant in the time of Capitolinus.

Trabea, a Comic Poet, quoted by Cicero and Charisius, see Qu. Trabeas.

Tribonianus Sidetes, see Agathias.

Triphyllius a Cyprian Bishop, who, as Suidas testifieth, wrote the life and miracles (in Iambic Verse) of Spiridion, Bishop of Tremithus in Cyprus, who was present at the Nicene Councell.

Tryphon, the Son of Ammonius a Grammarian and Poet of Alexandria, cited by Athenæus and Suidas. There is a Tetrastich of Tryphon, firnamed Mercurius, in the first Book of the Greek Anthology.

Tryphiodorus, see Christodorus.

Turnebus, see Publius Ovidius.

Turcius Rufus Festus Asterius, a Roman Consul, together with Flavius Præsidius, in the time of Anastasius; he is said to have written in Verse a Comparation of the Old Testament with the New, which some nevertheless attribute to Sedulius, others to Mamertus.

Tur-

Turnus, see Curiatius Maternus.

Turpilius, see Statius Cæcilius.

Tyrtæus, an Elegiac Poet, who as Suidas saith, flourisht about the 35*th*. Olympiad. In the Messinian War he was once chosen by the Lacedemonians (into whom he inspired courage by the Martial spirit which his Verses breathed) General against the Messenians.

V

Vagellius, an old Latin Poet, remembred by Seneca, of whom he was an intimate friend.

Valerius Ædituus, an old Latin Epigrammatist, in whose Verses, his two Mistresses Pamphilia and Philerote are very much celebrated.

Valerius Cato, a Grammarian and Poet, who flourisht in the time of Sylla. Besides what he wrote in Grammar, he wrote also several Poems, among which his Lydia and Diana are principally approved. He is mentioned most particularly by Suetonius in his Book de Illustribus Grammaticis.

Venantius Honorius Clementianus Fortunatus

Digitized by Google

tunatus, a Christian Poet, who flourisht in the time of the Emperour Justinus the younger; he wrote in Verse, de partu Virginis, de Beneficiis Christi, de B. Martino; besides his Hymns, and several divine Poems mentioned by Giraldus, among which are thought to be some which have been attributed to Lactantius.

Vestritius Spurina, a no less famous Souldier (for he overcame King Breveterius, for which he was honoured with a Statue) than Lyric Poet, in the time of the Vespasians. He addicted himself much to the Imitation of Horace.

Victorinus Pictavienſis, see Cecilius Cyprianus.

Victorius, a Contemporary of Sidonius Apollinaris; by whom he is celebrated in the last Epistle of his fifth Book.

Virgilius Romanus, a Comic Poet, in the time of the Emperour Trajan; he is mentioned with great commendation by Pliny, in his Epistle to Caninius Rufus.

Vocanius Victor, see Curiatius Maternus.

Volcatius Sedigitus, the Authour of a Treatise of the old Latin Poets, both before

before and in his time, in Senary Iambic Verse.

Vomanus, one of the 12. firnamed Scolastici, of whom see in Julianus.

Votienus, see Curiatius Maternus.

X

Xenarchus, a Comic Poet remembred by Aristotle in his Poetics; several of his Comedies are reckon'd up by Athenæus and Suidas.

Xenoclides, see Theopompus.

Xenophanes, a Physical Poet of Colophon, who Flourish'd until the 72^d^ Olympiad, and farther, as appears from Athenæus; he is deliver'd by Laertius, who wrote his Life, to have written of the Foundation and Antiquities of Colophon, and of the Colonie transplanted from thence to Elea, in Verse, & by Hieronymus, in his Eusebian Chronicle, to have Composed several Tragedies, though with what ground I know not; but there is nothing Extant of his, except certain Fragments in H. Stephanus his Collection; it is doubted by Vossius whether Xenophanes, cited by Athenæus,

Digitized by Google

Athenæus be this of Colophon, or another; but that Xenophanes, mentioned by Fulgentius was of Heraclopolis. About the same time flourisht Ibycus (not he of Rhegium) otherwise Hippicus, Hippias or Hipys; certain fragments of whom are to be seen in H. Stephanus his Collection of the fragments of the Lyric Poets. Phocylides, a Milesian, commonly reputed the Authour of that Nuthetic Poem, printed among the Minor Poets, though Vossius judgeth the Authour thereof, of a much later time, an Alexandrine Jew, or else Christian of the same name also. Hipponax, a Poet mentioned by Pliny, l. 35. c. 5. and perhaps the same Ephesian Poet, whose Senary Iambics are quoted by Stobæus; his Parodia and Synonyma by Athenæus, and who is also mentioned by Suidas.

Z

Zenodotus of Ephesus, see Menander.

THE

Digitized by Google

Eminent Poets

Among the

MODERNS.

Aron Bataleus the Author of a little Poem, Entitled, Plausus Trivilienſis, Printed at Baſil, with ſome ſmall Poetical peices of the choiceſt of the Modern Poets.

Abraham Cowly, the moſt applauded Poet of our Nation both of the preſent and paſt Ages; his early Muſe began to dawn at the Thirteenth Year of his Age, he being then a Scholar at Weſtminſter School, in Two little Poems

Digitized by Google

Antonius and Melida, and Pyramus and Thisbe; which discovering a Maturity of sence above the Years that writ them, were thought worthy to be then publisht, though not to be inserted into the now compleated Edition of his Works, divided into 4 parts, his Mistres being the amorous prolusions of his Youthful Muse, his Miscellanies or Poems of various Arguments, his most admir'd Heroick Poem Davideis, the first Books whereof he Compos'd, while but a young Student at Trinity Colledge in Cambridge; and lastly that is in order of time though not of place, his Pindaric Odes, so call'd, I suppose, from the measure in which he Translated the first Ithmian and Nemean Odes, whereas the form of those Odes in the Original is very different, & yet in Imitation of him, 'tis pleasant to observe what a notable Trade hath been driven of late in Pindaric Odes: Besides these Poems of his in English, there is Extant of his writing in a Volume by it self a Latin Poem of Herbs and Plants; also he hath Translated Two Books of his Davideis into Latin Verse,

Digitized by Google

Verſe, which are in the large Volume among the reſt of his Works.

Abraham France, a Verſifier in Queen Elizabeth's time, who imitating Latin meaſure in Engliſh Verſe, wrote his Iviechurch and ſome other things in Hexameter, ſome alſo in Hexameter and Pentameter, nor was he altogether ſingular in this way of writing; for Sir Philip Sidny in the paſtoral interludes of his Arcadia, uſes not only theſe but all other ſorts of Latin Meaſure, in which no wonder he is follow'd by ſo few, ſince they neither become the Engliſh nor any other Modern Language.

Abrahamus Leſcherus, the Author of a Poem Entitled the Monomachie or ſingle Combat between David and Goliah, his Two Books of Kings alſo, and Lamentations of Jeremie in Latin Verſe were printed by the famous Oporinus, not to mention his Epicedes, Epithalamies, and other Poems.

Actius Sincerus Sanazarius, a Neapolitan Poet, of principal Fame and Reputation for Latin Verſe, gain'd by his Poem de partu Virginis, his piscatory Eclogues, Epigrams, &c.

Digitized by Google

Adamus Regius a Scotch-man, whose Latin Verses are Extant among the works of some of the chief Latin Poets of that Nation.

Adamus Schroterus a Silesian, who wrote an Epithalamium upon the Nuptials of Sigismund K. of Poland, with Catharine the Daughter of the Emperour Ferdinand.

Adamus Siberus a Germane, the Author of Proseucha pro Ecclesia, Epinicia, Acholastica, and several other Poems.

Adriano Polito a Comic writer among the Italians.

Adrianus Blienbergius, Adrianus Laurentius, and Adr. Marius a Triumvirat of Adrians, of no obscure name among the Belgick Poets.

Adrianus Junius, a most learned Physician of Holland, and moreover by the Testimony of Melchior Adams a Critic, Poet and most exact Historian aud Antiquary.

Adrianus Turnebus Professor Regius at Paris of Philosophy and the Greec Tongue

Tongue, he is reckon'd among the French writers of Latin Poesie.

Aegidius Menagius a French-man, whose not uneloquent Poems consisting of Elegies, Epigrams, and Varia Carmina in Latin, Ecloge of various Poems in Greec, his Italian Rime, his Sonnets, Madrigals, Balades and Epistles in French were printed at Amsterdam Anno 1663.

Aemilianus an Elegiac Poet, who wrote Epigrams, and an Epicedium upon the Emperour Frideric.

Aenaas Sylvius a Hetrurian, born in the City of Siena, and by the name of Pius Secundus, Exalted to the Papal Chair, if ever any, by the merit of his great Learning and Excellent Parts, which produc'd almost innumerable Volumes of various Arguments, and among the rest some in Verse not of the meanest value for Wit and Poetic Fancy, particularly his Epigrams, his Niraphilenticum, and his Epistolar Poems.

Agnolo Firenzuola, see Ottavio Rinuccini.

Digitized by Google

Alexander Brassicanus, see Joannes Alexander Br.

Alexander Brome an Attorny of the Mayors Court, yet Poetically addicted, a Man of Law and Poetry at once, (strange incongruity one would think) and that of so Jovial a strain, that among the Sons of Mirth & Bacchus, to whom his Sack-inspired Songs have been so often Sung to the sprightly Violin, his name cannot chuse but be immortal, and in this respect he may well be stil'd the English Anacreon, many also of the Odes of Horace, who was likewise a good Fellow, are of his Translating; nor are there wanting among his Extant Poems many other various Subjects as well serious as otherwise; there is also of his writing a Comedy called the Cunning Lovers.

Albertus Ciftarellus the Author of a Poem in praise of St. Anna Garibana.

Alcadinus a Sicilian Poet, who wrote in Verse the Tryumphs of the Emperour Henry, and the acts of his Son Friderie.

Alessandro Gatti, an Italian writer of Madrigals.

Alexander

Digitized by Google

Alexander Prior of the Monastery of Essebie, in the Reign of K. Edw. the Third, and reckon'd among the chief of English Poets and Orators of that Age.

Alexander Rosse a Scotch writer, of whose Poetry the only thing noted is his Cento out of Virgil, Entitled Virgilius Evangelizans.

Aloysius Cherchiarius a Regular of the Congregation of Somascha, who professing Poetry and Oratory, open'd an Academy at Venice, called the Academy of the Generosi.

Andreas Alciatus, a famous Jurisconsult of Milan, who though a writer of many learned works in Prose, is yet best known by his Book of Hieroglyphical Emblems Elegantly illustrated and explained in Elegiac Verse.

Andrea di Bergamo an Italian writer of Satyrs, which were printed at Venice Anno 1556.

Andreas Canonherius a German of much esteem for Latin Verse, and therefore by Learned men rank'd among the German Poets.

Digitized by Google

Andreas Dactius, a Florentine, the Author of a Poem Entitled Aeluro-Myomachia, or the Battle between the Cat and Mice; besides underwoods, Epicediums, and other Poems of various Argument.

Andreas Fabricius, a Poet of Chemnitz, the Author of a Poem Entitled Christus Lachrymans, which was printed at Wittenberg in the Year 1551.

Andreas Janus Lascaris, a writer of Rhyndacum, with whose Treatise of the Roman Militia, Collected out of Polybius his History, are Extant a numbe of Greec and Latin Epigrams of his Composing.

Andrea Giuseppe Rossolo, an Italian, Author of a Poem Entitled Giacobbe Ripatriante, which was printed at Rome Anno 1646.

Andreas Libavius a German, whose not unhappy Vein in Latin Verse obtains him a place among the eminent Poets of that Nation.

Andreas Melvinus a witty and learned Scotch-man, and particularly fam'd for Latin Poetry; very notable is his Distich to the Lady Arabella, with whom he was fellow prisoner in the Tower.

Caus

Causa mihi tecum communis Carceris, Ara
Bella tibi causa est Carceris Ara mihi.

The cause of his Commitment being his writing Verses against the Altar at Whitehall.

Andreas Navagerius, a Venetian, both Historian Poet and Orator, but among his Poems his Eclogues are particularly fam'd, being printed by Oporinus among the Eclogues of other conspicuous Poets.

Andreas Papius, an exact Master of the Two learned Tongues, yet withall so excellent in Musick and Poetry, as if either of them had been his whole business.

Andreas Ramseius, a Scotch Latin Versifier, of whom what is Extant, or at least attainable, is to be found in a Collection Entituled Deliciæ Poetarum Scotorum.

Angelinus Gazæus, a Belgic Poet, whose Pia Hilaria, or Divine Latin Poems are generally esteemed.

Digitized by Google

Angelo Badalucchi, see Dominico Cormecchini.

Angelo Grilli, an Italian Lyric Poet, or writer of Sonetts, Madrigals and Canzonetts.

Angelus Politianus, a most conspicuous Italian Author, the writer of many learned & polite Volumes, among which those in Verse are not the least in fame, viz. his Sylvæ, his Treatise of Poetry and Poets, and his Epigrams.

Annibal Nicolini a Dramatic Poet of Engubium a Town in the Dutchy of Spolete, but chiefly in the pastoral way.

Antimo Gallo, an Italian Lyric, or pourer forth of amorous conceits in Sonetts, Madrigals &c

Antonie Brewer a contributer to the English Stage by his Lingua, Loves Loadstone, and the Countrey Girl, Comedies, The Love-sick King and Landagarba, Tragecomedies, and Loves Dominion a Pastoral.

Antonio Cornazano an Orater and Poet of Ferrara, among whose other Poems of various Subjects the principally noted is that of the Life and Death of the Blessed Virgin.

Antonio

Digitized by Google

Antonio Hungaro, an Italian, both Comic Poet, and writer of Sonetts.

Antonius Brun a writer of certain Lyric Poems printed at Nirenberg by Joannes Petreius.

Antonius Codrus Urseus, a learned and polite Author, in Prose of works of various Subjects, in Verse of 2 Books of Sylvæ set forth by a great admirer of them Philippus Beroaldus junior, besides Satyrs, Eglogues and Epigrams.

Antonio Decio de Horta an Italian Tragic Poet.

Antonio Facchenetti, an Italian Dramatic Poet, but chiefly in the way of Pastoral.

Antonius Fayus an eminent French writer, out of whose writing there is also a Miscellanie of Emblems and Epigrams.

Antonius Franciscus Rainerius an Italian Versifier, but chiefly in the Latin Idiom.

Antonio Geraldino, Protonotary to the Apostolic See, and Poet Laureat of Rome, he is principally recommended to the World by his Divine Bucolics, which have been Printed in several places, places; his other chiefest Works are his Acts of the Kings of Spain in various Verse, his Fasti in Elegiac, his Hymns of the Heroes in Lyric, the Acts of the Martyrs in Heroic.

Digitized by Google

Antonio Mancinelli, a Grammarian most professedly, who wrote several Grammatical Treatises at Venice about the Year 1490. but both many of them, and some also of other Subjects, in Verse; he is much esteemed also for his Comments upon Virgils Eclogues and Georgics, and upon Horace his Odes, his Book of Epigrams, with other things.

Antonius Millæus the Author of a late Poem Entitled Musæ Victor, printed at Lyons Anno 1636.

M. Antonius Muretus, a most learned Fr. Commentator and Eloquent Orator; and also so much a Poet that Scævola Samarthanus in his Elogies of the Learned Men of France, among other Commendations, hath also this of him, That he was so like Catullus, that Catullus was not more like himself; he dyed Anno Dom. 1585.

Antonius

Digitized by Google

Antonius Sebastianus, a Native of Minturnæ, who is not asham'd to appear among the choice Latin Poets of Italy. Of like Estimation is, Aonius Palearius another Italian writer of Latin Verse.

Archangelio Archangelio, see Dominico Cornacchini.

Armentoldo Samponiano a Noted Italian writer of Pastoral Dramatic Poesie.

Arthurus Johnstonus, an eminent Scotch Physician, who in his younger Years had the reputation of so excellent a Poet, that he was Laureated at Paris before he had fully arriv'd to the 23d Year of his Age; of his Poetical works there are particularly Collected together, his Epigrams, his Parerga, his Musæ Aulicæ, his Reges Scoti, and his Heroes Scoti, his Paraphrastical Translation of David's Psalms is also remembred with particular Commendation.

Sir Aston Cockain the Author (what ever he hath written in Poetry besides) of several things to the Stage, as the Obstinate Lady, a Comedy, Trappolin suppos'd ſuppos'd a Prince, and Tyranical Government, Tragecomedies, and Therſites an Interlude.

B.

Baldinus Berlegonius, a Hollander, whoſe happy Vein in Latin Verſe gives him place among the Belgic Poets.

Baptiſta Candelarius a Conſul of Roan, mention'd by Raviſius Textor with much Honour among the Learned Men and Poets of his time.

Baptiſta Fauſtus a Carmelite Friar of Mantua, and therefore generally Sirnam'd Mantuanus, vulgarly of ſuch fame for his Poetry, that he is compar'd even with his Countrey-man Virgil, but not by Lilius Giraldus, who takes the liberty to term him rather an Extemporary than Mature Poet, and indeed whoever looks well into his home-ſpun and plain Verſe, ſhall find him no Virgil though a Mantuan, which may in part be attributed to the multitude of his Writings; for beſides his 10 Eglogues (the moſt known and publisht of all his other Works) 8 of which he confesseth to have written when a Young Student at Padua; there are of his writing almost innumerable other Volumes as well in Verse as Prose, of which first kind are his Lives of St. Denis, St. George, St. Lewis Morbiolus in Heroic Verse, his Hymn upon the Nativity of St. John Baptist in Elegiac, his description and praise of Refrigerius his Villa in Heroic, his 4 Books of Sylvæ, &c. he dyed Anno 1516. in the 72d Year of his Age.

known

Baptista, a Friar of Ferrara, of the Order of St. Mary of Mount Carmel, chiefly fam'd for History, but taken notice of also for his Book of Epigrams.

Baptista Fiera, a Philosopher and renowned Physician of Mantua, and for Poetry, if not equal in fame to the Mantuan Carmelite before mentioned, yet by no means to be omitted, for his 4 Books of Evangelical History in Verse, with several Hymns he dedicated to Pope Adrian the 6th; besides which there are Extant of his writing

Digitized by Google

ing Sylvæ, Elegies, Epigrams, and other Poems.

Baptista Guarini, a learned Son of a learned Father, of Verona: among his Poetic works, for besides the many things he wrote in Prose, he had a Vein sufficiently flowing in all kinds of Poetry; his Dramatic peices are not the least in vogue; but above all his Pastor fido hath been naturaliz'd in all parts of Europe, where the Italian Tongue is not a stranger, and perhaps not the lateſt of all here in England by the Elegant Pen of Sir Richard Fanshaw, who went Lord Embassador from his present Majesty of Great Britain to his Catholick Majesty Philip the 4th.

Baptista Persius his Eclogue Thirsis was printed at Strasburg by Jacobus Jucundus in the Year 1540. and at Basil by Oporinus.

Baptista Bishop of Reggio, the Author of several Divine Poems, viz. de flenda cruce in Elegiac Verse, de morte, de B. Virgine, &c.

Baptista

Baptista Sanga his Poetus are peculiarly mentioned by Giraldus and Conradus Licosthenes.

Battista Spagnolus an Italian, who for his faculty in Latin Verse is remembred among the chief Italian Poets of that kind.

Barnabas Brissonius a French-man, no less Eminent for his Learning than for the great place of Trust and Dignity he he held in the State, Equivalent to the Lord Chief Justice with us. B. Andrews calls him the Varro of France, and K. H. the 4th us'd to boast that he durst oppose him against the learnedst man any Prince in Christendome could produce against him; his most celebrated Work in Prose is his Book de formulis; and for what he wrote also in Latin Verse he is also rank'd among the principal Poets of his time.

Bartholomæus Amantius, an Assistant to Petrus Appianus the famous German Cosmographer of Leysnick, in his Collection of ancient Inscriptions which was pompously set forth with Ornaments of Verse (the part of Amantius) and Sculpture at the charge of Reymun-

Digitized by Google

Reymundus Fuggerus at Ingolstade; he was flourishing about the Year 1543.

Bartholomæus Anulus, a French Poet, whose Picta Poesis consisted of the descriptions of certain Emblematical Figures in the nature of those of Alciate.

Bartholmew Traheron, a not altogether obscure writer in his time, namely in the Reign of K. Edw. the 6th, as well in Verse as Prose.

Barton Holyday an old Student of Christ-Church in Oxford, who besides his Translation of Juvenal with Elaborate Notes, hath writ several other things in English Verse rather Learned than Elegant, and particularly a Comedy called The Marriage of the Arts.

Basilio Zanchio a Canon of the Lateranensian Order, a Native of Bergamo, a Town in the Seigniory of Venice, of whose Works his Eclogues and Epigrams are not the least in repute; there is also another Basilius of Parma, whose Verses are mentioned by Baptista Mantuan in the latter end of his Third Book of Sylvæ.

Benedetto Varchi, see Ottavio Rinuccini.

Benedictus

Benedictus Jovius, the Brother of Paulus, his Epigrams, his Distichs to Laurentio Medici, his Poem of the Fountains of Como, and another Entitled Philautia, are for Verse of no less account than his History of Como, & his Book of Architecture for Prose.

Benedictus Lampridius a Cremonese writer of Epigrams and Lyric Odes both Greek and Latin.

Benedictus Luscius, chiefly to be remembred for his Epithalamium to John Friderie Prince Elector of Saxony.

Benjamin Johnson, the most learned, judicious and correct, generally so accounted, of our English Comedians, and the more to be admired for being so, for that neither the height of natural parts, for he was no Shakespheare, nor the cost of Extraordinary Education; for he is reported but a Bricklayers Son, but his own proper Industry and Addiction to Books advanced him to this perfection: In three of his Comedies, namely the Fox, Alchymist and Silent Woman; he may be compared, in the Judgment of Learned Men, for Decorum, Language, and

Digitized by Google

and well Humouring of the Parts, as well with the chief of the Ancient Greec and Latin Comedians as the prime of Modern Italians, who have been judg'd the beſt of Europe for a happy Vein in Comedies, nor is his Bartholmew-Fair much ſhort of them; as for his other Comedies Cinthia's Revells, Poetaſter, and the reſt, let the name of Ben Johnſon protect them againſt whoever ſhall think fit to be ſevere in cenſure againſt them: The Truth is, his Tragedies Sejanus and Catiline ſeem to have in them more of an artificial and inflate than of a pathetical and naturally Tragic height: In the reſt of his Poetry, for he is not wholly Dramatic, as his Underwoods, Epigrams, &c. he is ſometimes bold and ſtrenuous, ſometimes Magiſterial, ſometimes Lepid and full enough of conceit, and ſometimes a Man as other Men are.

Bernardinus Partheneius, a Native of Spilimberg, who hath a place among the choice Collected Works of the Italian writers of Latin Verſe.

Bernardino Percivallo, an Italian Dramatic matic Poet, but chiefly in the way of Pastoral.

Bernardino Pino, see Dominico Cornacchini.

Bernardino Rota, see Ottavio Rinuccini.

Bernardus Bauhusius, a Belgian, the most notable Man was ever heard of for Ringing the Changes in Verse; for in a Poem he wrote of the B. Virgin, Entitled, Proteus Parthenicus unius versus, he is said to have chang'd one Verse 1022. times according to the reputed * number of the constellations; he is mentioned by Sweertius in his Athenæ Belgicæ, and by Andreas Valerius in his Bibliotheca Belgica.

* Tot sibi sunt, Virgo, dotes, quot sideraCœlo.

Bernardus Prætorius reckon'd among the principal of German writers, who have been Eminent for Latin Poesie.

Bernardo Tasso, the Father of that Renowned Italian Poet Torquato Tasso, himself also the Author of a noted Poem Entitled Amadei.

Le Sieur de Boisval the Author of a French Heroic Poem Entitled Esther.

Bonaven-

Digitized by Google

Bonaventura Vulcanius, an Author of much Esteem for the many learned Works he hath put forth, and for what he writ in Verse, rank'd in the number of Belgic Latin Poets.

Mr. Bouillon, a French-man, of whose writing there are Extant Epigrams and other pieces of Poetry.

Mr. Boursault, a French writer of Poems, Entitled Poesies d'Obligation & d'Amour printed at Paris Anno 1667.

Mr. Brebœf, a late French Poet, of whose Poesie divers things are printed at Paris not many Years since.

Bruno Nolano, see Dominico Cornacchini.

Burchiello, see Ludovico Dolce.

C.

Carolo Flamma, an Italian Dramatic Poet, but chiefly in the way of Pastoral.

Carolus Malatesta, an Italian writer reckon'd among the principal of that Nation for Latin Poesie.

Carolus Malapertius, a Belgic writer of Latin Verse.

Carolo

Digitized by Google

Carolo Noci one of the chief of the Italian writers of Pastoral.

Carolus Utenhovius, a Native of Gant, Born of a Noble Family, a Man of a wandring and unsetled kind of life, but stedfastly addicted to Learning in general, and to Poetry in Particular.

Celio Calcagnino, a most universally Learned Italian Writer, among whose many other Volumes in Humanity, Antiquity, Philosophy and Theology, his 3 Books of Sonnets are not in the least repute, being commonly printed, together with those of Ariosto and Pigna.

Celio Magno, an Italian Poet, especially in the way of Sonnets and other Lyric Poetry.

Cesare Caporale, see Ludovico Dolce.

Cesare Cremonino a Pastoral writer among the Italian Dramatics.

Cesare Rinaldi, a Lyric Poet or Sonnet writer of Bononia, an Ancient Town and University of Romania.

Cesare Simonetti, an Italian Dramatic Poet, but principally in the way of Pastoral.

Le

Digitized by Google

Le Sieur Chappelain, the Author of a French Poem Entitled la Pucelle, or France's delivery.

Mr. Chevreau, the Author of certain French Poems printed at Paris Anno 1656

Christopherus Aulæus, his Epicedium upon the death of Anne Queen of Hungary and Bohemia, his Tristia, his Epigrams, and his Invective against the K. of France, are all mentioned by Gesner in his Bibliotheca.

Christopherus Cesareus, his Querela nostrorum temporum was printed at Basil by Oporinus 1552.

Christophoro Castelletti, see Dominico Cornacchini.

Christopher Marlow, a kind of a second Shakespear (whose contemporary he was) not only because like him he rose from an Actor to be a maker of Plays, though inferiour both in Fame and Merit; but also because in his begun Poem of Hero and Leander, he seems to have a resemblance of that clean and unsophisticated Wit, which is natural to that incomparable Poet; this Poem being left unfinished by Marlow,

Digitized by Google

Marlow, who in some riotous Fray came to an untimely and violent End, was thought worthy of the finishing Hand of Chapman; in the performance whereof nevertheless he fell short of the Spirit and Invention with which it was begun; of all that he hath written to the Stage his Dr. Faustus hath made the greatest noise with its Devils and such like Tragical sport, nor are his other 2 Tragedies to be forgotten, namely his Edw. the II. and Massacre at Paris, besides his Jew of Malta a Tragecomedie, and his Tragedy of Dido, in which he was joyned with Nash.

Chr. Oclandus, an old English Poet, that is, one of the oldest of the Moderns, who wrote in Verse a Historical piece, called Anglorum Prælia.

Christophorus Longolius, a Parisian, who besides many things in Prose, wrote also Elegies aud Epigrams.

Christopherus Palmensis, his Distichs were printed at Basil by Robert Winter; he flourish'd about 1486.

Digitized by Google

Christopherus Pannonius is chiefly remembred for his Elegy to Nicolas Perrot Granvile printed with Paradin's ancient state of Burgundy, at Basil.

Christophorus Schellembergius, a German Poet, principally remembred for his Epithalamium upon the Marriage of Wolfangus Musculus, a noted Physician, his Friend.

Christophoro Sicinio, see Dominico Coruacchini.

Christophorus Stummelius, a German, not unfam'd among the Latin Versifiers of that Nation.

Christopherus Syngelius, mentioned for his Elegy upon Magdalen (the Wife of Ularicus Earl of Reinstein) who great with Child perisht miserably by an accidental Fire in the Year 1546.

Claudius Paradinus, a writer of Emblems in Imitation of those of Alciate.

Clemens Marotus a French Poet of Cahors, whom Antoin Verd in his Bibliothec stiles the Poet of Princes and the Prince of the Poets of his time.

Clemens

Digitized by Google

Clemens Janitius, a Polonian Poet Laureat, whose I. Book of Tristia, I. Book of various Elegies, and another of Epigrams are said to have been printed at Cracovia.

Conradus Celtes, a German, both Philosopher, Orator, and Mathematician of great Fame, but withall so highly applauded for his singular gift in Poetry, that he was honoured by the Emperour Frederic, at the Suit of the Duke of Saxony, with the Poetical Wreath in the 32*d*. Year of his Age, as saith Boxhornius in his Monuments and Elogies of Illustrious Men; but Pantaleon in his Book de viris Illustribus saith by the Emperour Maximilian in the 35*th*. Year of his Age, Anno 1494. however all agree he was the first Poet Laureat among the Germans.

Conradus of Alyzeia, a Town of the Palatinate, but in the Dioces of Mentz, of whose Poetical Works (for he wrote also in Prose) the chief are his Poem of the Virgin Mary, and the Redemption of Humane kind, his Epistles to divers Friends and his Book of Odes. he is mentioned flourishing in the Year 1370.

Digitized by Google

at Gaunt Anno 1582. came to be History professour, Secretary, and Library Keeper at the University of Leiden; In Prose he is Eminent for his Exercitations upon the New Testament, and divers Philological Works, in strict Oration for his Excellent style in Greec and Latin Verse, of which sufficient Testimonies are Extant, and for which he is compar'd by Casaubone in his Epistles to Homer for the Greec, and to Ovid and Propertius for the Latin, besides what he wrote poetically in his Native Tongue.

Damasus Blienburgius, a Hollander, who for what he hath written in Latin Poesie is remembred among the chief of Belgic Latin Poets.

Dantes Aligerus, a most Renowned Florentine, and the first of Italian Poets of any Fame or Note for Vernacular Verse; but that which most proclaims his Fame to the World is his Triple Poem Entitled, Paradice, Purgatory and Hell; besides which he wrote several things in Prose; the Meridian of his flourishing time was the Year 1321. the Emperour Lewes the

Digitized by Google

the 5th Sirnamed Bavarus then Reigning.

David Echlinus a Scotch-man, whose Poem Entitled Ova Paschalia is to be found in a Collection of the choice Works of several Scotch Latin Poets; as likewise

David Humus his Lusus Poetici.

David Kynalochus, his Poem de Hominis procreatione, & de Anatome.

David Wederburnus his various Poems.

Diomede Borghese, a Lyric Poet, or Sonnet writer of Siena.

Dionysius Lebius Taubilius, a learned German writer as well in Verse as Prose.

Dionysio Guazzoni, a Dramatic Poet of Cremona, chiefly in the way of Pastoral.

Dionysius Gotofredus, a French Civilian, of that Eminence, that he is styl'd by Learned Men the Papinian of his time, and by Dilherus in his Academical Disputations is highly commended for his Notes upon the Body of the Civil Law, yet amidst so laborious a Study, and such a painful Work, he could sometimes be vacant to the Latin Muse.

Digitized by Google

Dominicus Baudius, a most grateful Associate and Favourite to the most Learned, and also the most noble persons of his time both in England, France and the Low-Countries, and among the rest (coming into England in the retinue of a Splendid Embassie from the States to Queen Elizabeth) to the great Patron of all vertue Sir Philip Sidny, for the singular Merit of his Worth and Learning, of which he had given large Proofs in several famous Universities, especially that of Leyden, to which at last he wholly betook himself, and with great Reputation read Eloquence and History; his Extant Latin Poems are particularly commended by Grotius and others, the most Excellent of Modern Poets themselves; he was Born at Lisle in Flanders, the Son of Dominicus and Marie Heems on the 9*th*. of the Ides of April 1561.

Dominico Cornacchini an Italian Dramatic, but particularly in the way of Comedy, among the Multitude of which kind of writers scarce to be numbred, numbred, these following deserve not to be past by in silence, viz. Christophero Sicinio, Archangelo Archangelo, Bernardino Pino, Christophero Castelletti, Gio. Battista Verini, Angelo Badalucchi, M. Hieron: Burgaglio, Ludovico Fenarolo, Adriano Polito, Bruno Nolano, Raphael Trianoro, Ludovico Contareno, Gio. Battista Gelli, M. Hieron: Razzi, M. Ludovico Paterna.

Digitized by Google

Dominicus Lampsonius a Belgian, who being equally happy both in the art of Painting and Poetry describ'd in Verse the Life of Lambertus Lombardus a most Excellent Painter, and his Master in that Art, 1598.

Dominicus Mancinus, an Author no less Elegant then Learned, who professing Theology and affecting Poetry, applyed his Muse to Divine and Moral Subjects, his Poem on the passion of our Saviour, and another of the 4 Cardinal Vertues and their Offices, in Elegiac Verse were both printed at Basil Anno 1543. he is Recorded flourishing Anno 1494.

Digitized by Google

Domitio Marino, a Venetian both Philosopher and Physician by profession, but a writer also of Poems, which were printed by the Sons of Aldus Manutius Anno 1550.

E.

Edmund Fairfax, one of the most Judicious, Elegant and haply in his time, most approved of English Translatours, both for his choice of so worthily Extoll'd a Heroic Poet as Torquato Tasso; as for the exactness of his Version, in which he is judg'd by some to have approved himself no less a Poet than in what he hath written of his own Genius.

Edmund Prestwich, the Author of a Comedy, which came forth about 20 Years ago, called the Hectors or False Challenge; as also Hippolitus a Tragedy, what ever he might have written besides not remembred.

Edmund Spencer, the first of our English Poets that brought Heroic Poesie to any perfection, his Faery Queen being for great Invention and Poetic height heighth judg'd little inferiour, if not equal to the chief of the ancient Greeks and Latins or Modern Italians, but the first Poem that brought him into Esteem was his Shepherds Calendar, which so endear'd him to that Noble Patron of all Vertue and Learning Sir Philip Sidny, that he made him known to Queen Elizabeth, and by that means got him prefer'd to be Secretary to his Brother Sir Henry Sidny, who was sent Deputy into Ireland, where he is said to have written his Faerie Queen, but upon the return of Sir Henry, his Employment ceasing, he also return'd into England, and having lost his great Friend Sir Philip, fell into poverty, yet made his last Refuge to the Queens Bounty, and had 500 l. order'd him for his Support, which nevertheless was abridg'd to 100. by Cecil, who hearing of it, and owing him a grudge for some reflections in Mother Hubberds Tale, cry'd out to the Queen, What all this for a Song? This he is said to have taken so much to Heart, that he contracted a deep Melancholy, which soon after brought his Life to a Period: So apt is an Ingenious Spirit to resent a slighting, even from the greatest Persons; and thus much I must needs say of the Merit of so great a Poet from so great a Monarch, that as it is incident to the best of Poets sometimes to flatter some Royal or Noble Patron, never did any do it more to the height, or with greater Art and Elegance, if the highest of praises attributed to so Heroic a Princess can justly be term'd Flattery.

Digitized by Google

Edmund Waller of Beckonsfeild, one of the most fam'd Poets, and that not unworthily, of the present Age, being yet surviving; especially, and (wherein he is not inferiour to Carew himself,) in the charming sweetness of his Lyric Odes or amorous Sonnets long since wedded to the no less charming Notes of H. Lawes, at that time the Prince of Musical Composers, and one of the principal Gentlemen of the Chappel, as also of the private Music to his late Majesty King Charles the First. In his other occasional Poems his Verse is smooth, yet strenuous, not barren of conceit, ceit, and frequently adorn'd with proper Similies.

Digitized by Google

Sir Edward Dier, a person of good account in Queen Elizabeth's Reign, poetically addicted, several of whose Pastoral Odes and Madrigals are Extant in a printed Collection of certain choice pieces of some of the most eminent Poets of that time.

Edward Shirburn, an intimate Friend and Acquaintance, as well of the ancient Greek and Latin, as of the choicest of Modern Poets, both Italian, French and Spanish, and in what he hath Elegantly and Judiciously Translated either of the former or later, a discoverer of a more pure Poetical Spirit and Fancy, then many others can justly pretend to in their original Works; his Version of those Books of Manilius, which relate meerly to Astronomy, is a very Noble Work, being set forth with most Exact Notes, and other Learned and proper Illustrations.

Eilardus Alma, a Hollander, whose Fame is not altogether unknown to the Learned for what he hath written in Latin Poesie. Eilar-

Digitized by Google

Eilardus Lubinus, a Learned German, who amidst several Elaborate Works in Prose, was not wholly unconversant with the Muses, being therefore reckon'd among the Latin Poets of that Nation.

Elias Putschius, a Low-Countrey-man, who hath written sufficiently in Latin Verse, to be numbred among the Latin Poets of that Nation.

Elkanah Settle, a present writer to the English Stage, to which he hath already contributed Two Tragedies, Cambises, and the Empress of Morocco; for which he hath the applause of some, the severe censure of others, and perhaps neither according to exact desert; to those that erre on the right hand that is that over-praise, little is to be said; to the others it may be pleaded in his behalf, that his soaring up to too much affected and immoderate heights, which I take to be his chief failing, may possibly be allayed by the more Mature Judgment of riper Years, he being yet but a young Man.

Elysius

Digitized by Google

Elysius Calentius, a writer in Latin Poesie famous in Italy in the Reign of the Emperour Maximilian; his Elegies, Epigrams, Epistles, Poem of Hectors apparition, and another of the War between the Frogs and Mice, Satyrs against the Poets, and other things were printed at Rome Anno 1503.

Emanuel Thesaurus, a Patrician or Noble-man of Turin, the Capital City of the Dukedom of Savoy, and of the Order of the great Cross of St. Lazarus and St. Maurice, whose Patriarchæ, or Genealogy of Christ divided into Four Periods according to the Four Ages of Man, is written in a style called Lapidaria, so call'd as proper for Inscriptions upon Tombs, being a middle style between Oratory & Poetry, between strict and solute Oration.

Engelhardus Funkius, a Poet of Swobach in Franconia, who wrote in Elegiac Verse an Encomium of his Countrey, Epistles, Epigrams, and several other Miscellaneous pieces; he is Recorded flourishing in the Year of our Lord 1494.

Erasmo

Digitized by Google

Erasmo Valvasonio, an Italian Poet, who wrote Five Books in Verse de Re Rustica, or of Countrey Affairs, in that kind of Stanza commonly called among the Italians Ottava Rima.

Erycius Puteanus, an Eminent both Historian and Poet, who, as Causabon in his Preface to the Augusta Historia saith, was justly reputed in his time among the chief Ornaments of France; he is most known by his Insubric History, but withall not unremembred for his Elegant Latin Poems, among which his Musarum Ferculum is particularly quoted by a Learned English Author.

Enricius Cordus, a late German Poet, whose Opera Poetica were printed at Helmested Anno 1614.

F.

Famianus Strada, an Italian, both Poet, Historian & Oratour of principal Repute, being a Native of Rome, where he was professour of Rhetoric for 15 Years; his History of the Low-Countrey

Digitized by Google

Countrey Wars, and his Academical Prolusions are the chiefest and most fam'd of his Works, in the last of which he so ingeniously imitates the style of each of the principal Ancient Latin Poets, that thereby he shews himself a great Master in Latin Poetry.

Le Sieur de Fargues, the Author of a French Heroic Poem Entitled David.

Faustus Sabæus, a Brescian, of whose Latin Poetry there is sufficient Extant to place him among the chief Italian writers of that kind.

Felix Fidlerus, a German Poet, whose most particularly mentioned Poems are his Eclogue, Entitled Philotas, dedicated to the Bishop of Arras, and his Elegy upon the death of Cardinal Perenot Granvile.

Florentius Schonhovius, a Belgic writer, Native of Gouda, of whom there is Extant a Poem Entitled Lalage, or Amores Pastorales, with the selected Works of several other noted Latin Poets of that Countrey, in which Society Antonius Schonhovius is also one.

Florentius

Digitized by Google

in Verſe the moſt particularly remembred.

Franciſcus Franchinus, a retainer equally to Mars and the Muſes, who attending on the Emperour Charles the Fifth in his Algerine Expedition, at his return wrote an Elegant deſcription of the ſaid Expedition in Verſe.

Franciſcus Modius, an Eminent both Civilian and Poet of Bruges in Flanders.

Franciſcus Panigarola, one of the Society of thoſe Latin Poets of Italy, whoſe ſeveral Works, or what is of them choiceſt, are publiſhed together.

Franciſco Petrarcha, a Florentine Poet, Renowned both for Latin and Italian Poeſie; his Italian Sonners in Celebration of Laura, and his Triumps are in very high Eſteem.

Franciſcus Philelphus, a Knight of Tollentinum, the Author of a Multitude of Volumes, whereof very many in Verſe, particularly his Sfortias, his Poem in Commendation of Aenicius Davalus, his Odes both Greec and Latin, which with the reſt of his Poetical Works

Digitized by Google

Works advanc'd his Fame in Poetry to the title of Poet Laureat; he is Recorded to have Flouriſh'd about the Year of our Lord 1481.

Franciſcus Pigna, a Countrey-man and Aſſociate of the Poet Cartefius.

Franciſcus Portus, a Modern Greec Poet, chiefly Epigrammatic.

Franciſco Puteolani, a Poet of Parma, one of the chief ſetters forth of the Acts of Lodowic Sforza, the Famous Souldier of that Age.

Francis Quarles, the darling of our Plebeian Judgments, that is ſuch as have ingenuity enough to delight in Poetry, but are not ſufficiently inſtructed to make a right choice and diſtinction; his Emblems being a Copy from Hermannus Hugo's Original, his Verſion of Job into Engliſh Verſe, his Feaſt of Worms, or Hiſtory of Jonas, and other Divine Poems have been ever, and ſtill, are in wonderful Veneration among the Vulgar, and no leſs his Argalus and Parthenia, a Hiſtory taken out of Sir Philip Sidney's Arcadia; there hath been alſo Acted a Comedy of his called the Virgin Widow.

Don

Digitized by Google

Don Francesco de Quevedo, a Spanish writer, of signal Fame and Credit both in Prose and Verse, of which later kind are his Obras Metricas, or Poetical Works, which were printed at Brussels Anno 1660.

Franciscus & Justus Raphelengius, Two Belgic writers, whose Varia Carmina are with the selected Works of others accounted the chief of that Countrey for Latin Verse.

Franciscus Sphondratus, an Italian, whose Latin Poem de Raptu Helenæ is Extant among the Collected Works of divers others, accounted the prime of Italy for Latin Poesie.

Francesco Vinta, an Italian of principal Note among the Pastoral and Comic writers of that Nation.

Fredericus Dedecindus, a German Poet, known most especially by his Poem in praise of a Countrey Life, and his Epithalamium upon the Marriage of Paulus Gusebelius with Magdalena Moniera of Wirten-berg.

Fredericus Taubmannus, a German, chiefly fam'd for a most Learned Commentator and Philologist, but not to

Digitized by Google

to be wholly left out of the Number of Poets.

Fridianus Piginutius, an Italian, who being Orator and Poet to Ernestus Duke of Saxony, wrote in the Latin Idiom Elegies to Conradus Celtes, and Martinus Pollichius, a Saphic Ode to St. Sebastian, to implore an Averſion of the Peſtilence, which were printed with Celtes his Book of the Art of Verſifying.

Sir Fulk Greevil, Lord Brook, a great Friend and Aſſociate of Sir Philip Sidny, whoſe Life he wrote, as alſo ſeveral things in Poetry both Dramatic, as his Tragedies of Alaham, Muſtapha, and Marcus Tullius Cicero, and others commonly of a Political Subject, and among the reſt a Poſthume Work not publiſht till within a very few Years, being a Two-fold Treatiſe, the firſt of Monarchy, the ſecond of Religion, in all which is obſervable a cloſe, myſterious and ſentencious way of writing, without much regard to Elegancy of ſtyle, or ſmoothneſs of Verſe.

Digitized by Google

Le Sieur de Furetiere. the Author of certain French Poems printed at Paris Anno 1650.

G.

Gabriel Cabriera, see Ludovico Dolce.

Gabriel Faernus, a very Learned Man, and diligent Inquirer into Latin Authors, as his setting forth of Terence, and some pieces of Cicero testifie; Moreover he so ingeniously Paraphras'd upon Esops Fables in divers kinds of Latin Verse, that he merits to be rank'd among the Poets; he is of that rank of Eminent Men, that in Chronology come under the Year 1561.

Gabriel Zinani, an Italian, whose Extant Sonnets, Madrigals, &c. give him place among the Lyric Poets of that Nation.

Gallus Chrudimenus, a writer in Verse, for Elegancy reckon'd of the chief of Modern Latin Poets.

Gaspar

Digitized by Google

Gaſpar Barlæus, a learned and witty Batavian, and of ſo Eminent a Fame among the Belgic writers of Latin Poeſie, that Voſſius in his Book de Arte Grammatica, by doubting whether he were the better Philoſopher or Poet, ſeems to Intimate his Excellence in both Faculties; ſeveral of his poetical Works are quoted by a Learned Engliſh Author, as his Hymns, his Poem in praiſe of the Garden of Leyden, his Britannia triumphans, &c.

Gaſpar Bruſchius, a Poet Laureate of Egra in Bohemia, whoſe poetical Works are many, and of various kinds, beſides what he alſo wrote in Proſe.

Gaſpar Enſius, a German Poet, who for what he hath written in Latin Verſe is reckon'd among the principal Latin Poets of that Nation.

Gaſpar Greterus, Chaplain to the Prince of Wirtenberg, and a copious writer both in Proſe and Verſe; among his poetical things his Goſpels in Latin Verſe are particularly taken notice of.

Digitized by Google

Gaspar Main, a Student of Christ-Church in Oxford, where he lived for many Years in much Credit and Reputation for his florid Wit, and Ingenious Vein in Poetry, which produc'd Two Witty and well approved Comedies, the City Match and the Amorous War; nor did he, since his application to Theology, of which he was Dr. and his Ecclesiastical preferment, totally relinquish those politer Studies to which he was before addicted, having lately publish'd Lucians Works, of his own Translating into English.

Gaspar Ursinus, a Noble Poet of Veli, among whose Poems his Monostichs of the Alban and Roman Kings, and other Illustrious Men of Rome, as also of the Roman Emperours and Popes, down to Charles the 5*th*. and Pope Hadrian 6*th*. also his Distichs of the Roman Emperours are especially noted.

Sir Geoffry Chaucer, the Prince and Coryphæus, generally so reputed, till this Age, of our English Poets; and as much as we triumph over his old fashion'd

Digitized by Google

Giacopo Sadoletti, a Contemporary, Associate, and as it were Copartner with Pietro Bembo, not only in agreement of Studies, they being both Eminent writers, as well in Verse as Prose; but also of their Fortunes and Preferment in the World, they being both chosen by Pope Leo the 10th, to be his Secretaries together, both advanc'd to the Purple by Paul the 3d, under whose Reign they both dyed.

Gilbertus Dascherius Vulto, a Poetical writer, of whom, what ever he wrote beside, there are Extant Five Books of Epigrams, and an Eclogue printed by Oporinus at Basil.

Giovanni Ambrogio Marini, an Italian Poet, whose Calaandra Fidele was printed at Venice Anno 1664.

Giovanni Andrea Roffetti, a late Poetical writer among the Italians, the Author of a Poem Entitled Morisano & Heliogano.

Giovanni Andreini, another Italian, Author of a Fantastic Poem, as he himself calls it, Entitled Olimpico, which was printed at Bologna Anno 1644.

Giovanni

Georgius Buchananus, the most celebrated by the Learned Men of his time, of all the famous writers that Scotland hath produc'd, and that not without reason, being in his Prose both Elegant and Judicious, (in so much that Vossius selecting out for several Countries each of their prime Historians, names him for the History of his own Country) and for Verse, if not the chief of Modern Latin Poets, as some account him, yet at least the chief of that Nation, which however barren of Soyl Esteem'd, yet hath been sufficiently fruitful of good VVits, and Men famous particularly for Latin Verse; being so conspicuous a person no wonder he was made choice of for the Education of a Prince that was born to the sole Monarchy of Great Britain.

George Bullen Lord Rochford, Brother to Queen Anne, 2d VVife to K. Henry the 8th, among other things hath the Fame of being the Author of Songs and Sonnets, which doubtless wanted not the applause of those times.

George

George Chapman, a Poetical writer, Flourishing in the Reigns of Queen Elizabeth and King James, in that repute both for his Translations of Homer and Hesiod, and what he wrote of his own proper Genius; that he is thought not the meanest of English Poets of that time, and particularly for his Dramatic writings, as his Blind Beggar of Alexandria, All Fools, The Gentleman Usher, May-day, The Widows Tears, Monsieur d'Olive, A days Mirth, Eastward hoe, Comedies; Bussy d'Amboys, Cæsar & Pompey Tragedies.

George Fletcher, the Author of a Poem Entitled Christs Victory and Triumph in Heaven and Earth, over and after Death; he wrote in the Reign of King James and King Charles the First.

George Etheridge a Comical writer of the present Age; whose Two Comedies, Love in a Tub, and She would if She could, for pleasant Wit, and no bad Oeconomy, are judg'd not unworthy the Applause they have met with.

Georgius Eudemius, see Georgius Rimaeus.

George Gascoigne, one of the smaller Poets of Queen Elizabeths days, whose poetical Works nevertheless have been thought worthy to be quoted among the chief of that time; his Supposes, a Comedy; Glass of Government, a Tragecomedy; Jocasta a Tragedy, are particularly remembred.

George Herbert, a Younger Brother of the Noble Family of the Herberts of Montgomery, whose florid Wit, obliging Humour in Conversation, fluent Eloquution, and great proficience in the Arts, gain'd him that Reputation at Oxford, where he spent his more Youthful age, that he was chosen University Oratour; at last taking upon him Holy Orders, not without special incouragement from the King, who took notice of his parts; he was made Parson of Bemmerton near Salisbury, in this state his affection to Poetry being converted to serious and Divine Subjects, produc'd those so generally known and approved Poems Entitled the Temple.

Georgius

Georgius Macropedius, a German Poet, whose most noted Poems beside his Comedies Andriſca, Hecaſtus, Rebelles and others, and some Tragedies out of Sacred History, are his Baſſarus, Lazarus Mendicus, and his Calender of the principal Feasts of the Church in Heroic Verse.

Georgius Mylius a German Poet, whose Two Books of Elegies were printed at Leipſich in the Year 1557.

George Peel, a somewhat antiquated Engliſh Bard of Queen Elizabeth Date, some Remnants of whose pretty pastoral Poetry we have Extant in a Collection Entitled Englands Helicon.

George Ripley, a Canon of Bridlington in the time of King Henry the 7th, who in old Engliſh Verse wrote several Chymical Misteries pretending to Lead to the attaining of the Philosophers Stone.

Georgius Rotallerus, a German Poet, who besides his Latin Version of Heſiods opera, & dies, in Elegiac Verse, and also Three of Sophocles his Tragedies, as his Ajax, Electra and Antigone, hath also written Epigrams and some other Poems. George Georgius Eruderius, see Orravio Rinuccini.

George Gascoigne, one of the smaller Poets of Queen Elizabeths days, whose poetical Works nevertheless have been thought worthy to be quoted among the chief of that time; his Supposes, a Comedy; Glass of Government, a Tragecomedy; Jocasta a Tragedy, are particularly remembred.

George Herbert, a Younger Brother of the Noble Family of the Herberts of Montgomery, whose florid Wit, obliging Humour in Conversation, fluent Eloquution, and great proficience in the Arts, gain'd him that Reputation at Oxford, where he spent his more Youthful age, that he was chosen University Orateur; at last taking upon him Holy Orders, not without special incouragement from the King, who took notice of his parts; he was made Parson of Bemmerton near Salisbury, in this state his affection to Poetry being converted to serious and Divine Subjects, produc'd those so generally known and approved Poems Entitled the Temple.

Georgius

Georgius Macropedius, a German Poet, whose most noted Poems beside his Comedies Andriscus, Hecastus, Rebelles and others, and some Tragedies out of Sacred History, are his Baptarus, Lazarus Mendicus, and his Calender of the principal Feasts of the Church in Heroic Verse.

Georgius Mylius a German Poet, whose Two Books of Elegies were printed at Leipsich in the Year 1557.

George Peel, a somewhat antiquated English Bard of Queen Elizabeth Date, some Remnants of whose pretty pastoral Poetry we have Extant in a Collection Enricled Englands Helicon.

George Ripley, a Canon of Bridlington in the time of King Henry the 7th, who in old English Verse wrote several Chymical Misteries pretending to Lead to the attaining of the Philosophers Stone.

Georgius Rotallerus, a German Poet, who besides his Latin Version of Hesiods opera, & dies, in Elegiac Verse, and also Three of Sophocles his Tragedies, as his Ajax, Electra and Antigone, hath also written Epigrams and some other Poems.

George

Georgius Sabinus, a Brandenburger, the Son in Law of Philip Melanchton, a Person of no obscure Fame among German writers both for Verse and Prose.

George Sands, a well approved writer of his Travels into Forrein Parts; but a much more admir'd Translator of Ovid's Metamorphses into English Verse, and Paraphraft of David's Psalms; and not unapplauded for his Tragedy of Christs Passion.

Georgius Siputus Daripenus, a German Poet, the most particularly remembred of whose Poems are his Congratulatories upon the Arrival of the Emperour Maximilian to Colen.

Georgius Thurius, a Hungarian, one of the most Eminent of that Nation for Latin Poesie.

Georgius Tilonus, a German writer not forgotten among the chief of the Latin Versifiers of that Nation.

George Withers, a most profuse pourer forth of English Rhime, not without great pretence to a Poetical zeal against the Vices of the times in his Motto, his Remembrancer, and other

to be wholly left out of the Number of Poets.

Fridianus Piginutius, an Italian, who being Orator and Poet to Ernestus Duke of Saxony, wrote in the Latin Idiom Elegies to Conradus Celtes, and Martinus Pollichius, a Saphic Ode to St. Sebastian, to implore an aversion of the Pestilence, which were printed with Celtes his Book of the Art of Versifying.

Sir Fulk Grevil, Lord Brook, a great Friend and Associate of Sir Philip Sidny, whose Life he wrote, as also several things in Poetry both Dramatic, as his Tragedies of Alaham, Mustapha, and Marcus Tullius Cicero, and others commonly of a Political Subject, and among the rest a Posthume Work not publisht till within a very few Years, being a Two-fold Treatise, the first of Monarchy, the second of Religion, in all which is observable a close, mysterious and sentencious way of writing, without much regard to Elegancy of style, or smoothness of Verse.

Le

Germanus Auberius Aurelius, one of principal note among the French Poetical writers of Latin Verse.

Germanus Brixius of Auxerre, a Canon of Paris, among whose Poetical writings there are principally mention'd his Antimarus, or Invective against our Countrey-man Sir Thomas More; his Elegy upon the death of Francis Dolon; and his Epigrams upon the death of K. Francis the First of France.

Germanus Valent Guelinus, a curious Critic in the Greec Language, and not meanly vers'd in all kind of Humane Literature; but according to the Testimony of Thuanus, principally addicted to Poetry.

Giacopo Allegretto, a Poet of Forli a Town in Flaminia, of whom there is Extant a Bucolic Poem, mention'd by Biondi.

Giacopo Gaddi, an Italian, who shares in Fame among the Poetical Writers of that Nation.

Giacopo Caviceo, an Italian, Author of a Poem Entitled Peregrino, which was printed Anno 1538.

Giacopo

Digitized by Google

Giacopo Sadoletti, a Contemporary, Associate, and as it were Copartner with Pietro Bembo, not only in agreement of Studies, they being both Eminent writers, as well in Verse as Prose; but also of their Fortunes and Preferment in the World; they being both chosen by Pope Leo the 10th, to be his Secretaries together, both advanc'd to the Purple by Paul the 3d, under whose Reign they both dyed.

Gilbertus Ducherius Vulto, a Poetical writer, of whom, what ever he wrote beside, there are Extant Five Books of Epigrams, and an Eclogue printed by Oporinus at Basil.

Giovanni Ambrogio Marini, an Italian Poet, whose Calaondra Fidele was printed at Venice Anno 1664.

Giovanni Andrea Rossetti, a late Poetical writer among the Italians, the Author of a Poem Entitled Marinaro & Heliosa.

Giovanni Andrini, another Italian, Author of a Fantastic Poem, as he himself calls it, Entitled Olimpico, which was printed at Bologna Anno 1644.

Giovanni

Digitized by Google

Giovanni Antonio Flaminio, see Joannes Antonius Flaminius, in regard what he wrote was in Latin Verse.

Giovanni Battista Marini, an Eminent Italian writer, who besides his Sonnets wrote an Heroic Poem Entitled Adonis.

Giovanni Battista di Pesaro, another of the same Nation, not to be left out of the Number of Italian Poets.

Giovanni Battista Pigna, a noted Italian Lyric Poet, whose Four Books of Sonnets were printed at Venice by Vincentius Valgrisius Anno 1553. with those of Calcagnino, Ariosto, and other Famous Poets of that kind.

Giovanni Boccaccio de Certaldo, a most generally known and Extolled Florentine Writer, and worthily rank'd among the Poets not only for his Bucolics, but several other writings of a poetical nature, as his Genealogia di Dei, his Illustri Uomini, his Decameron, &c. besides which he wrote several other things both Historical and Geographical. He Flourish'd in the Year 1375.

Giovanni

Giovanni della Casa, an Italian Lyric Poet, whose Rime or Sonnets were printed at Venice Anno 1559.

Giovanni Georgio Trissini, a Knight and Count of Vicenza, of a very Celebrated Fame for what he hath written both in Poetry and Oratory; he was Born in the Year 1478. being the Son of Gaspar Trissini, by Cecilia Bevilacqua, the Daughter of Gulielmo a Gentleman of Verona.

Girolamo Caso an Italian Lyric Poet or Sonnet writer of Udenza.

Girolamo Gratiani, an Italian, Author of a Poem Entitled La Cleopatra, which was printed at Venice Anno 1668.

Girolamo Preti, see Ottavio Rinuccini.

Girolamo Ronconio, a Dramatic writer of Siena, but chiefly for Pastorals.

Giulio Geselani, an Italian writer of Rime or Sonnets, which were printed at Venice Anno 1588.

Mr. Gombaud, a French Epigrammatist.

Gothe-

Gotbofredus Torinus, a French Poet, Eminent among the chief writers of Latin Verse of that Nation.

Godfry Prior of Winchester, an Old English Poet as he is reckon'd, by Camden in his Remains; he is, indeed a border-er between the Antients and Moderns, for he Flourish'd about the Year 1100.

Gualterus de Castellione, a Philosopher, Theologist, and, as his Poem setting forth the Acts of Alexander the Great in Heroic Verse Testifies, Poet also, of Lisle in Flanders, though some ascribe this Work not to Gualterus, but Guillermus de Castellione, by whom then it is to be suppos'd to have been Dedicated to Gualterus.

Guido Cavalcanti, see Ottavio Rinuccini.

Guido, First Presbiter, then Bishop of Ferrara, who wrote in Verse Remarques upon the Old and New Testament, which Work he called the Pearl of the Bible, and Dedicated it to Pope Clement the 5th, his Fame brake forth about the Year 1310. so that he was Contemporary with Dante, and as

Digitized by Google

as it were a Frontier Author between the Ancients and the Moderns.

Guidus Posthumus Sylvestris, a Poet of Pesaro, who wrote Two Books of Elegies to Pope Leo.

Gulielmus Bigotius de la Valle, a French Poet whose Catoptron, a Poem containing precepts for the Instruction of Youth, is the principal of what is Extant of him.

Gulielmus Budeus, a most learned Parisian, among whose many Treatises in all sorts of Humane Literature; his Elegies, Epigrams, and other things in Poetry are not forgotten.

Gulielmus Durandus, Sirnamed Speculator, from his Treatise Entitled Speculum juris, a learned French Bishop, and one of the most noted Men of his time, (and he was Flourishing about the Year 1300.) for perfection in several Faculties; so that he hath from Pasquier in his recherches de la France, the Character both of an Excellent Poet, Solid Divine, and exact Lawyer.

Gulielmus Gnapheus, a Poet of Hague, whose most noted Poems, besides sides his Comedies the Prodigal Son, and Misobarbarus, and his Tragecomedy Hypocrisis, are his Triumph of Eloquence in various Verse; and his Poem of Psyche's Calamity and Restoration.

Digitized by Google

Gulielmus Hondius, a late German Poet, whose Citharæ Spiritualis Sex Chordarum was printed at Colen Anno 1637.

Gulielmus Modicius, an Italian, for Latin Poesie reckon'd among the principal of that Nation.

Gulielmus Salustius Bartasius, or du Bartas, a French Poet, whose Poem of the 6 days work of Creation, translated by Joshua Sylvester, hath had a very great Fame here in England, and is yet in great Esteem with many.

Gulielmus Xylander, a learned both Logician, Mathematician, Musician, Historian, Philosopher, Linguist, and also Poet (as Melchior Adams in his Life Characterises him.) of Augusta, born in the Year of our Lord 1530. he was Professor of the Greek Tongue at Heidelberg.

Hens

Digitized by Google

H.

Hans Sues Teuthenus, a Poet of special note among the Germans.

Helius Eobanus, a Hessian of like authority, and preheminence among the German Poets, as Tasso hath been among the Italians; of his many poetical Works the chief are his Bucolic Idyls, his Sylvæ, his Eulogies of Famous Men, his sacred Heroines, his description of the City Norimberg in Verse, and of the Prince of Hessen's Victory against the Sueves, besides his Elegant Version of Davids Psalms in Elegiac Verse.

Henricus Curandinus, a German particularly taken notice of among those of that Nation that have been Eminent for Latin Poetry.

Henricus Andersonus, a Scotch-man, whose Eglogues, and Musarum Querela are among the selected Works of other Noted Latin Poets of that Nation.

Henricus

Henricus Bebelius, a Poet of Justingen, a Town which gives Title to a Barony in the Circle of Suevia, who among many other things both in Prose and Verse wrote de Arte Condendorum Carminum.

Henricus Dauskinus one of the Society of those Eminent Latin Poets of Scotland, of whose Works a particular selection is publish'd.

Henricus Ecardus, a Poet of Norenberg, in which Town his Poems were printed by Georgius Merkelius Anno 1553.

Henricus Eutichus, a Poet of Franconia, who wrote in Verse a Book of Jests, and Witty Conceits, a Satyre against Sophists, and Enemies of the study of Humanity, the praises of the B. Virgin, Epigrams, and some other things; he Flourish'd Anno 1494.

Henricus Florentinus wrote a description in Verse of the Grandeur and State of the Emperour Friderick, and is quoted by the Learned Felix Malleolus.

Henry Glaphthorn, a Dramatick writer not altogether ill deserving of the English

English Stage by his Hollander, Ladies Priviledge. and Wit in a Constable Comedies; his Angelus and Parthenia a Pastoral; and Albertus Wallstein a Tragedy.

Henry Howard, the most Noble Earl of Surry, who Flourishing in the time of King Henry the 8th, as his Name is sufficiently famous for the Martial Exploits of that Family for many Generations, so deserves he, had he his due, the particular Fame of Learning, Wit, and Poetic Fancy, which he was thought once to have made sufficiently appear in his published Poems, which nevertheless are now so utterly forgoten, as though they had never been Extant, so Antiquated at present, and as it were out of fashion is the style and way of Poetry of that Age; whereas an English writer of those times in a Treatise called the Art of English Poesie alledges, That Sir Th. Wiat the Elder, and Henry Earl of Surry were the Two Christains, who having Travelled into Italy, and there tasted the sweet and Lovely Measures and Style of the Italian

Poesie,

Poesie, greatly polished our rude and homely manner of vulgar Poesie from what it had been before, and may therefore justly be shewed to be the Reformers of our English Meeter and Style.

Henricus Husanus, a German conspicuous among the Latin Versifiers of that Nation.

Henry King, late Bishop of Chichester, a no less Grave and Reverend Divine in his later time then, in his youthful Age, of an obliging Conversation by his Wit and Fancy, and both in his Younger and Elder Years a constant lover of Music, Poetry, and all Ingenuous Arts; the Effect of his latest and most serious Muse being his generally admired and approved Version of Davids Psalms into English Meeter.

Henricus Loritus Glareanus, a Helvetian of the Town of Clarona, among the vast number of whose Elaborate Treatises in various kinds of Learning; his poetical pieces were both enow, and sufficiently in repute to gain him the Title of Poet Laureate; nor was his Name less Eminent in

Musick:

Music: He is mentioned Flourishing at Friburg a Town of Bisgoia, in the Circle of Alsatia Anno 1551.

Henricus Meibomius, an Elegant Poet, Expert Musitian, and Judicious Historian of Lemgoia, one of the 7 Free Cities in the Circle of Westphalia.

Henry Lord Morly, a Nobleman of great account in the Reign of King Henry the 8th, by whom he was sent with the Garter to the Arch-Duke of Austria: There are mentioned with Honour in our English Histories several Works of his writing, for the most part poetical, and particularly several Tragedies and Comedies.

Henricus Oræus, a not uneminent Modern writer of Latin Verse.

Henricus Petreius, a noted both Civilian, and Poet of Hardesia.

Henry Picardet, a French-man, whose Poesies Francoises were printed at Paris Anno 1663.

Henricus Rantzovius, a Learned German, particularly fam'd among many others of that Nation for his Excellent faculty in Latin Verse.

Henry

Digitized by Google

Henricus Smetius, a Nobleman and Physitian of Aloste in Flanders, who besides his Prosodia, a well known and much used Book among the Versifying Boys in public Schools, by which they are taught the quantity of words in Latin Verse, by Examples out of all the choicest Latin Poets, had in his younger Years discover'd also his own peric Genius, in several peices of Latin Poesie, as his History of the Kings of Judah, his History of Susanna, his Treatise of seve al parts of Medicin, and his Translation of Homers Batrantymachia.

Henry Vaughan, Sirnamed Silurift, from that part of Wales whose Inhabitants were formerly called Silures, he Author of certain English Poems, which came forth Anno 1658. under he Title of Olor Iscanus.

Henricus Rollockus, one of the Number of Scotch writers of Latin Verse, whose selected Poems are publish'd together.

Hercules Strozza, see Titus.

Hercules

Hercole a Poet of Udene, a Town under the Seignorie of Venice, chiefly known by his Essabe, a Poem of the Soul.

Hermannus Hugo, an Eminent Philosopher, Theologist, Musitian and Poet of Brussels in Flandens, from whose Original those Divine Emblematical Fancies that bear the Name of Quarles are derived.

Hermolaus Barbarus, a Patrician, or Nobleman of Venice, whose profound Learning and great Parts advanc'd him to be Arch-Bishop and Patriarch of Aquileia, and afterwards to the Colledge of Cardinals.

Hieronymus Amalthæus, a most excellent Philosopher and Physician by profession; but moreover a Composer of such Elegant Verses for his diversion, that M. Antonius Muretus, an Exact Judge of those things, gives him the Palm before all the Italian Poets of his time; he is mentioned Flourishing in the Year 1574.

Hiero-

Digitized by Google

Hieronymus Balbus, a writer of Gorcum, who besides several prosaic Treatises, wrote a Book of Epigrams concerning the Turkish Affairs, to Pope Clement the 6th; the mentioned time of his Flourishing is the Year 1520.

Hieronymus Fracastorius, so profound in Philosophy, and the Mathematical Arts, especially Astronomy, and so happy a professour of Medicine, that he might well have been excus'd from Poetry; yet his greatest Aemulators, saith Thuanus, could not but confess that his style came very near the Majesty of Virgil.

Hieronymus Donatus, an Eminent both Philosopher, Theologist, Mathematician, Oratour, and also Poet, by the Testimony of Angelus Politianus, who mentions him in his Miscellanies.

Hieronymus Gunius, a Poet of Bibrac, one of the 35 Free Cities in the Circle of Suevia, who supply'd several Greec Poets of the latter date, as Prodromus, Xanthopulus, Psellius, Philus, Callieles, and Nonnus Panopolita, a multi-a multitude of Verſes expung'd and loſt by the injury of time, and other accidents, to which their Manuſcripts had been expos'd, beſides ſeveral Epigrams of his own both in Latin and Greec.

Digitized by Google

Hieronymus Spartanus, the Author of a Poem printed by J. Oporinus at Baſil Anno 1550. Entitled Miles Chriſtianus, written in Elegiac Verſe.

Hieronymus Zieglerus, a writer of divers Tragecomedies, and other Dramatic pieces out of the Old and New Teſtament, as his Protoplaſtus, Immolation of Iſaac, Nomotheſia, Sampſon, Heli, out of the Old; his Vineyard, Ophiletes, and Royal Marriage out of the New; beſides a Tragedy out of Prophane Hiſtory, Entitled Cyrus Major.

Hippolytus Capilupus, an Italian of principal Note and Fame among the Latin Poets of that Nation.

Honoratus Taſcitellus, an Italian Author of a very Elegant Latin Poem Dedicated to the Lady of Piſcaria.

Honorio Navazzetti, an Italian Poet, who by his Poem Celebrating the

Digitized by Google

Vertues of a 100 Noble Women of Casal, celebrates his own memory.

Hubertus Suffenuus, a Writer of Soissons, both in Prose and Verse, of which last kind are his Book of Epigrams, his Book of Games, his Eclogue entitled Sylvius, his Poem upon the Resurrection, with some other things of various subject.

Hugo Grotius, a Native of Delph in Holland, born in the year of our Lord 1513, whose equal in fame for Wit & Learning, Christendom of late Ages hath rarely produc'd, particularly of so happy a Genius in Poetry, that had his Annals, his Book De Veritate Christianæ Religionis, De Satisfactione Christi, and other his extolled works in Prose, never come to Light, his extant and universally approved Latin Poems, had been sufficient to gain him a Living Name.

Huldricus Huttenus, a German born, but Knight of France, among whose Poetical works collected together and printed at Frankford an. 1538, are his Satyr against the times of Julius Secundus, his Hortatory to the Emperour Maximilian,

Digitized by Google

Maximilian, to prosecute his War against the Venetians, his Poem in Heroic Verse concerning the Fishing of the Venetians, his Marcus in the same kind, a pleasant Poem entitled Outis, &c.

Huldricus Scoberus, another German Poetical Writer of the number of those Latin Versifiers of that Nation, whose names are not obscure among the Learned.

Huldricus Vannius, a Poet of Ausburg, the Author of a Heroic Poem entitled Christs Passion.

Humbertus Momuoretanus, the Authour of a Sylva in praise of Upper Burgundy, which is printed with Gilbertus Cognatus his Description of Burgundy.

Humphry Mills, a Poetical Writer of the last Age, but whose name I believe by this time is known to few, notwithstanding two Volumes of his Poetry were once publisht under the title of the Melancholy Vision, consisting of several Moral and Divine Contemplations.

Digitized by Google

I.

Jacobus Balde, a Jesuit, of whom there are extant Miscellaneous Poems, divided into 4 tomes.

Iacobus Catzius, an eminent Low-Country Man, both for Dignity, for he was Syndic of West-Freise Land, and Gelder Land, and his zeal to Learning and the Arts, among which Poetry was not his least excellency, as appears by his Patriarcha Bigamus publisht with several Poems of Gaspar Barlæus, and Cornelius Boius, by both whom he was highly celebrated.

Iacobus Ceporinus, a learned Grammarian and Commentatour of Zurich one of the Chief Cantons of Switzers, much esteem'd for his Scholia's upon Hesiod, Dionysius Afer, and Aratus, as also for a Book of Lepid Greec Epigrams of his own Composing.

Iacobus Crellius, wrote in Greec Verse Arguments upon all the Books of the Old and New Testament.

Iacobus Crittonius, a Scotch Writer, particularly in Latin Verse, among several veral other noted Men of that Nation, of whose Latin Poems there is a Select collection.

Digitized by Google

Iacobus Ghibbesius; a late Authour of Lat. Odes, which were printed at Rome an. 1665.

Iacobus Grevinus, an advancer in the Study of Poetry (to which in his younger years he especially addicted himself) to that degree that Thuanus mentioning with praise his Geledachrys and other Poems, thinks him worthy to be compar'd with the most admir'd of his time, either of France or other parts, and for his Version of Nicander into French Verse, (when not totally abandoning Poetry, he betook himself to Physic) with the most elegant of the Ancient Greecs and Latins: he was flourishing about the year 1570, but what ever else, he intended to oblige the World with; immature death prevented.

Iacobus Iaspan, a Danish Poet, who wrote a Consolatory Poem to the Prince of Orange, upon the death of his First-born Daughter, and a Genethliacon upon the Birth of Renatus the young Prince, both which are printed with Gilbertus Cognatus his Description of Burgundy.

Digitized by Google

Jacobus Lectius, a late German Poet, whose Varia Poemata were printed at Geneva, an. 1609.

Jacobus Macolonus, a Scotch-Man, whose Anthroperia Xeniorum is extant among the Selected works of others of the prime Latin Poets accounted of that Nation

Jacobus Micyllus, a fam'd Writer of Strasburg, whose Epigrams both Greec and Latin, Elegy of the Falcon and the Pie, Epistle to Joachimus Camerarius in Elegiac Verse foretelling the precise time of the ruin of the old Castle of Heidelberg, speak him no less a Poet then the rest of his elaborate Works a universal Schollar.

Jacobus Montanus, a Poet of Spire, one of the 18 Imperial Cities: He wrote Christs Passion in four Books in Elegiac Verse, Hymns upon the Feast dales of the whole year, in divers kinds of Verse, the Heroe of Tarsus, or the Life of St. Paul, in Heroic Verse, beside some things in Prose.

Jacobus

Digitized by Google

Jacobus Rueff, a Chirurgian of Zurick, who besides several useful things in Prose, among which is his Catalogue of the Chief Physitians and Astrologers to his time; wrote also several things in Dramatic Poetry, as his Comedy of William Thel, the principal promoter of the Helvetian Conspiracy, the Rape of Paulina, the Cheat of the Priests of Isis, with some others of Divine argument taken out of the Holy Scripture.

Jacobus Sadoletus, see Giacopo Sadoletti.

Jacobus Schœpperus Fremonianus, the Author of a Tragi-Comedy entitled the Monomachie, or single Combta between David and Goliah.

Jacobus Wimphelingus, a Native of Sledstadt in Germany, and Presbyter of the Church of Spire, a very copious and fruitful writer both in Prose and Verse, of which last kind were his Poem in praise of the B. Virgin in Elegiac Verse, dedicated to Bartholdus Arch-Bishop of Mentz, his Angelical Nuncio in Heroic Verse, his Poem to Philip Count Palatine in Heroic Verse, his Elegy to his

Digitized by Google

Eldest Son Lewis, his Poem to Eberhard Duke of Wirtenberg in Heroic, not to mention his Hymns, Epigrams and other various Pieces of Poetry. He flouriſht at Spire an. 1494.

Iacobus Zevecotius, a Hollander eſteem'd among the Chief of Belgic writers in Latin Verſe, and of whoſe Poems there are particularly quoted by learned Men; his Elegies, his Tragedy Terris-munda, and his Maria Græca.

James Shirly, a juſt pretender to more then the meaneſt Place among the Engliſh Poets, but moſt eſpecially for Dramatic Poeſy, in which he hath written both very much; and for the moſt part with that felicity, that by ſome he is accounted little inferiour to Fletcher himſelf; his Comedies are the Ball, the Humorous Courtier, the Brothers, Love in a Maze, the Gameſter, the Grateful Servant, the Bird in a cage, the Conſtant Maid, the Coronation, the Court Secret, the Example, Hide Park, the Lady of pleaſure, the Opportunity, the Wedding, the Witty fair one, the Royal Maſter: Tragedies, the Cardinal, the Maids Revenge, Chabot Admiral

Digitized by Google

Admiral of France, the Traitour; the Impoſture, a Tragy-Comedy; Arcadia, a Paſtoral, &c.

Iames Stuart, a King of Scotland, the firſt of that Name, who being taken priſoner, and brought to London, where he was educated in all kind of Liberal and accompliſhing Arts and Sciences, prov'd a great proficient in all, and particularly left recorded Memorials behind him of his perfection in Muſic and Poetry.

Ianus Antonius Balyſius, one of the chief ornaments of his time for polite Learning, but moſt peculiarly eminent for what he hath imparted to the world of his Poetical fancy.

Ianus Chunradus Rhumelius, a writer of Latin Verſe, with ſucceſs ſufficient to be rankt among the Cheif of modern Latin Poets.

Ianus Anyſius, a writer of Satyrs and other Poems, which he dedicated to Cardinal Pompeio Colonna.

Ianus Cornarus, a learned German Author of Zwiccaria, among whoſe multitude of other works, his Carmen Propempticon to Franciſcus a Stiten, is not forgotten, he is mention'd flou rishing in the year 1551.

Digitized by Google

Janus Douza, a Belgic both Poet and Orator, born at Nortwick in Holland, of a Noble Family; what with his Poems wherein he discovered a most acute wit and sublime fancy, and the Annals he wrote of his own Country, with no less judgment then learning, he obtain'd to be generally styl'd the Varro of Batavia, and Common Oracle of the Academy. He is recorded flourishing in the year 1604.

Janus Lernutius, a learned German, particularly remember'd among those of that Nation that have a fame in Latin Poetry.

Jean de Mareſts, a French Author of a Poem enticled Clovis, or La France Chreſtienne.

Janus Pannonius, a Poet of Hungary, of whose Poems there are extant his Panegyrical Sylva, to the Bishop of Funfkirken, his Panegyrics to Gavarino of Verona, and Giacopo Antonio Marcello of Venice, his Proſeuchtich to Frederik the 3d for the Peace of Italy, besides Epigrams, Elegies and other Miscellanies.

Janus

Joannes Parrhasius, a Calabrian, proclaim'd by Alstedius the most excellent Poet of his time; he was born in the year of our Lord 1470.

Joachimus Axonius, a Poetical writer among the Latin Versifiers of Belgium, or the Low-Countrys.

Joachimus Bellaius, a Kinsman of Cardinal Bellaius, in whose Family, for he himself was not a Person of any great Fortune, he enjoy'd a happy vacancy to his study and Muse, to which he was wonderfully addicted: his Tristia, and his Ludi Rustici are particularly mention'd by Thuanus, with commendation.

Joachimus Camerarius, a universally learned and most renowned writer, among whose almost innumerable Volumes there are not a few in Verse, as particularly his Precepts for Childrens decent behaviour, his Description of the Constellations, his Prognostics of the weather. all in Elegiac Verse; also his Epigrams for the Ordering Diet, in respect to the alteration of the year.

Joachimus Myricianus, a German of whose whose Poetical writings, there are extant his Verses against Luther, his Elegy upon the death of Empserus his Epicedium to Simon Pistor, upon the death of his Wife & his Paraphrase in Verse upon the Lords Prayer.

Digitized by Google

Joachimus Mynsingerus Dentatus, a Jurisconsult by Profession, of Frundeck in Germany; but not thereby wholly taken off from his addiction to the Muses, by whose instinct he wrote among other things a Poem, which by its title Austriae pretends to be Heroic.

Joachimus Vadianus, a Helvetian, both Physician, Poet and Orator; the chief of whose Poetic works are his Poem in praise of the Emperours Frederic the third, and his Son Maximilian, his Epitaph of Rodolphus Bishop of Wurtzburg, his Eglogue entitled Faustus, his Elegy of the Armories and Ensigns of honour given by Sigismund K. of the Romans to the Family of the Vadiani, his Elegy describing his combat with Death, and his Ode upon the Resurrection; he died in the year of our Lord 1551.

Ioannes Albinus, a German Poet eminent

nent among the writers of Latin Verse of that Nation.

Ioannes Alexander Brassicanus, an industrious publisher of several antient Authors, which were before unknown, as the workes of Eucherius, the Greec Geoponics of Constantine, Bishop Salvianus his Book of judgment and Providence, and Petronius Arbiter's Satyrs, besides what he set forth of the productions of his own fancy, which were his Idylium to Charles King Elect of the Romans, Elegies, Epigrams, Dialogues in Verse, and other Poems.

Ioannes Altus, a Poet of Hessen, who wrote an Epithalamium to Ioannes Fabricius Montanus, and put into Verse Suetonius his History of the 12 Cesars.

Ioannes Antonius Flaminius, a writer of Forum Cornelii, a Principal Town of Flaminia, who wrote in Latin Verse 2 Books of Sylvæ, and 3 of Epigrams, besides an elegant Paraphrase upon several of Davids Psalms; in Prose, a Treatise of the several Sects of Philosophers, and of the original of Philosophy.

Ioannes Antonius Hermaphroditus, the

the Author of certain Verſes which are extant among other choice Poetical Collections in Albertus de Eyb's Margarita Poetica.

Joannes Arnoletus, the Author of a ſmall triple Poem entitled Faith, Hope and Charity, which not amounting to a Volume of it ſelf, was printed with a Collection of Choice Poems of ſeveral Authors by Robert Winter at Baſil.

Joannes Arnoldus, a Poet of Bergella, who wrote an Encomium upon the Invention of Chalcography in Elegiac Verſe.

Joannes Atrocianus, a German Author next after whoſe Commentaries upon Macer's Book of Planets, there is mention'd an Elegy of his upon the Ruſſic war, begun in Germany in the year 1525; he is mention'd flouriſhing in the year 1528.

Joannes Aventinus, a writer of ſeveral Treatiſes in Proſe, eſpecially in Grammar, and not altogether a ſtranger to Verſe, in which however he is only taken notice of for his Hymn of the Celeſtial Sphære.

Joannes

Digitized by Google

Joannes Auratus, The Regius Professor of the Greec Tongue at Paris under Charles the 9th of France, and one of the 3 most approved French Poets, (the other two were Hospitalius and Turnebus) whom Utenhovius in a Latin Distich sets in Competition against 6 Italians, namely Sanazarius, Fracastorius, Flaminius, Vidas, Navagerius and Bembus.

Joannes Aurelius Augurellus, a Poet of Rimini, who being addicted to that kind of Mysterious Philosophy, that pretends to the finding out of the Philosopher's Stone, wrote a Poem in Heroic Verse, entitled Chrysopœa, or The Art of making Gold in 3 Books, which he dedicated to Pope Leo the 10th; another call'd Geronticon in one Book, besides 5 Books of Iambics, 2 of Sermones, and 2 of Odes.

Joannes Baleus, an English writer, who flourisht in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, best known by his Treatise, which gives account of all the Eminent writers of our Nation of what Art or Faculty soever, and by what he hath thereby contributed to this work, the better better meriting to be here inserted, to which place the title he derives is by those Dramatic Pieces out of Holy Scripture, which we find enumerated among the rest of his works.

Ioannes Baptista Almadianus, a Viterbian, of whom there are several Elegies in Latin Verse upon the death of Platina, extant at the end of Platina's works.

Ioannes Baptista Egnatius, an Eminent and General Professor of the Liberal Arts at Venice, of which Citty he was also a Native; the only Monument of whose Poetic Genius we find mentioned among many other of his Volumes, is his Panegyric in Heroic Latin Verse, upon Francis the first of that Name, King of France.

Giovanni Battista Pigna. Ioannes Baptista Pigna*, another Venetian, of whose writings there are 4 Books of Sonnets printed at Venice, together with the Sonnets of Celio Calcagnino, and Ludovico Ariosto, by Vincentio Valgrisio.

Ioannes Baptista Scaphenatius, a Milanese, of whose writing something is preserv'd serv'd among the Collected works of several Eminent Italian writers of Latin Poetry.

Ioannes Barclaius, a most acute learned and Elegant Scochman, and very famous for what he hath writen both in Prose and Verse; but especially for his Argenis, and his Euphormio, both which works, though written for the most part in solute Oration, yet may very well be accounted Poems, not only for that they are interspersed throughout with Verse, but also for that they have their Political and Moral truths allegoris'd or coucht under feign'd and invented Story.

Ioannes Boccatius, see Giovanni Boccatio.

Ioannes Bonfinius, a Frenchman of Auvergne, whose Basia and other Poems were printed at Leiden an. 1656.

Ioannes Busmannus, a writer of Poems which were printed at Wirtemberg an. 1337.

Ioannes Carboniroſa, an Author of Kirkhoven, who among other things wrote certain Dramatic Pieces out of the Holy Scripture.

Ioannes

Digitized by Google

Joannes Columbinus, the Author of a little Poem entiled Contra Philomusum, or againſt the Contemners of School Divinity.

Joannes Cotta, a native of Ponte Aliaco, a Town upon the River Athesis, who publiſht an Elegant Book of Latin Epigrams; but whoſe Noble Book of Chorographie begun in Verſe, was not only left unfiniſht, but alſo that which was done of it loſt, together with his learned Scholia upon Plinie.

Joannes Crato, a Sileſian, born at Vratiſlaw the Cheif City of that Country, in the year of our Lord 1512; he is ſtyl'd by Boiſardus in his Icones the Hierophantes of all polite Literature, and had indeed the general reputation as well of an excellent Poet as of a profound Philoſopher, and moſt skilful Phyſician; but for being ſo great a Philoſopher and Phyſician, it was, that he remain'd Counſellor and Chief Phyſician for 26 years to 3 Emperours ſucceſſively, Ferdinand the firſt, Maximilian the ſecond, and Rodulphus the ſecond.

Joannes

Digitized by Google

Joannes Dantiscus, a Polonian, who wrote in Heroic Verse a Poem entitled Soteria, to Sigismund de Erberstein, a Knight of Poland, upon his return from Muscovie; another upon the Victory of Sigismund King of Poland against the Waywod of Moldavia: also a Sylva in Elegiac Verse, upon the calamities of his times. He was flourishing in the year 1531.

Joannes Elius, a writer of Divine Odes, mention'd in Hervagius his Catalogue.

Joannes Fabritius, a Native of Berkena, in Lower Alsatia, who wrote in Verse the History of Gulielmus Thellius, which dedicating to Conradus Pellicanus, he publisht himself with other Poems of his: He flourisht at Zurich in the year 1554.

Joannes Filiczkius, a Hungarian Poet, remembred for what he hath written in Latin Verse among the Chief of that Nation.

Joannes Franciscus Camenus, a Native of Perusia, a Town of Hetruria, but under the Pope's Dominion, who wrote an Heroic Poem (in name at least) least) of the Rape of Philenis, which with several other Poems, as Eclogues, Elegies, Epigrams, Odes, Epicedia, &c. was printed at Venice, by Gulielmo de Fontaneto an. 1520.

Digitized by Google

Ioannes Franciscus Mutius, an Italian, of whom what is extant in Latin Verse is to be found among the selected workes of divers of the principal Latin Poets of that Nation.

Ioannes Franciscus Picus Mirandula, the Nephew of that Miracle of his time Picus Count of Mirandula, and as related to him by Blood, so also by Ingenuity and perfection of learning: both his Books de Veritate Fidei Christianæ, and also his Sacred Poems are mentioned with high commendation by Paulus Iovius, in his Elogies, and also by Boissartus in his Icones.

Ioannes Franciscus Quintianus Stoa, an Italian writer of very many Poetical things in Latin Verse, besides some in Prose; among his first kind are his Threnodies upon the deaths of the K. of France, the K. of Scots, Queen Anne, Philippus Beroaldus, &c. His Poem of the Amours of Mars and Venus in 8 Books, his his Cleopolis or Sylva upon the Glory of the City of Paris, his Sylva in praise of Marinus Beichemius, his Theandrogenosis and Theanastasis, the first an Ode upon our Saviours Nativity, the second a Sylva upon his Resurrection, 7 Tragedies, whereof 2 Divine; and 5 Comedies.

Digitized by Google

Ioannes de Gerson, a French Author of a most wonderful multitude of Volumes, whereof some in Verse, particularly his Epithalamium upon the Mystical Marriage betwen a Divine and the Study of Theology. He was Chancellor of the Parisian Academy, and is mentioned flourishing in the year of our Lord 1429.

Ioannes Fungerus, a German, who sung in Heroic Verse the Acts of Maurice William Governor of Friseland.

Ioannes Gigas, the Author of a Treatise concerning the Certainty of Christian Religion; to which are added his Divine Poems, besides which he wrote many things in Poetry, as Sylvæ, Epigrams, Elegies, and among the rest his Elegy upon the 2 Eclipses of the Moon that hapened in the year 1538. his Funeral neral Elegy upon John Prince of Saxonie, his Encomium upon the City of Leipſich, and his Epicedium upon the death of Eraſmus.

Digitized by Google

Joannes Gilleius, a Burgundian, who among other things wrote an Elegant Deſcription of the Stately Houſe and Gardens of Pagnel, belonging to the Gileian Family, and of the City of Salines, and the River Furioſa flowing by it; together with the Famous Wilderneſs belonging to the Sieur Du Sachet.

Joannes Girardus, the Author of a Poem entitled Divionenſis Stichoſtratia, with two Centuries of Epigrams.

Joannes Graſſerus, the Author of certain Latin Poems, which were printed at Colen, an. 1595.

Joannes Haſembergius, a Bohemian, no leſs mention'd for his Drolling Verſes upon Martin Luther, then for his being Tutor to the Emperor Ferdinand's Children.

Joannes Honterus, an Eminent Geographer of Cronſtadt, in Tranſilvania, who among divers Geographical Treatiſes, wrote one in Hexameter Verſe, divided into four Books, entitled Rudimenta Geographica. Joannes

Digitized by Google

Joannes Hospinianus Steinanus, a Helvetian, who besides several Treatises in Prose, wrote in Verse a Panegyric upon the Lord Magnus ab Emershofen, several Epithalamia or Nuptial Poems.

Joannes Jacobus Gabianus, the Author of a Poem entitled Romanensium Victoria, with the Office and Commendation of St. Columbanus in Verse, Tetrasticks of the Saints, and Distichs of Morality, with other things.

Joannes Jovianus Pontanus, a very renowned Philosopher, Orator, and Poet; first Tutor and afterwards Secretary to Alphonso the Younger King of Naples, among his Poetical works, were his five Books of the Constellations, his Book of Meteors, his Poem of the Culture of Citron, entitled The Hesperian Gardens, in 6 Books, his Lepidina, or Pastoral Pomps, his Bucolics, Melissus, Maon, & Acon, &c.

Joannes Lauterbachius, an Author sufficiently Eminent among the German writers in Latin Verse.

Joannes Leochæus, a learned Scotchman, of considerable repute for his Elegant gant Latin Poems entitled Musæ Priores, which in his late Majesties Reign were printed at London, and dedicated to William Earl of Pembrok.

Ioannes Linkius, a German, reputed one of the Chief among the Latin Poets of that Nation.

Ioannes Lorichius Hadamarus, a well approv'd German Author, especially for what he hath written in Poetry, as his Book of Riddles, and his Ecclesiasticus in Latin Verse; as also his Catalogue of Ancient Civilians in Elegiac Verse, with some other things.

Ioannes Ludovicus Brassicanus, a German, whose Carmen Odœporicon to Ioachimus Camerarius, is the cheif of what I find mentioned of his Poetry: In Prose he wrote a Comment upon Cicero's Book De Legibus, and other noted things.

Ioannes Major, a Belgian, reckon'd among the Principal writers of that Country in Latin Poetry.

Ioannes Maria Velmatius, an Italian, whose Latin Muse travell'd through the whole Bible.

Joannes

Digitized by Google

Joannes Maurus, the Author of a late Latin Poem, entitled Theatrum Universæ vanitatis, printed at Paris anno 1668.

Joannes Mercurius Morsheimerus, a German, who wrote a Poem in Elegiac Verse, in praise of Autumn; he flourisht at Heidelberg an. 1552.

Joannes Metellanus, a Scotchman, whose Epigrams are publisht among the selected Poems of several others, esteemed the Cheif Latin Versifiers of that Nation.

Joannes Morisotus, a Physician of Dole, who besides what he wrote in Prose, both in Physic and several other subjects, wrote also in Verse, Ethologia in 10 Eclogus, 6 Aucupatory Eclogues, 7 Books of Odes, a Poem entitled Herculeis, another Antonias, or the Life of St. Antony; the Tragedy of Dido, 2 Books of Divine Epigrams, and other things.

Joannes Muscopius, a German, mention'd particularly for his Epithalamium upon the Nuptials of Simon Rostius, with Margareta, the Daughter of Antonius Turlers.

Digitized by Google

Ioannes Passeratius, a Professor of the Latin Tongue in the University of Paris, where what he wrote as well in Verse as in solute Oration, both in the French and Latin Tongues, had no vulgar repute; the mention'd time of his Flourishing is the year 1602.

Ioannes Phernandus, a German, who besides other things, in Verse, wrote the hours of the Holy Cross, and of the Compassion of the B. Virgin in Elegiac Verse: he flourisht an. 1494.

Ioannes Picus, Count of Mirandula, the Phœnix of his Age, and darling of the Muses, as he is styl'd by Scaliger: Sixtus Senensis also in his Bibliotheca, for his many concurring excellencies, as his rare Beauty of Body and Mind, his Nobility of Birth, admirable Wit and profound Literature, Sirnames him the Phœnix; but Politian in his Epistles, among other great Characters gives him particularly that of egregious Poet: what Miracle then would he have been, had he liv'd longer? for he died in the 32 year of his age, being the year of our Lord 1449.

Ioannes

Digitized by Google

Joannes Pirrius, a Poet of Valeria, among whose Poems there are noted his Fable of Leucippus, and that of the Carp-Fish, his Epistle of Protesilaus to Laodamia, his Amicitia Romana, his Joathas, &c.

Joannes Pedioneus, a Writer of Hymns in Latin Verse.

Joannes Posselius, a learned Writer (among other things) of Rules or Precepts of human Life in Greec Verse.

Joannes Posthius, a learned both Physician and Poet, born in the Palatinate anno 1537; his Poetical works were his Parerga Poetica; his works belonging to Physic, his Anatomical Observations, and some other things.

Joannes Rhellicanus, a Poet of Zurich in Switzerland, who at the end of Homer's Life, which he translated out of Plutarch, hath a Poem entitled Stockhornias, in which he describes a journy he made over the Mountain Stockhorn, in the Territory of Bearn: He wrote also another Poem of the 3 Men of Baden, who were beheaded for Religion; he was flourishing anno 1538.

Digitized by Google

Joannes Richius, a Poet of Annoveriacum, who in a Poem which he wrote in Heroic Verse of the Nuptials of Volradus Count of Waldec and Anastasia the Daughter of the Count of Swarzemburg; gives a summary view of the Lives and Transactions of several of the Counts of Waldec: he also wrote a Propemptieon of the Lord Franciscus a Stiten, taking a Journy into Livonia.

Joannes Rosa, one of those Latin Poets accounted of the prime of Scotland, who are joyn'd together in a publisht Collection of their several Selected Works.

Joannes Sambucus, a Hungarian, accounted one of the Chief of that Country for Latin Poesy; there are principally taken notice of his Carmina Ethica, or Moral Precepts in Verse.

Joannes Sapidus, a Poet of Schledstadt, one of the Imperial Cities in the Circle of Rhine. He wrote, besides Epigrams and other Miscellaneous Poems, his Anabion, or Lazarus redivivus, a Divine Comedy.

Joannes Schosserus, a German Writer, well approv'd for his Latin Poems.

Joannes

Digitized by Google

Ioannes Scotus Scototarvatius, a Scotch Knight, and Person of Eminent Dignity in the State, yet more advanc't in Fame, by the Place his Elegies have obtain'd among the most esteem'd Latin Poets of that Nation.

Joannes Secundus, an Elegant Poetical Writer of Hague, as appears by his 3 Books of Elegies, his Funera, Epigrams, Basia, Odes, Epistles, and Sylvæ.

Joannes Sekervius, a Poet of Vratislaw, one of the Chief Cities of Poland, of whose Poetical invention there are principally mention'd 2 Elegies of Jacob and Esau, reciprocal from one to the other.

Joannes Serranus, a Gallic Writer of Vivar, whose Version of several of the Psalms of David, exceed in the judgement of Duport, what ever had been done before of that kind.

Joannes Simonius, a German, among whose Poems we find his Princeps most especially quoted.

Joannes Sommerus, a Hungarian of no obscure Note, for what he hath written in Latin Verse.

Digitized by Google

Joannes Spangenbergius, a German Theologist and Preacher at Northausen, an Imperial Town in the Circle of Saxonie, who as he wrote many things in Prose, so he was not averse to Poetry, as appears by his Version of David's Psalms into Elegiac Verse.

Joannes Stabius, an Austrian, both Poet and Mathematician, and honour'd with the Title of Historian to the Emperour Maximilian: several things he wrote in Verse, but what he wrote in Prose were chiefly Astronomical and Geographical.

Joannes Stella, a Venetian Poet, who wrote the Lives of several Popes, in Latin Verse.

Joannes Stigelius, a famous German Astronomer, and not obscure Poet, which last Character he bears from his Epithalamium of Georgius Sabinus, and Anne the Daughter of Philip Melanchton, his Versification of several of David's Psalms, with other Scripture Hymns; his Epicedium upon the death of Euricius Cordus, another upon the death of Anne Wife of Philip Earl of Nassau; his Eclogue Jolas, upon the Emperour Charles

Digitized by Google

Charles 5th, &c. He Flouriſht in the year 1554.

Joannes Tetbingerus, an Author of Tubingen, one of the 16 Earldoms in the Circle of Suevia, who ſet forth in Heroic Verſe the 4 Wirtemberg wars, which laſted for many years; he flouriſht at Pfullendorf anno 1534.

Joannes Thomas Muſconius, a Member of that Society of Italian Poets, who are joyn'd together in a Publiſht Collection of their ſelected Works in Latin Verſe.

Joannes Thuilius, a Poet of Monſ-Mariæ, who ſaluted Nicolaus Contarenus Duke of Venice, with a Solemn Panegyric in Verſe, and was highly in Favour with Andreas Maurocenus, and Dominicus Molinus for his Exalted Vein in Poetry.

Joannes Verſula, a Spaniard, who by King Philip the Second then in England, and Married to our Queen Mary, was ſent Embaſſadour to Rome. The Verſes which he took delight to Compoſe in the interval of his more ſerious affairs, had the eſteem of Learned Men, and were printed at Panormus in Sicily, under the Title of Epistles.

Digitized by Google

Ioannes Ursinus, an Eminent Professor of Medicine, which Apollo-like he joyned with Poetry: he described in Elegiac Verse the Prosopopœa or Metaphorical Representation of divers Animals, as also the Dietetical part of Medicine; besides a little Book of Moral Sentences in Verse, like that of Cato.

Iodocus Badius Ascensius, a Commentatour upon Tully's Offices and Epistles, and Boethius de Consolatione Philosophiæ: Erasmus compares him to Budæus, whom he calls the Ornament of France. Moreover, by a late English Author he is character'd the most famous Philosopher, Rhetorician and Poet of his time.

Iodocus Gallus, a Dr of Theology of Rubeaqua, a Town in Upper Alsatia, and Pastor of the Church of Spire, who besides several Theological Treatises, in Prose, wrote Epigrams in divers kinds of Verse.

John Cleaveland, a Notable High soaring Witty Loyalist of Cambridge, whose Verses in the time of the Civil War

War begun to be in great request, both for their Wit and zeal to the King's cause, for which indeed he appear'd the first, if not only, Eminent Champion in Verse against the Presbyterian Party; but most especially against the Kirck and Scotch-Covenant, which he prosecuted with such a Satyrical fury, that the whole Nation fares the worse for it, lying under a most grievous Poetical Censure. In fine, so great a Man hath Cleaveland been in the Estimation of the generality, in regard his Conceits were out of the common road, and Wittily far fetch't, that Grave Men in outward appearance have not spar'd in my hearing to affirm him the best of English Poets, and let them think so still, who ever please, provided it be made no Article of Faith.

Sr John Davis, the Learned and well accomplisht Father of a no less learned and accomplisht Daughter the present Countess Dowager of Huntington: his Poem Nosce teipsum, (besides which and his Orchestra publisht together with it, both the products of his younger years) I remember I to have seen from the hands of the Countess a judicious Metaphrase of several of David's Psalms) is said to have made him first known to Queen Elizabeth, and afterwards brought him in favour with King James, under whose auspices addicting himself to the Study of the Common Law of England, he was made the King's First Serjeant, and afterwards his Attorney General in Ireland.

Digitized by Google

Sr John Denham, late Surveyour of his Majestie's Works; but of a much more celebrated memory by the Fame of what he hath written in Poetry, especially his Cooper's Hill, and his Tragedy The Sophi, which having been long since published and in general esteem, came forth again a few years since, joyn'd with the rest of his Poetical Works, which together amount to a considerable Volume.

John Donne, a Student in his younger years in Lincoln's Inn; whether he betook himself from the University of Oxford; but instead of poring upon readious Reports, Judgments and Statute Books, he accomplish't himself with the politer kind of Learning, moderately derately enjoy'd the pleasures of the Town, and frequented good Company, to which the sharpness of his Wit, and gayety of Fancy, render'd him not a little grateful; in which state of life he compos'd his more brisk and Youthful Poems, which are rather commended for the heighth of Fancy and acutness of conceit, then for the smoothness of the Verse. At last by King James his command, or rather earnest persuasion, setting himself to the study of Theology, and entring into Holy Orders, he was first made Preacher of Lincoln's Inne, afterwards advanc't to be Dean of Pauls: and as of an Eminent Poet he became a much more Eminent Preacher, so he rather improved then relinquisht his Poetical Fancy, only converting it from human and worldly to Divine and Heavenly subjects.

Digitized by Google

John Driden, Poet Laureat, and Historiographer to His present Majesty; with whom such hath been the approbation and acceptance his Poetry hath obtained, especially what he hath written of Dramatic, with wonderful success

Digitized by Google

ceſs to the Theater Royal, viz. Comedies, ſeveral abounding with no vulgar wit and ingenuity, as the Maiden Queen, the Wild Gallant, the Mock Aſtrologer, Marriage à la mode, the Amorous Old Woman, the Aſſignation: Tyrannic Love, and Amboyna Tragedies; beſides Hiſtorical Drama's; viz. the Indian Emperor, and two parts of the Conqueſts of Granada, in which if he have indulg'd a little too much to the French way of continual Rime and interlarding of Hiſtory with aſcititious Love and Honour, I am apt to impute it rather to his complying with the modyfied an galantiſh humour of the time, then to his own well examined judgment.

Iohn Fletcher, one of the happy Triumvirat (the other two being Iohnſon and Shakeſpear) of the Chief Dramatic Poets of our Nation, in the laſt foregoing Age, among whom there might be ſaid to be a ſymmetry of perfection, while each excelled in his peculiar way: Ben. Iohnſon in his elaborate pains and knowledge of Authors, Shakeſpear in his pure vein of wit, and natural Poetic height; Fletcher in a courtly Elegance, and and gentile familiarity of ſtyle, and withal a wit and invention ſo overflowing, that the luxuriant branches thereof were frequently thought convenient to be lopt off by his almoſt inſeparable Companion Francis Beaumont.

Digitized by Google

John Ford, a Dramatic Writer ſome years ſince, of Tragedies and Comedies, in their ſeaſon I ſuppoſe not wholly ſtrangers to the Engliſh Stage: His Tragedies The Broken Heart, Loves Sacrifice, and 'Tis pitty ſhe's a Whore; his Comedies the Fancies & the Lady's Tryall, he wrote alſo a Tragy-Comedy Loves Labyrinth, beſides the Dramatic Hiſtory of Perkin Warbec.

Sr John Gowr, a very Famous Engliſh Poet in his time, and counted little inferiour, if not equal to Chaucer himſelf; who was his Contemporary, and ſome ſay his Scholar and Succeſſor in the Laurel: For Gowr was alſo both Poet Laureat and Knight. His Cheif Works may be gather'd from his Tomb in St. Mary Overeis Church, where lying buried, he is repreſented with his head upon three large Volumes thus inſcribed, the firſt Vetus Meditantis, the next Confeſſio

Digitized by Google

Confessio Amantis, the 3d Vox clamantis; of which last being printed in the Reign of King Henry the 8th, the Impression is not yet totally extinguisht: the other two doubtless, if not printed, are preserved in Public Libraries: For his Confessio Amantis I have seen in a private Library, in a large Folio Manuscript of Vellam fair written, containing the whole circuit of Natural Philosophy, and the allegories of all the Poetical Fictions; but that there were other things of his writing appears by what is extant of him in Chaucers publisht Works.

John Hall, a Poetical writer, who never having had any great Fame, that ever I heard of, no wonder if now totally forgotten; especially since his Poem entitled The Court of Vertue, was publisht no less while ago then the year 1565. Of the same name also flouriſht within these 30 years a Bishopric of Durham Man, who besides his juvenile Poems, memorable only for their airy and youthful wit, improv'd afterwards to a more substantial reputation for what he has wrote as well in Verse as Prose, but a Poem he began of great and general expectation among his Friends, had he liv'd to compleat it, would doubtless have very much advanc't and compleated his Fame.

a

John Harding, a writer recorded in History for one of the Chief of his time; viz. the Reign of K. Edward the 4th, and claiming his Seat among the Poetical Writers, by his Chronicle in English Verse.

John Hanvise, a Monk of St. Albans, whom living about the Reign of K. Richard the first, or not long after, Camden quoting him in several places of his remains, reckons among the Chief of English Latin Poets of that Age.

John Hoddesdon, one of the last Age, who with his Sion and Parnassus, makes a shift to croud in among many others, not of the greatest Fame. And so likewise, John Kennedie, a Scotchman, with his History in Verse of Lycanthropos and Lavilla.

John Lane, a fine old Queen Elizabeth Gentleman, who was living within my remembrance, and whose several Poems

Poems, had they not had the ill fate to remain unpublisht, when much better meriting then many that are in print, might possibly have gain'd him a name not much inferiour, if not equal to Drayton, and others of the next rank to Spencer; but they are all to be produc't in Manuscript, namely his Poetical Vision, his Alarm to the Poets, his Twelve Months, his Guy of Warwic, a Heroic Poem (at least as much as many others that are so Entitled) and lastly his Supplement to Chaucers Squires Tale.

John Leland, an Antiquary of London, who Flourisht in the year 1546; and wrote among many other Volumes several Books of Epigrams, his Cygnea Cantio, a Genethliac of Prince Edward, Naniæ upon the death of Sr Thomas Wiat; and several other things in Verse.

John Lilly, a Writer of several old fashion'd Comedies and Tragedies, which have been printed together in a Volume, and might perhaps when time was, be in very good request, namely Endymion, The Woman in the Moon, Midas, Mother Boniby, Galatea, Sapho & Phao

Digitized by Google

Phaa Comedies, a Warning for Fair Women.

John Lydgate, an Augustin Monk of St. Edmunds-Bury, who had the reputation of a person much accomplisht, by his travels into Italy and France; and besides several things of his of polite Argument in Prose, was much esteem'd for what he wrote also in Verse; as his Eglogues, Odes, Satyres, and other Poems.

John Marston, a Tragic and Comic Writer, not of the meanest Ranck among our English Dramatics. His Comedies are the Dutch Curtisan, the Fawn, What you will; His Tragedies Antonio and Melida, the Insatiate Countess, besides the Maleontent a Tragy Comedy; the Faithful Sheapheard a Pastoral.

John Milton, the Author (not to mention his other Works, both in Latin and English, both in strict and solute Oration, by which his Fame is sufficiently known to all the Learned of Europe) of two Heroic Poems, and a Tragedy; namely Paradice lost, Paradice Regain'd, and Sampson Agonista, in which how far he hath reviv'd the Majesty jesty and true Decorum of Heroic Poesy and Tragedy: it will better become a person less related then my self, to deliver his judgement.

John Ogilby, one of the prodigies of our Age, for producing from so late an initiation into Literature, so many large & learned Vol. as well in verse as Prose: in Prose his Volumes of the Atlas, and other Geographical Works, which have gain'd him the Style and Office of his Majestie's Cosmographer; in Verse his Translat. of Homer & Virgil, & which is the chief of all, as Compos'd propria Minerva: his Paraphrase upon Æsop's Fables, which for Ingenuity & Fancy, besides the Invention of new Fables, is generally confess'd to have exceeded what ever hath been done before in that kind.

John Philips, the Maternal Nephew and Disciple of an Author of most deserved Fame has deceas'd, being the exactest of Heroic Poets, (if the truth were well examin'd, and it is the opinion of many both Learned and Judicious persons) either of the Ancients or Moderns, either of our own or what ever ever Nation else; from whose Education as he hath receiv'd a judicious command of style both in Prose and Verse, so from his own natural Ingenuity he hath his Vein of Burlesque and facetious Poetry, which produc't the Satyr against Hypocrites, and the Travested Metaphrase of two Books of Virgil, besides what is dispers'd among other things; nevertheless what he hath writ in a serious Vein of Poetry, whereof very little hath yet been made public, is in my opinion, nothing inferior to what he hath done in the other kind.

John Skelton, a jolly English Rimer, and I warrant ye accounted a notable Poet, as Poetry went in those daies, namely King Edward the fourth's Reign, when doubtless good Poets were scarce; for however he had the good fortune to be chosen Poet Laureat: methinks he hath a miserable loose, rambling style, and galloping measure of Verse, so that no wonder he is so utterly forgotten at this present, when so many better Poets of not much later a date, are wholly laid aside. His chief Works, as many as I could collect out of an old printed printed Book, but imperfect, are his Philip Sparrow, Speak Parrot, The death of K. Edward the fourth, A Treatise of the Scots, Ware the hawk, The tunning of Eleanor Rumpkin; in many of which following the humour of the ancientest of our modern Poets, he takes a Poetical libertie of Satyrically gibing at the vices and corruptions of the Clergy.

Sr John Sucking, a witty and elegant Courtier under his late Majesty; his Poems which being few, besides his Dramatics Aglaura, Brenoralt & the Goblins, are collected together with his Letters into a Volume, entitled Fragmenta Aurea, have a pretty touch of a gentile Spirit, and seem to savour more of the Grape then Lamp, and still keep up their reputation equal with any Writ so long ago; his Plays also still bring audience to the Theater.

John Webster, an Associate with Thomas Decker, in several not wholly to be rejected Plays; viz. Northward Hoe, the Noble Stranger, New trick to cheat the Divel; Westward Hoe, the Weakest goes to the wall, Woman will have her Will, with Samuel Rowly in the Cure for Cuckolds,

Digitized by Google

Cuckolds, a Comedy; besides what he wrote alone, the Divels Law case, a Tragy-Comedy, the White Devil, the Dutchess of Malfy, Tragedies.

John Wilson, a late Writer with no bad success of two Comedies, the Cheats and the Projectors; and the Tragedy of Andronicus Commenius.

Jonas ab Elvervelt, an Holsatian, who wrote a Description of the State of that Country, in Elegiac Verse.

Josephus Iscanus, or Joseph of Exeter, the very first (of the Moderns both in time and Fame) of Latin Poets among the English: who accompanying King Richard the first in his Expedition into the Holy Land, had the better advantage to celebrate, as he did, the Acts of that Warlike Prince, in a Poem entitled Antiocheis: He wrote also 6 Books De Bello Trojano, in Heroic Verse; which as Cambden well observes, appears to be no other then that Version of Dares Phrygius, into Latin Verse, which hath been generally imputed to Cornelius Nepos.

Josepphus

Digitized by Google

have been equal to his undertaking.

Joshua Sylvester, the English Translator of Du Bartas his Poem of the six daies work of Creation, by which he is more generally fam'd; (for that Poem hath ever had many great admirers among us) then by his own Poems commonly printed therewith.

Juan de Mena, a Spaniard, whose Poetical Works were printed at Antwerp anno 1552.

Julius Ascanius, a Native of Crema in the Venetian Territory; a taste of whose Poetical Fancy is extant among other the choise collected works of the most noted Italian Writers of Latin Verse.

Julius Cæsar Stella, the Author of a Latin Poem of Heroic title Columbeis.

Justulus, an Eminent Author of Spoleto; whose writings are chiefly Poetical, as his Poem of the Culture of Saffron, another of Silk-worms, his Epicedium of Pomponius Læta, his Musæ Phanestres, his Descriprion of the Mountain adjacent to Spoleto, his Poem to Ferdinand of Arragon, and some others.

Julius

Digitized by Google

Josephus Justus, & Julius Cæsar, two most celebrated Authors, Son and Father, of the Illustrious Family Della Scala of Verona, and therefore generally known by the Sirname of Scaliger; of whom Julius hath the testimony of the Great Thuanus, for a Person unparallell'd by any of his Age, & scarce giving Place to any of the Ancients, as Josephus is by the same Historian rankt in the next Place to his Father Julius, whose extant Poems, both Greek and Latin have gain'd him among Learned Men, a particular reputation of an excellent Poet; and if in any, doubtless in that very respect above all others, he is to be preferred before his Son Joseph, who, though accounted in the number of Poets also; yet is much more fam'd for what he hath written in Prose: yet as much a Poet as Julius passeth for, his judgement of some of the Poets in his Critica, might for ought I know, if well examined, bring in some question, whither if he had undertaken those great Provinces in Poetry, which require the highest judgement, his success would have Justus Lipsius, one of the most Illustrious Antiquarys, Critics and Commentatours of his time in Christendom, by the testimony of Thuanus, Dilherus and Aubertus Miræus: and though what he hath written in Poetry, is not so much taken notice of, as his Antiquæ Lectiones, his Notes upon Tacitus, his Saturnalia, and other fam'd things in Prose; yet to be reckon'd also among the cheif of Belgic Latin Poets, for he was born at Brussells, for his excellent Genius in Latin Verse: he was a constant admirer of Joseph Scaliger, and by him no less belov'd: He was Flourishing beyond the year 16c6.

Justus Riechius, a Native of Gaunt, who for his Varia Carmina, is inserted among the Belgic Writers of Latin Poetry.

Lelius

Digitized by Google

L.

Lælius Capilupus, a Mantuan, who had such an artful and igenious way of making Centones, out of his Country-Man Virgil's Verses, that by Learned Men he is judged to have excell'd Ausonius and Proba Faleonia, in that way of writing; he is mentioned Flourishing in the year 1560.

Lævinus Torrentius: see Levinus.

Lambertus, a Benedictine Monk of Liege, who besides his Life of Heribertus Arch-Bishop of Cologn, wrote a Book of Hymns in various kinds of Verse.

Lambertus Daneus, a Writer of Geography in Latin Verse.

Lancinus Curtius, wrote decads of Epigrams, which were printed at Milan by Rochus & Ambrosius de Valle anno 1521.

Laurentius Bonicontrius*, a Commentator upon the Poet Manilius, his Astronomica, being himself both an Astronomer and Poet: his chief Poetic work being his Tractate of things Natural and Celestial, in Heroic Verse: He was Flourishing an. 1494.

* Lorenzo Bonicontri.

Digitized by Google

Gambaro. * Lorenzo * Laurentius Gambarus, a principal Favorite of Cardinal Alexander Farnese, and that chiefly for his fine wit and gentile Spirit in Poetry.

Laurentius Niendalius, the Author of Latin Poems which were printed at Utrecht an. 1641.

Lazaro Buonamico, an Italian Poet of Bassiana & Paduan Professour 20 years: his most noted things in Poetry are his Epistles in Verse to Ursinus Velius of Silesia, Donatus Rullus of Venice, Altenerius Avogarus of Verona, and several other Eminent Men of Italy and other parts. Within the time of his Professourship is comprehended the year of our Lord 1553, the mentioned time of his Flourishing.

Leonardo Salviati, an Italian Comic writer, whose Comedy call'd La Spina being particularly taken notice of, was printed at Ferrara an. 1592.

Leonardus Brunus, an Eminent both Philosopher, Historian, Orator, and also Poet of Aretium, and thereupon generally known by the Appellation of Leonardus Aretinus. Leo-

Digitized by Google

Leonardus Pellicanus, the Brother of the most learned Conradus, and had he liv'd, might perhaps have arriv'd somewhat near his perfection, if not equall'd him at least in another kind; for his Genius was Poetical, but he was snatcht away in the flour of his age by an untimely death, in the year 1510 at Rubeaqua, the place also of his nativity, a Town of Upper Alsatia: however, he left behind him no inconsiderable Fame, by his elaborate Elegy upon the death of the Lady Margaret, the Wife of Philip Count Palatine, and Duke of Bavaria; and his Poem upon the Resurrection and Last Judgment, besides Epigrams in various kind of Verse.

Levinus Brechtus, a Friar Minorite of Lovain, who wrote the Lives of divers Illustrious Martyrs, both in Prose and Verse.

Levinus Torrentinus, a Native of Gaunt, highly extoll'd by Meibomius, for his Learning in general; by Sandius for his Notes upon Suetonius and Horace; and by Aubertus Miræus for his Odes and Lyric Poetry: For his excellent Genius in which he prefers him next after Horace himself; he was the next Bishop of Antwerp after Franciscus Sonnius, & was Flourishing beyond the year 1595.

Ludovic Carliss, the Author of divers formerly not unesteem'd, and not yet totally forgotten Tragi-Comedies; as the two parts of Amintagus and Felicia; The Passionate Lovers, in 2 parts; Osmond the Great Turk, or the Noble Servant, a Tragedy.

Lopez de Vega Carpio, the most noted writer among the Spaniards of Comedies, and other Dramatic Poems; but more noted for the multitude (for he is exceeding Voluminous) then for the goodness of them, and for his singularity in making but 3 Acts to each Fable or Play. He also wrote a Poem of Sr Francis Drake's Exploits in the West-Indies.

Laurenzo Medici, a Noble Florentine, as his Name imports, whose Poesie Volgari was printed at Venice an. 1554.

Lucas Shepheard, an English Poet of Colchester in Essex, of so much note in Queen Mary's Reign, that he is thought not unworthy of mention by some of our English Historians. I Lu-

Digitized by Google

Ludolphus Pithopœus, a learned and ingenious Hollander; but most particularly taken notice of among the Belgic Latin Poets, for his singular faculty in Latin Verse.

Ludovicus Alcalmus, a French Poetical writer, having a principal Place among the Latin Versifiers of that Nation.

Ludovico Ariosto, one of the two most celebrated Heroic Poets of Italy; and thereupon Competitor with Torquato Tasso the other: his Poem entitled Orlando Furioso, takes its argument from the Expedition of the Emperor Charles the Great against the Saracens in Spain. There are also of his writing several Elegant Comedies.

Ludovicus Andreas Resendius, an Eminent both Poet, Orator, Theologist and Antiquary.

Ludovico Bigi Vittorio, or Pittorio, a Poet of Ferrara, among whose other Poems, as Hymns, Epitaphs upon the Saints, Satyrs, Elegies, Epigrams, &c. his Hippolyta an Elegant Poem, is most especially noted.

Ludovico Bruno, the commended Author of a Poem upon the Coronation of Maximilian King of the Romans: he was Flouriſhing in the year 1494.

Ludovico Celio Calcagnino, ſee Celio.

Ludovicus Celeſtus, a French Man, noted for his Latin Tragedies Sapor, Choſroes, Adrian, the Tragical Marriage of Mahomet the Second; beſides Hendecaſyllables upon the Birth of Chriſt.

Ludovicus Crucius, the Author of ſeveral Latin Tragedies and Comedies, which were printed at Leiden anno 1605.

Ludovico Dolce, an Italian Lyric Poet or writer of Sonnets, one of the next Claſſis after Ottavio Rinuccini, and the reſt mentioned with him: with this Ludovico may be ranked Ludovico Laurentio Martelli, Gabriel Chabriera, Giovanni de Caſa, Mario Colonna, Agnolo Firenzuola, Ceſare Caporale, and Burchiello.

Ludovico Laurentio Martelli, ſee above in Ludovico Dolce.

Ludovicus Lazarellus, the Author of a Poetical Dialogue entitled Crater Hermetis, dedicated to Ferdinand King of the the Romans, and printed at Paris by Henricus Stephanus an. 1505.

Ludovicus Mazurius, a Hollander, not inconsiderable among the Belgic Writers of Latin Poesy.

Ludovico or Luigi Pulci, a prerender by his Morgante to a Seat among the Italian Heroic Poets.

Ludovicus Tribaldus, the Author of a Latin Poem entitled Epeneſis Iberica, which was printed at Antuerp an. 1632.

Luigi Alamanni, a Florentine principally famous for his Heroic Poem entitled Averchis: he wrote alſo 4 Books of Agriculture in Blanc Verſe, in which kind of writing not only he, but alſo ſome others of the moſt judicious of the Italian Poets, have ſucceeded well enough, to demonſtrate that Rime is not ſo very eſſential in the modern Languages, to the making up of a Verſe.

Luigi or Ludovico Tanſili, an Italian Poet, beſt known by what he hath written for the Stage, yet not ſolely Dramatic, there being other things of his writing, of which the chief is his Poem entitled Lagrime di Santto Pietro.

Digitized by Google

Luis Galvez, a Poetical Writer of Note among the Spaniards, whose Pastor de Philida was printed at Madrid anno 1582.

Luke Sheapherd, see Lucas Sh.

M.

Malens Acidalius, a Writer in Latin Poetry of the number of those that are esteem'd of the chief German Writers of that kind.

Mapheus Barberinus, a great Ornament to the Papal Chair, to which he was advanc'd by the Name of Urban the 8th, by reason of his polite Learning and Elegance; among other Arts and Sciences, in which he had attain'd a great perfection, his extant Poetry hath gain'd him a very Flourishing Fame.

Mapheus Vegius, a Poet of Lodi, contemporary with Angelus Politianus, among his other Poetical Works, his most noted is his Supplement to Virgil's Æneis: He is mentioned Flourishing in the year 1403.

Marcellus

Digitized by Google

Marcellus Palingenius, Sirnam'd Stellatus Poeta, the Author of a well known and approv'd Poem entitled Zodiacus Vitæ, whose subject is the right Institution of humane Life, Study and Manners, and dedicated to Hercules the Second Duke of Ferrara; it consists of 12 Books, according to the number of the 12 Signs, and each Book accordingly denominated.

Marcus Antonius Antimachus, a Native of Ferrara, who by his assiduous and choice converse with Greec Authors, made himself so much Master of that Language, that he hath among other things both in Prose and Verse, written 8 Books of Greec Epigrams with the success of no vulgar repute; he out-liv'd the year 1544.

Marcus Æmilius Portus, the Son of Franciscus a Cretenſian, or Native of the Isle of Candie, a Professor of the Greec Tongue; first at Ferrara, next at Orleans; whose Metaphrase of David's Psalms in Greec Verse is taken notice of by Duport, though with no extraordinary commendation.

Digitized by Google

Marco Antonio Tibaldeo, a noted Italian Author of a Poem entitled Tibaldeo, which was printed at Venice anno 1556.

Marcus Antonius Boba, a Cardinal, whom Thuanus having conyers't with him at Rome, commends for his Vein in Poetry and his Eloquence, both in speaking and writing.

Marcus Antonius Flaminius, an Italian, who besides that he was an excellent Philosopher, by his sweet Vein in Latin Poesy, sufficiently appearing in his 2 Books of Carmina or Odes, indeared himself to several Eminent Men of his time, and among others to Cardinal Reginald Pool, at whose requeſt he made a Version of David's Psalms, in Elegant Latin Verse, which by mistake hath been by some imputed to Joannes Antonius Fl. of Forum Cornelii.

Marcus Antonius Muretus; see Antonius.

Marcus Hieronymus Vida, a Noble Poet of Cremona, who was promoted to the Bishopric of Alba; his works consist chiefly of these following Poems, his Christias or Poem of the Life and

Digitized by Google

and death of Christ, in 6 Books; his three Books De Arte Poetica; his 2 Books of the care and management of Silk-worms; his Description of the Game at Chess, in one Book; besides Hymns, Odes, Bucolic, Eclogues, &c. He is mentioned by Thuanus among other learned Men, under the year 1566.

Marcus Joannes Cruselius, an Elegiac Writer in two remarkable Books; the first his Encomiums of the most noted Emperors, Kings and Commanders in War from Constantine: the second of Men most Famous for Learning and the Arts.

Marcus Joannes Fracta, a Poet of Verona, chiefly remember'd for his Poem entitled Malteis.

Marcus Musurus, a Cretan Writer of Epigrams, whereof those are particularly remember'd which he wrote upon certain Greec Authors, set forth by Nicolaus Blasius at Venice an. 1500.

Mario Colonna; see Ludovico Dolce.

Marius Philelphus, the Son of Franciscus already mention'd, and Heir of his Father's both Dignity and Fame for he was also both Knight and Poet Laureat.

Martia-

Digitized by Google

Martinus Fannius, his Sylvula in various Latin Verse, not unmention'd by the Registers of the Works of Eminent Men.

Martin LLandin, the not uncommended Writer of a Book of Facetious Poems, which while he was Student of Christ-Church in Oxford, were publisht by the Title of Man-Miracles; but now more conversant in another of Apollos Faculties the Study and practice of Physic.

Martinus Basilius, the Author of funeral Elegies, which were printed at Brescia anno 1519.

Martinus Breschius, a German Writer of Latin Poesy, mentioned and quoted among the choice Latin Poets accounted of that Nation.

Martinus Opizius, an Italian of special esteem for polite Literature, but especially for what he hath written in Latin Verse.

Martinus Pretorius, a German of Poetical Fame, chiefly for his Poem of Heroic Title Austrias.

Martinus Turnemairus, a German, whose Poem entitled Triumphus Mortis, was was printed at Francfurt anno 1624.

Matthews Argillander, a Writer of Poems, which were printed at Basil by Oporinus.

Matthews Delius, a German, one of the principal esteem'd Latin Poets of that Nation.

Matthews Gribaldus, a Commentator upon the Pandects, who also wrote upon the Modern Jurisconsults in Verse, allowing to each their several Distich.

Matteo Maria Boiardo, a Count of Scandiano, whose Orlando Inamorato ranks him among the Italian Heroic Poets.

Matthias Cervus, the Author of a Poem in allusion to his own Name, upon the picture of a Hart; his famous Elegy also upon Philip Melanchthon, is particularly taken notice of.

Matthias Sirnamed from his Country Illyricus, a Greec Professor at Tubing, who set forth Poems also of various subjects.

Matthias Mesnaverus, a Writer of Strasburg, no less fam'd for his learned Epigrams then what he wrote in Prose; he is recorded Flourishing an. 1543.

Matthias

Digitized by Google

Matthias Ringmannus Philesius, a native of Vogesium, the Disciple of Jacobus Wimpheling us, and a writer of both Prose and Verse, particularly Epigrammatic.

Matthias Stoius, a Poetical writer of Regiomonte in Prussia; of whose writing I find particularly mentioned his Elegiac Poem upon Christs Baptism, and his Eclogue upon the Nuptials of Gaspar Peucerus, and Magdalen the Daughter of Melanchthon.

Mauritius Margaretensis, an English-Man, who Flourisht in the year of our Lord 1210, and wrote a Book of Epigrams in various Latin Verse.

Mauritius Neoportus, another English writer (though much differing in time, as being of the present Age, and probably now living) of a late Latin Poem, printed at London, and entitled Votum Carolo Secundo Ang. &c. Regi.

Maximilianus Transylvanus, Max. Vignacurtius, & Max. Urientis, a Triad of Maximilians, all Low-Country men of the number of those that have a Name for Latin Verse. The first of Brussels, whose Varia Carmina are publisht

bliſht with the ſelected Works of diverſe others of that Country: the ſecond of Arras, whoſe Nova Cis in Res Belgas, is of the ſame publication: the third alſo of the ſame ſociety, by his Book of Latin Epigrams.

Maximus Margunius, a Grecian, who at the Dedication of certain Reliques, ſav'd by him from ſhipwrack, to the Public, added alſo ſeveral Copies of his own Verſes, written in no unelegant ſtyle.

Melchior Acontius, a German, who hath written many things in Verſe, among which is his noted Epithalamium upon the Nuptials of Georgius Sabinus, with Anne the Daughter of Ph. Melanchton, commonly printed with Sabinus his Poems.

Melchior Agricola, a writer of Latin Epigrams, whoſe Sirname is ſufficient to gain him reputation, what ever Relation he had to the Great Rodolphus.

Melchior Barlæus, a writer, though not of equal fame for Poetry with Gaſpar, yet reckon'd of the number of the chiefly eſteem'd writers of the Low-Countries, for Latin Poetry.

M.

Digitized by Google

Mr Menage; see Egidius Menagius.

Mercurius Ronxius, a writer of divers Tragedies so well esteem'd, that Albertus de Eyb in his Margarita Poetica, hath made a collection of Sentences out of them.

Michael Sirnamed Anglicus, but by Nation French, of the Town of Belmont, a Professor of Civil and Canon Law, who yet gave himself a Vacancy to Poetry, and wrote 4 Books of Eclogues to the Bishop of Paris, two to Ludovicus Villerius, besides several Books of various Poems.

Michael Sirnamed The Cornish, Poet, a notable Rimer in Latin Verse, in the time of K. John and Henry the third; out of whose Rhyms for Merry England, as Cambden calls them, several passages are quoted by the same Authour in his remains.

Michael Drayton, Contemporary of Spencer and Sr Philip Sidney, and for Fame and renoun in Poetry, not much inferiour in his time to either: however, he seems somewhat antiquated in the esteem of the more curious of these times, especially in his Polyalbion, the old old fashion'd kind of Verse whereof, seem somewhat to diminish that respect which was formerly pay'd to the subject as being both pleasant and elaborate, and thereupon thought worthy to be commented upon, by that once walking Library of our Nation Selden; his Englands Heroical Epistles are more generally lik't, and to such as love the pretty Chat of Nymphs and Sheapherds, his Nymphals and other things of that nature cannot be unpleasant.

Digitized by Google

Michael Hospitalius, a Famous Chancellor of France under Charles the 9th til he was removed for opposing the Parisian Massacre; and one of the celebrated Latin Poets of that Nation, for his 6 Books of Epistles in Latin Verse, and other Poetical works: from a very ancient Medal of Aristotle, he is concluded to have much resembled that great Philosopher.

Michael Tarchaniota Marullus, a Constantinopolitan Poet, whose Hymns and Epigrams were printed at Fano by Soncinus an. 1529.

Michael

Digitized by Google

Sidney, in a publisht Collection of selected Odes, of the chief Pastoral Sonnetters, &c. of that Age.

Nicolaus Caussinus, a very famous French man, Father Confessour joyntly with Jacobus Sirmondus, to King Lewis the 13th of France; besides his vulgarly so much admired work The Holy Court, his Book De Eloquentia, his Thesaurus Græcæ Poesios, and other things in Prose, he hath also written in Verse several Tragedies, Solyma, Nebuchadonosor, Theodoricus, &c. and other Latin Poems.

Nicolaus Cisterus Mosbachius, a Poet of the Palatine or Territory of the Prince Palatine of the Rhine; he was in his Prime about the year 1596.

Nicolaus Grudius, the possessour of a principal Place among the Principal Latin Poets of Germany.

Nicolaus Kenton, an old English Poet, that is old in respect of this Age, for he wrote in the Reign of K. Edward the 4th; and as Poetry then went, was look't upon as a very Famous Man in those times.

Nicolaus

Digitized by Google

Nicolaus Marius Panicianus a Ferrarese, whose Poetic writings were both many, and of various subjects.

Nicolaus Querculus, the Author of 2 Books of Moral Hexastichs, printed by Reginaldus Calderius at Paris an. 1552.

Nicolaus Rapinus, a Frenchman, whose Fame in Latin Poetry hath a Place among the Cheif of that Nation.

Nicolaus Reusnerus, a Professor at Lenes, of universal knowledge in all Arts and Sciences, by the testimon of Melchior Adams, in his Life, Boissardus in his Bibliotheca; and for felicity in Latin Verse, rankt an the modern Latin Poets accounte the Prime of Germany: among t of his Opera Poetica, his Mon peculiarly mentioned.

Nicolaus Rhedigerus, a Germa of the principal accounted of th tion for excellence in Latin Poet

Nicolaus Rigaltius, a writer o notations upon Tertullian, for w hath a very high commendation Grotius, in his Epistle to Petrus ...us; but besides this and several other ...rks in Prose, he hath written sufficiently ciently in Latin Verſe to gain himſelf the title to a Place among the modern Latin Poets, accounted of the Cheif of France: He is alſo mentioned as a Perſon of univerſal Literature by Gaſſendus, in his Life of Peireſkius

Nicolaus Rudingerus, one of the number of thoſe that are eſteem'd of the Prime of the German Nation for a happy Vein in Latin Poetry.

Nicolaus Valla, a Roman, who beſides his Latin Verſion of Homers Ilias and Heſiods Opera & Dies, hath alſo left productions of his own invention, among which his two Epiſtles of Rome and Conſtantinople, each to other reciprocal.

a

Octavius

O.

Octavius Boldonius, wrote Epigrapica or Elogia, in Latin Verse, which were printed at Paris, anno 1660.

Octavius Cleophilus, an Elegant Poet of Fano, a principal Town of Marca Anconitana, among whose Poetical works (for he wrote many things both in Prose & Verse) are his Poem entitled Faneis, in 3 Books, and his Book De Cœtu Poetarum, in which he gives a brief touch of all the Ancient both Greec and Latin Poets.

Octavius Meninus, a writer of Latin Poesy, among other the Cheif writers of Latin Poesy accounted of the Italians.

Octavius Rubeus, a Paduan, born in the year 1570, the Son of Iacobus de Rubeis, and Hippolyta of the Family of the Scarpi; he wrote the History of Brescia, with good success, and is moreover reckon'd among the number of Choicest Italians Poets.

Orlando

Digitized by Google

Orlando Pescetti, a Tragic writer of Verona.

Otho of Cremona, his Latin Rythms concerning the choice of Simples and Medicinal Ingredients were printed at Francfort anno 1553 by Christianus Egenolphus.

Ottavio Rinuccini, an Italian Lyric Poet or writer of Sonnets, one (generally so accounted) of the first rank after Petrarch, for Elegancy and sweetness. Of the same Classe with him we may rekon Guido Cavalcanti, Girolamo Preti, Georgio Gradenico, Benedetto Varchi, Speron Sperone, Francesco Maria Molza, Bernardino Rota, and Tasso himself, who was no less happy in his Sonnets then in his Heroic Poems.

Pacificus

Digitized by Google

P.

Pacificus Maximus Asculanus, an Eminent both Grammarian and Poet, among whose Poetical works his Poem Lucretia in 2 Books, and his Virginia, in as many, were seth forth by Hieronymus Soncinus an. 1550. He wrote also 20 Books of Elegies, a Poem to Joannes Salvalius, and an Invective against Angelus Politianus.

Pamphilius Saxus, a Discoverer of his Poetical talent, with divers other Italian writers in Latin Poetry; whose selected works are publisht together.

Parthenius Paravicinus, a Novocommensian, not of the meanest repute of the late Italian writers in Latin Verse.

Pantaleon Candidus, a German Poet of the Chief of those that are fam'd for an Elegant style in Latin Verse.

Mr Paschal, a late French writer of a Poem entitled Le Commerce du Parnasse.

Paulus Areolus, an Elegant Poet of Taleacotium, born in the year 1570.

Digitized by Google

He was preferr'd to the Government of Lugo by Cardinal Antonius Barberinus.

Paulus Dolscius, a Metaphraſt of David's Pſalms and Salomon's Book of Wiſedom, and thereupon mention'd by Conradus Dinnerus, in his Catalogue of Greek Poets.

Paulus Maccius, an Italian of Principal note and fame among the Latin Verſifiers of that Nation.

Paulus Marſus, a Poet of Piſcinæ, who yet writ alſo in Proſe a Comment upon Ovid's Faſti.

Paulus Medius Schedius, a French Poet, who had ſo a great repute in Italy, that he was made a Citizen of Rome & alſo a Knight and Count of Padua: beſides his Schediaſmata Poetica, which were printed at Paris an. 1586, he wrote Epigrams upon all the Cities of Italy.

Paulus Muſconius, a writer of Latin Tetraſtichs containing a Syſtem of Chriſtian Religion.

Paulus Rubigallus, a Hungarian, whoſe Hodœporicon or Itinerary Poem, upon his Conſtantinopolitan journy in Elegiac Verſe, was printed at Wittenberg 1564, with

Digitized by Google

with his Complaint of Pannonia to Germany.

Paulus Baron of Swartzenburg, and Lord of Lunenberg. His Epigrams were printed at Augsburg by Henricus Steinerus. 1583.

Petrus Egidius, a noted German writer both in Prose and Verse, of which last kind are his Threnodiæ upon the Emperour Maximilian, his Epitaphes upon several other great Princes, with divers Epigrams.

Petrus Angelius Bargæus, a Student (after several years travel into far Countries) in the University at Pisa, where among other studies, he became chiefly proficient in that of Poetry; from whence among other commendable Poems, proceeded his Cynegetics, and Syrias: the mentioned year of his flourishing was 1596.

Petrus Bembus, a Noble Venetian, whose high and well deserved reputation of a most Learned and Eloquent Person, soon advanc't him to the Purple; among the rest of whose Poetical works, for he was also a great Historian, Philosopher and Philologist, th which hath obtained the principal fame is his Benacus, a Heroic Poem. He was arriv'd to his Meridian Altitude in the year 1640.

Digitized by Google

Petrus Bolaneus, his Hymns, his Panegyric in Sapphic Verse upon the Emperour Frederie the third, his Funeral Elegy upon Rudolphus Agricola, his Epigram made of the Sentences of Seneca and Plato, and some other Poems, made his fame known by the year 1494.

Petrus Bonommus, an Epigrammatic Poet of Trigli, a Town of Friuli, Contemporary with the above mentioned Bolaneus.

Petrus Christianus, a Representer in Latin-Vers of the late War between the several Princes & States in Europe; but more especially relating to what hath happened in the Low Countries.

Petrus Crinitus, the Author of a Treatise in 5 Books, of the Latin Poets, in which there are contain'd several Fragments of Ancients Poets; whose compleat works are lost, besides which Treatise in Prose, he hath extant two Books of Odes, with other Poems: he surviv'd the year 1505.

Petrus

Digitized by Google

Petrus Curtius, the Author of a Poem concerning the Ancient Falisci & Veientes; and another entitled Roma: he was flouriſhing an. 1526.

Petrus Labbæus, a French both judicious Cenſurer of the Ancient Poets, and accounted not the meaneſt himſelf of Modern Poets; whoſe Latin Elegies and Epitaphs were printed at Grenoble an. 1664.

Petrus Lindebergius, a German both excellent Hiſtorian and Laureated Poet, by the teſtimony of Olaus Wormius, in his Literatura Danica; and of his own works namely his Hiſtory of the affairs of Europe, and his extant Poems.

Petrus Lotichius Secundus, the moſt excellent of German Poets, according to the teſtimony of Thuanus, next after Eobanus Heſſus.

Petrus Molinæus, the Son of that generally Learned French man and famous Champion of the Proteſtant cauſe Peter du Moulin; himſelf alſo not unlearned, as appears by his Latin Poems conſiſting in 3 parts, Hymns upon the Apoſtolic Creed, 2 Gemitus Eccleſiæ, & 3 Sylva variorum, publiſht a few years

Digitized by Google

Philippus Rubenius, a Kinſman of the moſt admired Painter Petrus Paulus Rubens, upon whom he wrote Elegies; but of chiefeſt note are his Apobaterion, and Eucharistic to Juſtus Lipſius, and his Lachryma upon his death.

Sr Philip Sidny, the Glory of the Engliſh Nation in his time, and Pattern of true Nobility, as equally addicted both to Arts and Arms, though more fortunate in the firſt; for accompanying his Uncle the Earl of Leiceſter, ſent by Queen Elizabeth General of the Engliſh Forces into the Low Countries, he was there unfortunately ſlain: He was the great Engliſh Mecenas of Vertue, Learning and Ingenuity, though in his own Writings chiefly if not wholy Poetical; his Arcadia being a Poem in deſign, though for the moſt part in ſolute Oration, and his Aſtrophil and Stella, with other things in Verſe, having, if I miſtake not, a greater Spirit of Poetry, then to be altogether diſeſteem'd.

Philippus Porta, the next in the eſteem of Thuanus, after Bellaqua, for excellency in French Poeſy (though no native himſelf) that is the fourth after Ronſard.

Pierre

Digitized by Google

Phineas Fletcher, the Brother of George before mentioned, whom he rather exceeds, then comes behind in Poetic fame; for his Purple Island is yet memory, and mentioned by many with sufficient commendation: besides which he wrote a Poem in Latin against the Jesuites, but more enlarged in English.

Pierre Le Moine, late French Writer of a Heroic Poem entitled St. Louis, Pierius Valarianus, a Belluuensium Writer of a Latin Poem of the culture of Smilax or Ridny bean.

Pompeo Torelli, his Italian Poem Vittoria, was printed at Parma an. 1605.

Pompeius Hugonius, wrote a Latin Poem of the Victory of Lepanto, which is publisht with the selected works of several other Italian writers in Latin Poesy.

Porcellius, a Neapolitan, who for his acute Wit, and rather quick and ready then sublime vein in Poetry, was in high favour with Frederik Duke of Urbin.

Publius Faustus Andrelins, a Poet of Forli, a principal Town of Romania;

Digitized by Google

the chief of whose Poems are his Elegies upon the two Neapolitan Victories, and the Captivity of Ludovico Sforza, his 4 Eclogues and his Book of Distichs.

Publius Franciscus Amerinus, his Funeral Poems upon Baptista Platina, are printed with those of other Learned Men, at the end of Platina's works.

Quintius

Digitized by Google

Q.

Quintius Æmilianus, a Cimbrian, or Dane, who wrote an Elegant Poem in praise of Love, in opposition to Petrus Hedæus his Anterotica, also an Epicedium to the Emperor Friderie the third.

Quintus Septimius Florens Christianus, a Frenchman, so great a Master of the Latin and Greec tongues, that for what he wrote in either of them, whither in Prose or Verse, he stands comparable in the opinion of Thuanus, to most of the Ancients, besides what he wrote in both style in his Mother-Tongue: he is recorded Flourishing an. 1586.

Sr

R.

Sr Ralph Freeman, the Author of a Tragedy, which by ſome is held in great eſteem Entitled Imperiale.

Raphael Thorius, a learned French Poet, whoſe elegant ſtyle in Latin Vers, diſcovers it ſelf in his noted Poem entitled Hymnus Tabaci, or Encomium of Tobacco.

Reinhardus Lorichius Hadamarius, a German writer of many elaborate works, among which not leaſt to be regarded is his Deſcription in Verſe of the luxurious and ſplendid Feaſts of Ahaſuerus and Darius Kings of Perſia: he was Flouriſhing in the year 1542.

Richard Brathwait, the writer of certain Poems, which coming forth about 30 years ſince, though of little or no fame in the World, yet not totally periſhing in oblivion have gain'd the fortune to be here mentioned.

Remigius Bellaqua, one of the principal Poets reputed of France, and by ſome accounted the third from Ronſard, that is by thoſe in whoſe eſteem

Joachi-

Digitized by Google

Joachimus Bellaius holds the 2d place: he wrote many things in Latin, but most in the Mother Tongue: he is commonly chronologis'd under the year 1577.

Renatus Rapinus, a French, both Critical Judge of the Poets, as appears by his Reflections on Aristotle's Treatise of Poetry, and Poet also him self of no obscure fame by his Latin Poem of Horticulture or Gardening, which hath been of late ingeniouly translated by John Evelin, the younger of Says Court by Deptford, following in the trac of fame the footsteps of his Learned Father, sufficiently known by his many both delightful, and to the Public most beneficial works.

Richard Brome, a Servant to Ben. Johnson; a Servant suitable to such a Master, and who what with his faithful service and the sympathy of his Genius, was thought worthy his particular commendation in Verse; whatever Instructions he might have from his Master Johnson, he certainly by his own natural parts improved to a great heighth, and at last became not many parasangues inferior to him in fame by divers noted Comedies, medies, as The Antipodes, the Novella, Mock-Marriage, the Covent Garden Wedding, the Mad couple well Match't, the Ambitious Politic, the Court Beggar, the Citty wit; but especially his Nothern Lasse, his Jovial Crew, and his Asparagus Garden.

Digitized by Google

Richard Corbet, a no less witty Poetiser in his Youth, when his Iter Boreale and other facetious Poems, were the effects of his juvenil fancy, then grave Divine in his Elder years, when his more serious studies advanc't him to the Bishopric, first of Oxford, then of Norwich.

Richard Crashaw, Fellow first of Pembroke-Hall, afterwards of St. Peters Colledge in Cambridge; a Devout pourer forth of his Divine Raptures and Meditations, in smooth and Pathetic Verse: His Poems consist of 3 parts, the first entitled Steps to the Temple, being for the most part Epigrams upon several passages of the New Testament; the second part, The Delights of the Muses, or Poem upon several occasions both English and Latin; the third and last part Carmen Deo nostro, being Hymns and.

Digitized by Google

and other Sacred Poems, addressed to the Countess of Denbigh, that Religious solitude and love of a recluse life, which made him spend much of his time, and even lodge many nights under Tertullian's roof of Angels, in St. Mary's Church, drew him at length, turning Roman Catholick, to betake himself to that so zealously frequented place call'd Our Lady's of Loretto in Italy, where he died.

Sr Richard Fanshaw, heretofore Secretary to his present Majesty, when Prince of Wales, and after his restoration, his Embassador into Spain, where he died. Besides his Translation of Guarini's Pastor Fido into English Verse, and of Spencer's Sheapherds Calender into Latin Verse.

Richard Rablet, and Richard Turner, two Contemporaries (and therefore perhaps worthie of mention for antiquities sake) with Drayton, with whose Owl and other old Pieces of Poetry, two small things of theirs, Rablets Cob's Prophesie, and Turner's Nosce te Humours, were publisht, and seem to be but the track of other Poetical works, though now lost and forgotten. Richard

Digitized by Google

Richard Lovelace, an approv'd both Souldier, Gentleman & Lover, and a fair pretender to the Title of Poet; a Souldier, having Commanded a Regiment in the late King's Army; a Gentleman of a Vicounts Name and Family; a Lover Militant under the Bannor of of Lucasta, the Lady Regent under a Poetical Name of his Poetical endeavours; and as to the last of his Qualifications, besides the acute and not unpleasant stile of his Verses, a Man may discern therein sometimes those sparks of a Poetic fire, which had they been the main design, and not Parergon, in some work of Heroic argument, might happily have blaz'd out into the perfection of sublime Poesy.

Robertus Aytonus, a Scotch Poet, of whom there is extant a Panegyric to King James in Latin Verse.

Robert Baron, a Dramatic writer, who wrote Don Quixot or the Knight of the Ill-favoured Countenance; a Comedy Gripus, and Hegio a Pastoral. Deorum Dona, Dick Scorner, Destruction of Jerusalem, the Marriage of Wit and Science, Masques and Interludes; Myrza, a Tragedy.

Robertus

Robertus Bodius, a Scotchman, whose Latin Verses have a Place among the works of several Eminent Scotch Poets.

Robert Chamberlain, the Author of a Comedy call'd The Swaggering Damsel, and Sicelides, a Pastoral.

Robert Fleming, an English writer, recorded in History among those that Flourisht in the Reign of King Henry the 6th; not only for his Dictionary in Greek and Latin, but also for a work, he is said to have writ in Verse, of various Argument.

Robert Garnier, a French Counsellor of State, and writer of Tragedies.

Robert Sirnam'd of Glocester, a not altogether obscure writer in the Reign of Henry the Third; and seeming to passe for a Poet, in the esteem of Cambden, who quotes divers of his old English Rythms in praise of his native Country England.

Robert Gomersal, the Author of Ludowic Sforza, a Tragedy, and some other things of Poetical subject.

Robert Green, one of the Pastoral Sonnet makers of Qu. Elizabeth's time, Contem-

Digitized by Google

Contemporary with Dr Lodge, with whom he was associated in the writing of several Comedies, namely The Laws of Nature, Lady Alimony, Liberality & Prodigality, and a Masque call'd Luminalia; besides which he wrote alone the Comedies of Friar Bacon and Fair Emme.

Robert Heath, the Author of a Book of Poems, which about 20 years ago came forth under the Title of Clarastella; the ascribed title of that Celebrated Lady, who is suppos'd to have been both the Inspirer and cheif subject of them.

Robert Herric, a writer of Poems of much about the same standing and the same Rank in fame with the last mention'd, though not particularly influenc't by any Nymph or Goddess, except his Maid Pru. That which is chiefly pleasant in these Poems, is now and then a pretty Floury and Pastoral gale of Fancy, a vernal prospect of some Hill, Cave, Rcok, or Fountain; which but for the interruption of other trivial passages might have made up none of the worst Poetic Landskips.

Sr

Sr Robert Howard, of the Noble Family of the Earls of Berkshire, and Brother to the present Earl; besides the Dignity of his present Office, as being imploy'd in his Majesties Exchequer, but of the most considerable Fame by what he hath written in Poetry, especially to the Stage; viz. The Blind Lady, the Surprisal, the Committie, Comedies; The Great Favourite a Tragedy, Inforc't Marriage a Tragy-Comedy; and The Indian Queen a Dramatic History.

Robert Mead, the Author of two not altogether obscure Comedies. The Combat of Love and Friendship, and the Coftly Whore.

Robertus Obricius, a writer of Latin Hymns.

Dr Robert Wild, one of the Poetical Cassock, and not of the meanest rank, being in some sort a kind of Anti-Cleaveland; in regard he stands up in behalf of the Presbyterians as notably as ever Cleaveland did against them: the first thing that recommended him to public Fame, was his Iter Boreale, the same in Title, though not in Argument with that little; but much commended mended Poem of Dr Corbet's, before mention'd; this being upon Monk's Journy into Scotland, in order to His Majesty's Restoration, and lookt upon for a lofty and conceitful style: his other things are for the most part of a lepid and facetious nature.

Digitized by Google

Rochus, a Chartreux Monk, mentioned in History among other Eminent Men of K. Edw. the Fourth's time.

Sr De Roquigni, the Author of a late French Poem entitled Muse Chrestienne.

Rodulphus Agricola, a most Famous writer of Groeningen in Friseland, who among many other works wrote also Epitaphs and other Poems. There were moreover two others of the same name, both Poets; the first Rodolphus Agricola junior, a Poet Laureat, the other of Wassenburg.

Rodolphus Avincatius, his Poems dedicated to the Farnesi, were printed at Rome an. 1543.

Rodolphus Avantius, an Italian writer of Odes or Sonnets.

Rodolphus Gualtherus, a Native of Zurich, in Switzerland, and Pastor of

Digitized by Google

of the Church of Zurich. In Prose he wrote very many things in Heroic verse, The Monomachie, or Single Combat between David and Goliah, with the Allegorical Exposition thereof.

Rodolphus Langius, a German writer, Prebend of Munster, who wrote a Poem of the 3 Magi or Wisemen, another of the Siege of Nuis to the Dean of Colen, besides others of various subjects.

Roger Ascham, a Man of that Eminence for learning, that he was thought worthy to be chosen Preceptor to that most Glorious Princess Queen Elizabeth; and though principally fam'd for his Latin Epistles and other things in Prose, yet mentioned with commendation by Balæus, for Epigrams and other Latin Poems.

Roger Boile, Lord Broghil and Earl of Orery, the Credit of the Irish Nobility for wit and ingenuous parts, and a smooth stile both in Prose and Verse; in which last he hath written several Dramatic Histories, as Mustapha. Edw. the Third, Henry the Fifth, Tryphon, and that with good success & applause, for the way he writes in, namely the continual nual Riming, and love and honour way of the French.

Digitized by Google

Mr Rostrou, a French Tragedian censured by Renatus Rapinus, in his Reflections on Aristotle's Treatise of Poetry.

Ruccelaio, an Italian Poet, who wrote in Blank Verse of the Culture of Bees.

Mr

S.

Mr Sabliquy, his Muſe Dauphine publiſht an. 1661.

Salmonius Macrinus, an Ingenious Poet of Laudun, ſufficiently known by his 6 Books of Odes, in which he made it his ſtudy to imitate Horace, both in the Argument and manner of Verſe; but eſpecially Famous for his Lyric Poem entitled Gelonidæ, which he wrote when weary of a ſingle, he betook himſelf to a Married Life.

Samuel Daniel, an Author of good note and reputation in King James his Reign; whoſe Hiſtory of the 11 firſt Kings of England from the Norman Conqueſt, though it be of all the reſt of his Works moſt principally ſought after and regarded, yet are not his Poetical writings totally forgotten, as namely his Hiſtorical Poem of the Civil Wars between the Houſe of York and Lancaſter, his Letter of Octavia to Antonius, his Complaint of Roſamond, his Panegyric, &c. and of Dramatic pieces his Tragedy of Philotas, and Cleopatra, Hymens's

Digitized by Google

Hymen's Triumph, and the Queens Arcadia a Pastoral.

Samuel Purchas; see William Slatyer.

Samuel Rowly, remember'd by his Comical History, When you see me you know me; and his Tragedy, The Noble Spanish Souldier.

Samuel Woodford; a late commended Translator (if not rather Paraphraft) of David's Psalms; in the Pindaric vulgarly so call'd, and other various sorts of Verse.

Scævola Samarthanus, a Learned Frenchman, who wrote in Latin Verse Elogies upon all the Eminent Men of France, to his time, for Learning and Arts.

Scipio Capycius, the Author of two learned Poems; viz. De Vate Maximo, and De Principiis rerum.

Mr De Scudery, Governour of Nostre-Dome; the most Voluminous and of the most Famous of late French Romancers, or rather Adulterators of true History with Romantic entreagues of Love; yet to say truth, in a style and conduct, much more gentile and polite

then

Digitized by Google

then any of the old Romances could boast, & not without a pretty representing of the heighth of the French Gallantry & conversation: this way of writing will easily be allow'd to be a sort of Poetry, but there are besides not very long since publisht his Poesies diverses.

Sebastianus Æricbalcus, a Polonian, who describ'd in Heroic Verse, the Affections of the Mind, out of Philip Melanchton's Book De Anima, as also the Solar Eclipse of the year 1546.

Sebastianus Castalio, the fam'd Author of many learned Works, both in Prose and Verse; among those in Prose, the most known are his Sacred Dialogues, as being frequently taught in Grammar Schools: His chief things in Poetry, are his Eclogue Sirillus upon our Saviour's Nativity, his History of the Prophet Jonas, in Latin Heroic Verse, his Life of St. John Baptist, in Heroic Greec Verse, his Version of 40 of David's Psalms, and of two of Moses's Songs. He was Flourishing at Basil about the year 1540.

Sebastianus Titio, alias Brant, an Eminent Jurisconsult of Strasburgh, Professour both of Civil and Canon Law; but his Writings which were very many, were of various subjects, and several of them in Verse; as his Rosary of the B. Virgin, in Sapphics; his Elegy upon the death of the Emperour Frederic, a Book of Epigrams, Divine Satyrs, both in Latin and Vernacular Verse, the Encomiums of several Saints, & an Epithalamium upon the Marriage of King Maximilian, with Blanca Maria.

Mr. Segrais, his Poesies printed at Paris anno 1661.

Sethus Calvisius, a German most learned Historian, Poet, and Musician; whose Opus Chronologicum and other Works, have their deserv'd fame: He died at Leipsich, in the 60th year of his age, an. 1615.

Shakerly Marmion, a not obscure or uncopious Writer of English Comedy, having sufficiently testified his success therein, in his Antiquary, his Holland Leaguer, his Fleir, Fine Companion, & Fair Maid of the Exchange.

Sigismundus Fulginas, Secretary of the Apostolic Chamber, one of the Author

thors of those Eminent Funeral Poems upon Platina, which in honour of that Learned Writer, are printed at the end of his works.

Simon Fagellus Villaticus, a Bohemian, whose Poetical Works are his Hymns, Epigrams, Funeral Epitaphs, Distichs, &c.

Simon Lemnius, a German, who besides his Translations of Dionysius Afer and Homer's Odysses, into Latin Verse, hath left from the product of his own Genius, Episodes upon Joachimus Marquese of Brandenburgh and his Lady; 5 Bucolic Eglogues, and 4 Books of Ethics in Verse. He died at Chur in Switzerland of the Pestilence anno 1550.

Simon Ogerius, a Writer of Silvæ and other Latin Poems with reputation inferior to few of the Modern Latin Poets.

Simon Sinapius, Pastor of the Church of Lubin in Lusatia, who wrote a Poem of Christ's Passion, distributed into hours.

Simon Valambertus, a Writer of Epigrams and other Poems, which were printed at Lyons by Paganus, at Paris by Wechelus.

Digitized by Google

Speron Sperone; see Ottavio Rinuccini.

Saint Amant, one of the Chief in repute of French Poets, out of whom several things being render'd English by a Person of our Nation, no less considerable for Poetry then the other, have for certain lost no advantage.

Stanislaus Niger, a Polonian, whose Encomium of the Poets in Elegiac Verse, was printed at Leipsich an. 1538.

Stephanus Paschasius, a French Writer, among whose other Works are his Icones, Epigrams and Epitaphs. He was Flourishing in the year of our Lord 1546, and stands in Ludovicus Jacobus his Book De Claris Scriptoribus Cabilonensibus, with a high Character for universal Learning and Eloquence.

Sylvester Giraldus, a Person of a Noble Family in Cambro-Britannia or Wales, (and therefore commonly Sirnamed Cambrensis) the same House whence the Giraldines of Ireland descended, as Camden observes, who citing some of his Latin verses, seems to reckon him among the Poets of those former Ages; he

Flou-

Flourishing in the Reigns of K. John & K. Henry the third: to the first of whom for the esteem his Learning had in those daies, he was made Secretary.

T.

Theodericus Gresemundus, a Native of Spire, out of whose Poem De Historia violatae Crucis, printed at Strasburg by Renatus Bek, several Verses are quoted by Wimphelingus in his Adolescentia.

Theodorus Beza, a Famous French Theologist, and a great Champion of the Reformed Religion; as he was a Person generally learned, so particularly he was not a stranger to Poetry, having with good success written Epigrams and other Latin Poems, which were printed at Paris; besides a Tragedy entitled Sacrificium Abrahae, printed at Lyons: he was Flourishing at Lausanna beyond the year 1555.

Theodorus Gaza, a celebrated Writer of Thessalonica, particularly a great Master in the Latin & Greek Tongues, and not the least to be esteem'd among the rest of his Works: for his Book of Latin Epigrams upon the most remarkable passages of Sacred Scripture. He deceas't in the year of our Lord 1478.

Digitized by Google

Theodorus Reysman, a German taken notice of for his Congratulatory upon the Arrival of the Emperor Charles the Fifth into Germany.

Theophile, a late Writer of French Poems, which have obtain'd a general fame and esteem.

Theophilus Folengus, a Mantuan, both Philosopher and Poet of very high repute.

Th. Campion, a Writer of no extraordinary fame; but who hath the honour to be nam'd by Cambden with Spencer, Sidny, Drayton, and other the Chief of our English Poets.

Thomas Carew, one of the Gentlemen of the Bed-Chamber to his late Majesty K. Charles the First; he was reckon'd among the Chiefest of his time for delicacy of wit and Poetic Fancy, by the strength of which his extant Poems still maintain their fame amidst the Curious of the present Age.

Thomas

Digitized by Google

Thomas Churchyard; see William Warner.

Thomas Collins, his Tears of Love, or Cupid's Progress, publisht anno 1615; since the materials of it have been preserv'd from the injury of time, by being bound up with other small Poetical Pieces, much of the same Stamp and standing; it will seem but an accident of good fortune, if the Name also be preserv'd.

Thomas Craigius, one of the Muster Roll of Scotch Latin Poets, whose works are collected in a Book, call'd Deliciæ Poetarum Scotorum.

Thomas Deckar, a High-flier in wit, even against Ben. Johnson himself in his Comedy call'd The Untrussing of the humorous Poet; besides which he wrote many others, as The Wonder of a Kingdom, the Honest Whore, in 2 parts; Fortunatus; the Whore of Babylon; If this ben't a good Play, the Devils in't. See also John Webster.

Thomas Dempsterus, an ample Commentator upon the Grammarian Coripus his Poem in praise of Justin the Second, himself also a Latin Versifier among the Scotch Poets, in the above mentioned Collection.

Sr Thomas Eliot; a Person of note in the Reign of Q. Elizabeth, and of whose Writing there is a learned Treatise of Government, which hath been in principal esteem: moreover, what he hath writ in Poetry is also mention'd with singular commendation.

Th. Flatman, a Gentleman once of the Middle-Temple, equally ingenuous in the two noble Faculties of Painting and Poetry, as by the several choice Pieces that have been seen of his Pourtraying and Limning, & by his Book of Poems, very lately come forth, may appear.

Thomas Goff, the Author of the Courageous Turk, Selimus, Orestes, Tragedies; The Careless Shepherdess, a Tragi-Comedy; and Cupid's Whirligig, a Comedy.

Thomas Heywood, a great Benefactor no doubt to the Red bull, and the other common Theaters, that flourisht in those times, with many but vulgar Comedies, as the Brasen Age, the English Travellers, the first and second part of Edward the Fourth, Fortune by Land and

Digitized by Google

and Sea; the 4 London Prentices, the Fair Maid of the West first and second part; the Golden Age, the Wise Woman of Hogsden, The Iron Age in 2 parts; the Royal King and Loyal Subject, &c.

Thomas Hobbs, of Malmsbury, a Person of the more consideration for what he hath either judged, or writ in Poetry; by how much the more his writings in Prose, have made work for so many Opposers: his Latin Poem De Mirabilibus Pexi, want, not commendation, and he seems to have wisely consulted for his quiet at last, after having travail'd through so many Volumes of profounder Argument, in giving himself a vacancy to the Muse, especially where Invention is no otherwise exercised then in rendring the Inventions of others, which he doubts not to have done more truly then any of those that went before him in the same subject; from his Preface to which work I should choose rather to collect his judgment of Poetry, then from his Preface to Davenants Gondibert, where no wonder if Complement and Friendly Complyance doe a little bias and oversway judgment.

Digitized by Google

Thomas Kid, a writer that seems to have been of pretty good esteem for Versifying in former times, being quoted among some of the more fam'd Poets, as Spencer, Drayton, Daniel, Lodge, &c. with whom he was either Contemporary, or not much later: there is particularly remember'd his Tragedy Cornelia.

Thomas Killigrew, one of the Gentleman of the Bed-Chamber to his present Majesty; and besides the general esteem of his Lepid Vein of wit in conversation, the Author of divers Comedies, Tragedies and Tragi-Comedies, publisht together in a Volume, and therefore not needing to be particularis'd.

Thomas Linacer, an Eminent Grammarian, who Flourisht in the Reign of K. Henry the 8th; and who Versifying on several subjects, had the repute also in those daies of no mean Poet.

Thomas Lodge, a Doctor of Physic, who Flourisht in Qu. Elizabeth's Reign, and was one of the writers of those pretty old Pastoral Songs and Madrigals, which were very much the strain of those times.

Tho.

Digitized by Google

Tho. Manly, one of the croud of Poetical writers, of the late King's time; he wrote among other things the History of Job in Verse.

Tho. May, the vulgarly admir'd Translator of Lucan into English Verse; but here cheifly to be mention'd for what he hath written propria Minervâ; as his Supplement of Lucan in Latin Verse; his History of Henry the Second in English Verse, besides what he wrote of Dramatic, as his Tragedies of Antigone, Cleopatra, and Agrippina; the Heir, a Tragi-Comedy; the Old Couple, and the Old Wives Tale, Comedies, and the History of Orlando Furioso: as for his History of the late Civil Wars of England, though it were written in Prose, yet he is thought to have vented therein the spleen of a Malecontented Poet; for having been frustrated in his Expectation of being the Queen's Poet, for which he stood Candidate with Sir William Davenant, who was preferr'd before him.

Thomas Metellanus, the Author of a small parcel of Latin Poetry, which is to be found in a collection of the works of divers of the Chiefeſt, ſo accounted, of the Scotch Latin Poets.

of

Digitized by Google

Tho. Middleton, a copious Writer for the Engliſh Stage, Contemporary with Johnſon and Fletcher, though not of equal repute, and yet on the other ſide not altogether contemptible, eſpecially in many of his Plays: his Comedies were Blurt Mr Conſtable, the Chaſt Maid in Cheapſide, More diſſemblers then Women, the Game at Cheſſe; A mad World my Maſters, Michaelmas Term; the Phœnix, A Trick to catch the old ones: His Tragedies The Mayor of Queenborough, beſides what he wrote aſſociated with W. Rowly.

Thomas Moravius, a Scotchman, the Author of a Latin Poem entitled Nauphactias, or the Deſcription of the battel of Lepanto, in Heroic Verſe.

Sir Thomas More, a great credit and ornament, in his time, of the Engliſh Nation, and with whom the learnedeſt Forraigners of that Age were proud to have correſpodence; for his wit and excellent parts, he was choſen Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, and afterwards wards advanced to be Lord Chancellour of England by K. Henry the 8th: however he fell unfortunately a victim to the displeasure of that Prince. His Utopia, though not written in Verse, yet in regard of the great Fancy and Invention thereof, may well pass for a Poem; besides his Latin Epigrams, which have receiv'd a general esteem among Learned Men.

Digitized by Google

Thomas Nabbes, a Writer (for the most part Comical) to the English Stage in the Reign of K. Charles the First: the Comedies he wrote are The Bride, Covent Garden, Totnamcourt, Woman hater arraign'd: his Tragedies, The Unfortunate Mother, and the Tragedy of King Charles the First; besides two Masques Microcosmus, and The Spring's Glory.

Thomas Nash, one of those that may serve to fill up the Catalogue of English Dramatics Writers: his mention'd Comedies are Summers Last Will and Testament, and See me and see me not.

Thomas Naogeorgus, or by the vulgar appellation Kirchmayor, a German Writer, native of Straubing, a Town of Lower-Bavaria; his works were for the most moſt part Poetical, namely 6 Tragedies, an Epitome of the Canons of the Church in Heroic Verſe; as alſo 5 Books of Sacred Agriculture, in the ſame kind of Verſe, with ſome other things.

Thomas Newton, the Author of three Tragedies; Thebais, the firſt and ſecond parts of Tamerlane, the Great Scythian Emperour.

Thomas Preſton, the Author of Cambiſes King of Perſia, a Tragi-Comedy.

Thomas Randol, one of the moſt pregnant young Wits of his time, flouriſhing in the Univerſity of Cambridge; the quick conceit and clear Poetic Fancy diſcover'd in his extant Poems, ſeem'd to promiſe ſomething extraordinary from him, had not his indulgence to the too liberal converſe with the multitude of his applauders drawn him to ſuch an immoderate way of living, as in all probability ſhorted his dayes; beſides his two Comedies Aminta, and the Muſes Looking-Glaſs, and the Interlude Ariſtippus, printed with his other works: there are attributed to him, a Comedy called Hey for honeſty, & down for knavery; and The Jealous Lovers, a Tragedy.

The.

Digitized by Google

Tho. Rawlins, the cheif Graver of the Mint to King Charles the first, and also to his present Majesty, till the year 1670, in which died: he was indeed a more excellent Artist then Poet; yet his Tragedy called The Rebellion hath been acted not without good applause.

Thomas Read, a Scotchman, whose happy Vein in Latin Verse renders him not unworthy to be remember'd among the Learned Men and Poets of that Nation.

Thomas Seghetius, another Scotch Poet, chiefly known by his Meletemata Hypogeia, in Latin Verse.

Thomas Shadwel, a noted Dramatic Writer of the present Age; happy especially in several witty and ingenuous Comedies; The Humorist, the Sullen Lovers, Epsom Wells; besides his Royal Shepherdess, a Pastoral Tragi-Comedy; and his Tragedy of Psyche, or rather Tragical Opera, as vying with the Opera's of Italy; in the pomp of Scenes, Machinry and Musical performance.

Thomas Sprat, the commended Author, for his smooth and judicious style, of the History of the Royal Society, and and in Verſe a very much applauded, though little Poem entitled The Plague of Athens.

Thomas Stanly, of Cumberlo Green, in Hertfordſhire; a Gentleman both well deſerving of the Common-wealth of Learning in general, by his other writings, his Lives of the Philoſophers, and his Learned Edition of Æſchylus; and alſo particularly honoured for his ſmooth Air and gentile Spirit in Poetry; which appears not only in his own Genuine Poems, but alſo from what he hath ſo well tranſlated out of ancient Greec, and modern Italian Spaniſh and French Poets, as to make his own.

Thomas Sternhold, an Aſſociate with John Hopkins, in one of the worſt of of many bad Tranſlations the Pſalms of David: yet in regard, as firſt made choiſe of, they have hitherto obtain'd to be the only Pſalms ſung in all Parochial Churches (it hath been long heartily wiſht a better choice were made) he hath therefore perhaps been thought worthy to be mention'd among the Poets that Flouriſht.

Digitized by Google

rifht in Qu. Mary's, and the beginning of Queen Elizabeth's Reign.

Thomas Storer, one of the Writers of Queen Elizabeth's time, of those Pastoral Airs and Madrigals, of which we have a Collection in a Book called England's Helicon.

Thomas Thomasinus, a Venetian, who studying at Padua, grew Eminent in Philosophy, Logic and Poetry.

Thomas Watson, a Contemporary imitator of Sir Philip Sidny, together with Bartholomew Yeams, Doctor Lodge, and several others, in that Pastoral strain of Poetry, in Sonnets and Madrigals, already mention'd.

Sir Thomas Wiat, of Allington-Castle, in Kent; a Person of great esteem and reputation in the Reign of King Henry the Eighth; with whom for his honesty and singular parts, he was in high Favour; which nevertheless he had like to have lost about the Business of Anne Bullein, had not his prudence brought him safely off. For his Translation of David's Psalms into English Meeter, & other Poetical Writings, Leland forbears not to compare him to Dante and Petrarch

Digitized by Google

Petrarch; being sent Embassador from K. Henry to the Emperour Charles the Fifth, then in Spain; he died of the Pestilence in the West Country, before he could take shipping an. 1541.

Tobias Guthberlingius, a Hassian, Native of Crusbon, and Governor of the Colledge of Leovardia; where his Latin Poems were printed an. 1667.

Torquato Tasso, the Prince of Italian Heroic Poets, born at Bergamo, the Son of Bernardo Tasso, and Portia de Rubeis: His chief Poems are Gerusalemme Liberata, Rinaldo, Sette Giornate, Gerusalemme Conquistata, Torrismondo, a Tragedy; Aminta, a Pastoral, elegantly translated into English by John Reynolds: he wrote also judicious Discourses in Prose.

Sieur Du Tristan his Amours printed anno 1662.

Valentinus

Digitized by Google

V.

Valentinus Boltzius, a German Writer, native of Rubeaqua, who wrote in Verse the Combat between David & Goliah; the History of Sampson; the Tragedy of Susanna; the Comedy of the 7 Liberal Arts, and several others.

Valentinus Paceus, a Writer of Latin Idyls and Epigrams.

Victor Geselinus, a Writer of Latin Hymns.

Victorinus Anxiginus Scuthius, the Author of a Poem entitled The Triumph of Christ's Resurrection, written in Elegiac Verse.

Vidus Faber Pibracius, a French Gentleman, whose Learning and excellent abilities advanc't him to be President of the Parliament of Paris; besides his general knowledg in the Arts and Sciences, his Felicity in French Poesy, had been sufficient to recommend him to Posterity, he was flourishing in the year 1584.

Vincentio Guidorci, his Rime Varie were printed at Padua an. 1634.

Vin-

Digitized by Google

Vincentius Barfius, a Carmelite of Mantua, whose Alba Labyrinthus was printed at Parma an. 1515. His Silvæ & Elegies at Bononia an. 1524.

Vincentius Contarenus, a Venetian, not obscure writer in Latin Poetry.

Vincenzo Martelli, a noted Man among the Italian writers of Rime or Sonnets.

Vitus Amerbachius, a German Writer of diverse learned Commentaries & other works in Prose, besides what he wrote in Verse, namely Epigrams and other various Poems, which were printed by Oporinus at Basil an. 1550.

Walter

Digitized by Google

W.

Walter de Mapes, Arch-Deacon of Oxford, a Latin Rimer in the Reign of K. Henry the Second, and may well be call'd a Pot Poet, for he shews his singular love to good Liquor, in a parcell of Latin Riming Verses, quoted by Cambden.

William Alabaster, a considerable Poet so accounted, in the time he Flourisht, which was under Qu. Elizabeth, the Chief Transactions, of whose Reign he began to describe in a Latin Poem entitled Elisæis, which he left unfinisht.

William Brown, the Author of a Poem entitled Britains Pastorals; which though not of the sublimest strain, yet for a subject of that nature, amorous and rural, containing matter not unpleasant to the Reader.

William Bosworth, the Bringer forth of a small Poem, which was printed somewhat above 20 years since, under the title of the Chast and lost Lovers, or the History of Arcadius & Sepha; which from the very brink of oblivion, nor

Digitized by Google

nor had the loſs been very great, hath accidentally met with the good fortune to be here remember'd.

William Cartwright, Student of Chriſt-Church in Oxford, where he liv'd in fame & reputation, for his ſingular parts and Ingenuity; but moſt eſpecially his excelling Vein in Poetry, which produc't a Volume of Poems, which were publiſht not long after his death; and among the reſt his Tragedie, The Royal Slave hath been in principal eſteem.

William Cavendiſh, the preſent Duke of New-Caſtle, and the firſt advanc't from Earl to that Title, for his eminent Service to his late and preſent Majeſty: a Perſon accompliſht according to the Nobility of his Birth and Quality, that is, equally addicted both to Arts and Arms, and particularly a friend to the Muſes; for beſides his ſplendid Treatiſe of the Art of Horſe-manſhip, in which his experience was no leſs then his delight, he wrote two ingenuous Comedies, The Variety, and the Country Captain.

Sir

Digitized by Google

Sir William Davenant, a very large ſharer in the Poetic Fame of the preſent Age, of which he was a ſurviving overhearer, till within theſe few years, and of no leſs a memory for the future, for the great fluency of his wit and Fancy; eſpecially for what he wrote for the Engliſh Stage, of which having layd the Foundation before by his Muſical Dramas, when the uſual Plays were not ſuffer'd to be acted, he was the firſt reviver & improver by painted Scenes, after his Majeſty's Reſtauration, erecting a new Company of Actors, under the Patronage of the Duke of York; his works ſince his death have been fairly publiſht in a large Volume, conſiſting of many Comedies, which need not be enumerated, as being printed altogether, with ſeveral Tragedies, Interludes, Hiſtorical Drama's; his Poem entitled Madagaſcar, a Farrago of his Juvenile, & other Miſcellaneous Peices, and the Crown of all his Gondibert, the beſt of Heroic Poems, either Ancient or Modern, in the judgement of Mr Hobs, a Learned Man indeed, but in ſome other of his opinions, ſuppos'd to have been been prov'd fallible by those that have taken him in hand.

William Drummond of Hawthornden, a Scotch Gentleman of considerable note and esteem, Flourishing in K. James his Reign; who imitating the Italian manner of Versifying, vented his Amours in Sonnets, Canzonets and Madrigals, and to my thinking, in a style sufficiently smooth and delightful; and therefore why so utterly disregarded, and layd aside at present, I leave to the more curious palats in Poetry.

William Gray, an Elegant writer (if we may rely upon the testimony of Baleus) of several things in English Verse, in the Reigns of King Edw. the Sixth and Qu. Mary.

William Habington, the Author of Poems, which came forth above twenty years since, under the Title of Castara, (the feign'd Name, no doubt, of that human Goddess that inspir'd them) but better known by his History of the Reign of King Edward the Fourth; in which also he hath a style sufficiently florid, and perhaps better becoming a Poetical than Historical subject; in respect of his his Poems however they are now almost forgotten, he may be rank't in my opinion with those that deserve neither the highest, nor the lowest Seat in the Theater of Fame.

Digitized by Google

William Harmond, one of the forgotten Poem writers of the last Age.

William Hemings, the Author of a well known Tragedy called The Fatal Contract.

William Lilly, of Odiham in Hantshire, a Grammarian of great note in the Reign of K. Henry the Eighth, and first School-Master of Paul's School; who besides his Lat. Grammar, the oracle of Free-Schools of England, and other Grammatical works, is said by Baleus to have written Epigrams and other Poetry of various subjects, in various Latin Verse.

William Rowly, an Associate with Middleton, in the writing of several Comedies and Tragi-Comedies; as The Spanish Gipsie, the Old Law, the Fair Quarrel, the Widow, besides what he wrote alone, as The Woman never vext, and the Match at Midnight, All's lost by Lust, a Tragedy, and joyn'd with

Digitized by Google

Webster, as the Thracian wonder, & A Cure for a Cuckold.

William Sampson, a Tragic writer, who wrote alone the Vow-Breaker and Valiant Scot; with Marsham, the Tragedy of Herod and Antipater; & How to choose a good Wife from a bad, a Tragi-Comedy.

William Shakespear, the Glory of the English Stage; whose nativity at Stratford upon Avon, is the highest honour that Town can boast of: from an Actor of Tragedies and Comedies, he became a Maker; and such a Maker, that though some others may perhaps pretend to a more exact Decorum and œconomie, especially in Tragedy, never any express't a more lofty and Tragic heighth; never any represented nature more purely to the life, and where the polishments of Art are most wanting, as probably his Learning was not extraordinary, he pleaseth with a certain wild and native Elegance; and in all his Writings hath an unvulgar style, as well in his Venus and Adonis, his Rape of Lucrece and other various Poems, as in his Dramatics.

William Slatyer, Compiler of the History

Hiſtory of England, from the beginning to the Reign of King James, by the Title of Pale-Albion; but whether in Latin or Engliſh, I cannot certainly determine; for the Work, though of little Fame, is in both, and the one ſeems to have been done by Slatyer, the other by Samuel Purchas.

William Smith, the Author of a Tragedy entitled Hieronymo, as alſo The Hector of Germany.

William Wager, the Authour of that Old Interlude, called Tom Tiler and his Wife; he wrote alſo two Comedies The Tryal of Chivalry, and The longer thou liveſt, the more fool thou art.

William Warner, a good honeſt plain Writer of Moral Rules and Precepts, in that old faſhion'd kind of ſeven footed Verſe which yet ſometimes is in uſe, though in different manner, that is to ſay, divided into two: he may be rekoned with ſeveral other Writers of the ſame time, i. e. Queen Elizabeth's Reign; who though inferiour to Sidny, Spencer, Drayton and Daniel, yet have been thought by ſome not unworthy to be remember'd and quoted, namely

Digitized by Google

George Gascoign, Th. Hudson, John Markham, Thomas Achely, John Weever, Ch. Middleton, George Turbervile, Henry Constable, Sir Edw. Dyer, Thomas Churchyard, Charles Fitz-Geoffy.

Wolfangus Lorisæa, a Writer of Latin Verse, Equal with those that are accounted of the Chief Modern Latin Poets of Germany.

A Brief

Digitized by Google

A Brief Supplement of some Persons and Things omitted in the foregoing Treatises.

Of the Antients.

A.

Ablavius, a Great Man with Constantine the Great, by whom he was advanc't to the Dignity of Consul, but was slain by his Son, as jealous of his too much power and greatness, and therefore might justly be stil'd, as he was, Pila Fortunæ, the Tennis-Ball of Fortune: His Vein in Epigrammatic Poetry appears in two Epigrams, which are extant in Brietius, and the Parisian Collection; the one biting one upon Constantine, notwithstanding he was so great a Favourite; the other upon his Friend Greculus.

Alcimus, a Poet of a uncertain time, but doutless not very ancient, of whom there is only extant in the fore-said collections, one very noble Epigram of Homer and Virgil.

Digitized by Google

Saint Ambroſe, one of the Antient and moſt venerable Fathers of the Chriſtian Church, being Biſhop of Milan, in the time of Theodoſius the Great, whom his Eccleſiaſtical authority and Cenſure, drove to a voluntary penance for his Bloody cruelty towards the Inhabitants of Theſſalonica: beſides his multitude of others Works in Proſe, he left divers Inſcriptions in Verſe in the great Dome of Milan, beſides ſeveral Hymns, which were anciently ſung in the Church.

Antiphanes Cariſtius, a very antient Greec Comic writer, even Contemporary with Theſpis, who Flouriſht in the 61th Olympiad, and therefore diverſe from him who in the foregoing Treatiſe by miſtake Sirnamed alſo Caryſtius, is ſaid to have been converſant with Alexander the Great; beſides whom there were ſeveral other Antiphanes's, as is teſtified by Suidas, the Thebais of Antiphanes Colophonius, is cited by Athenæus; of Antiphanes, probably Byſantius, (though that Cognomen be but once found) there are 7 Epigrams in the Florilegium of Planudes: and this this some think to be the same, whom Stobæus quotes very frequently, and Athenæus in no less then 105 Fables. Moreover Plutarch in his Life of Demosthenes alledges the testimony of Antiphanes a Poet, concerning Bataulus.

Digitized by Google

Antiphilus, an Epigrammatic Poet, whose Name is to 27 Epigrams in the Greec Florilegium, and with the Sirname Byzantius, if the same, as probably it is, to eight more in the same Book.

Arabius, Sirnamed Scholasticus, an Epigrammatic Poet, of whom there are 7 Epigrams in the fourth Book of Planudes his Florilegium.

Aribæus, a Macedonian Poet, not so much known by any thing mentioned of his writings, as by his envy at other Mens writings, which doubtless, was the cause that conspiring with Crateuas, a Thessalonian (Poet also) he compast in a most barbarous manner the death of that incomparable Tragedian Euripides, as hath been already mentioned in Euripides.

Asclepiades and Asmenus; see Julianus, in the foregoing Treatise.

Aulus Septimius Serenus, the reputed Author of a parcel of old Latin Verses upon Janus and Hercules, whereof some fragments are preserv'd in the Parisian Collection of Epigrams and old Poems; whether he were the same with the Roman Emp. Septimius Severus, (who either for these or some other Verses, hath a place among the Poets, supposing Serenus to be mistaken for Severus,) or some other Person, as might be inferr'd from the distinct appellation of Country; the one being written Falisius, the other Afer; besides that the Prænomen of this Emperor is agreed upon to have been Lucius, rather then Aulus, as Brietius observes, who nevertheless agreeing with Pithœus, disputes not so much whether this Aulus Septimius were the same with the Emperor, as he concludes the Emp. to have been the Author of a Distich, which is the only part preserv'd of a Poem, which seems to have been written of Country affairs, and not of those Verses of Janus, which he imputes to another Afer, who was a little superior in time to Terentianus Maurus, and therefore much antienter

then

then the said Emperor, viz. Cajus Septimius Afer.

Aulus Turpilius; see Turpilius in the foregoing Treatise.

B.

Basilius, one of those Sirnamed Scholastici, or Grammatici aforementioned in Julianus.

Belisarius; see Liberius in the foregoing Treatise.

Benedictus Paulinus, a Petracorien sian, who writing the Life of St. Martin in 6 Books, and another Poem, is probably mistaken by Authors of very good account and Authority as Franciscus Juretus, Fortunatus, and Gregory of Tours, for Paulinus the Bishop of Nola, to whom they ascribe those Poems, though Brietius agreeing with Jac. Sirmondus, makes it out very clear, that they were distinct Persons, and that Benedictus was the Author of those Poems.

P.

Celius Lactantius Firmianus, the Christian Cicero, as he is generally stil'd; Di-

Digitized by Google

ſciple of Arnobius, and Rhetoric Profeſſor at Nicomedia: beſides his Odæporicon, which is loſt, and his Verſes of the Paſſion & Reſurrection, &c. which are extant, and by ſome aſcribed to Fortunatus; his is ſaid to have been the Poem in Deſcription of the Phœnix, which Voſſius ſuppoſes to have been writ by ſome Ethnic Author. See alſo Rhemnius in the foregoing Treatiſe.

Cajus Abronius Silo; ſee Abronius in the foregoing Diſcourſe.

Cajus Aurelius Romulus, not the Founder of Rome, no doubt, already mention'd, but ſome Poetical Writer of what time or place is uncertain, whoſe Name we find to a Tetraſtich Epigram in Gillius his Pariſian Collection, entitl'd Epigrammata & Poematia vetera.

Cajus Cæcilius Plinius Secundus, hath a Tetraſtich Epigram upon Cupid and Bacchus, in Nicolaus Gillius his Pariſian Collection of Epigrams and old Poems, who if he be the ſame with that Cajus Plinius, of Novocomo, who was the Son of Plinius Secundus of Verona: he hath from Brietius the eſteem of a moſt excellent Poet, for only a Fragment Fragment of one Verſe, which he quotes of him, vix. Laſciva eſt nobis pagina, Vita proba, beſides that he was the Author of that ſo much commended Panegyric to Trajan.

Caius Caſſius, a Parmenſian of the number of the Antients, but of what time is uncertain; whoſe name we find to a Deſcription of Orpheus in Verſe, in Nicolaus Gillius his Pariſian Collection of Epigrams and old Poems.

Cajus Julius Solinus Poly-hiſtor, a Grammarian and Naturaliſt of ſufficient note, though of what time, is not determined farther then that he lived beneath Alexander Severus, even by Salmacius himſelf that voluminous Exercitator upon his Plinian Epitome, beſides which and other things in Proſe; he is concluded the Author of a Poem entitled Pontica.

Cajus Licinius Calvus, his Verſes upon Cneus Pompeius, and ſeveral of the Cæſars, are extant in Gillius his Epigrammata & Poematia vetera, printed at Paris an. 1580.

Cajus Silius Italicus; ſee Silius in Petronius Arbiter in the foregoing Treatiſe.

Cajus

Cajus Sulpitius Apollinaris, a Grammarian of Carthage, who Flourish't in the Reigns of the Antonini, and was Præceptor to Helvius Pertinax, who before he attain'd the Empire over Men succeded him in his Empire over Boys in his Grammar School; this Sulpitius is mention'd by Julius Capitolinus, and Aulus Gellius, with the Character of the Learnedest Man of his time, and that little touch we have of Poetry in his Verses upon Virgil's Æneis, gives the greater sense of the loss of the rest.

Callimachus, besides his extant works already mention'd, is said by Suidas to have written many other Poems, and among the rest one entitled Ibis, an obscure Poem, and full of Satyr against Apollonius, the Author of the Argonautics. Moreover, there is mentioned another Poem of his entitled Aitia, by the Scholiast of Homer, Priscian, & others: besides which others mention a Poem of his named Hecale.

Cneus Nævius, the most Antient of Latin Comic Writers after Livius Andronicus; he was Contemporary with Scipio

Digitized by Google

Scipio Africanus, and died at Utica, in the 144th Olympiad, being banish't out of Rome by the Metelli. See Nevius in the foregoing Treatise.

St Columbanus, an Englishman Abbot of Luxovis & Bobia; besides his several writings in Prose, there is extant a parcel of his Poetry set forth by Jacobus Sirmondus: he was the Master of St. Gallus, and died about an. D. 514.

Corippus, an African, both Grammarian and Poet, who flourishing in the Reign of Justinus, the Second, sung his praises in 4 Books, which he dedicated to the Quæstor Anastatius; besides which Poem, which hath been set forth by Thomas Dempsterus the Scotchman, with laborious and prolix notes, much above what he deserves, in the opinion of many; he is said to have written many other things in Poetry, which have perisht, & among the rest a Poem in praise of the Great Captain Belisarius.

E.

Epictetus, (not the Author doubtless of of the Greec Enchiridion) his name is to two Diſtichs, in Gillius his Pariſian Collection of Epigrams and old Poems.

Epigenes, a Sicyonian, by ſome affirmed the firſt Inventor of Tragedy.

Eugenius, (otherwiſe Evantius) Secundus or Junior, an Eminent Arch-Biſhop of Toledo, which ſeat he held from the year 647 to 657, in the Reign of Receſwinthus, a Gothiſh King of Italy: ſome things of his in Verſe are ſet forth by Jacobus Sirmondus, together with Dracontius, whoſe Verſes he corrected.

Euphorbius, one of thoſe Sirnamed Sholaſtici or Grammatici, of whom ſee more in Julianus, in the foregoing Treatiſe.

Euphorbus Cælius Firmianus Symphoſius, mentioned in the foregoing Treatiſe by the name of Symphonius only, a Poetical writer of an uncertain Age, of whom there are extant Hendecaſyllables De Livore, by ſome attributed to Auſonius, Choriambics De Fortuna, and ſeveral Ænigmatical Queſtions.

Eurialus Morandus, a Poetical writer

Digitized by Google

ter of Aſculum, of an uncertain time, and of whom no other account can be given, but that his name is to 4 or 5 pleaſant and not unelegant Epigrams in Gillius his Pariſian Collection of Epigrams and old Poems.

Euſebius, Sirnamed Scholaſticus, a Greec, the Author of a Poem entitled Gainia, or of the War againſt Gaina, the Gothiſh King, in four Books in Heroic Verſe: there is alſo under the name of Euſebius, (but whether the ſame may be diſputed, for there are ſeveral more of the ſame name,) in the Pariſian Collection of Epigrams and Poemata vetera, a Decaſtich entitled Tumulus Veneris.

Euſthemius, one of the forementiond 12 Scholaſtici; of whom ſee in Julianus in the foregoing Treatiſe.

F.

Felix, a Benedictin Monk of Crowland, whoſe Pathetical Deſcription of the bugs of Crowland, in Latin Verſe, is quoted by the Learned Cambden.

Floridus, a Mimic writer of an uncertain certain Age, out of whose Fables, there are only extant two Sentences; but those so acute, so much to the purpose, that they excite in the Learned and Curious the greater desire of all the rest of him.

G.

Gellius, an old Historian, cited by Suetonius; but of whom there are also several Verses to be found in Probus the Grammarian his Commentary upon Virgil's Georgics; also a Testrastich and Hexastich in the third Book of the Gr. Anthology, and Decastich in the 6th.

Glaucus, an Athenian, whose name is to several Epigrams in the first third and fourth Books of the Greec Anthology.

H.

Hercius, named to an Hexastich, in the Greec Florilegium.

Herondas, a Comic Poet, out of whose Fable Synergazomeni, a Senary is cited by Athenaus.

Leo,

Digitized by Google

L.

Leo, an Antient Grammarian, certain Greec Verses of whose writing were seen in Manuscript by Conradus Gesnerus, but the Pentastich in the Greec Florilegium, owns rather another Leo, viz. that Noble Greec Emperor Leo the Sixth, who whether a Poet or not, is certainly fam'd for a Philosopher.

Lucilius, (not the Latin Satyrist) a Greec Epigrammatic Poet, whose name hath a large jurisdiction in the Greec Florilegium.

Lucius Annæus Florus, the Good Fellow, who plaid so wittily and freely upon the Emperor Hadrian, in that vulgarly known Epigram Ego nolo Cæsar esse, &c. which was as smartly answered by the Emperor; besides which and another neat one upon the growth of of Roses, several Fragments of him are collected by Salmasius, he may upon account of name be without difficulty mistaken for Lucius Julius Florus, the Epimator of the Roman History, who in in ſome Editions is ſtyl'd Lucius Annæus Seneca Florus; as on the other ſide this Poet is written in Gillius his Collection Julius Florus: but the difference of time makes the clearer diſtinction, the one appearing to have been Contemporary with the Emperor Adrian, the other, as is generally receiv'd, living about the time of Septimius Severus.

M.

- Martinus Sirnamed Dumenſis, from the place of which he was Abbot, afterwards Arch-Biſhop of Bracara, of whoſe Verſes collected by Jacobus Sirmondus, being indeed but low & heavy, what notice hath been taken may well be judged owing to their antiquity, for he died an. D. 580.

Maximianus, the real Author, as he is computed by Learned Inquirers, of thoſe 6 moſt obſcœne Elegies, which are vulgarly aſcribed to Cornelius Gallus; there is alſo one of the ſame Name, but whether it be the ſame Perſon, is not certainly determin'd, among the twelve Sirnamed Scholaſtici or Grammatici, of whom ſee more in Julianus, in the foregoing Treatiſe.

Minos,

Digitized by Google

Minos, not that King of Crete, so famous for his Labyrinth, but the second Tragic writer, as he is delivered, after Theomis.

Modestus, a Name only known by 2 Hexastichs upon Lucretia, in Gillius his Collection of Epigrams and old Poems.

N.

Nicochares, an Athenian Comic Poet, of whose Fables several are mentioned by Suidas and Athenæus; he is said to have been Contemporary with, and by some judg'd equal to Aristophanes.

Nicocles, a Comic Poet, whose Fable Acarii, is cited by Athenæus lib. 8.

P.

Palladius Rutilius Taurus Æmilianus, a Latin writer of good note and Antiquity (though in what Age he Flourisht, is not certainly determined) whose Books of Agriculture are commonly publisht with those other Antient writers De Re Rustica: and among the rest of his Books, there is one De Insitione Arborum, wholly in Verse, and

Digitized by Google

and that in a ſtyle that might render him eſteem'd a Poet, though he were not of the Antients.

Phædrus, a Thracian, who living in the Reign of Auguſtus (whoſe Freedman he is ſaid to have been) and Tiberius, is applauded for his Verſion of Æſop's Fables into ſuch Elegant Verſe, as ſavours of the purity of thoſe times.

Publius Cornelius Scipio Africanus, the moſt Illuſtrious of Roman Captains, if at leaſt we ſuppoſe him to be that Scipio Africanus, the elder, whoſe incomparable ſobriety and incontinence of life ſo well agrees with that only Verſe, which is delivered to be extant of his writings, Maxima cunctarum victoria victa voluptas.

Publius Terentius Varro; ſee Terentius Varro Atacinus, in the foregoing Treatiſe.

Puppius, an old Latin Poet of whom we only find remaining one Diſtich, an Epitaph upon Publius Scipio Africanus, in the Epigrammata & Poematia vetera, printed by Gilius at Paris an. 1580.

Q.

Quintus Aurelius Symmachus, a Roman man Patrician, Senator and Conſul, Contemporary with Boethius, whoſe Father in Law he was: beſides his Epiſtles and other things in Proſe, there are ſome Fragments of his in Latin Verſe, in the above mentioned Collection of Epigrams and old Poems.

R.

Rufus, Sirnamed Domeſticus, ſubſcribed to an Epigram in the ſeventh Book of the Greek Anthology.

S.

Samius, a Name ſubſcribed to an Epigram in the third Book of the Greek Anthology, and thought to be the ſame with Sammius and Ammius, in other places.

Soſicrates, a Comic Poet, whoſe Diadochæ, Cretica and Philadelphi, are cited by Athenæus; and (if Soſicrates Phanagorites be the ſame Perſon) his olos, there is alſo an Iambic Diſtich of Soſicrates in Stobæus his Sermon De Philantia.

Sulpitius, a Noble Roman, Poet and Orator, who was Tribunus Plebis in the contention contention between Cajus Cæsar the Ædile, & his Brother Lucius the Prætor: besides what Giraldus mentions of him out of Asconius Pedianus, his choose Heroic Verses & 70 Epigrams, may probably be judged to be, which bearing his Name were found in a Monastery near Bobio in Italy an. 1494.

Symeon, an antient Greec Presbyter, whose Sermones and Hymns are preserved in the Library at Augsburgh, by the testimony of Conradus Gesner.

T.

Thaletas, a Cretan, or Illyrian, Lyric Poet, whom Suidas delivers to have written before Homer's time: there was also of the same name a Gnossian Rhapsodist, who, as the same Suidas testifies, wrote certain Fabulous Stories in Verse.

Thallus, an antient Epigrammatist remember'd only by one Hexastich in the second Book of the Greec Florilegium.

Theodaritus, an old Grammarian, of whom there is a Distich in the second Book of the Greec Florilegium.

Theonis, a Contemporary of Orestes, and and said by some to have been the first Deviser of Tragical Melodies.

Timolaus, a Larissean Rhetorician, who to each Verse of Homer's Iliads inserted another of his own, yet keeping the sence entire; the beginning of which Poems is recited by Suidas.

U.

Valerianus, his Lepid, acute and not unelegant Epigram (for such is the commendation given it by, a judicious Author) upon the death of Cicero, is to be found in Gillius his Collection of Epigrams and and old Poems; together with a Tristich in praise of Hercules, he may probably be taken for the same Person with the Emperor Valerianus, of whom there is said to be a Fragment in the Gregorian Codex.

Vitalis, one of the 12 sirnamed Scholastici, mentioned in Julianus, in the foregoing Treatise.

Vomanus, another of the forementioned twelve; but moreover peculiarly mentioned and commended for his Verses De Laudibus Hortuli, which are to be found in Gillius his Collection.

Xanthus,

X.

Xanthus, a Contemporary and Colleague of Stesichorus Himereus, there are divers of his Verses cited by Ælian lib. 4. of his Varia Historia.

Xenocrates, and Xenocritus, two Epigrammatic Poets; the first remember'd by a Tetrastich in the fourth Book, the second by an Octostich in the 3d Book, of the Greec Anthology.

Z.

Zelotus, a Name preserved by only 2 Epigrams in the Greec Florilegium.

Zenobius, a Grammarian, besides whose Distich in the fourth Book of the Gr. Flor. there are Verses of him cited in the Greec Cornucopia of Varinus Phavorinus Camers.

Zonas, another Pillar of the Gr. Florel. named to a Octostich in the first Book, & two Hexastichs in the sixth.

Zosimus, a Thasian Epigrammatist, but of whom there are only extant 2 Hexastichs in the first and sixth Book of the Greec Florilegium.

Of

Digitized by Google

Of the Moderns.

A.

Adrianus Scholasticus, an Antuerpian, whose Varia Carmina are printed with the selected Latin Poems of divers other not obscure Writers of the Low-Countries.

Adrianus Scorelius, his Elegies are publisht with the selected Works of other Belgic Writers of Latin Poetry.

Annibal Caro, noted for his Rime or Sonnets equal with several other Italian Writers of that kind.

Alexander Necham, Prior of Cirencester, the Learnedest English-man of of his Age, which was the Reign of King John: in the opinion of Balæus, who also particularly honours him with the Appellation of a famous Philosopher, Theologist, Rhetorician & Poet; and among the rest of his works, mentions his Carmina diversa.

Allain Chartier, Secretary to King

Digitized by Google

Lewis the Eleventh of France, by whose Queen the Lady Anne of Britain, he was so admir'd for his Poetry, that as she passed by one day to her Lodging, and saw him leaning on a tables end a sleep, she stoopt down to kiss him, with this expression in the hearing of many (as the Anonymous Author of the Art of English Poetry testifies) We may not of Princely Curtesy passe by, and not honour with a kiss the Mouth from whence so many sweet Ditties and golden Poems have issued.

Antonius Schonhovius; see Florentius, in the foregoing Treatise of the Moderns.

Antonius Thylesius, wr. a Latin Poem Cyclops & Galathea.

Arnulph of Lysieux, a French Poet, taken notice of by Cambden for his Latin Epitaph, upon King Henry the First of England.

B.

Benedictus Arias Montanus, that Learned Spaniard, famous for his Edition of a Polyglot Bible, which nevertheless is far surpass't by that set forth about 12 years since, much to the credit of of our Nation, by Doctor Walton, the first Bishop of Chester, since his Majestie's Restauration: There is also mention'd of his writing a Book of Latin Hymns.

Benedetto del Uva, a not obscure Person among the Italian Lyric writers, or Sonnetiers.

Bernardino Tomitano, anothor of the same order and Quality: as likewise,

C.

Camillo Peregrino.

Cæsar Delphinus, remember'd by his Marias, a Poem in Latin Heroic Verse.

Camillo Porcetti, his Venetia Diffesa, is mentioned among the late Heroic Poems of Italy.

Charles Aleyn, wrote in English Verse the Life of K. Henry the 7th, with the Battel of Bosworth; also the Battels of Cressy and Poictiers.

Charles Fitz-Geoffry, a Poetical writer of Queen Elizabeth's Reign, of some esteem formerly, I judge, by that Collection of choice flowers & Descriptions, is well out of his, as the works of several others, the most renowned Poets of our Nation, collected above 60 years ago.

Digitized by Google

Charles Middleton, another of the same time, or there about, of the same concernment, in the forementioned Collection.

Claudius Espencæus, a French-Man, whose Latin Poem Heroides is the chiefly mentioned of his Poetical works.

Cornelius Boius, his Raptus Benjamitarum, Rhodope, E tumulo Thalamus, and Venus orta Mari, are publisht in a Volume together with Jacobus Catzius his Patriarcha Bigamus; and several little Poems of Gaspar Barlæus, not mentioned in the foregoing Treatise of the Moderns; as his Pharmacentria and Damon, or the Nuptials of Cyrus and Aspatia, in 2 Books: his Cynisnus; or the Nuptials of Crates the Theban Philosopher, with Hipparcha; his Rhadamanthus, or Poem of the Rape of the 2 Messenian Virgins Tryphosa and Jocasta; his Virgo Androphorus, his Amphitryo Tolosanus, and his Faces Sacræ, or Paraphrase of the Song of Salomon.

D.

Dan Elingham, a Benedictin Monk of Linton, about the time of K. Henry the Third, taken notice by the Learned Cambden,

Digitized by Google

Cambden, among the Latin Rythmers of that time: his Verſes upon John Baptiſt, painted in a White-Fryars weed, at the White-Fryars Church in Nottingham, being quoted by the ſaid Author.

Dionyſius Petavius, a learned French Jeſuite, chiefly famous for his moſt exact Chronology, entitled Rationarium temporis; but mentioned alſo with commendation by Dr Duport, for his Verſion of David's Pſalms into Greec Verſe; beſides a Book of Latin Poems.

E.

Edw. Dier, a Poetical Writer, who ſeems formerly to have been in good eſteem, being rank't with ſome of the moſt noted Poets of Qu. Elizabeth's time; and a contributer with the chief of them, out of his writings to the above mentioned Collection: and with him we may perhaps not unfitly rank, John Markham, Henry Conſtable, Thomas Achelly, John Weever, George Turbervile, beſides Lodge, Green, Gaſcoign and others, that have been already mentioned.

Edw. Ferris, a writer for the moſt part to the Stage in K. Henry the 8th's time in Tragedy, and sometimes Comedy or Interlude; with much skill & magnificence in his Meeter, & wherein, saith the Author of the Art of English Poesy, he gave the King so much good Recreation, as he had thereby many good rewards.

Digitized by Google

Erasmus Michael Latus, remember'd by his Margaretica, in Latin Heroic Verse.

F.

Francis Davison's Poetical Rhapsodie, dedicated to W. Earl of Pembroke, Lord Steward of the Houshold to his late Majesty King Charles the First, appears to have been in those daies not ill received, since it endured four Impressions.

Francis Hubart, a writer of much about the same time, though scarce with the same success, of the History of Joseph in English Verse.

Franciscus Maurus, known by a Latin Poem of Heroic title Franciscias, in 12. Books.

Franciscus Sweertius, his Varia Carmina are among the selected works of other Belgic writers in Latin Poetry; as likewise, Fran-

Digitized by Google

Franciscus Thorius Bellio, his Varia Carmina.

Fridericus Hofmannus, Con-Rector of the Colledge of Elbing; his Epigrammatum Poeticum Colludium, or Lusium Epigr. Centuriæ, was printed at Amsterdam an. 1665.

G.

Gandolpho Porrino, his Rime rank him with some others of the noted Sonnetiers of Italy.

Gaspar Barlæus; see Cornelius Boius.

Gaspar Scbetus Corvinus, an Antuerpian, whose Varia are publisht with the selected works of other Belgic writers in Latin Poetry.

Gaulfrid, one of the oldest of our Modern Poets, for he was Contemporary with Joseph of Exeter: he is mentioned by Chaucer in his Description of Chaunticleer the Cock's being carried away by Reynard the Fox, with great Veneration, for his Elegy upon King Richard the First, out of which being in a more judicious Latin strain then was the usual custom of those times, divers Verses are quoted by the Learned Cambden in his Remains.

Georgius Gallus Chrudimensis, see Gallus Chrudimensis, in the foregoing Treatise of the Moderns.

Giovan Battista Guarini; see Battista Guarini, in the foregoing Treatise of the Moderns.

Giovan Battista Attendolo, Giovanni Guidaccione, Giovan Moccarello, Giovanni Salzilli, a Roman, Girolamo Bartolomei, Girolamo Mentemato, and Girolamo Volpe, a Knot of Italian Poetisers, chiefly in their Lyric way of Sonnets, Canzonets, &c. only Bartolomei is chiefly mentioned for Tragedy.

Godfry, Prior of Winchester, an Epigrammatist in the Reign of King Henry the First, very much admired by Camden, who in his Remains takes pleasure to quote severall of his Epigrams, and commends Winchester likewise for a Nursery of Men excelling in the Poetical Faculty, adding that the very Genius loci doth seem Poetical.

Godofridus Mylaudins wrote Latin Idyls and Odes.

Gulielmus Apulensis wrote in Latin Verse 5 Books of the Affairs of the Normans in Italy.

Henry

Digitized by Google

H.

Henry of Aurench, a Frenchman, Poet to Philip the Second of France, whom nevertheleſs our Michael, the Merry Cornish Poet, makes bold to play upon in his old Latin Drolling Rhythmes.

Henry Bell, a Collector of the Cuſtoms under King Henry the Fourth, out of whoſe Satyr in Latin Verſe againſt the Exchequer Officers of that time; ſeveral paſſages are quoted by Cambden.

Henry Conſtable; ſee Edw. Dier.

Henry, Arch-Deacon of Huntingdon, one of the moſt noted, and by Polydore and Leland moſt commended of the Scriptores Angl. but beſides his 8 Books De Regibus Anglorum, and other things in Hiſtory, he is ſaid to have extoll'd to the Skies, and that in elegant Verſe, in the opinion of Balæus, King Alfred and his Daughter Ethelfleda, with other Great Perſons of that time: he wrote alſo Odes, Epiſtles, and other things in Verſe.

Henry of Wincheſter, an old Latin Verſifier, quoted by Cambden, among the the Englisſh Poetical Writers of former Ages.

Hermannus Blaſius wrote a Latin Poem Arethuſa.

Hercole Bentivoglio, a noted Perſon among the Italian Writers of Sonnets, and other Lyric Poetry.

Hildebert, Biſhop of Main, and afterwards Arch-Biſhop of Tours; a borderer between the Antients & Moderns, for he flouriſht about the year of our Lord 1090: his Expoſition upthe Office of the Maſſe in Latin Verſe, is by ſome commended for Elegancy of ſtyle: he wrote alſo Hymns and Orations, in ſeveral ſort of Verſe, and is thought to be that old Epigrammatiſt, as Cambden calls him, out of whom he cites a parcel of Latin Verſes, in praiſe of England.

Hugh Holland, a Poetical Writer, thought worthy by ſome to be mentioned with Spencer, Sidny and other, the Chief of Engliſh Poets; with whom nevertheleſs he muſt needs be confeſs't inferior, both in Poetic fame ad Merit.

Hugh, Arch-Deacon of York, one whom I find mentioned among the Old Engliſh

Digitized by Google

English Versifiers, and the rather to be taken notice of for Antiquities sake.

I.

Jacobus Gaddius, an Italian, noted for what he writ as well in Latin, as Vernacular Poetry.

Jacobus Sluperius, a Flandrian, of the Town of Herfel, whose Varia are publisht with the collected works of other Belgic Writers of Latin Poetry.

Dr James Duport, Master of Magdalen Colledge in Cambridge, in which University he was for many years (most worthily in respect of his exquisite perfection therein) Professor of the Greec Tongue; and for Greec Verse how not inferior to the Chief of the Moderns? his so well esteemed Metaphrases of David's Psalms, Job, Ecclesiastes, and the Canticles, sufficiently testifie.

Joannes Callius, a Latin Hymnographer of Erford.

Joannes Sirnamed from his Order Canonicus, an Englishman, the Author (among other works) of a Book of Latin Poems, as Balæus testifies, in the Reign of K. Henry the Third.

Joannes

Digitized by Google

Joannes Gariſolius, a late German Writer of a well approved ſtyle, in Latin Poetry.

Joannes Peckam, a Franciſcan in the Reign of King Edw. the Firſt; among whoſe many other works Baleus makes mention of his Carmina diverſa.

Sir John Harrington, no leſs noted for his Book of Witty Epigrams, then his judicious Tranſlation of Arioſto's Orlando Furioſo.

John Heywood, an old faſhioned Dramatic writer, as appears by the title of his Interludes; viz. The Play of Love, the Play of the Weather, the Play between Johan and his Wife, and the Play between the Pardoner and the Fryar, the Curate and his Neighbour, the Play of Gentleneſs and Nobility, in two parts; beſides two Comedies the Pinner of Wakefeild, and Philotus Scotch. There was of this Name in King Henry the Eighth's Reign an Epigrammatiſt, who, ſaith the Author of the Art of Engliſh Poetry, for the mirth & quickneſs of his conceits, more than any good Learning was in him, came to be well benefited by the King.

John

Digitized by Google

John Lacy, one of the best and most applauded of our English Actors, in this present Age; but whose wit not wholly confin'd to Action, hath also produc't two ingenuous Comical Pieces, viz. Monsieur Ragou, and the Dumb Lady.

John Markham; see Edw. Dier.

John de Mehunes, a French Poet, out of whom Chaucer is said to have borrowed his Troilus and Cressida, and some other of his Poems.

John Skelton, the Poet Laureat mentioned in the foregoing Treatise of the Moderns, lived in the time of King Henry the Eighth; and for his Satyrical Invectives against Cardinal Woolsy, was forc't to fly to Sanctuary at Westminster, where in a years time he died, either of grief or ill usage.

John Weever; see Edw. Dier.

M.

Marco Antonio Giraldi, Marco Bartolomeo Gottifredi, Marco Lamberti, Marco Paulo Antonio Giocca, a Quaternion of Italian Sonnetiers.

Marco Girolamo Fracastorio, was equally happy in Vernacular and Latin Poetry,

Digitized by Google

try. See Hieronymus Fracastorius, in the foregoing Treatise of the Moderns.

Monsieur Moliere, the pleasantest of French Comedians, for smart Comic wit and Mirth; and to whom our English Stage hath within a few years been not a little beholding.

N.

Nicholas Lord Vaux, a Poetical Writer among the Nobility, in the Reign of King Henry the Eighth; whose Commendation, saith the Author of the Art of English Poesy, lyeth chiefly in the facility of his Meeter, and the aptness of his Descriptions, such as he takes upon him to make, namely in sundry of his Songs, wherein he sheweth the counterfeit action very lively and pleasantly.

Nicolaus Stopius, a Fleming of the town of Alost; whose Varia are publisht with the selected works of other Noted Belgic Writers in Latin Poetry.

P.

Paganus Piscator, vulgarly Fisher, a Notable undertaker in Latin Verse, by his Marston Moor & other Latin Pieces, besides English ones not a few, which however meriting (that we shall not stand

Digitized by Google

ſtand now to examin) he muſt not be forgotten, that was retained Poet Laureat to ſo Notorious a Man as Oliver Cromwell, to whom being uſurper, if his Muſe did homage, it muſt be conſidered that Poets in all times have been inclinable to ingratiate themſelves with the higheſt in power by what title ſoever.

Petronio Barbati da Poligno, a Sonnet writer among many others of the Italian Lyrics; neither of the brighteſt nor obſcureſt fame.

R.

Richard Barnfeild, one of the ſame Rank in Poetry with Doctor Lodge, Robert Green, Nicholas Bretan, and other Contemporaries already mention'd in the foregoing Treatiſe of the Moderns.

Robertus Baſton, a Carmelite of a Noble Family in Yorkſhire, who had ſo great a fame in Poetry, that K. Edw. the Firſt, in his Scotiſh Expedition, pitcht upon him to be the Celebrator of his Heroic Acts; when being taken priſoner by the Scots, he was forc't by torments to change his Note, and repreſent all things to the advantage of Robert Bruce, who who then laid claim to the Kingdom of Scotland. Besides his Poem De Bello Strivilensi, there were publisht of his writing a book of Tragedies, with other Poems of various subject.

T.

Theophilus Hogerfius, a Latin Versifier among the Chief of Scotland for Latin Poetry.

Thomas Achelly; see Edw. Dier.

Thomas, Lord Buckhurst, in King Henry the Eighth's time, is esteem'd by the Author of the Art of English Poetry, equal with Edward Ferris, another Tragic writer already mentioned; of both whom he saith, For such doings as I have seen of theirs, they deserve the price.

Thomas Charnock, his Breviary of Natural Philosophy in English Verse, is publisht together with Tho. Norton's Ordinal of Alchimy, John Dastins's dream, Bloomfeild's Blossoms, Abraham Andrew's Hunting of the green Lyon, G. Reply's Compound of Alchymy, and other collected works of the choicest of our old Poetisers in the Mysteries of Chymical Philosophy, by my honoured Freind

Digitized by Google

Freind Mr Aſhmole, a Learned and moſt induſtrious Inquirer into all the Curioſities of Antiquity, in his Book entitled Theatrum Chymicum Britannicum.

Thomas Occleave, a very famous Engliſh Poet in his time, which was the Reign of King Henry the Fourth and Henry the Fifth; to which laſt he Dedicated his Government of a Prince, the chiefly remember'd of what he writ in Poetry, and ſo much the more famous he is by being remember'd to have been the Diſciple of the moſt fam'd Chaucer.

W.

Sir Walter Raleigh, a Perſon both ſufficiently known in Hiſtory, and by his Hiſtory of the World, and ſeems alſo by the Character given him by the forementioned Author of the Art of Engliſh Poetry, to have expreſs't himſelf more a Poet then the little we have extant of his Poetry, ſeems to import: For ditty and Amorous Ode, ſaith he, I find Sir Walter Raleigh's Vein moſt lofty, inſolent and paſſionate.

William Herbert, Earl of Pembroke, Lord Steward of the Houſhold to his late Majeſty King Charles the Firſt; not only only a great favourer of Learned and Ingenious Men, but also of a Poetical Genious himself, as he discovers by those Amorous & not unelegant Airs; which having been many years known by the Musical numbers of H. Laws, and N. Laneer, were publisht under his Name in the year 1660; and that (as a great testimony of his Genuine title to them) with the both approbation and desire of Caeciliana Countess Dowager of Devonshire, as Doctor Donne takes notice in an Epistle to her before these Poems, to many of which also are printed the answers of Sir Benjamin Ruddyer, by way of Repartee.

Digitized by Google

William Leighton Dedicated to King James a Poetical Peice, entitled Vertue Triumphant, or Lively Description of the four Vertues Cardinal, which came forth an. 1603.

William Wicherly, a Gentleman of the Inner Temple, the Author of two witty Comedies, Love in a Wood, and the Gentleman Dancing Master.

WOMEN

Digitized by Google

WOMEN
Among
THE ANTIENTS
Eminent for Poetry.

A.

ANYLE, an Epigrammatic Poeteſs, whoſe name is to 17 Greec Epigrams in Plamudes his Florilegium: her Verſes of Birds are ſaid to be yet extant.

Aſpaſia, a Noble Mileſian Dame, ſaid to have been the Miſtreſs, that is the Inſtructreſs of Pericles, the Great Athenian Philoſopher and Orator; for ſhe was a Perſon of high and general Repute for her Wiſedom and Learning; but moſt particularly recommended to Poſte-

Digitized by Google

Poſterity for what ſhe hath written in Poetry, ſeveral of her Verſes being remember'd by Athenæus.

Aſtyanaſſa, one of the Maids of Honour to that Helena, whoſe Beauty ſet Troy on fire; whom yet ſurpaſſing in the theory of active love, ſhe impudently committed by writing to the public view, and as 'tis ſuppos'd, in Verſe, the Deſcriptions of more Spintrian pranks and Gambols, then perhaps her Miſtreſs ever practis'd or underſtood; and which ſeem to have been a Pattern of thoſe lew'd inventions, which the witty ribauld Aretine in after Ages, broch't for the uſe of the Sons of Priapus; nor were there wanting in thoſe times apt Schollars to ſuch a Miſtreſs, who proſecuted and enlarged upon the ſubject ſhe had begun: Philenis, a ſtrumpet of Leucadia, as unchaſt, ſaith a late Author, in her Verſes, as her life; and Elephantis, whoſe Molles Libelli are mentioned by Martial, as ſhe herſelf by Plinie, Tatianus, Suidas and others.

Athenais, the Daughter of Leontius, an Athenian Sophiſt; her ſelf alſo a Woman of that Wiſdom and Ingenuity,

as

Digitized by Google

as well natural as acquired by learning, that ſhe was thought worthy to be choſen for a Wife by the greateſt Prince of the World, the Emperor Theodoſius the Second.

B.

Boebo, a poor Woman of Delphos, who pronouncing the Delphic Oracles, muſt needs be inſpired with a Poetic Spirit; beſides which ſhe is ſaid to have compoſed divers Hymns.

C.

Carmenta; ſee Nicoſtrata.

Caſſandra, the Daughter of Priamus King of Troy, a great Propheteſs, and as ſome think, and that probably, by vertue of the ſame inſpiration, Poeteſs alſo.

Cherixena, a very Learned Grecian Lady, who beſides what ſhe wrote in Proſe, is ſaid to have written many things in Verſe, and particularly a Poem entitled Crumata: ſhe is mentioned by Ariſtophanes.

Claudia

Digitized by Google

Claudia Rufina, a Noble Britiſh Lady, the Wife of Aulus Rufus Pudens, a Bononian Philoſopher, and of the Roman Equeſtrian Order; he is delivered to have been a great Aſſociate with the Poet Martial, whom his advice prevail'd with to alter many of his Verſes, and who in many places extols this Lady to the skies for her Beauty, Learning, and tranſcendent Vertues: of her Poetic writings there are remember'd by Baleus, her Book of Epigrams, Elegy upon her Husband's death, and other Verſes of various kind and ſubject: beſides which ſhe is ſaid to have wrought many things both in Proſe and Verſe.

Cleobule or Cleobuline, the Daughter of Cleobulus Prince of Lindus; ſhe is particularly noted for her faculty in Ænigmatical Sentences or Riddles, which ſhe uttered or compoſed for the moſt part in Greec Verſe.

Corinna, a Theban Poeteſs, who wrote 5 Books of Epigrams; and is ſaid to have been 5 times Victreſs over Pindarus, ſhe was the Daughter of Archelodarus and Procratia, and the Diſciple of Myrthis, and is mentioned by Propertius, pertius, lib. 2. Beſides her there were two others of the ſame Name, both fam'd for Poetry alſo, namely Corinna the Theſpian, much extoll'ed by Antient writers, eſpecially by Statius: and Corinna the Roman Lady, who flouriſhing in the time of Auguſtus, is highly celebrated by Ovid, who had a particular friendſhip and admiration for her.

Digitized by Google

Cornificia, a Roman Epigrammatic Poeteſſe, Siſter to Cornificius.

D.

Dâmophila, the Couſen-German, Aſſociate and Emulatrix of Sappho, and Wife of Damophilus the Philoſopher: ſhe is ſaid to have writ a Poem of Diana, beſides other Poems of an Amourous ſubject: and is mentioned by Theophilus, in his Life of Apollonius Thyaneus.

Debora, a great Propheſs in Iſrael, of whom ſuch was her repute at that time, that (though a Wife, viz. of Lapidoth), ſhe was Judge or Supream Governeſs: her divine Hymn or Song upon the

Digitized by Google

the Deliverance of the Israelites from Jabin, K. of the Cananites, shews her to have been divinly inspir'd with a Poetic, no less then Propheric Spirit.

E.

Erinna, a Poetess of Teos, who is said to have writ a Poem in the Doric Dialect, consisting of 300 Verses, besides Epigrams, though deceasing in the 19th year of her age, which was under the Reign of Dion, Tyrant of Syracuse.

Encheria, an unknown Poetess, except by a Fragment of 32 Latin Verses in Gillius his forementioned Collection of Epigrams and old Poems.

Endocia; see Athenais.

Hannah,

Digitized by Google

H.

Hannah, the Wife of Elkanah, and Mother of the great Jewish Prophet Samuel; for the joy of whose Birth, her divine Muse brake forth into a Hymn of thanksgiving.

Hedyle, a Samian, or as some say, Athenian Poetess, of whom there are remember'd two Poems, her Scylla, out of which Athenæus quotes several Verses; and the Loves of Glaucus, which gift of Poetry, as she seems to have receiv'd from a Poetess her Mother, viz. Moschine, noted for Iambic Poetry; so to have bequeathed to a Poet her Son, no less famous for Epigram.

Helena Flavia, the Daughter of Coil King of Brittain ✕ and by him the Mother of the Emperor; Constantine the Great, among the rest of her works mentioned by Baleus, is her Book of Greec Verses, she is said to have been the first finder out the real Wood of the Cross, upon which our Saviour was crucified. ✕ All wife of Constans

Helpis, the Daughter, as saith Ra-

Digitized by Google

nulphus, of a King of Sicily; but for certain, Wife of the famous Philosopher Boethius Severinus, there are extant of her Composing, as Giraldus affirms, several Hymns upon the Apostles; famous also and well known is her Epitaph upon her Husband.

Histiæa, an Alexandrian Poetess mentioned by Aristophanes, and Strabo in his Homerica.

Hypatia, the Daughter of Theon, the famous Geometrician of Alexandria, and the Wife of Isidorus, the Philosopher; she flourisht under the Emperor Arcadius, chiefly for what she wrote in Astronomy, but is also mentioned by Suidas and Volaterranus, for several Poetical works in various kind of Verse.

L.

Lucia, a Roman Poetess Sirnamed Mima, from her Mimic or Comical writings mentioned by Plinie.

Manto,

Digitized by Google

M.

Manto, a very antient Poetess, from whom Mantua is said to have been denominated, and who is deliver'd to have been the Daughter of Tyresias, Textor.

Marie, the greatest and most exalted of her Sex, as being the Virgin Mother of the Saviour of Mankind; and though her Heavenly Muse hath produc'd but one single Hymn the Magnificat, yet in that Hymn, as being upon the highest of subjects, and the most celebrated in Christian Church, the most Divine and Seraphic of all Poets.

Megalostrate, the Mistress of the fam'd Lyric Poet Alcman, her self also of no mean repute in Poetry.

Michaele, a She Centaur, or at least of that progenie or generation, so denominated, who as the story goes, instructed the Thessalians by an Elegiac Poem in the Art of Love, which Poem Ovid is said to have imitated.

Mæroe, a Woman who seems to have been of the most considerable of the Antients for Learning, but most particularly remember'd by her Hymn to Neptune.

Musica, an ancient Lyric and Epigrammatic Poetess, whose Epigrams and Lyrici Nomi are mention'd by Julius Kodiginus, in the first chapter of his eighth Book.

Myro, a Byzantian Elegiac and Melic Poetess, whose Mnemosyne is remember'd by Athenæus, lib. 11. of the same Myro most probably, for Suidas mentions two of that Name, are those various Poems in Elegiac Verse, taken notice of by Pausanias in his Boetics, as also an Hexastich in the Book of the Greek Anthology: She is delivered to have been the Wife of Andromachus, the Philosopher.

Myrtis, an Anthedonian Poetess, of whom there is remember'd Poem of the death of the Nymph Ocbne, for whose Love Ennius died.

Nice-

Digitized by Google

N.

Nicostrata, or Carmenta, the Mother of Evander, an ancient King of Italy, even before the arrival of Aeneas into that Country. She is thought, if it will be lookt upon rather as a fiction than a real Story, to have been the first Inventour of Verse, which thence came to be called Carmina.

Nossis, an Epigrammatic Poeteß, & by Antipater number'd also among the Lyrics.

P.

Pamphila, an Epidaurian, the Daughter of Soteridas, of whose writing several works as well in Verse as Prose, are reckon'd up by Suidas, in all which so great was her Repute, that her Statue is said to have been erected by Cephisodorus.

Perilla a Roman Lady, who living in the time of Augustus, was in general esteem for her Learning and vertue, and for her addiction to Poetry peculiarly admir'd.

 mir'd.

min'd and celebrated by Ovid, whose Scholar in Poetry, the 7th Elegy of the third Book of his Tristia, whereof she is indeed the sole subject, intimates her to have been.

Phemonoe, the first Priestess of Apollo (as she is delivered to be) and utterer of the Delphic Oracles; and also the first Inventress of Heroic Verse; in which she is said to have written many things, as Suidas and Volaterranus testify.

Polla Argentaria, the Wife of the Poet Lucan, and as is generally believed his Grand assistant in the correction and polishing of a great part of his Pharsalia: she is much extoll'd by Martial, and also by Statius, in his second Book of Sylvæ.

Praxilla, a Sycionian Dithyrambic Poetess, of whose writing there is a work entitled Metrum Praxillium: she is said to have flourished in the 82d Olympiad, and is reckon'd by Antipater Thessalonicensis among the 9 most famous Lyrics.

Proba Valeria Faltonia, the Wife of Adelphius the Roman Proconsul, in the Reign of Honorius & Theodosius junior.

She

She compos'd a Virgilian Cento, being the History of the Old and New Testament; which was printed at Frankfurt by Petrus Brubachius, an. 1541. Her Epitaph also upon her Husband's Tomb is particularly commended.

S.

Sappho, a Lesbian, the Daughter of Scamandronymus, and Wife of Cercilas, a Rich Man of Andros, by whom she had a Daughter nam'd Cleis, not inferiour in fame to the best of Lyric Poets, and said to be the first Composer of that sort of Lyric Verse, which from her is call'd Sapphic; in which some are extant under her name; besides which she is said to have writen Epigrams, Elegies, Iambics and Monodies; and to have flourisht in the 42d Olympiad, and invented the Plectrum. Moreover, being a Poetess her self, she is likewise the subject of Poetical Tradition, if at least it were the same Sappho (for there have been imagin'd others of the same name) who falling in love with Phao the Ferry Man, and finding her self slighted, was possess with a wonderfull than Poetic madness to throw her self headlong from the rock Leucas into the Sea. Ovid, Statius, and others of the Latin Poets acknowledge but one Sappho.

Sibylls, several Women whoever they were (for it is not certainly agreed on among Authors) vulgarly concluded to have been Divinely inspir'd with a Spirit, both of Prophesy and Poetry: Phililius accounts them to have been 12 in number, under these Names; Amalthea, Melissa, Herophile, Sabbe, Demo, Phryga, Phaennis, Carmenta, Manto, Pythia, Phemonoe, and Deiphobe: Sebastianus Fixus, 12, Martianus Capella but two. Ælianus in his Book de Varia Historia, reckons 4, Erythraea, Samia, Egyptia, and Sardinia. But the general received number of them is 10, according to Varro, Lactantius, Justin Martyr, St. Augustine, & others; & those entitled as followeth, viz. 1. Sibylla Agrippa, otherwise Persica of Chaldea, by the name of Sambethe, and by some surmis'd to have been the Daughter of Noah. 2. Sibylla Lybica, remember'd by Euripides in his Prologue of Lamia, who hath been conjectur'd [illegible] make the same with Delphica. 3. Sibylla Delphica, remember'd by Chrysippus in his Book of Divination. 4. Sibylla Italica or Cumaea, taken notice of by Naevius in his Punic War, and Piso in his Annals, and conjectur'd to have been the same with Carmenta the Mother of Evander. 5. Sibylla Erythraea, who particularly foretold the Destruction of Troy. 6. Sibylla Samia, by the name of Pytho, mention'd by Eratosthenes in his Annals of Samos. 7. Sibylla Cumana, by some call'd Amalthea, by others Demophile, by others Herophile, the same, as 'tis thought, that brought the 9 Books to Tarquinius Priscus. 8. Sibylla Hellespontica, who is deliver'd to have flourish'd in the time of Solon. 9. Sibylla Phrygia. 10. Sibylla Tiburtina, nam'd Albunea, who is said to have liv'd in the time of Augustus, and to have warn'd Men to worship a Child that should be born of a Virgin; to which purpose also tend those Oracles in Greek Verse, which whether the real work of those ancient Sibylls, to whom they are vulgarly imputed, and under that notion cited, hath been the dispute and inquiry of many, and may very well especially in respect of some of them, the reality of whose being in the number of the Sibylls; may easily be question'd, much more their being the Authoress of those Greec Verses, considering either their time or Country.

Sosipatra, a Lydian, the Wife of Ædesius, whom being of a Prophetic Spirit, and foretelling future events, in Verse no doubt; as the Antients especially were wont to do, some have not doubted to place among the Poets. She is mention'd by Eugapius and Volaterranus.

Sulpitia, a most Learned Roman Lady, the Wife of Calenus: she is reported by Fulgosius l. 8. cap. 3. to have written many things in Heroic Verse; and is elegantly celebrated by Martial, in the 35 [b] Epigram of his tenth Book, and in the 38 [b] Epigram of the same Book to her Husband Calenus: under the name of this Sulpitia, there are some Fragments printed in some Editions of Ausonius, and a Fragment of two Epigrams in Gillius his Collection of Epig. Poematia vetera. Tele-

Telesilla, a Noble Poetess of Argos, who upon consulting the Oracle about her health, being advis'd to betake her self to the Study of the Muses, grew in a short time so excellent, that animated by the charming power of her Verse, the Argive Women under her conduct were able to repel Cleomenes, the Spartan King, from the Seige of Argos, and afterwards King Demaratus from the Seige of Pamphiliacum, with shameful loss and retreat.

Theano, a triple female name of considerable repute in Poetry: the first of this Name was Theano Locrensis, or Native of the City Locri, and Sirnamed Melica, from the exact Melody, to which all her Lyric Airs and Songs were compos'd: the second a Cretan Poetess, and by some delivered to have been the Wife of Pythagoras: the third Theano Thuria, or Metapontina, said to have been the Wife of Crystius, some say Brantinus of Crotona, and the Daughter of the Poet Lycophron, phron; they are all three mentioned by Suidas; moreover, there are 3 Epistles of Theano probably one of these 3 now mentioned; though which of them is not determined, publish'd with the Epistles of several ancient Greek Authors at Venice by Aldus.

Digitized by Google

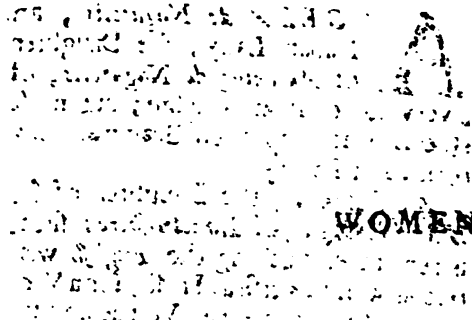
Thymele, a Musical Poetess remember'd by Martial, said to have been the first introducer into the Scene of a sort of Dance, which from her is call'd by the Greeks Thymele; from her also a sort of Altar anciently often used in Theaters, is concluded to have taken its appellation.



WOMEN

Digitized by Google

WOMEN

Among

THE MODERNS

Eminent for Poetry.

A

ANGELA de Nugarolis, an Italian Lady, the Daughter of Antonius de Nugarolis, of a very universal knowledge; but most especially accomplisht in Grammar, Rhetoric, and Poetry.

Anne Askew, the Daughter of Sir William Askew, of Lincoln-shire: she is is remember'd among the English writers as well in Verse as Prose, for a Woman of singular beutie, Vertue and ingenuity; genuity; but above all for her constant affection of the Protestant Faith she had embraced, even to the death, which she undauntedly suffered with many others, who upon the same occasion, in Queen Mary's Reign, were brought to the stake.

Digitized by Google

Anne Broadstreet, a New-England Poetess, no less in title, viz. before her Poems, printed in Old England anno 1650; then The tenth Muse sprung up in America, the memory of which Poems, consisting chiefly of Descriptions of the four Elements, the four Humours, the four Ages, the four Seasons, and the four Monarchies, is not yet wholly extinct.

Anna Maria Shurman, an Hollandish Lady, of the most celebrated Fame for Learning of any of her Sex, that I have heard of in Europe, at this day, by her Epistles to many of the most Eminently Learned Men of this Age, and other extant and generally known works, whereof part in Verse, both in Latin, Greek and Hebrew.

Arabella, an English Lady, in the time of King James, whose near Kinswoman she was, and who upon her secret Marriage with Mr. William Seymour, afterwards Earl and Marquess of Hertford, was with her Husband committed to the Tower, where she died: she was a Lady of no less Eminence for Learning and ingenuous parts, then for her Quality; and as saith an English writer, who makes mention of her, She had a great facility in Poetry, and was elaborately conversant among the Muses. What correspondence Andrew Melvine, the Witty Scotchman, had with her in the Tower, being Prisoner there at the same time, hath been already mention'd.

cret

Astrea Behn a Dramatic writer, so much the more considerable as being a Woman, to the present English Stage, to which she hath contributed 2 Comedies, the Dutch Lady, and the Amorous Princess, the Fair Jilt, a Tragy-Comedy, and the Fatal Jealousy, a Tragedy.

Lady,

Digitized by Google

B.

Lady Bacon, one of the four Daughters of Sir Antony Cook, the other three were the Lady Burleigh, the Lady Russel, and Mis Killigrew: of whose Genius in Poetry, whatever hath been known extant, there is the testimony of a Grand Author, viz. Sir John Harrington, who in his Allegory upon the 37th Book of Ariosto's Orlando Furiosa, gives them all a very large Character for Learning, and particularly for Poetry; and of one of them he cites the Latin Verses sent from Cornwall, to her Sister the Lady Burleigh, being then at Court, to use her utmost interest, that her Lord might not be sent abroad upon an Embassy, which was intended.

C.

Cassandra Fedele, a Venetian Lady, born in the year 1465, the Daughter of Angelo Fedele and Barbara Leonia: she was for her excellence in the Latine & Greek Tongues, History, Philosophy, and and the Arts, very much esteem'd by Angelus Politianus, & remembe'd by Fulgosius lib. 2. c. 3. Rerum Memorabilium, for a Volume of Latin Poems of various subjects and kinds.

Catherine Philips, the most applauded at this time, Poetess of our Nation either of the present or former Ages, and not without reason, since both her Fame is of a fresh and lively date from the but late published Volume of her Poetical works, and those also of a style suitable to the humour and Genius of these times.

E.

Lady Elizabeth Carew wrote the Tragedy of Mariam.

Elizabetha Joanna Weston, an English Poetess of some repute in the esteem of Farnabie, who ranks her with Sir Th. More, Alabaster, Dearie, and other English writers of Latin Poetry.

Elizab.

H.

Hildegardis, an Abbess of the Benediction Order, of the Monastery of St. Rupert, in the Earldom of Spanheim, in Germany: who besides the several Volumes she wrote in Prose, both in Theology and Medicine, is said to have written also a Book of Latin Poems of various argument and Vers.

I.

Lady Jane Grey, the Daughter of the Duke of Suffolk, far more happy in her Learning, wherein she took wonderful delight, and her fine Vein in Poetry, for which she is by many highly commended, than in her being proclaimed Queen of England; which honour after a very short time of enjoyment, brought her to an untimely end.

K.

Mrs. Killigrew, see the Lady Bacon.

Lucretia

L.

Lucretia Marinella, an Italian Lady, who wrote a Poem of the Dignity and Preheminence of Women.

M.

Magdalena Acciuola, a Lyric Poetess, after the manner of the Italians in Sonnet, Canzon, and Madrigal.

Margaret, Dutchess of New-Castle, lately deceas'd, a very obliging Lady to the World; and withall not regardless of her own future Fame, by so largely and copiously imparting to public view her studious Endeavours in the Arts and Ingenuities, there being three ample Volumes of hers in Print; one of Orations, the other of Philosophical Notions and Discourses, the third of Dramatic and other kinds of Poetry.

Mary Morpeth, a Scotch Poetess, and a friend of the Poet Drummond, of whom, besides many other things in Poetry, she hath a large Encomium in Verse.

Mary

Mary, Countess of Pembroke, the Sister of the Incomparable Sir Philip Sidney, whose Arcadia was conformable to her vertuous inclination to Poesy, and other Ingenuities, there is extant of his writing the Tragedy of Antonie and Cleopatra, and Antonie's Triumph, besides what other things she probably may be imagin'd to have writ, though now not known.

Lady Mary Wroth, the Wife of Sir Robert Wroth, an Endeavorer perhaps of Philip Sidney's Arcadia, by her Urania, a Poetical History of the same nature, but much inferiour in Fame.

Mildred, one of the fore-mentioned four Daughters of Sir Anthony Cook, and Wife to the Lord Burleigh, who with the rest of her Sisters is equally commended by Sir John Harrington, and others, both for Learning in general and in particular for her Vein in Poetry.

Olympia

O

Olympia Ciara, an Italian Lady no lefs famous than her Name implies, for what she hath writ in Verse.

Lady Russel, one of the four Daughters of Sir Anthony Cook, already mentioned.

P

Madam Pembley, the Sister of that most famous of French Romancers Monsieur Scudery, whose assistant she is said to have been in many of his works, and of Clelia to have had the principal share: She also writ a Book of Poems, which have the commendation of a more than feminine wit and Fancy.

R

Valeria Miniato, an Italian Dramatic Poetess; whose Amorosa Speranza, I find peculiarly mentioned and commended.

FINIS.

Digitized by Google

Books printed for and sold by Charles Smith Book seller, at the Angel near the Inner Temple-Gate, in Fleet-street.

Ambroses Works, compleat in folio, price bound 26 s.

The Triumphs of Gods revenge against Murder in folio, price bound 10 s.

Lord Bacons Natural History in folio 5. price bound 8 s.

Cabala, sive Scrinia Sacra; the Mysteries of State and Government in folio price bound 12 s.

Island Princess, a Play 4o. price 1 s.

Faithful Shepardess, a Play 4o. pr. 1 s.

Memoires of the Duke of Rohan, being a faithful Relation of the most remarkable occurrences in France, 8o price bound 3 s.

The Wits, and the Platonik Lovers, 2 Plays by Sir William Davenant, in 8o price 2 s.

Young Clarks Guide into 4 parts in 8o, price bound 5 s.

The Works of Francis Osborn Esq. Divine,

Digitized by Google

vine, Moral, Historical and Political, in 8o price 6 s.

Speculum Juventutis, or a True Miror, where errors in Breeding Noble and Generous Youth, with the miseries and mischeifs that usually attend it. As likewise Remedies for every growing evill, are clearly made manifest & portray'd to the life, in the no less pleasant than profitable History of Sfara and Valinda, 8o price 3 s.

Officium Clerici Pacis: A Book of Indictments, Informations, Appeals, and Inquisitions. Also the manner of holding the Sessions of Peace, with divers other matters relating thereunto, and necessary to be known by all Justices of the Peace, 8o price 3 s.

The Accomplished Ladies Delight in Preserving, Physick, beautifying and Cookery, in 12 price 2 s. 6 d.

Dr. Collets daily Devotions, or the Christians Morning and Evening Sacrifice, digested into Prayers and Meditations for every day of the Week, & other occasions, with Directions for a Godly Life, in twelves, and twenty four, price 1 s. 6 d.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google